The new Symphonic Acousticon has been called by many of its Users, the finest hearing aid ever made. It embodies magnificent craftsmanship which gives tonal clarity and beauty of sound to your grateful ears. Such a great instrument is possible only because of the knowledge and skill accumulated by Acousticon engineers and technicians through 42 years of experience. This is the longest experience in the hearing aid industry.

WEDDING BELLS

KIDD - BYRNE

On Monday September 4th, 1944 a pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, by Rev. John A. Powell, when Anna Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Byrne became the bride of John Archibald, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kidd.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a long gown of white broadcloth satin, made on princess lines, with finger-pointed sleeves and sweetheart neckline, finger-tip veil with sweetheart coronet, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and maiden-hair-fern. She wore the groom's gift, a string of pearls.

The bridesmaid, Gertrude Kidd, Reg. N. of Utica, New York sister of the groom, looked charming in a floor-length gown of pink faille trimmed with lace and blue accessories. She carried a nosegay of mixed flowers with fern.

The groom was ably assisted by Gerald Lollar of Odessa, cousin of the bride. Ambrose Kidd brother of the groom, presided at the organ and, assisted by the choir, rendered appropriate music. The ushers were Mr. Joseph Fobert, of Tweed, Ont., and Eugene Donohue, of Toronto.

After the buffet luncheon at the home of the bride's parents, the bride and groom left for Toronto and points west. For travelling the bride donned a beige wool suit with brown accessories.

V. O. N. BOARD MEETING

The September Board meeting of the Victorian Order Nurses was held on Monday evening, September 11. Mrs. T. Hunt, the president, presided. Mrs. W. S. Phippen, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and the correspondence. Mrs. Medd, the treasurer, read her report.

It was decided at this meeting to ask permission from the Town Council, to hold a V. O. N. Tag Day on Saturday, September 30th.

The next meeting of the V. O. N. will be an open meeting, and will be held on October 11th. This date was decided on as Thanksgiving Day comes, this year, on the day the meetings should have been held.

The following is the nursing record for the months June, July and August. The work was quite heavy during June and July but was quite during August. There were eight confinements, which made the nursing heavy during this period. During the three-month period 365 visits were made and 103 cases carried. 176 visits were made in June 184 in July and 23 in August.

In June the Annual Diptheria Toxoid Clinic under the Board of Health was completed with 24 children completing the course of three inoculations. About 357 of the children entering school in September registered in June and were inspected by the nurse. There were four Child Welfare Conferences held during June which were well attended. Due to alterations at the Armouries and vacation, the conferences were not held during July and August. Now, with the vacation over, we should be looking forward to a fresh start in our work. At present the nursing service is ubsy and promises to continue so.

WEDDING BELLS

WOODCOCK—McFARLANE

Selby, Sept. 7. — A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, September 2nd, by Rev. W. R. Merrick, in Selby United Church parsonage, when Vera Naomi McFarlane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McFarlane, became the bride of Donald Lorne Woodcock, youngest son of Mrs. Woodcock and the late Ezra Woodcock, of Napanee. The youthful bride was very dainty and winsome in a floor-length gown of white sheer crepe with lace bodice, shoulder-length veil and long lace mitts. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty rose. Miss Ruby McFarlane, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a smart street-length gown of blush pink jersey with corsage of American Beauty roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Clifford Prisken. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. McFarlane, mother of the bride, received in a gown of lavender crepe trimmed with white. Mrs. Woodcock, mother of the groom, wore a frock of black crepe. Standards of gladioli and bouquets of asters were used as decoration throughout the house. In the dininreroom the table was attractive, centred with the wedding cake and tall pink tapers. Three cousins of the bride, Mesdames Sanford Russell, Ward Hodgston and Joe Duggeon, served refreshments to about 50 guests. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a compact. The groom's gift to the groomsman was a tie pin and clip. Friends of the bride who served refreshments to the guests each received a box of chocolates. In the late afternoon the happy couple left for a motor trip through the United States, calling on the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Charlotte Bradshaw, who is re i in in Miami, New York. The bride travelled in maize crepe with brown accessories. On their return the young couple will reside on the groom's farm in the Mount Pleasant district.

CASUALTIES TOTAL 33,239

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Canadian army casualties at July 31 had increased 3,708 over the previous announced total of 29,471 which included figures for all theatres up to June 30 and the Normandy campaign to July 29, the Defence Department disclosed last Friday.

The department announced that since the war started up to July 21 army casualties totalled 33,239, composed of 9,501 killed in action, 2387 presumed dead, 1,309 missing, 3,910 prisoners of war and interned and 15,343 wounded.

The latest figures showed an increase over the previous figures of 1,601 of those killed in action and presumed dead, a decrease of 418 of those listed as missing, an increase of 69 of those listed as prisoners of war and interned, and an increase of 2,516 of those wounded.

The department explained that the figure of 3,800 prisoners and internees included 108 who had been repatriated or escaped. The decrease in the number of missing came about as a result of soldiers being reclassified under other categories.

SWEDEN CLOSES FRONTIERS TO WAR GUILTY

Stockholm, (B.U.P.) — Sweden will not grant asylum to war criminals, Minister of Social Affairs Gustav Moeller said last week.

Outlining his government's policy for the first time, Moeller pointed out Sweden kept her frontiers open to all seeking refuge and 61,000 refugees are now in the country.

"During the war, however," he continued, "there have been committed terrible deeds of such nature that hardly anybody would have thought possible in a world calling itself civilized, deeds which have committed, above all, in occupied countries."

"Many people knowing they are responsible for actions which shocked the mind and sense of justice of ordinary people and which can not be justified by requirements of war, will try to escape from countries in order to elude punishment.

"Thus far it has been our policy to keep our frontiers open for refugees, but it should not be concluded we will grant asylum to those who by their action defied the conscience of a civilized world or betrayed their own country.

"It can be taken for granted that Sweden will close its frontiers against any large or small invasion of such 'political' refugees and should anyone slip through he will be returned to his own country."

"Friendship is the highest degree of perfection in society."

A man who is periodically arrested and fined for over-convivial behavior in his native town recently got into similar trouble in London and was fined forty shillings.

"Your worship," he protested, "may I point out that at home I am fined only ten shillings for this offence."

"You can hardly expect," replied the magistrate, "to have a London celebration at provincial prices."

VIOLET

Violet, Sept. 9. — Public School No. 17 opened on Tuesday, September 5, with Miss M. Robinson, of Newburgh, as teacher.

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Harry Robinson will be sorry to know that she was taken quite ill, and last week was removed to the Kingston General Hospital, where she underwent an operation on Saturday last. At time of writing she is doing as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alkenbrack and son, and daughter, of Bethel Street, spent an evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemmon were tea guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Ross Hogle, and Mr. Hogle, on Sunday evening last.

Mrs. Wood, of Oshawa, spent a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hogle.

Mrs. Annie MacDonald spent last week end with her brother, Mr. Jas. Huff and Mrs. Huff, Wilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flavelle and son, of Kingston, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Martin and family.

Mrs. Annie MacDonald and Mrs. Alma Huff, of Wilton, attended the birthday party, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Huff, Yarker, on Saturday evening, September 9th, in honor of their aunt, Mrs. Martha Love.

Mrs. Percy Lemmon spent Monday last at Mr. William Sager's.

Rev. Mr. Burtch, minister of Violet Church, was in Kingston and called on Mrs. William Sager, who is quite ill in the General Hospital.

Miss Pauline Lemmon is attending High School at Napanee.

Mr. William Sager spent last week end in Kingston with Mrs. Sager, who is still very ill in the General Hospital.

YARKER

Yarker, Sept. 11. — Mr. and Mrs. A. Flieler and little son, of Centreville, were guests of Mrs. Flieler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Buck, on Thursday.

Mr. Manson Lee is visiting friends in Watertown, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith, of Kingston, were Sunday guests of the former's mother, Mrs. J. Greenway, and Mr. Greenway.

Mrs. Mary Davy, of Kingston, was the tea guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ash on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Marshall, of Kingston, spent Sunday with Mrs. Marshall's mother, Mrs. M. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ash and children, accompanied by Mrs. Ash's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wright, visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis, Watertown, N.Y., during the week end. Mrs. E. Miller returned with them and is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Foster, of Moscow, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Foster on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Wright were tea guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Baker, Moscow.

DORLAND

Dorland, Sept. 9. — Quite a few persons were undisturbed by the earth tremor, but many were awakened to full consciousness and realized what was taking place. No damage was reported.

A very light shower fell on Thursday morning and a couple of heavier ones fell since, so, with the cooler weather, vegetation is beginning to revive.

Tomato picking and shipping is occupying the centre of the stage at present. Silo filling has begun. The heavy winds, particularly on Thursday, have shaken down many apples.

A well attended meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. J. White on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Hudson's friends are glad to see her back in S. S. No. 2. Mrs. Bongard, of Picton, is in S. S. No. 1, and Miss Shillington, of Harrowsmith, in No. 3. A welcome to our midst is extended to them.

The Collegiate pupils have all returned to their studies.

Mrs. Lambert, of Winnipeg, has been renewing acquaintance with as many as possible of his old friends during the past week. This is his first visit in many years, and he sees many changes.

Mr. A. C. Davis has returned, after a few days' visit in Toronto.

Miss Edith Foster, of Ottawa, is spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Foster.

ROBLIN

Roblin, Sept. 11. — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hart and Marjorie, also Mrs. P. Hart and Connie, visited Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hart, in Toronto, over the week end.

Rev. T. Caswell was a caller in the village on Thursday.

The following pupils from here started the fall term at Napanee Collegiate on Tuesday: Douglas Asselstine, Nina Schamehorn, Lois and Glen Kimmett, Willie Woodland, and Kathleen and Anna Richmond.

James McCutcheon resumed his studies at Tamworth High School.

Mrs. R. Waddell, of Napanee, visited at the home of her son, Mr. Thomas Wicklam, for a few days recently.

Mrs. W. W. Lockhart spent a few days last week in Toronto.

Mrs. B. Denison, of Selby, was guest speaker at the United Church Sunday School on Sunday. She gave an inspiring talk on temperance.

TENDERS WANTED

Tenders will be received by the undersigned until Saturday, September 23rd, 1944, for the following equipment:

One front mounted, hand hydraulic, two-point control, Levelling Wing with all truck attachments, for use with No. 148 S.P. Frink Snow Plow.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

W. M. LEWIS,
Road Superintendent,
37b Twp. of Ernestown,
R.R. 4, Napanee, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley York visited friends in Kingston on Thursday.

Miss Lois Kimmett spent the week end the guest of Miss Jean Reid, at Lens.

SELBY

Selby, Sept. 9. — Silo filling is the order of the day.

Mrs. H. Pringle, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Luman McCutcheon and family.

Pte. Clare Lochhead, Mrs. Bert Lochhead and Douglas, of Norwood, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lochhead, of Newburgh, were dinner guests of Mrs. B. F. Denison on Wednesday.

There was a good attendance at the Red Cross meeting on Wednesday. Miss Lue Hudgins contributed a very pretty quilt top.

Mrs. Bernice Thrill, of Toronto, who has been the guest of her father, Mr. J. Tate, and other relatives, returned home on Wednesday.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. was held in the Sunday School room of the United Church on Thursday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Jim Rose, presided throughout the meeting, and introduced the new Study Book. Miss Gladys Rikley gave a very interesting account of her recent trip through the Maritime Provinces, which was very much appreciated. A number of contributions were brought in for the mis-nonary bale, which will be packed very shortly.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McFarlane on Thursday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Woodcock. The large crowd and numerous beautiful gifts attested to the high regard in which the young people are held. Our good wishes follow them to their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weese are having repairs made to their new home before moving this fall.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Sept. 11 — Mr. Roy Perry, of Pine Falls, Man., spent the week end with relatives and friends. Roy was born and brought up around the village and his many friends are glad to welcome him back.

Mrs. A. Smythe, of Elginburgh, has been visiting her niece, Mrs. E. Jeffrey.

Squadron Leader and Mrs. Dickson, of Ottawa, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Alkenbrack. Mrs. Dickson sang a solo at the morning service in the United Church.

Mrs. J. Lear, of Gravenhurst, spent a few days with her father, Mr. R. W. Salt, who is still confined to his home through illness.

A goodly number attended anniversary services in the United Church on Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Mr. Baugh, B.A., of Tamworth, delivered two very impressive sermons, and special music was rendered at both services.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Salisbury, of Colebrook, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Alkenbrack on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken. Moore and Howard, of Kingston, were supper guests of Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Griffith, on Saturday.

Mr. Herb. Histed visited his father, Mr. Chas. Histed, on Sunday.

Mr. Rae Shane, of Morven, was with his father, Mr. George Shane, on Sunday.

BATH

Bath, Sept. 11. — The regular services in St. John's Church have been resumed. Rev. L. G. O. and Mrs. Walker have returned from a pleasant vacation in Sundar. September 17th, the annual harvest services are to be conducted at 8:30 a.m. communion, and 8:00 p.m. evening.

The local weather is somewhat settled after the past week of wind, rains and storms. The check was quite noticable in this district.

Several residents are painting the outside of their homes since the cooler weather.

School opened on Tuesday morning, with Mr. C. F. Young as Principal, Mr. A. Diverre as Assistant Principal, and Misses Ellis and Burns teaching Grades 1 to 8.

The Bath War Workers will resume their work meetings on Thursday evening, September 14th, in the Town Hall.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. E. P. Shepherd, who has received the sad news of the death of his daughter, Thelma, Mrs. W. Twitchett. This young woman moved to England with her husband some years ago, and was the victim of the bomb raids. No details have been received yet.

We are sorry to report the death of Mr. Kearney, who was killed in action in France. He was the brother of Mrs. A. White. Mrs. White has had several sad messages. A younger brother has been missing for some time, and another brother was badly wounded. Items coming to us from across the western Europe such as these make us realize our secure position, and are food for thought and prayer.

HAY BAY

Hay Bay, Sept. 11. — We are having lovely weather at present.

Miss Elsie Ferguson, of Kingston, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rec. Ferguson.

Mrs. W. Brown spent Saturday in Kingston.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

ONTARIO FARMERS
1000 MEN WANTED Now!

THIS is an appeal to THE FARMERS OF ONTARIO. The Packing Plants of Ontario, which process and ship your livestock for export, ARE SERIOUSLY SHORT OF MEN. Every available Farmer of Ontario is urged to offer his services for employment in one of the Packing Plants in this province as soon as the essential work of the farm is completed. OVER 1,000 men are required to start in the month of September alone. Good hourly wages will be paid. Transportation to the plant will be provided. Assistance will be given in arranging board and room.

With full staffs, the Packing Plants of Canada have ample capacity to handle even the tremendously increased numbers of cattle, sheep and swine, which Canadian farmers have ready for market this year. When operating to capacity the Packing Plants can keep the market cleared and livestock can be slaughtered, processed and shipped at its most profitable time, when it is at its market peak. Thus, losses which occur when animals are held beyond the peak—through additional feeding costs, through falling away from peak condition and through the danger to price structures when supply threatens to exceed demand—are avoided.

Last year several hundred Ontario farmers volunteered for work in the plants in processing their own products and protecting their own interests. Production for export this year has increased by 40%. Available man-power has shrunk by 28%.

The Ontario Farm Service Force, in conjunction with Employment and Selective Service has undertaken the task of raising sufficient help from Ontario Farmers to keep Packing Plants operating to capacity this year. This department of the Ontario government's Department of Agriculture feels that this extension of its service is as vitally important to the interests of the farmers of this province as anything it has yet undertaken. The need of meat as a primary essential food to our Allied Armies, to the people of Great Britain and to the starving millions in countries being liberated by our victorious armies, is the basic consideration. In addition, efficient operation in the processing and marketing of livestock is necessary in protecting the greatest export market ever opened to Canadian farmers.

Your services are needed from now until spring. If you cannot devote that full period of time, a month or more will be of great assistance.

OFFER YOUR SERVICES AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. If you cannot go to work at once, call or write, stating that you will come, and at what date you will be available. Remember you will be serving your own best interests as well as playing a vital patriotic part in serving your country.

GOOD SPORT EVENTS FEATURE FAIR AT CENTREVILLE

Agricultural Exhibits Well Up to Standard

There was almost a record attendance at Addington Fair, held at Centreville on Wednesday, September 13th, although rain had threatened to fall during the early part of the day. The exhibits in all sections with the exception of the horses, were equal to those of other years. Interest in the judging and in the entertainment was greatly increased as a result of the use of a loud speaker system operated from the stand in front of the grandstand.

A full afternoon's entertainment was provided by the sports program and the music competitions in which children of district schools took part. Winners of the softball game were the Newburgh team, which defeated the Tamworth team with a score of 15 to 13. The tug-of-war which attracted much interest, was the team from Read which won a close decision over the Centreville all stars. The winners of the bicycle race were first, Norris Drew; second, Billie Hannah.

Four boxing matches, each of three rounds, were held. Each bout was closely contested by the boys, who showed fine sportsmanship. The results were as follows:

Clare (Killer) Kearns outpointed Don (Slugger) McGill.

Bill (Tarzan) Evans outpointed Allie (Moose) Finn.

Graham (Flash) Brown outpointed Ted (Duke) McDonald.

Allen (Tuffy) Aylesworth outpointed Alvin (Buck) Barham.

In the High Jump competition the winners were: First, Alvin Barham; second, Ted McDonald; Third, Don. McGill.

The Horseshoe Pitchers were in fine form and one pair of contestants played 17 games during the afternoon. The "old master" Ed. Hannah, was again declared the champion. Other prize winners were Jack Johnston, George Barham and Jack Schermerhorn. Besides cash prizes to all winners, special prizes were awarded to Jack Schermerhorn, Ed. Hannah and Alvin Barham, for their part in the above sports.

These events were in charge of the following directors: Norman Bell, Alvin Drew, and James Hughes.

HORSE RACES

Class A

First money was taken by Baldwin owned by S. Storring, of Tamworth, with Princess Henley, owned by B. McCain, in second place.

Class B

Iroquois Trail, owned by B. McCain, took first money, and Jimmie Skinner owned by G. Kirkpatrick, of Tamworth, was second.

Pupils from four schools in the district took part in the school music competition in which the results were as follows:

First Prize — Tamworth Consolidated School.

Second Prize — Enterprise School.

Third Prize — Croydon and Reidville Schools (tied).

The Judges of the music competition were Public School Inspector Hallman, of Sharbot Lake, and Miss John Finke, Newburgh.

Train No. 16 leaves Toronto daily at 11:30 p.m. and arrives at Napanee at 2:30 a.m., and arrives at Montreal 7:40 a.m. Train No. 17 leaves Montreal daily at 11:00 p.m., arrives at Napanee at 3:37 a.m. and arrives at Toronto at 7:15 a.m.

After September 24th, the above two trains will make a regular stop at Napanee without being flagged.

GRACE CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE'S OPENING MEETING

Following the evening service at Grace United Church, next Sunday, the Young People's Society will open the ensuing season with a fireside meeting, which will be presided over by Miss Doreen Windale. It is the intention of the new executive, which will be installed at this time to make these fellowship meetings interesting and profitable.

The coming Sunday the evening will be of a social nature, when community singing, a quiz contest and special numbers will be followed with refreshments. All young people are cordially invited to attend.

Pelican Noticed Around Mud Lake

Russell Brown, Moscow, while in The Beaver Office last Saturday reported having seen a pelican on Mud Lake, near Moscow, recently. He said the bird had also been seen by two other people in the district.

It is most unusual for a pelican to be found in this section of the Continent, as the usual habitation is along the Pacific Coast, much farther south.

Magistrate's Court

On Monday, Mrs. Stanley Ham, Bath, R.R., appeared before Magistrate Garvin on a charge of unlawfully allowing a bull to be at large on Monday, September 4th. After hearing the evidence in the case the Magistrate amended the charge to read that the accused on or during four days preceding September 5th, did allow a bull to be at large and registered a conviction in the altered charge. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $25.00 and costs of $18.60 on Mrs. Ham, who was given the alternative of a month in gaol in lieu of paying the fine and costs.

CANNING COUPONS GOOD TO DEC. 31ST

Canning sugar coupons F1 to F10 each good for the purchase of one pound of sugar for such use — are to remain valid until December 31st next. Early announcement of this expiry date has been made by the Prices Board in order to reduce unnecessary purchases of sugar by those who have not used up all their canning sugar coupons.

NAPANEE COUNCIL CONSIDERS CONTINUING WOOD BUSINESS

Special Committee Given Power to Act

Before proceeding with the regular business of the Napanee Town Council, Tuesday evening of last week, Mr. Hall paid a tribute to the late John Geale Daly, Reeve of Napanee and Warden of the County whose death occurred suddenly on Sunday, September 3rd.

The Treasurer, M. P. Graham gave a report for the Special Committee in charge of purchase and sale of wood. Mr. Graham stated that up to August 31st, this year there had been 1525 cords of wood sold by the town and that 2,300 deliveries had been made. Wood purchased cost $21,281. The town has 383 cords of wood on hand at the present time. Assets as at August 31st were $6,233 and liabilities $4,995.

M. B. Luffman, Chairman of the Wood Committee, stated that it had been definitely learned part of the fuel dealers in the town do not intend to handle wood this coming winter. Only one dealer had indicated he might continue in the wood business and he had been asked by the Town Wood Committee to give definite assurance by October 1st, that he would be able to supply and deliver at least 1,500 cords of wood to Napanee citizens during the winter of 1944-45.

After discussing the fuel problem and learning that in order for the town to secure the Government subsidy of $2.00 per cord, definite word must be given by October 1st, that the town would continue in the wood business. A motion was passed, empowering the Wood Committee to take the necessary action between now and October 1st to insure a sufficient supply of wood for the townspeople, this winter.

The Town Wood Committee was commended by members of the Council for its foresight in purchasing wood and for the capable way in which the wood had been handled.

M. B. Luffman, Chairman of the Streets Committee, reported that an inspection had been made of the swing bridge over the river on Centre Street and that the bridge had been found to be in a dangerous condition for carrying heavy loads. It was estimated that expenditure of $1,224.00 would be required to put the bridge in a safe condition. The Committee was authorized to approach the County Road Committee and the Department of Highways, to ascertain who is responsible for the upkeep of the bridge, and to negotiate for its repair.

Mr. F. B. Mills, Chief of the Fire Brigade, appeared before the Council to ask when the Fire Department may use the pumper, as he had been told to use it as little as possible because of the shortage of water. Mr. Mills was instructed that, as Fire Chief, he could use the pumper at his own discretion.

Mr. Mills also asked if the Fire Department was required to continue to fight the fire in the Napanee Fuel Company Coal pile, which has been smouldering for some time. As a result of Mr. Mills' question, the Clerk was instructed to find out the town's position in the matter, and that Mr. Vine be asked to co-operate with the Fire Department by turning the coal over and getting at the fire, which is smouldering deep down in the pile.

A request from the Victorian Order Nurse, for permission to hold a Tag Day on September 30th, was referred to the Police Committee with power to act.

A request from the I.O.D.E. for permission to fence off a section of the Market Square to receive scrap paper during its special paper drive from October 16th to October 21st, was referred to the Streets Committee, with power to act.

FINANCE REPORT

The report of the Finance Committee was presented by the Treasurer. The report included expenditures and receipts to date, with estimates for the year. The Treasurer expressed the opinion that the expenditures for the year might exceed the estimates by $2,000.00 at the end of the year.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

The reports of the Chief of Police for July and August were presented by A. S. Kimmerly and were as follows: For the month of July received and investigated 19, Accidents investigated 3, Doors found unfastened 9, Gas Pumps unlocked 3, Summons' served 2, Arrests 1. During July two convictions were secured in court for the town under the Liquor Control Act, and two under the Highway Act.

For August: Complaints received and investigated 14, Accidents investigated 3, Doors found unfastened 10, Gas Pumps, unlocked 1, Summons' served 2 Arrests 3. Four convictions were obtained for the town under the Criminal Code in August and two under the Highway Traffic Act.

WELFARE REPORT

The report of the Welfare Committee for the month of August as presented by Councillor Robson was as follows: Amount to be paid by Council $248.00; heads of families on relief 5; dependents of heads of families, 26; single persons, 7; total 88.

ALLIES ALL SET FOR MAJOR ASSAULT ON NAZI WEST WALL

Prepare to Attack Nortn End of Nazi Line

WEDNESDAY—

A second column of the United States First Army crossed the German border, meeting slight resistance.

• • •

Le Havre was surrendered to the Canadians and thousands of Germans trapped were being put out of commission, steadily.

• • •

In Italy, patrols of the Fifth Army pushed into several outposts of the Gothic Line against little opposition.

• • •

The Russians were said to have opened a great new offensive through the northern Polish front.

• • •

The British captured a strategic height in South Burma.

THURSDAY—

The Allies are allowing little news to be given out of activities on the Western Front. United States troops were reported to have entered the outskirts of Aachen in Germany, meeting little opposition. There were indications the Nazis were falling back to make a stand on the Rhine, 40 miles to the east.

• • •

On the Eastern Front, a Nazi stronghold near the border of East Prussia, fell to the Russians.

• • •

Soviet and Roumanian forces made further progress in Transylvania. In Jugoslavia the Russians effected a junction with Marshal Tito's partisans.

• • •

On Wednesday, 6,000 Allied planes dropped 10,000 tons of bombs between Berlin and the Siegfried Line, and the population of the Ruhr district was warned to leave the area which they were told by the Allies would become a battlefield in the near future.

• • •

In China the war was reported going badly for the Allies, but the Chinese will likely hold on until the full weight of the Allied power can be thrown into the struggle.

Carrier-based United States planes continued to carry on heavy bombing of Japanese positions in the Central Philippines.

• • •

FRIDAY—

A full-scale offensive was opened against Aachen and Allied tanks and infantry crossed the German frontier at a number of points on a front of 90 miles.

• • •

Soviet forces captured Praga, on the outskirts of Warsaw, after several weeks of fighting. Russian troops were also said to have crossed from Southern Poland into Slovakia. Soviet units were also reported to have crossed from Bulgaria into Greece.

• • •

A big battle was said to be impending along the Gothic Line in Italy where both sides have been heavily reinforced.

• • •

Since September 8 the Japs have lost 135 ships and 501 aircraft, in assaults made by the United States on the Philippines.

• • •

Tengchung, last Jap fortress blocking union of Allied forces in Burma and China fell to the Chinese.

• • •

SATURDAY—

The Allies took Nancy and Maastricht, at opposite ends of the 180-mile Western front. Three penetrations were made in the Siegfried Line. Fierce German opposition pushed the Canadians back from the Leopold bridgehead.

• • •

On the Western Front, the Russians, using nearly 4,000,000 men opened up a new offensive in the Baltic States. They also crossed the Vistula River and prepared an assault on Warsaw proper.

• • •

Canadian and British troops of the Eighth Army made new breaches in the Gothic Line, in Italy.

• • •

In the Pacific, United States troops made successful landings on the Palau Islands, threatening the Philippines.

• • •

MONDAY—

Holland was invaded during the week-end by detachments of the British Second Army and a large force of air-borne troops from Britain. An attempt is being made to outflank the northern tip of the Siegfried Line and make a direct drive on Berlin.

• • •

The Russians, conducting a new attack in the Baltic States, were within fourteen miles of Riga.

• • •

A state of war was reported existing between Finland and Germany and a formal declaration of war was expected soon.

• • •

The Allied position in China was reported to be grave. Air bases near Kweilin were evacuated and destroyed by the United States Air Force.

• • •

TUESDAY—

The British Second Army was able to join up with the Allied airborne army in Holland and a drive against the German west wall seemed imminent. One of the greatest battles of the war was said to be raging on the Eastern Front, in Latvia and Estonia, where Soviet troops made a deep penetration of the Nazi lines. Other troops reached within fourteen miles of Riga.

• • •

The Allies in Italy were meeting about the strongest resistance of the campaign along the Gothic Line. The British Eighth Army captured the airfield at Rimini.

• • •

In China the situation was reported growing steadily more desperate, with the Japs within 100 miles of splitting China in two.

• • •

United States Marines in the Pacific advanced in heavy fighting on Peleliu Island.

DAMON BRYDEN, REEVE KALADAR, ELECTED WARDEN

Mr. Damon Bryden, Reeve of Kaladar, was elected on Tuesday of this week at the special session of Lennox and Addington County Council, as Warden for the unexpired term of the late Warden, John Geale Daly. Reeve of Napanee, whose death occurred a short time ago.

Mr. Bryden has been a member of the County Council since 1936 and a member of the Township Council since 1933.

RATIONING LIFTED FOR TEA, COFFEE

Tea and coffe rationing which has been in effect in Canada for the past 25 months was lifted at midnight on Monday of this week.

In addition to lifting the restrictions on the purchase of tea and coffee, the order forbidding the serving of a second cup of tea or coffee by restaurants or hotels has also been abolished.

Proprietors of hotels and restaurants may now serve second cups of the beverages if they wish, but only one serving of cream and sugar is allowed. Not more than the regular a la carte price may be charged for the tea or coffee served as a second helping.

Trinity Church News

Last Sunday Rev. E. R. Stapleford of Toronto, conducted the services in Trinity United Church. Mr. Stapleford will be in charge of the services for the next few weeks.

During the past week Rev. G. M. Chidley has been steadily improving and his family and friends are hoping that he will not suffer any further setbacks. He is, of course, still confined to his bed and is not yet receiving visitors.

MOHAWK REDS TAKE FINALS

The Mohawk Reds of No. 1 I.F.S. Deseronto, are the Bayshore League champions once again. They met their last years's rivals, the Deseronto Redi-Reats and disposed of them in three straight games.

The first of the series was a 9 to 4 win, the second a 4 to 1 and the final game Tuesday night, ended in a 13 to 4 score.

Much to the disappointment of the local fans, all the above games were played at Deseronto, to save travelling.

The local teams — Gibbards and Picton Cleaners — were eliminated by the Redi-Heats and the Reds. Only four teams were allowed to participate in the finals and Mohawk Blues, another airport entry, failed to catch a place.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS CAUSE FIVE DEATHS IN NAPANEE DISTRICT

Two Serious Crashes Occurred During Past Week

During the past week five people have died as a result of motor accidents within a short distance of Napanee. About one o'clock on Saturday morning, one mile east of Odessa, a car driven by Clarence Hartman, aged 32 years, 36 Markland Street Kingston, crashed head - on into a Charlton transport, of Oshawa, resulting in the instant death of Mr. Hartman. Three passengers in the Hartman car, Mrs. Alma Skinner, 33 years old 32 Chatham Street, Kingston, Mrs. Ida Ashley, 26 years old, 30 Chatham Street, Kingston and William Dolan, aged 38, 41 Princess Street, Kingston, were badly hurt and were taken to Kingston General Hospital. Mrs. Skinner died about 4:00 a.m., on Monday and William Dolan died Sunday evening at 11:00 o'clock.

Saturday evening, about 8:20, Allen Frederick Wright, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright, Conway, and Harold Haight, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Haight of Conway, were killed when the motor-cycle, driven by Allen Wright, on which Harold Haight was also riding, ran into a cow belonging to William Milsap, about four miles west of Bath, on No. 33 Highway. Young Wright died instantly and Harold Haight died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital in Kingston.

Both boys belong to families well known in the district. A double funeral was held for them at the Conway United Church on Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. K. J. Crawford in charge.

In the Saturday morning crash, the Hartman car was proceeding west when the crash took place. The Hartman car was completely wrecked and the front part of the transport was badly damaged. The driver of the transport, Duncan Bowman, was not injured.

Coroner, Dr. T. M. Galbraith, investigated the Hartman accident and Coroner Dr. D. R. Hall investigated the Wright-Haight accident. It has not yet been decided if inquests will be held.

Local Breeder Purebred Holsteins Wins Recognition

It will be recalled that a number of Holstein heifers were purchased throughout Ontario and in this district by Premier J. Walter Jones and Colby Lewis this last spring for distribution among the breeders of Prince Edward Island for foundation stock improvement.

Among the many, only two headed their classes at Charlottetown Exhibition, the one being from the herd of Fred E. Switzer of Moscow, namely Desmond Dale Supreme Belle B. No. 513301. The dam of this heifer and two full sisters are still retained in this heard. It might also be mentioned that her dam, Belle Supreme, No. 407361, was sixth in the class for four-year-olds on twice-a-day milking in the 305-day division, recorded in the Holstein Friesian Journal for the month of June with her R.O.P. Test of 12,074 lbs. of milk, 492 lbs. of butter fat, with an average test of 3.78.

The Sire of these Heifers was purchased by Mr. Switzer from W. G. Cowle, a son of Napanee, namely Sir Eco-Sylv. Teake Ormsby, No. 130383, a reserve grand champion bull at Napanee Black and White Day.

The only other heifer to go to the top which was purchased in Ontario, came from the herd of William J. Kirkland, of Lyndhurst, Ont. J. J. E. McCague of Allliston was the judge and 118 cattle were shown.

109TH EXHIBITION ERNESTTOWN SOCIETY HELD AT ODESSA

Splendid Attendance and Excellent Exhibits

Ernesttown Agricultural Society, which is one of the oldest societies of its kind in the Province, held its 109th Annual Exhibition at Odessa, last Friday. The Fair, as usual, was well attended and all classes were well filled with exhibits.

In the Palace there was an unusually large showing of flowers, with some fine gladioli in the group. The ladies' fancy work was well filled, and work shown by some new exhibitors added interest. Home-baking classes were also well filled. The vegetable section was not very well filled.

The showing of cattle was again excellent and also a large number of horses were exhibited.

Only two horses were entered in the racing event.

Music was furnished during the afternoon by a military band from Kingston. On the grounds there were several booths, which did a rushing business selling hot dogs, hamburgers and soft drinks.

Mr. A. M. Fraser, who has been Secretary-Treasurer of the Fair Association for about 18 years, and who has been in ill-health recently, was able to be present at the Fair and was warmly greeted by his many friends.

ANNIVERSARIES

Church Anniversaries are an institution in Canada, as well as in some other countries. In Ontario, the Fall season is the time for anniversaries. Besides commemorating the dedication of the church edifice, these anniversaries are an occasion for focussing the attention of the community on the place and work of the Church, and for bringing together the whole Community for worship. As time passes the number of churches which can commemorate a century of service, increase. Every once in a while newspapers record such long term service. Last Sunday, a century of church history was celebrated at Grafton, Ontario. Grafton is a village a few miles east of Cobourg. The minister of the United Church which was celebrating its anniversary is Rev. W. E. L. Smith, formerly minister at Selby and now on leave of absence to serve as a Chaplain, in Italy, where he has rendered conspicuous service.

A message was read at the service from Dr. Smith and greetings from others were read as well. The church was filled and people, many of whom were former members, gathered from near and far.

On the lawn, at the close of the service, the visitors signed a Visitors' Book, and there were many Oh's! and Ah's! and Well! Well's! as acquaintances were renewed and experiences recorded, and memories stirred.

There is something very significant about these gatherings. They typify a community solidarity centering around a church, which is the very backbone of a nation. Churches may think themselves small and unimportant, but at anniversary time their strength is revealed and the power and influence they have on the community is reflected in the interest which they create, and the attendance they attract. There is little wrong with a nation whose churches continue to hold the affection, devotion and loyalty of their people.

THE LIGHTS GO ON

A blackout in Canada, which lasted fifteen minutes or half an hour was an inconvenience to be endured. For five long years there has been a perpetual blackout in Great Britain. Last week, the lights went on in Manchester, one of the largest industrial cities in England. Not all the lights were lighted, for there were many which lacked essential parts, and those which were turned on had to be ready to be switched off again at a moment's notice, should the situation demand such action. But even the partial street lighting was hailed with delight and greeted as an omen that the war was drawing to a close. People came out to watch the unusual ceremony of the old lamp lighter going his rounds While men and women coming out of the movies were able to see their way home, an experience denied them for five long troubled years.

On Sunday, the lights went on in London. There, too, the full illumination was not completed. There were many repairs to be made, many lamps to be renewed. Houses could not get proper equipment so that they could have a dim-out instead of the black-out. Nevertheless, even the partial restoration of lights gave Londoners a thrill. Having suffered through the blitz, and more recently as a result of the robombs, the relief must have been all but indescribable.

Hitler and the Nazi machine forced a black-out on all Europe. Bit by bit the curtain is being lifted and the light is beginning to show through again. Thousands of men and women are being liberated from the Nazi heel, thousands are feeling again the sense of independence and self-respect, of which the German Nazi party had deprived them. The intellectual and spiritual darkness, like that of the physical darkness, is being dissipated.

The lighting of the lights is symbolic of a new light that is soon to break on the world, when the powers of darkness have taken their flight.

THE DUMBARTON OAKS CONFERENCE

BY WAVERLEY ROOT

A difficult dilemma is posed for the commentator on public affairs by such a conference as the three-power meeting now being held at Dumbarton Oaks to draw up a plan for post-war international organization to prevent future wars. One would like to postpone any expression of misgivings or of doubt, to suspend criticism in the hope that the elimination of even the slightest hint of possible disapproval might make it easier for the conferees to attain the objective of securing peace on which all democratic nations are, of course united.

In the light of the developments which have preceded the conference and of the reported plans of the various governments, rather more than in that of the very cautious public opening speeches, it may be set down now that the greatest danger which seems to lie ahead is that the three great powers now meeting will attempt to set up a world order in which the small states will be reduced to puppet roles — in other words a three power (or four-power, counting China) imperialism.

It was a natural enough phenomenon that the chief delegates of the three countries, in their introductory speeches, should assume positions representing exactly the relative importance for each one of the constitution of a world state corresponding exactly to the Moscow Conference description to which all the delegates paid lip service. Of the three nations, Great Britain has obviously the most to lose if peace is not secured through the constitution of a genuine world state. The United States comes next. Russia can most successfully play the big power game if the ultimate international organization, as now seems most likely, turns out to be only a facade for big power rule instead of a real international government.

It was appropriate, therefore, that Sir Alexander Cadogan should make, for Great Britain, the address which took it least for granted that the big powers will play an overwhelmingly dominant role in the future organization and, also, the one which seemed most friendly to the creation of a functioning international state as distinguished from a more or less disguised alliance of big powers. when he noted that "we must arrange for at least a measure of coordination betweenthe various functional organizations now created or to be created, and in some way gear them to our world international machine."

Secretary Hull's speech was a trifle less satisfactory from the point of view of achievement of a world government. He noted that to insure peace "force must be available promptly, in adequate measure, and with certainty." But he knocked that statement out in his very next breath by going on to say that "the nations of the world should maintain, according to their capacities, sufficient forces available for joint action when necessary to prevent breaches of the peace." In other words, he envisages no international police force, but simply that the separate nations should contribute their independent forces when a threat arises. This was the League of Nations idea also, and it proved to be the fact that when action depends on getting the preliminary concurrence of different nations, it can be effected neither "promptly" nor "with certainty."

Mr. Hull, though he quoted the Moscow formula of the "Sovereign equality of all states, large and small," denied meaning also to that phrase by noting later that when the big powers have reached their decisions, "the conclusions will be communicated to the governments of all the United Nations." There is a vast difference between communication and consultation, and I doubt whether small states are going to be impressed by an "equality" which consists in their right to be told what decisions the large nations have taken concerning them. If the objective is equality, it has gotten off to a bad start by the exclusion from the original conference of the smaller nations (though only Cuba has so far had the courage to register her misgivings publicly.)

The most outspoken advocate of big-power domination of the world was Russian Ambassador Gromyko if you could call it advocacy to imply more than was directly said Once, indeed Gromyko's assumption of this attitude seemed completely unconscious, when he said: "Waging a struggle for their freedom and independence, the people of our three great nations are also saving the freedom and independence of other freedom-loving peoples of the world." No nation of course in any deep sense, can secure freedom or independence from another. An independence which depends upon the gift of another country is a contradiction in fact as well as in words. The unconsciously paternalistic viewpoint betrayed in this phrase is at variance with the objective expressed at the Moscow Conference.

Gromyko dwelt repeatedly on the responsibility of the big powers and on their possession of superior power and resources. Much more than Cadogan and Hull, he seemed to take the big-power world for granted. Yet even his speech left the possibility open for an agreement more truly consonant with the spirit of the Moscow accord.

Indeed, the caution shown by all the speakers would seem to indicate that none of the three nations meeting are too sure of themselves, and that the possibility remains still of returning to the course which was blazed, at Moscow, and abandoned at Teheran. I continue to believe, however, that the chances for attaining this result would be better if peoples, rather than professional diplomats, were making the decisions. And it is therefore with foreboding that I note that the people have been barred from this conference, along with the small nations, by the refusal to admit the press.

CRACKING THE LINE

Prior to the outbreak of the war, great stress was placed on the defense value of a strong line. The Germans, particularly, placed great confidence in the ability of the defense line to withstand attack. For three years, men by the thousands laboured at the Siegfried Line which was designed to withstand all attacks. But much has been learned since then. The United Nations have learned the technique of getting through or around such defenses. Last week, the American Forces drove a hole in the Siegfried Line, ten miles wide, and by so doing, breached the formidable string of defenses behind which Germany believed herself secure. Thousands upon thousands of tons of explosives were dropped from the skies upon the area of attack, while other thousands of tons were dropped behind the front line and the communications. When in a state of demoralization from such heavy bombardment, the ground forces moved ahead and achieved their objectives.

We must not assume, even at that, the task was an easy one. The casualty list grows longer each day as a grim testimony to the price that is being paid for victory. No matter how great is the preparation, when the forces move to attack in the face of opposition, there are losses. The full cost of the successes we are attaining will be known, in time.

It was because the Nazis thought of the Democratic peoples, as a soft, pleasure-loving people who would never sacrifice their sons in war, that they made their plans for an easy and quick victory. They counted without their host. They were unable to understand or evaluate the true spirit of the people in the democratic countries. It seems strange that this should have been so. For the Kaiser and the military caste in the First Great War made the same mistake. Perhaps we have been at fault for not demonstrating sufficiently beforehand our determination and will to destroy the virus of war. At any rate, the German people should know that no nation has a monopoly of the virtues, of courage, bravery and determination. And if they read the lesson of history aright, it should be a long time before they make their plans without taking into account the power of free people onec they see the things for which they stand in danger of being lost to an arrogant group of militarists.

The Siegfried Line has been breached because a free people has been willing to devote its whole energies to the defeat of those who sought to dominate the world and reduce others to the status of slaves. For the first time in a hundred years, Germany is now fighting on her own soil, and for the first time the German people know the true horrors of war and the mettle of the people whose way of life they challenged.

A FORECAST

A forecast of what is liable to happen in all Europe when the tensions of war are relaxed, was given in Rome on Sunday. A trial was scheduled to take place, at which certain well known Fascists were to be tried. But the trial did not come off, for more than 7,000 Romans attacked the prison where the prisoners were held, captured one of the leaders, beat him and then drowned him in the Tiber. The situation got quite out of hand, the mob paying no attention to the local police. Not until a detachment of United Nations soldiers appeared on the scene, was order restored.

When all across Europe men and and women who have suffered from the Axis oppressors, are freed, when those whose relatives have been put to death by the Nazi and the Fascist gangsters are released, there will be such an outburst of passion, that it will be hard, indeed, to quell it.

One of the strange ironies of history will be to watch the Forces of the United Nations protecting their enemies from the fury and mob anger of people who have suffered at their hands. Yet, that will have to be the role which they must play. The Gestapo and those responsible for the crimes which have shocked the civilized world, must be brought to justice. They must be tried, faced with the evidence of their crimes, and punished. There can be no doubt about that. But that is one thing — it is quite another to let mob passions have full sway. Whatever method is used to bring the responsible parties before the bar of world justice, it must be done in an orderly fashion. Otherwise, anarchy would rule and delay the restoration of order and the establishment of self-governing bodies among the states so long held in subjection by their self-appointed overlords. Let there be justice and punishment, but let these be meted out by duly constituted authorities in an orderly way.

If the Hitlerites can put on the brakes they certainly will try to make a stand along the Somme. What memories are there—Hamel, Amiens, Albert, Bapaume, Peronne!

There were two battles of the Somme—1916 and 1918—and it was my good luck to be in on bothe of them. The earlier engagement marked the initial appearance of tanks— funny looking little toys — but it was the second show which produced the memorable thrills.

The Somme was on the British front but the Americans had contingents there. There was for instance, the battel at Hamel. That was the first Anglo-American attack in history and it was staged July 4, 1918. when a big contingent of Americans went over the top with a force of Australian veterans as their coaches. It was a glorious success.

It was the second battle of the Somme, too, that the British Commander-in-Chief, Earl Haig, issued his historic "Backs-To-The-Wall" order. The Boche were coming through so fast that the British General Staff sometimes didn't know where the front line was.

During the most critical period, a British officer by the name of Carey hastily assembled a motley crew to plug a hole in the line east of Amiens. Carey took his men where he could find 'em — cooks, sappers, truck-drivers and what not — and armed them with anything he could lay his hands on.

It was the answer to one of the great crises of the war. Carey's army held that gap.

There was terrific fighting all through the Valley of the Somme — at Albert, Bapaume, Peronne and many other towns — and would be again in this war if Hitler could find the troops to make the stand.

We can't pass on without a reference to the Golden Virgin of Albert, the heroic statue which stood atop the steeple of the little church. The figure was gilded, and you could see it for miles in all directions when the sun glinted off the sparkling gold.

Albert had been fought across, and shelled by both sides until scarcely one brick remained upon another in the whole place — save only the little church. It was not by accident that this building had been spared; the tradition had grown up among the fighting men that the side which shot down the Golden Virgin would lose the war.

Well one day an ill-aimed German shell hurled the Virgin to earth. Tommy Atkins said, "Ah, that's torn it." And sure enough, the Germans capitulated a little later.

Farther north in Flanders there were a lot of you veterans at one time or another, in spots which might see more fighting. There was famous Ypres — "Wipers" the Tommy called it — and a nasty place it was. How we hated to make our way through that shattered city which was always under German gunfire. Seven and a half miles northeast of Wipers is Passchendaele, where one of the bloodiest battles of the whole war was fought.

There on November 6, 1917, the Canadians captured the ridge on which this place stood. They achieved this after a long and terrible conflict waged in mul which was so bad that at times it took stretcher bearers half an hour to go 100 yards with a wounded man. It was one of the greatest exhibitions of courage, fortitude and skill seen in the war.

We could keep right on hitting possible battle spots until we got to the Rhine.

The Germans retreated from Lille so fast that I failed to overtake them in a high-powered motor car. Maybe they will be travelling slike that this time. They might even bypass historic Mons.

LIVING 1914-1918 OVER AGAIN

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Armies in France are covering battlefields that are bright in the memories of First Great-War soldiers. Here some of those famous names are recalled by DeWitt Mackenzie, who, in those days, was an Associated Press war correspondent attached to British General Headquarters.

I'll bet any of you first Great War veterans a petit sou you're wishin' you could be "over there" as the fightin' is around the battlegrounds you knew a quarter century ago.

There's a nostalgic pull in the scenes of our greatest adventures.

And this writing it's highly problematical what battles may be fought as the Jerries retreat to their own frontiers, presumably taking the old route northward through the crimson poppy fields of Flanders, and on through Belgium .They're so badly knocked about that they may not be able to make any real stand along the way.

It looks now, for instance, as though there is little chance for another great battle on the Marne — and the Marne will be one of the first places you chaps will be thinking about.

There Goes that TELEPHONE!

COPPER, rubber and other telephone materials continue to flow overseas in military communications equipment as well as in the form of ammunition, weapons, aircraft . . .

During one brief air battle, for example, this fighter plane's guns may spit enough copper to build several miles of telephone line.

War needs both at home and abroad must come first. Extensions to present telephone equipment are strictly limited. Fullest possible use must be made of existing equipment.

To those applicants who have been unable to obtain telephone service, we offer our regrets—and our thanks for their ready understanding of why their requests have had to be denied.

KEEP IT ON THE VICTORY MARCH

Demands on Canadian gasoline have increased tremendously in five years of war. Yet not one aircraft has been grounded, a ship held in port, or mobile equipment brought to a standstill because of a lack of petroleum products. Canadian tanks cover many miles a day as they crash through weakening German lines and these land leviathans like the one shown above can take 150 gallons of gasoline at a time. Thirty cylinder engines make frequent refuelling necessary. This is but one of the many war machines that would be helpless and ineffective without ever present supplies of gas. For this reason gasoline must continue to remain on the 'scarce' list for Canadian civilians.

Blood Plasma Flown To France On D-Day, Dropped by Parachute

Blood plasma was so important to treatment of Normandy invasion casualties that it was sent to France by plane and dropped by parachute to the clearing stations for the wounded. It is revealed by Russell T. Kelley, chairman for the Ontario Committee of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service.

Mr. Kelley calls this sending of blood serum to France "one of the greatest accomplishments on the opening day of the invasion" and stresses the present urgent need for more blood to treat the growing numbers of casualties.

"Thousands of our wounded men are being brought back to England by airplane," he explains. "which means a greatly increased demand on our supply. In ten days in Italy alone a full week's supply from Canada was used. It is necessary that our 30 permanent clinics in Ontario and our seven mobile units be kept going at their full capacity. There must be no let - down, if we are to save the lives of our men and restore them with the intricacies of international statecraft. To this end they bend their efforts, seeking to get control of political situations and turn them to their own advantage.

On the other hand, there are those who believe that religion should have nothing to do with the political or economic situation but should confine itself to preaching the gospel. Half-way between these extremes lies the truth. A religious people should, of course, be a worshipping people. So far as their religion is true to its type, they should do all in their power to influence the state to put into practice the principles of justice, goodwill, brotherhood which are at the core of their faith. This service is to be done courageously, fearlessly and vigorously. The forces of evil are very strong. Self-interest is a deep seated motive. It can only be made ineffective as it is superceded by unselfish service, and a desire to create a situation where love, kindness and justice will prevail.

A great church building is not necessarily an evidence of deep spiritual power. There are churches of great magnificence in certain parts of the world which are as dead as the dodo. A religious people is not necessarily a nation of big churches, but a religious people is a people which stand it. We need such a Church. We need such a State, if we are not to lose for a second time the opportunity with which our generation is faced.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, SEPTEMBER 24TH, 1944

"RELIGION IN THE LIFE OF A NATION"
Lesson Text: II Samuel 7: 17-29.

The title of this lesson is an arresting one: Religion is the Life of a Nation. It indicates a relationship between the things of the spirit and the affairs of state. Perhaps no nation ever worked out the relationship so intimately and so consistently as Israel. For many years they believed they were under the direct guidance of God, needing neither king nor any other ruler. It was only as the environment changed that they came to the point where they felt it necessary to organize themselves under an earthly ruler. All through their subsequent history they believed they had a special relationship to God, and sought to organize their lives accordingly. Whenever in the process of the years they wandered as a people from the lines of moral rectitude and generosity and goodness, prophets arose who called them back to God and to His service.

The lesson is a prayer in which David acknowledges God's goodness to himself and his family. Then he thanks God that the nation is unique because God saved it from Egypt, gave it a country made it His mouthpiece, gave it power, drove out other nations and their false gods." He then prayed that, if his dynasty should be blessed of God, it would serve God and spread abroad God's fame by its glory and strength.

It was a profound prayer and expresses the hopes of the people of a nation blessed of God and serving Him to the full. Serving God and glorifying Him, for David, was seeing to it that worship was conducted in a fitting way by all the people. Later on, the prophets preached with great power against a people who were perfect in the performance of their religious rites and duties, while paying no attention to justice, brotherhood and mercy. And Jesus Himself, it will be remembered, wept over the people of Jerusalem because of their neglect of the way of life for which God stood.

In our own day the question of the place of religion in the state has become a live one. There are those who believe that religion is a political organization and should concern itself with the intricacies of international statecraft. To this end they bend their efforts, seeking to get control of political situations and turn them to their own advantage.

On the other hand, there are those who believe that religion should have nothing to do with the political or economic situation but should confine itself to preaching the gospel. Half-way between these extremes lies the truth. A religious people should, of course, be a worshipping people. So far as their religion is true to its type, they should do all in their power to influence the state to put into practice the principles of justice, goodwill, brotherhood which are at the core of their faith. This service is to be done courageously, fearlessly and vigorously. The forces of evil are very strong. Self-interest is a deep seated motive. It can only be made ineffective as it is superceded by unselfish service, and a desire to create a situation where love, kindness and justice will prevail.

A great church building is not necessarily an evidence of deep spiritual power. There are churches of great magnificence in certain parts of the world which are as dead as the dodo. A religious people is not necessarily a nation of big churches, but a religious people is a people which stand it. We need such a Church. TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Sept. 15. — The Tamworth Continuation School opened on September 5th. There are 16 pupils in the new Grade IX., and a total enrolment of 46. After the opening exercises, the Principal, Mr. H. J. Millar, welcomed the new students and spoke to them on the things that make for happiness in the school life. Happiness, he said, would come if we did our work well from day to day and accepted the responsibility for our own actions and behaviour. A very good old-fashioned rule to follow in order to be happy and gay is to "Work while you work and play while you play". Middle and Upper School certificates were then given the successful students, and the texts for the different grades announced. Upper School work will be taught this year in senior classes. Instructions were given for the collection of milk weed pods for the purpose of making Navy vests. This is a government project in which the rural communities can give valuable aid. The same teaching staff as last year is again at the helm in both the Consolidated and the Continuation Schools here.

BRADSHAW—MARLIN

One of Tamworth's most popular young ladies, Jean Agnes, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Marlin, was united in marriage to John Edward, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw. The ceremony took place at the rectory at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, September 12th. Rev. F. O. Ware officiated. The bride looked charming in a turquoise blue wool crepe coat effect dress, and her accessories were of harmonizing brown. Her corsage was of variegated gladioli. Her only sister, Alice, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a becoming dress of gold wool crepe with brown accessories. Her corsage was of white gladioli. The groom was assisted by Mr. Donald Johnston. The bridal party left the rectory amid showers of good wishes and confetti. They were accompanied by Mrs. Donald Johnston and Mr. Donald Huffman to Kaladar, where they had dinner, after which the bride and groom left for Renfrew, Ottawa, and points east. Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm at Beaver Lake.

On Monday evening a delightful surprise party was staged at the home of Miss Gwendowlyn Gaffney, in honor of Miss Jean Marlin, bride-elect. About 25 young ladies were present when Miss Marlin arrived at the Gaffney home. The evening was spent in games and a sing-song. When the gifts were brought in the room the bride-to-be was liberally showered with confetti. Lunch was served by the hostess.

After an absence of 46 years from this village, Mr. S. M. Carscallen, of Niagara, returned on Wednesday to renew acquaintances, and although many of his old friends were gone he found a few who still remembered him and gave him a glad hand. Mr. Carscallen is an engineer by trade. When he left here he went to Glengarry 44 years ago. He married Miss McDonald, who accompanied him on this visit. Mr. Carscallen is still very active, and continues his work as engineer, although he stated while here that, when the war is over, he is going to let someone else have his job.

Mrs. Bruce Richardson opened her home for United Church choir practice on Friday evening. At the conclusion of the regular practice, Mrs. Smith Gilmour read an address and Miss Alice Marlin and Miss Winnifred Steele presented a matched set of pyrex to Miss Marguerite Gilmore and Miss Jean Marlin brides-elect of the month. Both girls very capably expressed their thanks. Rev. W. H. Baugh then gave a short speech expressing regrets on losing the girls from the United Church choir, and assuring them their home church would never forget them, and wishing them much happiness in their new sphere of life. Lunch was served and everyone enjoyed a social chat.

Rev. H. P. L. Seymour, of Kingston, was the speaker at the Sunday evening service in the United Church here. Rev. Mr. Seymour came in support of the Ontario Temperance Federation. He took his text from the 9th verse of the 20th chapter of Proverbs, and delivered a powerful address, telling of different ways that alcohol acts on the human system, also the danger in which it places humanity. Mr. Seymour was a guest at the parsonage for the week end, and spoke at the three appointments, Reidville, Marlbank, and Tamworth.

The burial of the late Mr. Robert Webb took place on September 12th, in the Beaver Lake cemetery. Although the deceased was a former resident of Sheffield, he passed away at the home of his daughter at Hallowell and was 85 years of age. Rev. W. H. Baugh officiated at the burial service.

This is an interdenominational meeting, and all the people of the surrounding district are invited to attend.

PRESENTATION MADE TO MRS. GEORGE CHAMBERS, BY ANDERSON FRIENDS

On Friday evening, September 8th, the friends and neighbours of Mrs. George Chambers, Anderson, gathered in a large number to bid her farewell before leaving the community for her new home in Napanee. During the evening, community singing was enjoyed followed by a short address by Rev. F. P. Armitage. Mr. Sam Baird read the following presentation address:

"Dear Mrs. Chambers:

Your friends and neighbours of Anderson United Church and community learned with deep regret of your decision to move from Anderson to Napanee, and decided that you could not be allowed to leave us without some expression on our part of our high appreciation of you and of your valuable service to our church and community. For this purpose, we have gathered here this evening, and the number present will indicate the place you hold in the hearts of the people.

You have lived among us for fifty-eight years and have played a worthy part in the life of the district, as the wife of one of our past esteemed citizens, and the mother of a family of twelve, and a good and thoughtful neighbour to all. In the work of our Church we have had a loyal and useful helper, especially in the Women's Missionary Society, and the Woman's Association, and you will be greatly missed by those who have had the privilege of working with you.

We hope that your residence at Napanee will enable you to maintain contact with us and that from time to time we shall have the pleasure of seeing you among us at Anderson. And we pray that you may live long to enjoy your well-earned leisure in this strenuous work, and the friendships you will doubtless form in your new home. May God who has blessed and guided you, continue His services.

Your friends and neighbours of Anderson."

We ask you to accept this gift as a token of our appreciation. On behalf of the community Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Pringle and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hamblin presented Mrs. Chambers with an armchair and a magazine table.

Mrs. Chambers expressed her thanks for the gifts.

Everyone joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne." For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Blest be the Tie that Binds." The serving of lunch completed a most enjoyable evening.

GRACE CHURCH W.M.S.

The September meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the Sunday school room Thursday afternoon with a fair attendance. Mrs. F. B. Elliott presided in the absence of the president, Miss M. Meiklejohn. Mrs. Charmer Dennison acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Vallean. The treasurer, Mrs. P. Vine, gave her report which showed a balance on hand. Mrs. J. Coulter and Mrs. J. Murphy had charge of the devotional. Mr. Dingman gave a pleasing vocal solo. Miss Hazel VanAlcyne gave the chapter in the study book.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem and the Mizpah Benediction.

SWIZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The September meeting of the Boys' Mission Band was held at the home on Wednesday afternoon, September 6 with eighteen members present and was in charge of the president. The meeting was opened with the National Anthem and repeating the Lord's Prayer after which Gerald Robinson read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved. After the call to worship and response a Hymn was sung. Bible reading was given by Paul Crate and a prayer read by Elaine Bean. The offering was received by Nancylee Clark and Jack Stafford and dedicated in song.

Watchtower items on Africa, China, India and Canada were read by Geo. Heinbuch, Vernon Snyder, Rosemary Moore and Gerald Bean and the subjects on temperance, peace and stewardship were taken by the helpaids, Barbara Robinson, Beulah Craig and Mary Vanalstyne.

The first chapter of the new study book was given by Mrs. Wales after which Nelson Brandon distributed copies of World Friends, and the meeting was closed by singing a hymn and repeating the closing prayer in unison.

MOUNT PLEASANT PIONEER W.I.

On Thursday evening, September 7, Mrs. Rose Oliver was hostess to the members and friends of Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute in opening the meeting, the president, Mrs. A. Sexsmith, welcomed the visitors among whom was Mrs. Jas. Haggerty of Napanee, district president, and guest speaker. After singing the Ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer, the roll call was answered by naming a new vegetable grown in your garden this year, or methods of getting rid of weeds. At the conclusion of the business part of the meeting, the president gave a report of the Officers' Rally which she had attended. Many helpful suggestions were given in regard to carrying on the meetings. The Institute Creed was then read by the secretary, Mrs. C. Nugent. The topic for the evening, under the leadership of Mrs. Oliver, was Canadian Industries and Agriculture. After all had joined in singing several numbers from the Institute song sheets Mrs. Oliver gave an interesting and instructive paper on linseed oil and its uses, the industrial uses of wheat and the uses of the fibre produced from milk. A vocal solo by Mrs. Price accompanied on the piano by Miss Marjorie Price, was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Haggerty, who was welcomed not only as district president, but also as a former member of the club, on the subject To Succeed Fair, the Home Front," which was greatly appreciated.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served.

TYENDINAGA EAST W.I.

Tyendinaga East Women's Institute met on September 8th at the Harper home for the regular meeting with the vice-president, Mr. M. Schamerhorn in the chair. The meeting opened with the Institute Creed and the Lord's Prayer. The roll call was answered by twelve members and two visitors. The minutes and correspondence were read and bills were ordered paid. A well prepared paper by Miss Geraldine Mowers was read by Mrs. P. Kimmerly. Interesting current events were given by Mrs. P. Kimmerly.

Mrs. Bruce Kimmerly had charge of the programme which consisted of a reading by Mrs. Roy McMath, a poem by Mrs. H. Harvey, a piano solo by Mrs. S. E. Winter and a reading by Mrs. F. Hutchinson.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close after which a dainty lunch was served. Mrs. E. Waddingham moved a vote of thanks to the hostesses for their kind hospitality.

NAPANEE W. I.

The first meeting for the Fall and Winter months of the Napanee Women's Institute, was held on Tuesday afternoon of last week in the agricultural boardroom with an average attendance. The president Mrs. James Haggerty, presided. In the absence of the secretary Mrs. Robert Lucas, her duties were fulfilled by Mrs. Fred Richards. The branch was requested to fill two dirty bags for the sailors, and Mrs. Marshall Hudson and Mrs. Fred Richards were named to look after this important work. Mrs. Robert Lucas, who was recently appointed secretary-treasurer sent in her resignation which was accepted with regret and a letter will be sent to her expressing the regrets of the branch. The Nominating Committee will bring in a recommendation at the October meeting with respect to the office.

A request for a donation to the Milk for Britain Fund will be dealt with at a later date. Mrs. James Haggerty gave a concise report of the district rally which was held in Napanee recently. Community singing was also enjoyed and the roll call was A Favourite Autumn Flower.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

New programmes were given out for the new year.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

A war work meeting was held by the ladies of Sillsville Woman's Auxiliary in the hall on September 14th. There were six members present. Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills for half a century the favorite remedy.

about the things you buy in wartime

THE STORY OF CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR

When you go to a store to buy and can't get the things you want, remember that war upsets the whole machinery of production and supply. This is true not only in Canada but throughout the whole world.

As Canada is devoting over half her production and training things for war it is inevitable that civilian supply must be reduced.

We just can't produce all the things required to fill the greatly increased civilian demands, but production efforts are being directed to see that the best use is made of materials and labour that are available for the production of civilian goods.

Remember these facts when you have difficulties in your shopping.

Chairman
Wartime Prices & Trade Board

OBVIOUSLY babies and children must have underwear. So the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has given special attention to the production of these garments.

The problem has not been so much one of a lack of raw materials, but of getting the raw materials (wool, cotton, rayon), spun into yarns—and then knit into garments. Canada has never produced all the wool, cotton and rayon yarn she requires. We have always had to get a substantial part of our requirements from other countries, even in peacetime. But since the war, there has been an acute shortage of underwear yarns everywhere.

There has been a greatly increased demand in addition to production difficulties. The efforts of the Board to meet the problem are given below.

THE INCREASED DEMAND RESULTED FROM

More babies . . . It's apparently always the way in wartime.

Reduced use of second-hand or "hand-me-down" garments.

Extra buying . . . Perhaps too many people wanted to be "on the safe side."

Increased consumer buying . . . More people with more money.

Less home sewing . . . Mothers have been working outside the home.

Huge demand for underwear by Armed Forces.

MORE UNDERWEAR: but still not enough!

The reason is that it just has not been possible to produce with the skilled workers and machines available to the United Nations enough yarn and garments to meet the increased demands all over the world.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE ABOUT IT

√First of all the Board found out the kind and quantity of garments Canadian children must have.

√This showed that the public is asking for more than is actually needed.

√So plans were made to see, by directing production all down the line, if we could meet the swollen demand as nearly as possible.

√Each manufacturer was told to produce an increased number of garments.

√A constant check is kept on mills to see that they are producing the required number.

√Manufacturers not previously making children's underwear were induced to go into its production. An additional 600,000 garments will be provided this year from these sources.

√Negotiations were conducted with production authorities in other countries for supplies of yarn to Canadian knitters for use in children's underwear.

√Primary cotton mills were required to divert spinning facilities from fabric manufacture to the spinning of underwear yarns.

√Arrangements were made through National Selective Service to direct more labour to the underwear mills.

√A special campaign was launched to enlist part time workers.

√Distribution to retail stores was organized to ensure equitable supply to all areas.

The greatly increased supply of children's underwear resulting from these efforts is shown by the relative sizes of the figures below.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox left this motto: "So many Gods, so many Creeds, so many ways that wind and wind, while just the art of being kind is all the sad world needs."

She had grave doubts about the authenticity of the Bible. She had a great love for humanity and was an ardent believer in the love of God. We believe that if there is a future Heaven, she will be one of the chief ushers there.

We are trying to bring some of the happiness of that future Heaven here now, by giving living prices on our merchandise.

In Loving Memory

DICKSON — In cherished memory of Anabella Dickson, who passed away September 29th 1943.

Not a day do we forget her—
Thoughts of her are always near;
We who loved her sadly miss her,
As it dawns another year.

If all the world were ours to give
We would give it, yes, and more.
To clasp the hand that once we loved
To see her smile once more.

Lovingly remembered by

WEDDING BELLS

BENSON - CHAMBERS

A quiet autumn wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Manse, Kingston, at 12:30 a.m., Monday morning, September 18th, when the Rev. J. Forbes Widdrburn united in marriage Mary Jean, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chambers of Napanee and Clinton N. second son of Mrs. Victoria Benson of the late William Benson of Ivanhoe, Ontario.

The young bride looked charming in a street-length dress of pale blue wool crepe, with brown accessories. Her corsage was of American Beauty Roses and she wore an engraved gold locket, gift of the groom. The bride was attended by her only sister, Miss Margaret Chambers, who was attractively gowned in a gold wool crepe dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of mauve asters and pink roses. The groom was attended by Dr. B. W. Kinsman of the Kingston General Hospital interning staff.

Following the marriage ceremony the happy young couple left for Niagara Falls and points west. For travelling the bride chose a brown tailored suit and a tuxedo style topcoat of soldier blue.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was an engraved silver bracelet and to the best man, a wallet. Upon their return the young couple will reside at 186 Sydenham Street, Kingston.

The bride is a graduate of the Ontario Hospital.

COCHAND - BRADSHAW

The marriage of Marjorie, daughter of Mrs. Jean Campbell Bradshaw, to L.A.C. Emile Cochand, Jr., R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Cochand, of Ste. Marguerite, took place Saturday afternoon, September 9th, at St. George's Church, Montreal, the Ven. Archdeacon Morris officiating.

The bride entered the church with Mr. Emile Cochand, the bridegroom's father, and was given away by her brother. She wore a gown of blush satin having a long fitted bodice with a heart shaped neckline and long sleeves finishing in points over her hands, the skirt falling into a slight train. Her veil of tulle illusion, appliqued with lace, was held by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids.

The wedding attendants, Miss Iris Bradshaw, of Toronto, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Miss Clarice Mullineux, as bridesmaid, wore frocks of sheer over satin fashioned on the same lines as that worn by the bride, and tiny yellow roses in their hair. Miss Bradshaw wore yellow sheer over gold satin and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses tied with sheer ribbons; Miss Mullineux was in a frock of mauve sheer over matching satin and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses tied with yellow ribbons.

F.O. Roland Beaulieu, R.C.A.F., of Mont Joli, Que. was best man for his brother-in-law, and the ushers were Mr. Pierre Cochand, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Raymond Gill.

Mrs. Bradshaw, the bride's mother, wore a gown of fuchsia velvet with a hat to match and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Cochand, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of black satin Jeroma having a cascade jabot of Valenciennes lace, and a hat of fuchsia velvet and a corsage bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The reception was held in the Oak and Blue Rooms of the Windsor Hotel where autumn flowers were used to decorate. Later L.A.C and Mrs. Cochand left on a short wedding trip the same material as her suit with a nosegay of sweetheart roses pinned in one corner.

FRENCH STILL HATE GERMANS

BY SONIA TOMARA

Bayeux. — Now that I've been in liberated France for more than two weeks and have talked to a great many people, I know for sure that most of the things we had heard about Germans are true. Their attempt to rule Europe was stillborn. They were not made to be Herrenvolk. The longer they stayed in subdued lands the more they were hated. Their system could not work.

Many people will tell me, I know, that this was obvious all along, that it was not worth while going to France to discover such an elementary truth. But I have always been afraid of wishful thinking and of propaganda. I like to see things for myself and not to go by somebody's word. I know Europe too intimately not to be aware of age-long strifes that have been going on here and of the terror of Communism that has made many people hope for support from Germans.

I am satisfied with the first-hand investigation I have made over Normandy and Brittany, and I am sure that as we go deeper into France and reach its industrial regions and large cities the conclusions I have come to will become even more salient.

My main conclusion is that four years of German occupation of France have brought no rapprochement between German and French people. Some two and a half million Frenchmen have been living in Germany and about one million German troops have been stationed in France. But the rift between French and Germans has widened and deepened.

Yes, people here do agree that there were good and bad Germans. But not even good ones ever came close to the French. Except by a comparatively small class of the population they were hated as Germans and were rightly held responsible for the pall of darkness and oppression that weighed over France.

"It was just not our way of thinking and living," Frenchmen of modest extraction will tell you in their simple language, which, brings forth so much better the core of the whole problem.

These Frenchmen will all agree that Germans did not treat them as badly as they treated Russians or Poles. French women have not been taken into brothels. There have been in France no concentration camps like Oswiatsin in Poland. Frenchmen were paid and fed better even in the Todt organization that built the Channel fortifications. Until a short time before the Allied landing German soldiers remained "correct."

Something horrible happened, however, when S.S. troops arrived in Normandy to meet the Allied shock. Here every one is agreed that those young Hitler boys, said to be the elite of the German nation, behaved atrociously. I know numbers of cases of young French girls who were dragged into S.S. billets and raped by a number of men. I know of men shot without warning or provocation. I know of wounded American parachutists "having been drowned by S.S. men in swamps near St. Lo.

As for the rest of the German soldiers, they were just arrogant, conscious of the hatred that followed them, conscious also of the power they had over the population. They were cogs in the wheels which were sucking men, goods and money out of France. Any Frenchman will tell you that the looting of France by the Germans was diabolical because so well planned and organized.

Here in Normandy, for instance, Germans bought many foodstuffs, paying high prices for them. They had money to pay high prices since they lifted tribute from the French. So farmers who received good money for their milk and cheese and for their cows and poultry were satisfied. Large sums of money are said to be hidden away in this province. Some one told me that peasants wearing blue smocks and clogs took first-class tickets to go to Paris, while their wives had perfume and costly powder.

People who had money—Germans and Frenchmen alike — could live well in France. One should not think that France lacks everything. I have not seen Paris yet and do not know what has happened to its luxury trade. But people here tell me that fine dresses and hats, cosmetics and silk lingerie were still produced for those who could pay for them. Hairdressers in this little town are better provided than in London. But blowing up of power plants in Caean has deprived them of electric light and electric dryers.

A woman showed me a pair of Oxford shoes with leather soles she bought on the black market for $90. Good hats she said, cost $50. Not many women in France could pay such prices.

It is a sad thing to say, but more and more I notice that people with any social standing, with a chateau or with an aristocratic name, were inclined to be "collaborationists." Not all, of course. I met one man with a chateau who was arrested and dragged to a Paris prison for having given refuge to a British Commando. I have met aristocrats among underground fighters. But it is true that the richer class was so afraid of Communism—and still is—that in spite of a hereditary hatred for Germans, its members believed Germans were better than Communists or Jews.

Some of the wealthy people who have opposed German all along are still leery of De Gaulle and of what his government will bring to France. They do not want continuation of the Vichy regime, but they fear nationalization of industries and other Socialist reforms that De Gaulle has promised.

There will be no difficulty setting up a De Gaulle government in France. The great majority of the people, I am sure, will greet it with enthusiasm. But difficulties will come up later when measures are taken to expropriate those who made profits by helping Germans, and when Socialist laws are introduced. De Gaulle will need all his statesmanship to keep the French united for the tasks of rebuilding France.

Sofia (C.P. Reuter) — Between 17 and 20 German divisions representing the total remaining German forces in Eastern Yugoslavia are in Northern Greece, are on the move northward up the Vardar and the Morava Valleys in an attempt to reach Hungary by way of Skolpje, Nish and Belgrade.

Russian forces advancing across Northern Bulgaria along a line roughly parallel with the Danube threaten to cut off the German escape roads between Nish and Belgrade, while Marshal Tito's forces operating against German lines of communication are seriously hampering the enemy's withdrawal.

SHUR-GAIN Feeds

Lower Costs Mean Higher Profits

MR. FARMER—

You'll agree that every dollar saved in feeding costs means another dollar in profits to you!

SHUR-GAIN FEED SERVICE undoubtedly saves you dollars in feeding costs—because the added expenses of transportation and middlemen's profits are eliminated by local grinding and mixing.

SHUR-GAIN FEED SERVICE gives you VALUE for every dollar spent—for SHUR-GAIN feeds are BALANCED. And Balanced Feeding means a full supply of high quality protein, plentiful essential minerals and fortification with all the required vitamins. Thus balanced feeds are much more efficient than others.

Through SHUR-GAIN FEED SERVICE, the final cost of balanced rations becomes so very little higher than the average value of grain that the wisdom of balanced feeding is obvious.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL JAMES ANDERSON

On Thursday, September 9th, Samuel James Anderson passed away at his late residence on the Palace Road following a severe stroke suffered a week previously. Deceased, who had been in failing health for some time, was in his sixty-fifth year, and was born at Selby, Ont., the older son of the late Jonas Anderson and Margaret Ballance. He had spent his entire life in the Napanee and Melrose districts.

From early manhood he had followed the occupation of cheesemaker, and was rated as an outstanding man in that branch of industry, from which he retired two years ago. He was a man of high integrity, a loyal friend, a good neighbour, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a member of the United Church and of Union Lodge No. 147 A.F. & A.M., Napanee, in politics was a staunch Conservative.

He left to mourn his loss are his wife (the former Clara File); one daughter, Elaine Mrs. Douglas Clarke, of Toronto, Ont.; one sister, Mrs. A. E. Chorley of New York City, and one grandson, Jimmie Clarke. A brother, J. B. Anderson, predeceased him seven months ago. Mr. William Vance of Napanee, is an uncle.

The funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon, September 9th, at his late residence, by Rev. W. Loughead, a former minister; and under Masonic auspices, in Riverview Cemetery, Napanee, where interment took place. Pall - bearers were Messrs John Milligan, Frank Hogle and Arthur English of Melrose, E. C. Hogarth and H. L. Vander of Napanee, and Allan Wood of Selby.

Alice L. Wartman Weds Lieut. Edward B. Paul

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward R. Wartman, John Street, Napanee, was the setting on Tuesday afternoon September 19th, 1944, for the wedding of their daughter, Alice Louise, to Lieut. Edward Benjamin Paul, R.C.A.M.C., Camp Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Paul, of Odessa, Ontario.

Standards of asters in shades of pink and white accented with the dark green of fern, formed a background for the ceremony which took place in the living-room, attractive with bouquets of late summer flowers. Rev. S. B. Griffith, Kingston, officiated assisted by Canon C. E. Spencer, Mrs. Bruce Pinlay, aunt of the bride played the wedding music.

The dainty bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of slipper satin, which fell in soft folds to the floor. The simply styled bodice was fashioned with yoke of Chantilly lace threaded with seed pearls. The long veil of embroidered matching lace fell from a self-ruching caught with small clusters of pearls. A very pretty feature of American Beauty roses and bouvardia completed the charming costume.

The two younger sisters of the bride were her attendants. Miss Carolyn Wartman, as bridesmaid, was lovely in a floor-length dress of buttercup yellow sheer crepe, styled with sweetheart neckline. She wore matching lace mitts, and flower headdress with turquoise veiling loosely knotted under her chin. She carried a cascade bouquet of gladioli in sunset shades. Little Miss Nancy Wartman, junior bridesmaid was becomingly frocked in floor-length turquoise sheer crepe, fashioned like the gown of her sister, with similar headdress of yellow flowers and turquoise veiling. She carried a nosegay of summer flowers.

Lieut. R. A. P. Fleming, R.C.A.M.C., Camp Borden, was the groomsman, and during the signing of the register, Mr. Garnet Brooks sang 'Oh Perfect Love" and "I'll Walk Beside Thee."

At the reception which followed the bride's mother received her guests wearing a street-length frock of dubonnet crepe simply styled, with tucked yoke and bodice. She wore a black hat with flaring brim, black shoes, and black shoes. Her corsage was of Tea roses.

Mrs. Paul, mother of the groom, assisted in receiving. She wore a two-piece afternoon dress of black crepe, the jacket trimmed with turquoise embroidery, black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harry Moore Napanee, and Mrs. Harry Caldwell, Belleville, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Alvin Wartman, of Colebrook, sister-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Norris, Moscow cousin of the bride, and several friends: Miss Barbara Cram, Carleton Place, Miss Jessie Pedder, Reg. N., Kingston, Miss Sally Madden, Kingston Miss Norma Correll, and Miss Heloise Paul, Toronto.

The bride's table was attractive, centred with the three-tiered wedding cake, surmounted with a miniature bouquet of American Beauty roses, and surrounded with tulle caught with tiny clusters of pink blossoms. Tall white tapers completed the decoration.

Canon Spencer proposed a toast to the bride, which was ably responded to by the groom. The bride's father proposed a toast to the bride's mother and Canon Spencer proposed a toast to the bride.

Following a honeymoon spent at Morrisburg and Montreal, Que., and Mrs. Paul will reside in Alliston, Ontario.

For travelling the bride chose a tailored suit of teal blue herringbone. Her contrasting smart hat was of spice brown, with tailored bows of corded ribbon in a deeper shade. She wore spice brown accessories, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The popular bride is a graduate of Napanee Collegiate and of the Kingston General Hospital. The groom attended Newburgh High School, and is a graduate of the Faculty of Medicine of Queen's University, Kingston.

The late-comer to a London concert hall, who imagined he was visiting a variety entertainment, arrived in time to hear a performance not at all to his taste.

He nudged the man next to him.

"I say," he asked, "what's this stuff we're getting?"

"Huish," came the shocked reply: "This is Beethoven's Ninth Symphony."

"Well," muttered the non-musical man, "if the other eight were like this, thank goodness I was late."

WEDDING BELLS

WHITE - CREIGHTON

The home of Mrs. A. G. Wright, 687 Johnson Street, Kingston, was the scene of a pretty early autumn wedding at 4:00 p.m., Tuesday afternoon, September 12th, when the Rev. H. C. Secker, united in marriage Mrs. Wright's niece, Hilda Florence Creighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Creighton, Sillsville, and Glenn Laverne White, of Napanee, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. White, Napanee. The ceremony was performed in front of the fire-place, which was banked with ferns and mixed gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a smart frock of pale blue wool with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink delight roses and bouvardia and she carried a white prayer book, belonging to her mother.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mary Creighton, who wore a pretty frock of gold color wool with matching hat and black accessories and a corsage of butterfly roses and corn flowers. Mr. Harold Ackerman, of Bath, was best man.

At the reception, which followed the ceremony the bride's mother received wearing a handsome gown of teal blue crepe with a powered hat and a corsage of Briarcliff roses. Mrs. White, the groom's mother, who also received, wore an effective gown of moss green crepe with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Later the bride and groom left for Toronto Detroit and other western points, the bride travelling in a smart frock of moss green crepe with black accessories and a silver fox fur. Upon their return they will reside at 235 Johnson Street.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls; to the maid of honor a silver bracelet and to the best man a leather billfold

AMEY - LEARY

Grace United Church parsonage was the setting on Tuesday, September 12, for the marriage of Gladys Iona Leary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Leary Napanee, to Pte. Douglas Amey, Fort Frontenac, Kingston, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Amey, Gretna. Rev. C. D. McLellan officiated.

The bride looked charming in a floor-length gown of ivory satin with sweetheart neckline, long princess sleeves pointed over the wrist, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil was held in a shirred effect by a halo of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses and Maiden-hair-fern.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Eva Murphy, Hotel Dieu, Kingston wore a floor-length gown of pale blue sheer over taffeta with shirred bodice and full skirt, silver sequins trimming the neckline. She wore a halo of rosebuds and had a corsage of pink roses.

Vernon Amey, brother of the groom assisted him. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold heart - shaped locket, to the bridesmaid gold earrings, and to the best man, a gold tie clip and collar pin.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother, Mrs. J. Leary, attired in a street-length gown of royal blue sheer, with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations, received the guests. The house was profusely decorated with flowers and pink and white candles. The dining room of the table was attractively centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully decorated. The top layer of this is to be sent to the bride's brother overseas.

After the reception the happy couple left by motor car amid showers of confetti for points west. For travelling the bride chose a pink crepe dress with navy appliqué and pink and navy accessories.

McKEOWN - BROWN

A very interesting wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Selby, on Monday, September 18th, 1944, when Miss Betty Marion Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of North Fredericksburgh, became the bride of Alfred William McKeown, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKeown, of Richmond Township. The Rev. W. R. Merrick officiated at the ceremony.

MEMORIAL SERVICE, HAYBURN

Many friends and relatives attended a service in Hayburn United Church on Sunday, July 23rd 1944, in memory of a young airman of this district, Flight - Sergeant Morley Loyst, who lost his life along with eight crew members of a bomber, which crashed in England last November 9th. Rev. Kenneth Crawford of Adolphustown had charge of the service.

The altar was draped with the Union Jack and a large portrait of the deceased was banked with gladiolas, a tribute from the W. A. of Hayburn. There was also a pillow of flowers from the Loyst family.

Mrs. Blake Humphrey and Mrs. Harold Magee sang "The Old Rugged Cross."

Mr. Crawford recalled the date of July 23rd, just two years ago when on that occasion he officiated at the marriage of Morley Loyst and the former Kathlyn Little.

Mrs. Morley Loyst, who resides in Shelburne, and who with Baby Brian, had been visiting in the vicinity for a few weeks, was present at the service.

REVOCATIONS WILL ASSIST IN SUPPLY

Revocation of 14 orders and 43 standardization orders of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board should be of material assistance in improving the supply of various household commodities made of metal. Affected by the revocations are about 500 metal articles, including silver holloware, electric percolators, toasters, waffle irons, grills, electric cookers, eavestroughing, bathtubs, wheelbarrows, incandescent lighting fixtures, metal furniture, steel drums, office equipment, Christmas tree stands, scrubbing boards, paper clips, picnic jugs, cages for pets, garden umbrellas, metal vanity cases, cigarette lighters, compacts, metal dress ornaments, metal atomizers, buckles, hair brushes and combs and mirrors. The mere rescinding of these orders does not mean, however that all these articles and others covered will be immediately available in improved supply. The ability of manufacturers to resume their production will depend upon their success in obtaining materials and adequate labor.

THE PECULIAR DODO

Everyone has heard the expression "as extinct as the dodo," but not everyone can tell us just what the dodo was.

The bird was a native of the Island of Mauritius, and was first known to Europeans about the early part of the seventeenth century when the Dutch reached the Island. The name, however, is Portuguese, and was given by them to the dodo because it seemed so stupid.

The bird was related to the pigeon family, but reached the size of a turkey or swan. It could neither run, fly nor fight, and so became a ready prey to the domestic animals which followed the Portuguese and Dutch settlers to the island.

It is about one hundred and eighty years since it was last seen alive.

Marketing of Livestock Seriously Affected By Man - Power Shortage

The dearth of employable manpower, which has reached its peak this year, looms as a potential threat to the largest and most profitable market ever established for Canadian meat.

Shortage of competent help has been an onerous problem to Canadian Farmers for most of the war years. While the situation has been made somewhat easier, through organized efforts of both federal and provincial governments, in enlisting and transporting students and urban citizens to assist on farms in busy seasons, farmers and their families have toiled gigantically and come through magnificently in producing essential foods for the nation in the past four years.

The crop season of 1944 has been, beyond any doubt, the most difficult of all for the farmer; still abundant field and orchard crops have been and are being successfully harvested and processed.

Now another problem confronts the farmer — the growing demand for Canadian meat, created by invading Allied Armed Forces, and the starving millions of liberated countries have encouraged the enterprising and patriotic Canadian Farmer to raise more and more live stock to fill both domestic and export needs.

In 1943, sufficient live stock to produce one billion 800 million pounds of dressed and cured meats was raised in Canada. It seemed a miracle of production in comparison with even the increased production of other war years. Yet, this year over one and a quarter billion pounds were produced in the first six months. The total for this year should reach over two billion pounds; an increase of 40 per cent. over 1942.

On Canadian farms to-day there is live stock which should be shipped and processed into a billion pounds of meats by December 1945 of this year. The only obstacle that can hinder the fulfillment of that tremendous quota is Shortage of Men to Operate the Packing Plants.

Packing Plants of Canada have the facilities and capacity to meet these tremendously increased requirements. They are the key unit in channeling Canadian live stock as inspected meats to our vast export market. But they must have men to operate the plants.

It is urgently essential that Packing Plants shall keep both slaughter pens and fangs clear of all available animals, for several reasons. In the first place, live stock is marketed when it has reached prime condition. Every day's delay in shipping or slaughtering means loss to the farmer, as animals "go back" from peak condition. If kept on the farm, delay means increased feeding costs as well.

More significant still, if live stock is produced faster than is can be marketed, a surplus is bound to occur. When supply threatens to be greater than demand, the present desirable and profitable price structure—and even the "floor" price — becomes endangered. Again, any failure to meet quotas would imperil the excellent connections made in the export market and hopes for maintaining a desirable portion with a return to normalcy.

So Canadian Farmers are faced with the problem of devoting as much time as possible this Fall and Winter, in working in Packing Plants. No other source of man-power can produce the required numbers of men.

Ontario Farmers are urged to protect their own interests by becoming employed, at good hourly wages, in any one of Ontario's thirteen plants. Transportation will be paid and assistance given in procuring living accommodations. By doing so the farmer profits in two ways: he protects and helps maintain both a very desirable price level for his live stock and a future market that can mean many thousands of dollars to him, and he gets well paid while doing so.

All offices of Employment and Selective Service will give full information provide transportation, and place Ontario men in employment. Inquiries should be made at the nearest Selective Service office.

PAPER SHORTAGE STILL ACUTE

Vital war shipments of munitions and foodstuffs may be held up because of the shortage of paper. For this reason waste paper is Canada's foremost salvage need today, according to officials of the National Salvage Division in Ottawa.

Sheathing paper, almost all of which is imported from waste paper, is used to line the holds of freighters in shipping flour overseas" said one official, "and shell cartons for munitions are also made from waste paper."

He pointed out that a certain amount of cloth goes into the manufacture of paper and that there is a need for old rags for this purpose. Before the war 50,000,000 pounds were collected in the Dominion each year, and many more millions were imported from the United States, the Netherlands, Newfoundland, Australia and New Zealand.

Voluntary committees all over the Dominion are co-operating in this special drive for paper and rags. The latest figures show that during one recent month 12,582,724 pounds of paper were collected by these voluntary committees alone. This is an average of 1,095 pounds per 1,000 of population. "Despite this large amount," said the official, "we need still more salvage from Canadian householders."

DORLAND

Dorland, Sept. 16. — Everyone is smiling since the rain began on Tuesday. It is now too wet to plow instead of too dry. The weather is summer-like and has revived vegetation. Fields are quite green again. Farmers are preparing to sow fall grain as rapidly as possible.

The United Church congregation are hoping for pleasant weather for their anniversary services next Sunday, when Rev. F. J. Armitage, B.A., from Hay Bay Circuit, will be guest speaker.

Mrs. L. L. Price, of Selby, is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. J. Magee.

ENTERPRISE

ENTERPRISE W. A.

Enterprise, Sept. 15. — Mrs. H. A. Carscallen was hostess to the members of the W. A. of the United Church, Enterprise, for their meeting on Tuesday evening, September 5th.

Mrs. Robt. Potter, President, opened the meeting, with Mrs. Eric Jackson as pianist. Mrs. Henry Hartman gave the story of "Esther", from Famous Women of the Bible, and Mrs. Roy Hartman gave the Bible reading.

It was decided to have a cash canvass in place of the fowl supper. Canvassers appointed were Mrs. Wm. Burgess and Mrs. Ray Burgess for North Road; Mrs. Earl Raymond and Mrs. Ralph Thompson for South Street; Mrs. R. C. Covert and Mrs. Arthur Brown for West Street; Mrs. Alonzo Jackson and Mrs. Geo. Nelson for East and South Village; Mrs. H. E. Vannest and Mrs. Stanley Jackson for East Street; Mrs. Robert Potter for Wilson's Crossing.

Donations were received for the bazaar in November, also a donation of $1.00 from Mrs. H. A. Carscallen.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. R. C. Covert, served a dainty lunch, and all enjoyed a social time.

DEATH OF MRS. MILES JACKSON

The community received a great shock on Saturday morning, September 2nd, when it became known that Mrs. Miles Jackson, of Enterprise, had passed away at the Campbell Nursing Home, Napanee, after undergoing a tonsil operation.

Mrs Jackson was the daughter of the late Thomas Brown and Isabella Wagar. Deceased was of a cheerful and sunny disposition, always seeing the bright side of life. She was a kind mother and a faithful wife.

She lived a very active and useful life in the home, where she so efficiently performed her duties, also in the church and in community affairs.

She was a very capable woman for her handiwork, many beautiful paintings are to be seen in her home, as well as a great assortment of her fine needlework. She was a member of the United Church, also of the choir. She was Secretary of the W. M. S., and a Convener of the Young People's Union. In the Sunday School, Mrs. Jackson was a teacher, and Superintendent of the Nursery Department. She also took her place in any community work there was to be done.

The funeral service was held in the United Church, with which she was connected, and was conducted by Rev. H. E. Prair. The service was largely attended, showing the esteem in which she was held.

Mrs. Jackson leaves to mourn her loss, a daughter, Jean, and her husband; her mother, Mrs. Isabelle Brown, of Enterprise; a sister, Mrs. Harold Milligan, of Tamworth, and two brothers, George, of Tamworth, and William, of Kingston.

The remains were placed in Centreville cemetery. The flower bearers were cousins of the deceased: Ronald Brown, Harold Brown, Robert Brown, and Harry Shannan. The pallbearers were neighbors of her girlhood days and of her later life: H. E. Vannest, G. A. Wagar, H. M. Jackson, Cecil Kennedy, Ralph Thompson, and John Cowdy.

ODESSA

Odessa, Sept. 18. — The annual fall fair was held on Friday. The attendance was not as large as other years. The exhibits in the palace were good, also the live stock exhibits. A dance was held in the Municipal Hall in the evening and was well attended.

The water in the three mill dams here is very low. Old residents living here say they never remember seeing it so low.

Thanksgiving service was held in St. Alban's Church on Sunday morning, conducted by Rev. L. G. O. Walker, of Bath. The choir from Bath assisted.

The High School opened on Monday with Mr. R. Fluke and Mrs. Slingerland on the teaching staff.

Miss Amy Boyce is attending Normal School in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith and Mrs. Clark Bovce were recent guests of relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. John Rogers is recovering nicely from an operation in the General Hospital, Kingston.

Mr. A. M. Fraser and Miss Glenna Aylesworth, patients in the General Hospital, Kingston, have returned to their home.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Zeilener, of Allantown, Pa., are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kenny. They were accompanied to Canada by Mrs. Hilton Frink, who had been their guest for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman and Mr. and Mrs. Sands and son, of Sydenham, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Mary Vandewater and daughter, Ethel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Holmes have returned to their residence here, after spending the summer at their cottage, near Bath.

He was taking the customary test for the Home Guard service, when the instructor asked: "What is the best way to immobilize your car?" "Let my wife drive it," came the immediate reply.

BATH

Bath, Sept. 16. — A very serious and fatal accident occurred on Highway No. 33 on Saturday evening, near the Sandhurst Airport, when two well known young fellows met their death. They were Harold Phippen Haight, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred L. Haight, of Conway, and Allan Wright, older son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright, also of Conway. The lads, aged 15 and 16 years, respectively, were riding on a motor-cycle on their way towards Bath, when suddenly a cow loomed up in their path. The machine struck the animal with such force that both boys were thrown clear. Mrs. M. Young, rendering first aid, found Harold very seriously hurt, although still breathing, and Allan dead. An ambulance was called and the parents notified, and despite all efforts to revive him, Harold passed away on the way to the hospital, never having regained consciousness. The news of this double tragedy has cast a sadness over the village, as both boys were often seen and known around the village. Harold had attended Bath Continuation School last year. The sympathy of the community is extended to the families of both boys.

The annual harvest thanksgiving services were held in St. John's Church on Sunday, with a celebration of communion at 8:30 a.m. and evensong at 8:00 p.m. Miss Beatrice Walker rendered a very pleasing solo during the evening service. Mrs. W. Fluelon was organist.

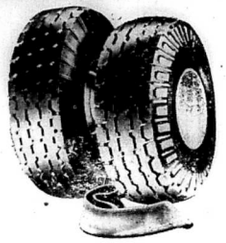
EATON'S Synthetic Rubber Tires



FOR CARS AND TRUCKS

A point to remember in purchasing Tires is that there is only one grade of Synthetic Rubber in tires for civilian use, and this is made to the formula selected by the Government as the most satisfactory substitute for natural rubber. When you buy these "EATON" Tires, however, you get the benefit of the knowledge gained by government sponsored research – plus the craftsmanship of expert tire builders who have been producing "EATON'S" Bulldog Tires for years.

- Make the most of your purchasing permit. Come and inspect and select from our stock.

STRATHCONA BABY BAND

The yearly Baby Band party was held on September 7th, at the home of the leader, Mrs. Doris Wilson. There were thirty-four present. Mrs. George Finlay, president of the W. M. S. presided and welcomed the guests. The programme opened with the singing of several children's hymns. Mrs. Herrington took charge of the devotional period. She gave a very interesting talk about Jesus and little children, using pictures to illustrate. Several little girls gave recitations and songs. Mrs. D. Wilson gave a selection and also read a beautiful prayer for children. Following this Mrs. James Wilson gave a talk on the Responsibility of Mothers. She urged that mothers give their very best thought to teach their children to live peacefully and to love to do good to others. One way, she said, was by putting pennies in the little gift boxes for children across the seas. After the program, lunch was served, the children having a tea party.

TRINITY W. M. S.

A joint meeting of the W. M. S. and W. A. of Trinity Church was held in the school room on Thursday September 14th, at 3 o'clock. The meeting opened in the usual manner. Mrs. Switzer and Mrs. Lorne Miller occupied the chairs. The reports were heard and business was dealt with for the W. M. S., after which Mrs. Miller presided for the W. A. meeting.

Mrs. Moore took charge of the devotional, her theme being Answered Prayer. She read several selections and closed by reciting a very helpful poem. After the offering was presented and dedicated. Mrs. E. J. Corkill, reporting for the School of Leaders at Wellby, gave a vivid and interesting report of each day's proceedings there. A more detailed account may be seen in the local papers of the 13th of September. Mrs. Dingman contributed a solo.

There was a fair attendance and all were invited to stay for a cup of tea at the close of the meeting.

September Meeting U. E. L. Chapter Of The I. O. D. E.

The September meeting of The United Empire Loyalist Chapter of the I. O. D. E. was held in the Armouries, on Monday, September 11th, with the Regent, Mrs. Duane Hall, presiding. The Prayer of the Order was read, and war work reports were given by Mrs. Albert Lewis, convener, as follows: Field comforts sent to I.O.D.E. Provincial Headquarters — 174 pair socks, 19 sweaters, 12 pairs gloves, 10 scarves, 11 turtle-neck tuck-ins For British evacuees — 18 quilts. 1 afghan, 3 baby bonnets and bootees, 2 baby bonnets, 2 pairs socks.

Mrs. Diamant, Educational Secretary, read a very interesting paper on the early history and colonization of Canada, which is to be followed by a series of papers on Canada and its history.

Letters from H.M.C.S. Napanee were read, and letters from members of a local unit overseas who received cigarettes sent in June by the Chapter. Additional gifts of cigarettes are now to be sent to the local units over seas in France and Italy, and to H. M.C.S. Napanee, the Chapter's adopted Corvette.

It was decided to renew subscriptions to magazines for No. 1 I. F. S. Deseronto.

The need for waste paper was stressed and attention drawn to the regular monthly Salvage Collection on September 21st. also to a special district drive for Waste Paper, which will start on October 16th. Fruit baskets are wanted at once. also bottles, coat hangers, rags and bones. Every person is asked to contribute at least 10 lbs. of waste paper each month.

Members are asked to attend regularly the weekly war work meetings, and to assist with the sewing and knitting, which are still urgently needed.

The U. E. L. Chapter and Alice L. Harshaw Chapter are asked to send a bridal outfit which may be sent to Britain for the use of military and civilian brides.

Consumers' News of the W.P.T.B. were distributed and members were reminded to use the I.O.D.E. War Savings Stamp folders, which aid the Bomber Fund.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

SAUCES

To give an epicurean appearance to the cheaper cuts of meats and simpler desserts, pour sauce over the food before it is brought to the table. Serve additional sauce in sauce boat or gravy-boat — the plainest food can be exotic.

Besides, a good sauce is one economy in the bank— when an emergency arises, you can meet it successfully. A repertoire of sauces is a quick way to give flair and swank to any otherwise drab meal.

When carrots or snap beans seem too monotonous for you(who has that victory garden is producing both) vary them with a parsley or egg white-sauce.

For inexpensive meat which seems to lack character, marinate in barbecue sauce and then simmer or broil. Serve this to the family and the boy-in-uniform brings home and you need enough for second helpings.

When bread pudding or cracker pudding has lost interest revitalize them with a generous serving of custard sauce. A new favourite in our kitchen is Roxbury sauce. It will make the dreariest - looking dessert sing to life.

RACES POSTPONED AT NAPANEE FAIR UNTIL WEDNESDAY

Attendance Small on Tuesday Because of Weather

Rain early Tuesday morning spoiled the attendance at the Lennox Fair, in Napanee, during the day. The grounds were very muddy and the track was so wet that the horse races had to be postponed until Wednesday. Ordinarily the attendance at the second day of the Fair is by far the largest of the three days, but this year if the weather is favourable, the big day should be Wednesday.

The fair has gradually developed into a strictly agricultural exhibition. Through lack of help merchants in the town have found it increasingly difficult to put in displays in the Palace, and this year, all that was shown in the building was ladies' fancy work, flowers, canning, vegetables and canned goods.

The display of flowers was exceptionally good and vegetables were much more plentiful than for several years. The display of ladies' fancy work was somewhat better than last year.

Entries in the agricultural classes were reported by the secretary to be about the same as last year. The section in the barn given over to horses was filled to capacity with splendid animals. All classes of cattle were well filled. Sheep and hogs were about the same as other years. The poultry building was fairly well filled.

Through the weather is favourable and the track is dry enough, there will be the horse races in four classes for $600.00 in purses, running races for $100.00 purses, and sports attractions, including tug-of-war for a purse of $50.00. There will also be a softball game Wednesday afternoon.

No. 3A Depot Military Band will provide music in the afternoon and the Grenier All - Canadian Midway will be in operation.

One of the biggest events of the Fair will be the Black and White Day on Wednesday.

LOCAL DROVER GORED BY BULL

Mr. Stanley Ballance, local agent for Joyce Bros., while loading cattle at the local stockyards on Thursday evening, was knocked down and badly gored by a 3-year old bull.

Mr. Ballance was in the cattle car at the time and only the quick action of Mr. Phil Speed another drover who was present, prevented the enraged animal from doing further harm.

Mr. Ballance received a cut on the side of his face and head that required twelve stitches to close and also had four ribs broken.

Dr. D. H. Hall was called and the injured man was removed to his office for treatment and later taken to his home.

Regulations in Force on Dress Materials

Now is the time of year when many rural homes expect the annual visit of the village dressmaker. As a rule they put down and make over for the children, sometimes cutting into new materials. The Consumers Branch, in the weekly item from them, points out in such cases, they come under regulations which govern any manufacturer of children's women's and misses' clothes. When mother has the visiting seamstress make her a winter wool or soft rayon afternoon frock from brand new cloth, any style is good as long as the skirt does not measure more than 72 ins. around the bottom in the wool frock and 78 in the rayon frock. And, of course, there won't be any long dresses made since they aren't permitted except as wedding gowns and then only in white or ivory. Regulations on the use of excess materials have been retained to help meet the still heavy demands of the armed forces for rayon and cotton fabrics.

SON'S FRIEND SENDS LETTER TO MRS. C. CONGER

Mrs. C. Conger, Napanee, has received an interesting letter from Fred Wright, an English sailor who was serving aboard the troop ship which carried her son from England to France on June 5th, the evening before D-Day.

He says that he got along fine with her son, that they sang together as they crossed the channel, played dice together and even prayed together when the minister came aboard to give them his blessing before they sailed.

The letter gives a vivid account of one of the unknown heroes of the invasion. He was a Canadian. Seeing one of the crew of the invasion barge wounded, he jumped out of the barge with a grenade in his hand, and ran towards a machine gun nest on the shore. At the same time he pulled the safety catch of the grenade blowing the machine gun nest sky high. He himself, was blown to pieces.

The letter was written from Cherbourg. The writer said that he had not had one day's leave in the last twelve months.

A VIVID DESCRIPTION OF AN EXPERIENCE DURING ROBOT - BOMBING

An army officer in England, whose family are friends of a Napanee resident, describes in the following article, his experiences while watching for robot bombs, in his home in England.

A WAR-TIME NOCTURNAL REVERIE

"I'm sitting in our Morning Room, and Gwen is asleep on a camp bed in the adjoining kitchen, with 'Bunji' on the bed. I can just dimly see them through the open door. I'm keeping a solemn, fateful vigil as I write. We are now in what used to be called the "silent hours" of the night, and the drone and drumming of aeroplanes overhead all night long is hardly noticeable. On my vigilance depends the very life of Gwen. Gratefully fallen into a heavy and much-needed sleep, she did so lightly the first faint vicious murmur which swells into a hollow roar, as the flib gets nearer. The only sounds, as I write, are the intermittent ticking of the clock, the hiss of steam from the slow-boiler in the kitchen and the deep slow, contented snoring of Bunji. The sound I am waiting for is unmistakeable; a faint rhythmic vibration at first, but rapidly swelling in volume until it is a threatening roar, as the flib dashes on towards us, hurtling through space at seven miles a minute.

"Usually my first warning is a dull cannonade of guns— a muffled rat-a-tat on the windows and a sullen, earth tremble. Then I stop writing, as even the scratch of my pencil may obliterate the sound I am waiting for. Once I hear the flib I am off upstairs to my study window, which faces the direction of their approach. Standing close to the panes I gape out to the south. The leaden pane divisions give me the impression of looking out through prison bars. Above the dark fringe of our chestnut trees—which I have cut so low that they only just eclipse the distant rising ground, about a mile away— there stretches the infinite bowl of night; a vast monotonous dome of dull indigo, upon which is suspended the jewelled pattern of the stars. But also it is criss-crossed by the white fingers of many searchlights stretching skywards and immoveable, like silver bars across the heavens.

"The flib is more audible now, and I open the windows, letting in a chill blast of night air, which dowses me like a cold spray of icy water. Beyond the hills I see some flashing diamonds appear in the sky, as A.A. shell bursts. Then a string of red balls fly up, as the first shell is fired. The rumble of many guns comes to me and rattles the window—just the sound children would make stamping on a floor overhead. Then, like some evil will-o'-the-wisp, up pops the flib, with its pale ghastly flaming tail-light. Anxiously I look to see whether it moves to left or to right. If it does, all is well, and it will pass us by. If it doesn't, I have but a few seconds in which to arouse Gwen and get her into our larder, which has been shored up as a makeshift air-raid shelter but to-night a fresh south-westerly wind has sprung up and so far every flib has passed us well to the eastward. Forging its relentless way to London, the sound of its hollow, purposeful roar is terrifying. When it passes out of my sight, I rush to the front of the house and wait for it to re-appear. There it comes— like a shooting-star behind the dark trees. Its sound grows fainter and I strain my ears to catch the warning splutter which precedes its devilish dive to destruction. Yes, it's petering out now — all is silence. I wait to see the vivid silver flash as it explodes, stop-watch in hand. There it is — like summer lightning, and I start the second-hand of my watch going. The sound of the explosion is so long in coming that I feel I must have missed it. But no, here it is— shaking every loose thing with a violent, angry rap, and quite involuntarily I press the stop-watch of my self-control. The sound has come from N.N.E. of us and then I see the sound took 27 seconds to reach me after I'd seen the flash. With sound travelling at 1,100 feet per second, that means the damage has taken place five and a half miles away, and on my map I can locate the approximate position.

"Thanking God, I creep downstairs again, to find Gwen and Bunji's snores contentedly and I can just see my Gwen sleeping in careless abandon, unconscious of what has been happening. But where will the next one come? And what iff I fall asleep and don't hear it in time to warn her and get her into the larder-shelter? Ugly thought, that! It's cold, but I won't switch on the heater, in case it makes me drowsy . . .

"Another? — but no, it's a great noisy goods-train, winding its ponderous way towards the coast, probably laden with deadly weapons for our invading armies — let's hope it may help them kill more and more of these foul Huns. I don't trust trains on these nights of flib raids, as they mask the sound for which I wait. Once a flib got dangerously close creeping in, muffled by a train! My busy little cuckoo in the hall will just pop out to tell me it's half-past four—but neither Gwen nor Bunji, stir. They are too used to these nocturnal declamations. Now a steam engine outside is puffing away under a heavy load. What'd I not give for an "All Clear" siren and a cup of cocoa, and then . . . bed! But it won't happen like that; this will go on fraying my nerves until the sun is high in the morning sky and I, weary and with heavy, red-rimmed eyes shall flop into a dull and dreamless sleep. But my Gwen will be safe, please God, and the better for her kitchen sleep. She'll be up and feeding the hens, and then she'll come softly and wake me for a wonderful breakfast, which I shall devour unshaven and in pyjamas!—thankful that we are both alive and able to enjoy the sunshine of another day. The canary, now sleeping so trustfully, will be flashing from perch to perch in his cage, and twitting to have the radio turned on, so that he can sing it down!

"I'm so lucky in my home — I'm so truly blessed in my wife. In our present danger, perhaps, I value both the more What has the future in store for us? What shall I do — feel like — if Gwen should go, in a pile of dust and rubble and shattered glass, and I escape? That just does not bear thinking about. As I write, just for a short spell it is peaceful. It is Sunday—the "Day of Rest". God grant that it may be so for us.

"Five o'clock, says my cuckoo and the mystery of a midsummer's dawn is on us. The sky is turquoise, the searchlight sentinels are gone, but dozens of ugly moored balloons pattern the sky. The wind has fallen so that I can hear the quiet singing of the birds on all sides. Strident, above them all, is the scolding note of the robin. A day of peace and beauty — yet the grim war won't rest to-day!"

NEWS ITEMS ABOUT MEN AND WOMEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

Tpr. Bill Graham, Napanee, a member of a Canadian armoured formation on the Italian front drives a ration truck, which is one of the vehicles calling for top priority. Following his squadron along winding mountainous roads which are usually demolished by the enemy, or are under shell-fire, demands his full attention. The kitchen staff who ride in the rear of the truck jokingly remark that Bill can hit every rock and crater on the road but the fact remains that the vehicle always reaches its destination intact.

FURIOUS BATTLES ON ALL FRONTS NOW IN PROGRESS

Nazis Putting Up Stiff Resistance on Western

WEDNESDAY—

British armored columns advanced 37 miles across Holland on Tuesday. Tuesday night they were within three miles of Nijmegen on the Rhine. Supplies were poured in by air to the Air Army around Eindhoven.

• • •

In four days the Russians advanced 25 miles on a 75-mile front, in the Baltic States, capturing more than 3,000 towns and villages. Soviet troops were within six miles of Riga.

• • •

Heavy fighting was reported in progress along the Gothic Line in Italy. The Germans were driven from San Marino. Other gains were made by the Fifth and the Eighth Armies.

• • •

Rioting broke out in Denmark, where dissatisfaction against the Nazis has been smouldering for months.

• • •

THURSDAY—

Three great battles were said to be raging in Holland, Belgium and Germany. A great struggle was going on for the bridge at Nijmegen, which would allow the British Second Army to link up with the Airborne Force at Arnheim and to swing east directly into Germany. The French ports of Boulogne and Brest fell to Canadian and United States forces.

• • •

In Italy the Fifth Army cut a six-mile gap in the Gothic Line north of Florence, and the whole enemy position in the Po Valley was threatened.

• • •

Russia opened a new offensive in the Baltic. Two separate advances, one of 43 miles and another of 37, were made in Estonia.

• • •

The Island of Crete was under attack from the air and sea.

• • •

FRIDAY—

British armor and United States parachutists were reported smashing forward to rescue the beleaguered sky troops at Arnheim. Berlin reported that contact had been made by the rescuers.

• • •

The Russians captured Tallinn, capital of Estonia, after a fifty-mile advance in 24 hours. Russian troops also made contact with the Poles in Warsaw and capture of the city seemed imminent.

• • •

German resistance on the Adriatic cracked, as Greeks under Canadian command, captured Rimini, eastern anchor of the Gothic Line.

• • •

Waves of United States planes hit the Manila area of the Philippines for the second straight day. 205 Japplanes and 37 ships were destroyed.

• • •

SATURDAY—

British armored cars and tanks were reported racing through a four-mile corridor of German guns to rescue the trapped paratroopers at Arnheim. The Nijmegen bridge was captured intact by United States paratroopers and armor and infantry was pouring across. Further south the battle for the Siegfried Line was raging furiously.

• • •

Soviet flying columns struck south and west of Tallinn in Estonia in an attempt to envelop remnants of the German army in Estonia.

• • •

After a break-through by the Allies in Italy, on the Gothic Line, the battle of Italy was considered to be in its final stages.

• • •

Four more ships were sunk or damaged by Allied aircraft in the Philippines.

• • •

The Japs made new gains in their drive to cut China in two.

• • •

Allied planes rained explosives on the Greek port of Saloniki on Thursday night.

• • •

MONDAY—

Patrols of the British Second Army were able to reach the besieged airborne troops at Arnheim and carried supplies and ammunition to them. Paratroopers recently landed in the Nijmegen area pushed on into Germany and were only eight miles from Kleve, northern anchor of the West Wall.

• • •

On the Eastern Front, Russian units and Roumanian troops crossed the Hungarian border.

• • •

United States planes sank 29 more Jap ships in the Manila Bay area of the Philippines.

• • •

TUESDAY—

Picked German troops were reported to have cut the main road north off Nijmegen leading to Arnheim, but the situation of the besieged paratroopers at Arnheim was not considered hopeless.

• • •

Haapsalu, third port of Estonia, is now in Russian hands together with a 35-mile section of the Gulf of Riga coast.

• • •

Canadian units of the Fifth Army in Italy were checked by fierce German resistance in their advance into the Po Valley, from Rimini. Other forces of the Fifth Army in the centre of the Gothic Line, made some progress.

• • •

Bitter fighting was reported all along the Chinese battlefront and Japcolumns were closing steadily in on Kevelin.

Relatives Will Meet Returning Veterans At Hospital and Depot

Kingston, Sept. 26. — Under new arrangements finalized at Military District No. 3 Headquarters, relatives, who have been informed when a member of their family is returning to Kingston aboard a hospital train from overseas, are invited to go directly to No. 3 District Depot Fort Frontenac, here instead of to the Outer Station — two miles north of the city.

In the past, relatives have met incoming hospital trains at the Outer Station, which was found to be an inadequate and out-of-the-way place for residents of Kingston and district to greet their sons, brothers and fathers returning from the battle-fronts.

Families who congregate at the depot, and whose returning soldier will be taken from the train and transported immediately to Kingston Military Hospital, will be given advanced information at Fort Frontenac, and they will be transported from the depot to Kingston Military Hospital for a reunion with their loved ones.

Relatives are warned that as a result of the new arrangements of transporting the men from the hospital trains immediately to Kingston Military Hospital and Fort Frontenac they may miss the opportunity of welcoming members of their family if they wait at the Outer Station.

At the District Depot relatives and returning soldiers will be given refreshments, and the same system will prevail at Kingston Military Hospital.

All relatives, who have been notified that they have a member of their family returning on a train, are asked to co-operate with military and civil authorities by going directly to No. 3 District Depot at Fort Frontenac. This will facilitate plans as drawn up through the co-operation of city officials and a special district army committee.

When first instructions have been received at army headquarters here of the time of arrival of the train, a direct telephone line will be kept open at Fort Frontenac and interested parties can secure the latest information about the train by dialing 1466.

REASONS GIVEN FOR BUTTERLESS WEEKS

Stock of butter in Canada being 11,500,000 pounds below those of a year previously on September 1st, it is easy to understand why the Prices Board should have ordered "butterless weeks" in October and December through postponement of the dates at which ration coupons fall due. Each of these cancellations will save about 5 000,000 pounds of butter and they are designed to overtake the deficit and to make sufficient butter available for reasonable requirements during the low-production season of the winter months.

Agricultural Food Bd. Asks Consumers Not To Waste Milk

The Agricultural Food Board asks people please to avoid over - purchases of milk or any possible waste. Hot weather in Eastern Canada caused a falling off in milk production and an increase in fluid milk consumption and the difficulty is foreseen of meeting Canada's agreement to supply 125,000,000 pounds of cheese to Britain by March 31, 1945. It is our duty to help maintain the cheese ration for the British people and the Canadian fighting forces, and every effort is made to meet the required essential value, just don't waste it.

POWER CONTROLLER ORDERS RESTRICTIONS LIFTED OCTOBER 1

Window and Street Lights will be Allowed Again

Munitions Minister Howe announced Monday night that all restrictions on the use of electric power in Ontario and Quebec will be lifted October 1st. The Minister also announced that all restrictions and directives of the Power Controller in other areas of Canada will be lifted except in British Columbia where "an unprecedented drought combined with a most difficult oil situation makes it absolutely essential that all restrictions now imposed locally be obeyed."

The restrictions in Ontario and Quebec were imposed in a move to provide continuous power to war plants. Under the restrictions, advertising signs, and show windows were blacked out. Street lighting was curtailed, highway lighting was prohibited and the use of power for rural extensions was prohibited.

The restrictions in Ontario and Quebec were imposed September 20th, 1942.

With water levels at a stage where shortages were unlikely, lifting of the restrictions was possible, said Mr. Howe. However he warned that there may be occasional peak shortages in certain areas and he asked the public not to waste power.

Because of the situation in British Columbia the people there were requested to "co-operate to the fullest extent in limiting their use of electric power to an absolute minimum."

Mr. Howe said he wished to thank the various Provincial bodies, power companies and the general public for the co-operation and support given during the restricted years. This public support was the only thing that made possible the fact that despite the tremendous expansion of industry and the consequent demands for electric power no war industry had ever had its operations restricted or curtailed in any way.

Mr. Howe said that any restrictions which had been imposed on industry of any kind as a result of the restrictions also would be lifted October 1st.

RED CROSS URGES INCREASED NUMBERS BLOOD DONORS

Need for Plasma Grows Daily

The September Blood Donor Clinic was held Thursday morning last. Two donors are still coming to the clinic and an appeal is being made to those who have given to attend through the winter months, as the need is greater, not less.

Months after a person is placed in hospital an operation may be necessary, and plasma will play an important part in its recovery.

The war is not over, and the need will go on until Japan is also defeated.

The donors and the number of donations by each are as follows:

First Donation — Donald Turner, Mrs. Josephine DeLeury, Wilfred Whalen, Miss Marjorie Burrows, Mrs. Helena Cooper, Mrs. Frank Fox.

Second Donation — William J. Crawford, Mrs. W. H. Baugh, Rev. W. H. Baugh, Henry Keech, Mrs. William Smith.

Prisoner-of-War Letters May Cease to Arrive, Temporarily

Don't worry! The postal department advises that letters from Canadian prisoners of war in Germany, or in the reverse, may cease to arrive altogether for a time because of cut in German mail service due to the speedy Allied drive. As soon as certain reasons are cleared it will be possible for Allied authorities to collect Prisoner-of-War mail from Swiss postal people and fly it from there to eagerly waiting relatives. At the moment mail from Canadian prisoners is still arriving but it is mail which reached Lisbon before disruption of German connection with Portugal.

Reduced Rate on Airgraph Mail

Another reduced rate is announced on overseas mail now with Airgraphs — the letters on film that travel by air — may be sent for just 5 cents to civilians in which the airgraph service operates as well as to members or the Armed Forces. It is interesting to know these letters are flown to Toronto photographed on reels of microfilm—1 600 messakes being contained on a 3½ ounce reel of film — over 6,800 messages to the pound. Enlarged prints are made overseas after being flown across the brine. If a reel is lost, a duplicate can always be made and despatched.

TOURIST PLAN GIVES VETERANS FIRST CHANCE

Ontario mining and forest resources and continuously increasing tourist trade will play a great part in the rehabilitation of our armed forces and munition workers during the post-war era, Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development declared on his return from a tour of the northern districts.

Mr. Porter said that the establishment of Ontario war veterans as tourist camp owners is a project under serious consideration. He said the Ontario Government would not permit a repetition of the mistakes of the past when veterans who had no inclination toward agriculture were placed on farms.

"The tourist business after the war is going to become a tremendous thing," he said. "Even now, with travel restrictions in effect every tourist lodge and camp has a long waiting list. I see no reason why the Government should not assist both veterans and the tourist industry in this way. There is a great need for more accommodation in the North Country."

Mr. Porter found in his Northern travels that the people of the north expect the United States volume of tourist business to far exceed all past records, when the war ends.

Meat Rationing Not Likely to Return

The recent announcement that meat rationing is not likely to occur again unless unseen circumstances crop up, is substantiated by figures showing that while a total of all meat stocks dropped nearly 20 million pounds during August, they were still 4.7 million pounds greater than last year's holdings. The decline from August 1st was mainly in pork. Beef holdings increased almost a million pounds. On September 1st, 1943 stocks of beef amounted to 15,324,434 pounds.

ON A HIGH PLANE

We desire to add our voice to that of the Daily and Weekly Newspapers which are urging that the celebration of the defeat of Germany be kept on a high plane. Writing on the subject "The Evening Telegram," Toronto, on Monday, says :—

"A number of Ontario newspapers have commented on the preparations being made for the celebration of the collapse of Germany. In none of them have we seen any support for making it a day of carnival as suggested by the intimation from Queen's Park that if hotels sold out their quota by reason of the celebration, additional supplies might be provided. That intimation came from an unnamed source designated as "provincial authorities." It is to be hoped that it will be authoritatively denied.

"Much of the comment on the subject of celebration has been of the kind expressed by the Picton Gazette when it says":

'There is a general feeling that there should be a service of thanksgiving. Possibly each of the churches would wish to hold its own service, but a public service would also be suitable. 'There should also be provision for a parade or some such event which would help keep boisterous spirits under control.

'A thoughtful, prayerful observance of V-Day is dictated by consideration for the families of men who have made or are still making every kind of sacrifice to bring this day. It is dictated by the fact that this will be only VE-Day (Victory in Europe Day), leaving both the war with Japan and the war with war to be won. It is dictated by memories of what happened after 1918 to a victory boisterously celebrated but not consecrated. It is dictated by the nobility of our cause and the necessity to prove that we can conquer animality and ignorance not only in our foes but in ourselves.'

"The Telegram" quotes other papers in the same strain.

With all of this, we are in entire agreement. The end of the war will be a time for profound thankfulness — a time when the memory of those who have paid the Supreme Sacrifice should not be lost in hilarity and riotous actions. The event should be celebrated in a worthy, decent and sober manner.

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

Enough notice has not been taken of the formation, in this country, of an organization of a New Council of Churches. The critical condition on the various war fronts, and the demand for war news, has crowded this event from the front pages. Under other circumstances it would have received wide recognition. And yet, it is perhaps true that, had it not been for the stress of war and the challenge which has been flung into the faces of Christian people, by the Nazis, this organization would not have come into being for a long time.

For the first time in history, the leading Protestant Denominations in Canada will come together as a permanent organization. So far as possible, this organization will speak with a united voice for all the churches. Each separate denomination sacrifices nothing of its beliefs or practices. There is nothing in the nature of an organic union. But the churches are getting together and declaring that they will act together in all the great issues that affect the Christian Church.

One of the great weaknesses of Christianity when it comes to confront entrenched evils, is its lack of unity and cohesion. Governments knew that very well, and suffer because of it. Whenever the Government has to approach religious groups, it has to meet each group separately; and, whenever a Church desires to make approach to a Government, it has to do it on its own, or else get a delegation together which is often a cumbersome procedure. Now, The Canadian Council of Churches will speak with one voice. Differences, whenever they occur, will be threshed out within the organization, rather than in public. This is an achievement worthy of the greatest praise. It is accomplished just at a time when it is particularly needed. With the world in chaos and the need for help to broken and disillusioned people, it is imperative that there be no division in meeting this need.

The Canadian Council of Churches, which will be an accomplished fact when this is in the hands of our readers, is an evidence of a trend throughout all Christendom: Great Britain possesses a "British Council of Churches", The United States possesses a "Federal Council of Churches," and had it not been for the war, a World Council of Churches would have been established. All of which bodes well for the future.

SOCIAL SECURITY IN BRITAIN

The extent to which a modern government assumes responsibility for the health, happiness and security of the total population, is well demonstrated by the new legislation brought down by the British Government and soon to be submitted to the Parliament. Nothing like it has ever been suggested, not even in the famous Beveridge Report so far as Great Britain is concerned. It is the nearest approach to the Russian practice, made by any country. It is a bold, brave venture, one which should go a long way towards meeting the fears and the apprehensions of service men and women, as they look forward to the future.

The plan, as outlined, known as a "declaration of war against poverty" provides for unemployment insurance, free health service for all, sickness benefit, retirement pensions, widows' benefit, maternity grants, death grants and orphans' allowances

The amounts of these grants do not appear very adequate when judged by North American costs. But existing grants, such as Old Age benefits and Unemployment grants, are increased, while the new ones are in proportion to the new rates for the existing benefits. The cost of the plan will be $2,626,000,000 a year. The report says that the plan will rise in cost each year and will be self-balancing, financially, in 1975, when it will be costing $3,324,000,000 a year. The plan will include everybody, millionaire, day-laborer, employer and unemployed.

There may be those who will grumble at the cost of such a comprehensive plan. And yet, it is not nearly so costly as the war. We have learned a lot of things during the past four years — one of which is that when money is needed it can be procured. Money in abundance has been found for running the war. Britain intends to find enough to give security to her citizens in days of peace.

The plan will have to be submitted to Parliament before it becomes law. Judging from the enthusiastic way in which the Beveridge Report was received, and the fact that the Sections of the Parliament are already committed to a general plan of Social Security, it is a foregone conclusion that it will pass the Parliament, perhaps modified somewhat, but with the general principles unchanged.

STRAWS AND GERMANY

Straws which show the way the wind is blowing are to be seen in the reports in the daily press. The peace terms which the Russians imposed on Finland were hard, much harder than they would have been several months ago, when terms were first discussed The Finns are paying the price for their willingness to permit a pro-German Government to keep them in the war against their Big Neighbor, long after there was any hope for a German victory. Terms offered at that time were described as generous those finally accepted are hard for the Finns to take. This is an indication of what the Germans may expect from Russia when the final settlement is made. The Russians are a realistic, tough people. They have suffered terribly at the hands of the Germans. They can be counted on to bring every pressure to bear on Great Britain and The United States, to impose stern terms on the common foe.

Russia, however, may not have a very hard time with the other two nations. To be sure there is a tendency among the Anglo-Saxon people to be generous to the down-and-out, to give the underdog a chance. That was what was done in 1918. The Allies continued to modify and soften the terms imposed on Germany, so that in the long run Germany benefitted rather than was injured by them. President Roosevelt is taking a hand in the matter this time. Having his attention drawn to a notice in the Military Manual, prepared for soldiers who were entering Germany, which appeared somewhat lenient to the enemy, he ordered it changed and stiffened up.

These straws show the way the wind is blowing. The United Nations are not going to be outwitted this time. Three times in seventy years Germany has brought war to the world. Secret documents found by Allied War Correspondents, show that plans are already being made for another war — another attempt to secure by force, control of the whole world. This must, at all costs, be thwarted. How that will be accomplished is a matter for the experts. But the attitude of the Russians towards the Finns and that of President Roosevelt to the makers of Military Manuals, indicate that The United Nations intend to show a firm hand in dealing with Germany, this time.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 1ST, 1944

"JESUS, THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD"
Lesson Text: John 9: 1-7, 13, 34-41

After spending some time in the study of Old Testament passages, the lessons in this quarter turn to the New Testament. Significantly enough, to-day's study centres around the general theme "Jesus The Light of the World." Significantly because never in our life-time, never perhaps in a thousand years, has it been so essential that "Light of the World" should be shed abroad on a world that is in darkness and uncertainty. There is a wistful yearning in the hearts of people everywhere, for guidance, for some clear gleam of light. Fortunate, indeed, will this and succeeding generations be, if in the perplexity and uncertainty of to-day men and nations let the Light that shines from Calvary, lighten the pathway to lasting peace and security.

A certain blind man came into the orbit of Jesus' life. He had been blind from his birth. That in itself was enough to stimulate the questioning spirit of the people who were with the Master—who sinned, he or his parents, they asked. They knew no other cause for blindness—it was a result of sin, somebody's sin. either the man's own sin or that of his parents. It was a strange theory to hold, but they knew none other. Jesus, at once suggested that there might be other explanations. This is of course true, blindness of children very often is caused by the indiscretions of parents. Fortunately not so many children are blind now as formerly. The eyes of all children are treated at birth, which saves the sight of many numbers. It is always a bit risky to draw conclusions based on a hard and fast dogma, unfair often to base a judgment on the basis of a religious or creedal assumption. Certainly in this instance the people were reminded that blindness was not due to sin only. There were other causes.

Jesus cured the blind man. He made some clay, placed it on the man's eyes and sent him to wash in a nearby pool. The anointing with clay and the subsequent command to wash in the pool may have been but a method of securing the man's co-operation, or testing his faith. At any rate the man obeyed and was cured.

The subsequent events were not so reassuring. The Pharisees were not willing to accept any suggestion from the blind man as to the manner of his healing—"dost thou teach us?"—they asked, and cast him out. That is to say they debarred him from the temple for a month, after which time if he made confession he would be admitted, if not he was put out for another month. If he still was adamant he was reclared a leper. Pretty harsh treatment for a conscientious man.

This man, as we would say in modern language was "in the dog house." But Jesus hunted him up, encouraged him, and secured from him a confession of his faith in Christ. The Pharisees then asked Jesus if they themselves were blind. In answer to this question Jesus indicated that sin does not exist where there is ignorance of right and wrong. The Pharisees had knowledge, they were learned; they were trained in the niceties of moral judgments. So Jesus said, in as much as they were the possessors of these qualities and still did not obey Him, they were sinners. This is a profound statement and should put to rest a lot of questioning with respect to ignorance. How often it is asked whether people in a non-Christian country, who sin in ignorance, can be held accountable for sins. Here, Jesus provides the answer: "If we sin in the light, our sin remaineth with us."

This should provide a stern rebuke to our day and generation. We are not short on knowledge; we are not short on enlightened conscience. In spite of this we have persistently erred and gone astray. We must be held accountable for the mess we have made of our modern world. Let there be no mistake about it, the war has had a disastrous effect on our whole moral and spiritual life. We need the light of the world to shine in dark places; men and women who have named His Name must reflect that life in every walk and every calling. The only way the light of life will shine on a darkened world is through us.

The owner of the country newspaper went home to dinner, smiling radiantly. "You must have had some good fortune this morning," greeted his wife. "Indeed, I did," announced the owner. "Jim Smith, who has not paid his subscription for ten years, came in and stopped his paper."

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Winter entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Winter, Mr. John Mowers, and Misses Irene and Geraldine Mowers to supper on Sunday evening.

Accidents Occur While Objects Being Handled

Records indicate that more accidents occur while objects are being handled than from any other single cause, states a memorandum issued by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations. Handling objects includes loading, carrying, rolling and piling.

The memorandum points out that most of the problems seem to develop from the moving of materials which can be handled alone or with a little help. It advises plant supervisors that it is worthwhile instructing a man or woman how to lift, carry or pile materials.

Electric Equipment Restrictions Off

Electric lamps, storage batteries, electrical lighting fixtures and sundry small appliances such as broilers, irons, toasters, tea kettles, heating pads, grills and grates are among the articles from which production, simplification and standardization restrictions have been lifted by the Prices Board. It is emphasized, however, that because of the shortage of both labor and raw materials, it will be some months before the first of the goods on which restrictions have been lifted will appear on the market.

Mrs. Murphy (concluding an announcement): Every time I look at you, Mr. Patrick, I feel I'm doing the Government out of the Entertainment tax.

Things you can't add on your fingers

IT'S hard, almost impossible, to figure out on your fingers the many benefits of life insurance.

The street car you ride on—the electricity that perks your coffee—the home you live in—the school your children attend—the hospital where your baby was born—these are available to you partly because of life insurance investments in Canada's mills, factories, power plants and public works. The money you put into insurance is always circulating to make more jobs for more people. It's hard to add up all its benefits because they are felt in every corner of the land.

Some say that life insurance money would be better employed as "venture" capital rather than invested in long term bonds and mortgages. Well, life insurance companies must regard the investments which they make from year to year as trust funds, and policyholders would not want it otherwise. Deliberate safeguards have been set up to protect these investments and government laws very properly prohibit the use of life insurance funds for speculative purposes.

The truth is that life insurance assets are safely invested in such a wide variety of local and national undertakings that the average man has no conception of how much the development of the country depends on life insurance funds.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

CONTINUITY...

We are Saving . . . for War

In wartime, the people of Canada, out of their savings, are providing the means of destruction.

Destruction of a ruthless enemy aiming to enslave us all . . . this has been the purpose of the planes, the ships, the tanks, the ammunition we have furnished to our fighting men and those of our allies . . . out of savings.

Let us Continue to Save . . . for Peace

In peacetime, the people of Canada, out of their savings, can provide the means of construction.

Construction of a great and prosperous nation . . . factories and machines to make useful goods abundantly; capital to develop our natural resources; comfortable homes; health services, education, provision against the hazards of life . . . these can become the purpose for which we save.

Through taxes, Victory Bonds, War Savings Stamps and Certificates, the savings of a people have been devoted to a single purpose—Victory.

We Canadians have proved what we can do in wartime by saving. Think what we can do in peacetime . . . if we continue to save with the same purposeful determination. Out of our savings we, as individuals, can build a future for ourselves and our children worthy of the sacrifices made for victory.

DORLAND

Dorland, Sept. 23. — The summer temperature, which has prevailed most of the week with frequent showers, has encouraged growth, and pastures are steadily improving, but the air has a hint of autumn this morning.

A number from this locality planned to attend the Conway church anniversary last Sunday until they learned that the sad double tragedy, which cost two young lives from that congregation, had cancelled the services.

The world wide communion service will be observed at Conway on October 1st, with services withdrawn at other points on the circuit.

Tomato picking is nearly completed but those who have apple orchards will still be busy.

Everyone was sorry to learn that Mrs. W. Gallagher had resigned from the telephone office, and, with her daughter, Miss Dorothy Gallagher, is leaving for Detroit early in October. Both have given years of cheerful and efficient service at the switchboard, and their friendly voices will be missed over the lines.

Mrs. F. Lazier has returned, after a lengthy visit at the home of her nephew, Mr. E. Yeomans, Orono.

A meeting of the Woman's Association was held in the church school room on Wednesday evening, with Mrs. Charles Rombough presiding.

Electricians from the Blakely firm, Picton, have wired Mr. L. Maire's buildings for Hydro. A number of other farmers expect to instal power in the near future.

We were glad to hear that Gunner Orval McCrudden is able to spend a leave at home.

Mr. Herbert Trumpour is also able to leave the hospital.

Mr. Edward Beasley is the most recent hospital patient from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mack attended the Amherst Island Fair on Wednesday.

V

SILLSVILLE

Sillsville, Sept. 25. — Mr. and Mrs. Glen White (nee Hilda Creighton, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Creighton), were the guests of honor at a gathering of Sillsville district residents, held in the hall on Friday evening. Music for dancing was provided by a three-piece orchestra from Empey Hill. A few played cards, and others spent the time visiting. About midnight, Mrs. Rod. Sharpe called the guests of honor to the centre of the floor and read a short address, and Mrs. Morley Whyte and Mr. Rod. Sharpe, on behalf of the community, presented them with a nest of tables and a reading lamp. Mr. Glen White responded with a few well chosen words of appreciation and thanks. Following the presentation, refreshments were served.

Conway - Sandhurst

Conway - Sandhurst, Sept. 24. — Mr. Donald Wright, of Burlington, spent a few days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wright.

Miss Phyllis Haight returns to her post in Vulcan, Alberta, this week.

Rev. and Mrs. K. J. Crawford spent Friday in Kingston, visiting the former's father, who has been ill, but is progressing favorably.

Master Allan Elliott spent this week end with Harold Babcock.

Wren Tuckett returns to St. Thomas at the end of the month, having spent her furlough with her mother.

Miss Elizabeth Wright has gone back to St. Thomas, and Miss Lois Wright to Peterborough.

Major H. L. Babcock has been home for the week end.

Everyone is glad to know that Tommy Ham is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Hogeboom and Mrs. Clem Hines were collecting on Saturday for Christmas boxes for the local members of the Armed Forces Overseas.

Mr. Irvine Saylor has come back to this neighborhood to help Mr. Fred Wright on the farm.

V

SELBY

Selby, Sept. 21. — Silo filling is the order of the day.

Miss Doris Sexsmith spent last week end at home.

Mrs. Glass, of Napanee, was a guest at the parsonage on Monday last.

Vivian Henderson is entertaining her cousin from Toronto.

Our community was greatly shocked on Tuesday evening, when a message was received announcing the passing of Mr. John C. Hudgins at the home of his son, Dr. Ronald Hudgins, Kingsville. The deceased who was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira B. Hudgins, had lived the greater part of his life in our midst, contributing most generously of his time and talent to the work of the United Church and community. During the past summer he came east on a visit to relatives and friends, which he greatly enjoyed. Hence the announcement was very unexpected. In passing, the deceased is survived by Dr. Ronald Hudgins, Mrs. Clarence Price, Mrs. Adaskin, and Carman Hudgins. The funeral service, which was held in Napanee at the Wartman Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon, was conducted by Rev. Mr. Merrick, who paid tribute to one who was so well known, and extended sympathy to the family, concluding with a comforting message based on the words of Paul: "Let not your hearts be troubled; believe in God". Interment was made in the family plot. Sympathy is extended to the immediate relatives.

Maurice McLeod entertained the members of the Executive of the Young People's Union on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. B. F. Denison is spending the week end at Moscow, the guest of Mr and Mrs. John Bell.

ROBLIN

Roblin, Sept. 25. — Mr. Dan Richmond passed peacefully away on Sunday morning, after several years of failing health.

Mrs. Geo. Davis has gone to Napanee to spend a few weeks with her son, Mr. Roy Smith, and Mrs. Smith.

Sunday guests of Mrs. W. Doidge were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weese, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weese, of Centreville, also Mr. and Mrs. Milton Doidge, of Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Smith and Rowena, of Napanee, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmett on Sunday.

Miss Nina Schamerhorn spent a week end recently at the home of Miss Dorothy Winters, Selby.

Wray McLaughlin, Bill Richmond, and Glenn Kimmett spent Tuesday and Thursday judging livestock at Belleville and Kingston Fairs.

The Women's Institute held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. H. R. Paul. Mrs. James Haggerty District President, of Napanee, addressed the meeting, taking as her subject "The Second Front".

V

MARLBANK

Marlbank, Sept. 18. — Mr. Nellis Allen and son, Glenn and Messrs. Bruce Bush and John Kimmett, attended Lindsay Fair on Friday and spent a very enjoyable day.

Mrs. Bruce Bush returned home on Monday last after spending a week visiting relatives in Watertown, N.Y.

Sgt. and Mrs. Vimy York, also Mr. and Mrs. Norrad and infant son, all of Petebero, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. York.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Windover and children of Sillsville, accompanied by Mrs. Windover's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Young, visited Mr. Mrs. Earl Alexander, Moneymore, on Sunday.

The service in the United Church on Sunday morning was well attended, when Rev. W. H. Baugh was accompanied by Rev. Seymour of Kingston, who spoke in the interests of the Temperance Federation of Ontario. Mr. Seymour's address was listened to with much interest. During the service a duet was rendered by Mrs. Jack Ballance and Miss Lillian Burd.

Mrs. Dr. Hunt has returned home after a pleasant holiday with friends in Detroit, Mich.

Pte. Harold Lewis, of Camp Borden, spent over the week-end at his home, here.

Miss Helen Lewis of Kingston, was also the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, over Sunday.

The Guild of St. Matthew's Church held their September meeting at Mrs. James Burd's cottage, White Lake, on Tuesday evening last and despite the rain, quite a number attended from here. Service was held in St. Matthew's Church on Sunday evening Rev. Ware in charge.

Mrs. James Harten and Donna are visiting friends in Watertown, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hawley and brother, Glenn, returned to their home at Niagara Falls, after spending a week with their brother, Preston, and wife.

James Jordan has returned to Kingston, where he wil resume his studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tuepah and baby daughter, Collins' Bay, who have been holidaying at Mrs. Tuepah's home here, spent a couple of days with Mr. Tuepah's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Tuepah Yarker.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cassidy were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Way, Tamworth.

Selby Sunday School Rally Service

The annual Sunday School Rally Service of the United Church, was held Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. The classes assembled in the Sunday school rooms at 1:30 o'clock and after due preparation, the classes went up into the auditorium, where the grading officer, Mr. Ross McConnell, directed the various classes to their appointed places. Mr. Alex. Collings assistant superintendent, with the Pastor, conducted the service and followed the order of service prepared by the Board of Christian Education of the United Church. Special music was very splendidly given by the junior choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Everett Price. Sunday school pianist. The story, entitled "Are You a Christian" was read by Muriel Irwin, and "The Second Mile" was given by Maurice McLeod. The offering, which was well in advance of last year, was taken by Glen McConnell and George Collings.

The grading officer conducted the promotion exercises and in his report stated that two members of the school namely Marie Price and Evelyn Hudgins, had a perfect attendance record for the year.

A very interesting addition to the service was the presentation of the Christian Flag to the Church by Miss Vivian Henderson, on behalf of the Primary Class and herself. Miss Vivian Henderson, on behalf of the church, received the flag and expressed hearty thanks to the teacher and class for their lovely thought and valuable gift, which would add beauty and interest to the auditorium of the church.

Miss Henderson then told the legend of the origin and adoption of the Christian Flag as an emblem of the principles of the Kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ. At the baptismal period of the service, three children were presented for baptism by their parents, namely: William Ivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jackson; Helen Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James VanKoughnet; and Arthur Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKnight. The closing moments of the service were taken up in the rededication of officers and teachers to their all-important task in the Sunday School, and the singing of the National Anthem and benediction by the pastor.

HAWLEY

Hawley, Sept. 25. — The September meeting of the Maple Leaf W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. R. Ackerman on Thursday afternoon, with an average attendance of members and visitors. Two new members were added to the list. In opening the meeting the President welcomed the members and visitors after two months of holidays. The roll call was answered by "My Favorite Cake". The Secretary read the minutes of the June meeting, and business was dealt with. A letter was read in regard to Institute pin, and a number were ordered for different members. Mrs. Close put on a very interesting quiz, and Mrs. Bert Fretts was the winner. The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served by the hostess and the committee in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ackerman attended the "Gildersleeve Ghosts" at The Granada on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil of Belleville and Mrs. L. Boston and baby, of Toronto, have returned home, after spending a couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. V. Bolton.

The Hawley W. A. was entertained at the home of Mrs. C. Day on Tuesday afternoon.

ABOUT THE THINGS YOU BUY IN WARTIME...

"I think it can be safely said that the sugar supply position is the most difficult situation we have to face today in any rationed commodity.

You can't get all you want in wartime. If one pound will do, don't buy two."

The sugar situation is NOT sweet

FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE SUGAR CANADA CONSUMES HAS TO BE IMPORTED

This map shows where Canada, Great Britain and the United States got their sugar in the good old days of peace. Our three countries take practically all the exportable sugar from these major sugar-exporting areas.

But supplies have either been cut off by enemy occupation of the country—as in the case of Java and the Philippines, or their production radically reduced by shortage of workers, as in the case of Hawaii, Porto Rico, Australia, Trinidad, Fiji.

Even the production of beet sugar in Canada and the United States has been drastically cut by labour shortage. In both countries the '43 sugar beet crop was forty per cent less than in '41. The only country to show an important increase is Cuba, where output had for years been deliberately restricted. But its increase has not been sufficient to offset the losses elsewhere—let alone meet the increased demand.

ROLLING ON SUGAR

The war has brought some unusual demands on the United Nations' sugar pool. Vast quantities have been taken for making industrial alcohol used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber (tires, etc.) as well as T.N.T. and smokeless powder. For instance, the explosive to fill five 16-inch shells requires as much sugar as is produced on an acre of the finest sugar land. This year Canada alone used for making industrial alcohol will equal Canada's normal sugar imports for more than two years.

THE SUPPLY IS SHARED

All sugar supplies are pooled and under the control of the Combined Food Board of the United Nations, which allots supplies to Canada, United States and Great Britain on a uniform basis.

DO WE NEED MORE SUGAR?

A century ago the whole world didn't consume as much sugar as Canada does today. Our sweet tooth has been acquired in quite recent times. Sugar rates high for its energy value, but starchy food is a good substitute.

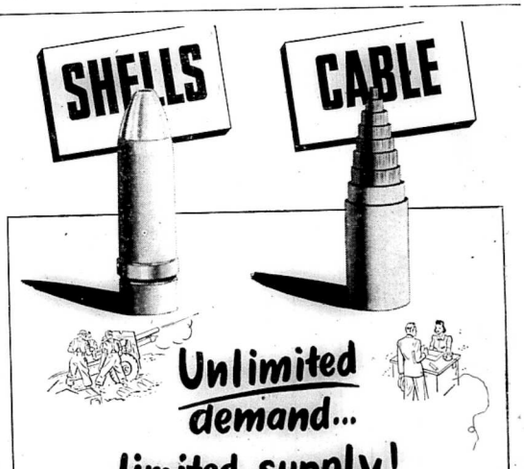
WE'RE LIVING ON OUR SUGAR CAPITAL

At the time of "Pearl Harbour" the United Nations had a reserve stock-pile of about 3 million tons, but for the last 3 years we've been using more than has been produced—and dipping heavily into "reserve." Liberated nations will have to dip in too. Extra good crops could improve the situation, but greatly increased supplies are not in sight. If current consumption keeps up, we could be very short of sugar next year. We must do the utmost to conserve our supplies.

RATIONING WAS STARTED BECAUSE OF SHORTAGE OF SHIPS. IT MUST BE CONTINUED BECAUSE WORLD STOCKS ARE DEFICIENT

THIS IS ONE OF A SERIES OF ANNOUNCEMENTS GIVING THE FACTS ABOUT THE SUPPLY SITUATION OF VARIOUS WIDELY USED COMMODITIES

THE WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD



Unlimited demand... limited supply!

Copper is needed for telephone cable.

But it is also required for shells, planes, communications equipment and other war supplies. This is true of many another telephone material, too.

There's just no alternative. Until victory, war needs come first. With reserves of telephone equipment at low ebb and almost impossible to replace, they must be rigidly conserved.

To all those applicants who are still waiting for telephone service, we can only say that we fully appreciate their problem. On our part we are making maximum use of existing equipment to serve as many people as possible.

We shall keep on doing the best we can with the telephone equipment obtainable.

PICNIC DINNER HELD IN HONOUR OF FORMER RESIDENTS OF MOSCOW

An enjoyable event took place at Bellgrove, the beautiful picnic grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell, Varty Lake, on Tuesday, August 29, when thirty or more relatives and friends gathered in honour of Mrs. Roy Kingsbury, Edmonton, Alta., and Mrs. Wes. Stambough, Brice, Alta., former residents of Moscow.

A basket picnic dinner was enjoyed by all and the afternoon was spent by renewing acquaintances and reminiscence of former days. The younger generation enjoyed boat trips on the lake.

It has been 34 years since Mrs. Stambough had moved West but Mrs. Kingsbury had visited amongst us fifteen years ago. They visited their sisters, Mrs. M. Milsap, Cplebrook, and Mrs. A. M. Bell, Batterse. and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Robb and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Clark and many friends in the Moscow district.

While in Ontario they enjoyed several trips through Eastern Ontario and the United States. They returned to their home in Alsera leaving Napanee last Friday after enjoying a pleasant holiday.

Their many friends wished them a safe journey and hoped they can return again in the near future.

OBITUARY

THE LATE MRS. WARD HELM

After an illness of one year and five months there passed away at the Ontario Hospital Kingston, on Friday evening, September 15th, Ila Jean Wagar, wife of Ward Helm.

She was born in Enterprise in 1899 and was a daughter of the late William Wagar and the late Nellie Hamilton. She spent her girlhood in Western Canada, and came to live with her father in Enterprise ten years ago. Later she resided in Napanee.

The funeral service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Coulter on Monday afternoon, September 18, at 2:00 o'clock, and was conducted by Rev. F. O. Ware, of Tamworth. Mr. Ward Wartman, of Napanee, sang a solo, "Does Jesus Care". Burial took place at Moscow cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, Stoker Petty Officer Ward Helm, R.C.V.N.R., Halifax, who was serving at sea and could not attend the funeral; two daughters, Lois Joan, 11 years, and Florence Grace, 8 years; a brother, Lorne, and a sister, Dora, both of Vancouver; a brother, Cpl. Edward, of a Forestry Unit, in Scotland, also foster parents Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Harkness, of Vancouver. A brother, Harold, predeceased her eight years ago in Vancouver.

Pallbearers were George Nelson, George Lockwood, Maitland Jackson, Roy Hartman, Gerald Walker, and Milo Jackson.

OBITUARY

MARGARET ISABEL McCONNELL

(Contributed)

On Sunday morning, June 18, 1944, Margaret Isabel McConnell, beloved wife of A. C. McConnell, passed peacefully away at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thos. Melburn, near Maribank. Of English and Irish descent, she was the daughter of the late Philip and Mary Brenton of Norham in Northumberland County. Mrs. McConnell was born May 27th 1876 and was sixty-eight years of age. On January 2nd, 1900, she was married to A. C. McConnell of Richmond, by the Rev. Robert McCullough, and moved to Lime Lake, where she resided until January last, when owing to extreme sickness, moved to the Melburn home.

She was a life-long member of the Methodist, now United Church, and had been a constant worker in its organizations in the community, having been about forty years in the choir. She was a teacher in the Sunday school, a member of the Women's Missionary Society and president of the Ladies' Aid Society of Lime Lake; also a Past Mistress of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of Maribank. She was a friend to everyone and her generosity was known far and wide. At her request Rev. J. T. Caswell came from Inverary, and assisted by Mr. E. Hancock, conducted the funeral service which was held on Tuesday June 20th, 1944, from the Melburn home to Lime Lake United Church, with burial in Bunker Hill cemetery.

Part of the music selected by Mrs. McConnell was an anthem "He knows it All" which was sung by Maribank and Lime Lake choirs united. Mr. Garnet Brooks also rendered a very appropriate solo. Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, one sister, Mrs. L. B. MacDonald, of Hamilton; three brothers, Clarence and Stanley Brenton, of Norham, and Harold Brenton, of Trent Bridge.

Flowers girls were Nina Brenton, Catherine Booth and Doris Alexander. The pall-bearers, all neighbors, were Messrs. Thos. Busby, W. J. Turner, Harvey Melburn, John Kimmett, Thos. B. Tyner, Harold York.

WEDDING BELLS

McKEOWN - BROWN

At the United Church parsonage at Selby, on Scotember 18th, 1944, the Rev. W. R. Merrick joined in the holy bonds of matrimony, Betty Marion eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown, of Hay Bay, and Alfred William McKeown, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKeown, of Empey Hill.

The bride looked charming in a street-length dress of powder blue sheer with white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink and white gladiolius with fern and baby's breath. The bride's attendant was Miss Dorothy Gilbert, dressed in pink and blue with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink and mauve asters.

The groom was assisted by Jack Stafford. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold locket, the groom's gift to the best man was a gold collar and tie-pin set.

The happy couple left amid showers and confetti and good wishes for Toronto and Niagara Falls. The bride travelled in a two-piece suit of rose with matching accessories. On their return they wi lreside at Empey Hill.

COWDY - HINCHEY

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday September 7th, at 11 a.m. in St. Mary Magdalene's Church Napanee, when Rev. F. O. Ware united in marriage Laura Margaret, younger daughter of Mr. William Hinchey and the late Mrs. Hinchey of Tamworth, and James Floyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cowdy, Enterprise.

The bride looked charming in a diplomat blue crepe street-length dress with matching accessories. She was attended by Miss Jessie Cowdy, only sister of the groom, who was in a two-piece dress of clipper blue crepe with white accessories. The groom was attended by Bert Hinchey, brother of the bride.

After the wedding ceremony dinner was served at the Superior Restaurant to the immediate families.

Later in the young couple left on a motor trip to points west. For travelling the bride chose a romance blue wool suit with contrasting accessories. On their return they will reside near Enterprise.

LEARY — HART

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Long Branch on Saturday, September 2nd, 1944, when Eva Dorothy, daughter of the late Peter Hart and Mrs. Hart of Roblin, and Donald Lawrence second son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leary of Napanee, were united in marriage by Rev. R. H. Armstrong. They were attended by the brother and sister-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hart, of Long Branch.

The bride was attired in a steel grey suit with black accessories and corsage of American Beauty Roses, while her attendant wore a brown suit with matching accessories and corsage of golden gladioli.

After the ceremony a delightful dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hart, the happy couple then leaving amid showers of confetti for a short honeymoon. They will reside in Napanee.

OBITUARIES

JOHN C. HUDGINS

John Clark Hudgins, died in his 73rd year on September 18th, in Kingsville, at the home of his son, Dr. Ronald Hudgins. He was the elder son of the late Ira B. Hudgins and Esther Ann Beamish. Mr. John C. Hudgins was well and favourably known in the Selby community, where he had spent nearly all his life, and also in Kingsville, where he had made his home for the past few years. When word came of the passing of John C., it came as somewhat of a surprise although not unexpected as he was in failing health when he visited his son, Carman, in Napanee, last June.

Deceased was a man of superior intelligence and keen judgment, a consistent Christian and a faithful member of the United Church at Selby, where he was superintendent of the Sunday school for nineteen years, as well as a member of the Official Board. He was leader of the choir for many years and was interested in all activities of the church. He was also interested in the church in the town of his adoption, Kingsville, where he and Mrs. Hudgins went to reside after they disposed of their farm, and where his wife predeceased him a few years ago.

The funeral, which was largely attended took place at the Wartman Funeral Home, in Napanee.

Left to mourn his loss are two sons, Dr. Ronald Hudgins, Kingsville, and Carman Hudgins, Napanee; two daughters, Mrs. C. Price (Beulah), of Kitchener, and Mrs. L. Adaskin (Eleanor) of Rochester; also two sisters, Mrs. James Wilson, Strathcona, and Mrs. E. F. Purcell, Colebrook; besides eight grandchildren.

Interment took place in Riverview Cemetery, Napanee. The pall-bearers were Melville Windover, Arthur McLeod, Sam Winters, Gardiner Jackson, Arthur McKnight and Adam Prisken.

WILLIAM THISTLEWAITE

An old and highly respected resident, Mr. William Thistlewaite, of Enterprise, passed away at the Storey Nursing Home on September 11, at the age of 89 years and nine months. He was the last member of a large family. He had spent the last 70 years in Enterprise, but previously had lived at Centreville.

He spent his boyhood and early manhood around Napanee and on the Deseronto Road. His father and mother came to Canada as United Empire Loyalists in their youth.

The funeral was held on Wednesday morning, September 13th, from the Storey Nursing Home to Napanee, where interment took place in Riverside Cemetery. Rev. F. O. Ware of Tamworth, conducted the ceremony. Chief mourners were a grandnephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowen and Mrs. B. Bowen, a nephew's wife, all of the Deseronto Road. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Daniel Wagar, George Fenwick Guy Fenwick, George Nelson, Charles Keech and Charles Graham.

The Orator roared out to the crowd: Yes, and there'll come a day when we'll all ride around with chauffeurs."

To which a timid man in the third row queried: And will chauffeurs have chauffeurs, too, Boss?

The patient from Glasgow was fumbling in his pocket: You don't need to pay me in advance, said the dentist.

Glasgow: I'm not going to, was the reply. I'm only counting my money before ye gie me the gas

Silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Gone is the face we loved so dear.
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent is just as dear.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by MOTHER and DAD

The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by Sister and Brother-in-law RUTH and TOMMY

CLARK — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Silas S. Clark who passed away September 25, 1943.
Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of him we love dearly and shall never forget.
His lovely smiles and happy face—
Broken link we can never replace.
How sad was the parting no one can tell—
So sudden on earth the sorrow fell.
Memories and treasures no one can steal;
Death is a heartache nothing can heal.
Lovingly remembered by his MOTHER, and BROTHERS and SISTERS.

The Late Mrs. Robert Hanna

Mrs Robert Hanna, who had been in failing health for the past year, died at her home, Newburgh Road, Napanee, on Wednesday, September 20th.

Mrs. Hanna had been a resident of Napanee for nearly twenty years and for many years, as long as her health permitted, she was an active worker in Trinity United Church. She was the widow of Robert Hanna, who was Public School Principal at Delta, Norwood and Belleville. Mr. Hanna died in Belleville, 22 years ago, and soon after Mrs. Hanna and her son and daughter came to Napanee to reside.

She was born in Elgin on August 1st, 1873 and was the eldest of five children of the late Phillip and Harriet Halliday.

She is survived by her son Robert Hanna, her daughter Miss Harriet Hanna, and three grandchildren, who reside in Napanee.

Her funeral was conducted at the Wartman Funeral Home by Rev. C. D. McLellan, Saturday, September 23rd, and interment was made at Elgin.

The Late Egerton Hall

Egerton Hall, aged 67 died suddenly on September 15th. He had been ailing from his Chrome for about ten days and his body was found near the C. N. R. railroad on Saturday, September 25th.

Mr. Hall was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs John Wesley Hall of Napanee. He was a veteran of the First Great War, during which he was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal. He had lived in Napanee for the past seven years.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Edward, with the R. C. A. F. in Bermuda and Fred in Napanee. He is also survived by one brother, who lives in the Canadian West.

His funeral was held at the Wartman Funeral Home Saturday, September 25, and interment followed at Riverside cemetery.

OBITUARY

CLIFFORD JOHN WEESE

The funeral of the late Clifford Weese, who passed away at Hamilton Sanitorium on Wednesday, August 30, was held on Saturday at two o'clock at Newburgh United Church. The service was conducted by his pastor Rev. H. B. Herrington. Mr. Ward Wartman sang "Some Time We'll Understand." He had been in failing health for years, having had asthma from boyhood, but bore his sufferings cheerfully to the last. He was the second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Weese of Newburgh and was in his 24th year. His passing is a great loss to his family and to the community where he spent his entire life. He had won many friends through his jovial disposition and many kind deeds. The many floral tributes showed the high esteem in which he was held.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing parents, three brothers Hubert, Roy and Garnet; two sisters, Mrs. Thos. McKeown and Mrs. William Wales, all of Newburgh. The flower-bearers were Messrs. Howard Yeomans and Bert Shelton. The pall-bearers were Brother Orangemen from L.O.L. 756, Centreville, of which he was a member. Messrs David Scilley, Harry Thompson, Stanley Shaw, Alvin Drew, Laverne and Robert Weese. Interment followed in Newburgh cemetery.

DEATHS

HANNA — Entered into rest at Napanee on Wednesday, September 20, 1944, Ella Augusta Hanna, in her 71st year.

RICHMOND — Entered into rest at Roblin, September 24th, 1944, Daniel C. Richmond, beloved husband of Catherine B. Webb, in his 84th year.

Cards of Thanks

Mr. Miles Jackson and family and Mrs. W. T. Brown and family wish to express their thanks for flowers, cards and other expressions of sympathy received from their friends, at the time of the death of Mrs. Miles Jackson. 39a

Ready-Helpers Class Hold Social Evening

The Ready Helpers Class of Trinity United Church held its first meeting of the season on Wednesday, September 20th, at the home of Mrs. W. S. Exley, with a large attendance of members and visitors.

The president, Mrs. T. S. Moore, opened the meeting. The devotional part was taken by Miss E. Parks. Tribute was paid to Mrs. Hanna, a former teacher of the class who had passed away. It was decided to hold a cooked food table at the next W.A. meeting, the proceeds to go to the patriotic work of the church, under the convenership of Mrs. F. Nicholson. A contest was put on by Mrs. Nicholson and was won by Miss E. Parks.

A feature of the evening was a presentation to Mr. E. J. Corkill, teacher of the class, on the occasion of his birthday. Mr Corkill thanked the class and gave an interesting talk on World Conditions To-day. He said we must all pull together for a new order. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Exley for opening her home for the meeting, and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The date of the November meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Nicholson is to be announced later.

REIDVILLE W. I.

The August meeting of the Reidville Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Wilson in the form of a quilting. The Institute was pleased to have one of their former members present, Mrs. B. Lockhead, of Norwood. After the quilt was finished, a short program of piano and guitar music and recitations was put on by the school children. Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants and a social hour was spent by all.

The Goodyear Dealer is YOUR TIRE ADVISER!
● If every motorist knew all there was to know about a tire, he wouldn't need the expert services of a Goodyear Dealer. He'd just buy a tire . . . that's all! But, it's well to remember that even the best tires and tubes . . . Goodyears . . . give still greater mileage and finer performance when properly fitted to the rims and regularly maintained and serviced.
If you are eligible to buy the new Goodyear synthetic rubber tires and tubes, here's a fact worth knowing. Every Goodyear Dealer KNOWS HOW to apply them, and how to maintain and service them right from the minute your car starts to roll on them.
In the past few years Goodyear Dealers have given yeoman service to Canadian motorists. During the rubber famine, tires have been kept in service by the application of new methods, new skills and sheer hard work. The Goodyear Dealer always has been the right man to know . . . the guardian of tire miles.
The amazing tire performance enjoyed by Goodyear owners during this period has but proved what Goodyear has long maintained. That, with proper care, a new tire can be confidently expected to yield outstanding mileages.
As a tire expert, your neighbourhood Goodyear Dealer can pass on to you benefits accrued through the nation-wide experience of Goodyear . . . benefits that mean longer life and better performance from your tires.
This is a Goodyear Synthetic Rubber Tire!
Goodyear dealers have it . . . for eligible drivers only. It is the result of Goodyear's forty years' experience in tire-building plus Goodyear's specialized knowledge of synthetic rubber . . . gained through unceasing research and testing.

LARGE SHOWING BLACK AND WHITES AT NAPANEE FAIR

Judge Well Impressed by Exhibits

"Considerably better in quality than last year," was the verdict of James R. Henderson of Portsmouth, who judged both last year and this, in commenting on the Annual Black and White Day held by the Holstein breeders of Lennox and Addington counties on September 27th, in connection with Napanee Fair. There was an excellent turnout of breeders with 14 exhibiting a total of 90 head. Prizes were well divided no less than 19 exhibitors winning at least one first.

The Senior and Grand Champion Male was Smith Haven Korndyke Fietje who headed the aged bulls for J. Gordon Robertson, Napanee. Senior Champion was the top two-year-old, Maplehaven Nig Supreme shown by Fred Switzer of Moscow. After winning the class for Senior Bull Calves, Winston Inka Supreme Lad, exhibited by Lemmon Bros., Odessa, went on to take the Junior and Reserve Grand Championship awards. The Reserve Junior Champion went to Vernon Paul and Sons, Napanee, on their winning Junior Bull Calf, Paulridge Governor Domon. Vernon Paul & Sons also had the winning Senior Yearling Bull while R. J. Walsh & Son, Napanee, topped the Junior Yearlings on Big Creek Supreme Marjorie.

Junior Henderson found both his Senior and Grand and Reserve Senior and Grand Champion Females in an exceptionally good class of Aged Cows in milk. Top honors here went to Lemmon Bros. on Hartog Burke Jean, while Harold McCaul & Sons Napanee, took the Reserve awards on Inka Segis Brooklassie. The Junior Champion Female was the winning Senior Yearling, Braithgiven Vydec Trajectory, shown by The E Cochrane Stella. The Reserve Junior Championship was taken by Paulridge Governor Stella, who topped a class of segsterra Junior Heifer Calves, largest of the day, for Vernon Paul & Sons.

First prize winners in the other classes were as follows:—

Aged Cow, dry — Percy S. VanVlack & Son, Napanee.

Three - year - old Heifer, dry — Switzer.

Three - year - old Heifer, in milk — Julian Switzer.

Two - year - old Heifer, dry — Robertson.

Two-year - old Heifer, in milk — W. A. Scott & Son, Stella.

Junior Yearling Heifer— Scott.

Senior Heifer Calf — James McFarlane & Son, Odessa.

Open Get-of-Sire — McCaul (by Sir Inka Supreme Majestic).

Junior Get-of-Sire — Cochrane, (by Posch Trajectory Admiral).

Senior Progeny of Dam — Lemmon Bros. from Finderne Inka Jewel).

Junior Progeny of Dam — Scott (from Stella Inka Ada).

TUG-OF-WAR WON BY ROBLIN

A feature event of the Napanee Fair was a tug-of-war between Morven Airport Team, which had been undefeated for four years, and Richmond Team (formerly known as Reads, which had been undefeated for nine years.

An enthusiastic crowd watched the event and while the gallant lads of the Air Force averaged 218 pounds as against the Richmond Team average of 186 pounds, the good coaching of John Schamerhorn gave the excellent team - work won the event for the Richmond boys.

The winning team was composed of Charlie McConnell, Blake Martin, Delmar Seale, John Donovan, Irvine Young, Milo Schamerhorn and Morley Schamerhorn.

A prize of $50 was donated by H. J. McFarland and was divided between the two teams.

Conducting Mission at St. Patrick's Church

Rev. Augustine Cotter, C.P., of Ste. Anne's Monastery is conducting a week's mission at St. Patrick's Ch., Napanee, which will conclude on Sunday evening next. The noted orator and missioner is well known to the parishioners of St. Patrick's and large congregations are attending morning and evening.

Business Places Use Window Lights

The downtown section of Napanee, since the first of this week, has presented a much brighter and more attractive appearance during the evenings, since the order restricting use of window lights and signs was rescinded. Window lights and street signs have not been allowed since September, 1941.

Lieut. R. K. Templeton Was Killed By Sniper

Recent information concerning the death of Lieut. Robert K. Templeton indicated that he had died as the result of a sniper's bullet, while on reconnaissance duty.

Local Young Man Charged Threatening Geo. J. Tustin, M.P.

On Sunday, after some weeks of quiet investigation on the part of Chief of Police Moore of Napanee, and the Ontario Provincial Police, Chauncey Oliver, R.R. 5, Napanee, who resides at Sand Hill, about three miles west of Napanee was arrested on the charge of sending threatening letters to George J. Tustin, member of the Federal Parliament for Prince Edward-Lennox. Oliver, a young man in his twenties, appeared before Magistrate Garvin in the Napanee Court on Monday, and was remanded in custody until a later date, to allow further investigation.

The letters which were said to have demanded a sum of $500 from Mr. Tustin, also carried threats against his life, unless the money was paid over. The letters were signed by a fictitious name and a carefully laid plan on the part of the police led to the arrest of the accused.

Hearing of the case will be proceeded with when the police have completed their investigation.

I.O.D.E. COLLECTED 7160 LBS. SALVAGE DURING SEPTEMBER

The I. O. D. E. in Napanee, collected 7,160 lbs. of salvage, mostly paper and rags, last month. An effort was made to collect salvage at the Fair in Napanee last week, and quite a quantity of paper was brought in by flair grounds by visitors. Unfortunately some unpatriotic person stole the salvage during Wednesday night before it could be removed by the I. O. D. E. Salvage Committee.

Citizens of the County are urged by the I. O. D. E. to remember the special paper salvage drive to be conducted during the week of October 16th. A pen will be established on Napanee Market Square, where paper may be left by citizens of the town and county.

Red Cross Workers Make Two And a Half Milion Articles

Toronto, October 3. — With few exceptions branches in Ontario Division of Red Cross worked at top speed during the summer months. In the first eight months of this year, Mrs. G. B. Hemtzman, vice-chairman Ontario Women's War Work Committee reports they have completed more than two and a half million articles.

"We had an S.O.S. in August from National for 200 Navy comfort bags for returned men on board the Griffholm. Faithful workers at the Richmond Street warehouse turned in on short notice and packed and shipped them by the next day," she states. An emergency quota from National in the latter part of May for hospital supplies for three R.C.A.F. equipment depots in Toronto, Moncton and Winnipeg had a shipping deadline of September 15th. Quotas were issued to Branches and material arrived at Toronto warehouse in time to fill the order promptly.

Ontario Women's War Work headquarters had been asked at 2 o'clock on September 13th for knitted comforts for 48 A.T.S. girls from the West Indies, enroute to Washington. Thanks to the efficient workers at Richmond Street Warehouse, the shipment was ready at four o'clock on the same afternoon.

ONTARIO PLANS SOLDIER SCHOOLS

Toronto, (C.P.) — Opening of matriculation and primary school classes for discharged members of the armed forces who wish to complete training needed before entering university, or starting vocational training courses was announced last week by Premier Drew in his capacity of Ontario Minister of Education.

Matriculation courses have been organized at the old Toronto Normal School where servicemen may receive full instruction. Tests will be carried out periodically by an examining board so the men won't have to wait for ordinary examinations.

MR., MRS. PETERSON RECEIVE WORD OF SON'S INJURY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson received word on Thursday from the Minister of National Defence at Ottawa, that their son, Gnr. Walter Raymond Peterson, had been officially reported injured in action on September 21. The nature and extent of his injuries were not available when the telegram was sent.

Gunner Peterson, who is with the 2nd Lt. A.A. Regiment in Italy, enlisted four years ago last January and had been overseas for over three years.

He is Mr. and Mrs. Peterson's only son, and will be 22 next March. He has one sister, Mrs. T. J. Powers, Kingston.

RATION BOARDS GET READY TO HAND OUT NO. 5 RATION BOOKS

Although tea and coffee are no longer rationed, there is continued need for the conservation of butter, sugar and preserves and, as a result, distribution of a further ration book No. 5 in the wartime series — is scheduled for the week of October 14 to 21 and already Local Ration Boards while are to supervise this distribution have plans well advanced for the campaign.

The distribution will differ in few respects from those previously carried out under the same auspices. The major change is that, in view of the elimination of a surrender card from the No. 4 books, it is necessary to make use of the spare K coupon sheet at the back of the book for that purpose. Book-holders are required to fill out the stubs both back and front of that sheet and to present it, still attached to the ration book, at the nearest distribution centre. The sheet will then be detached and a new ration book issued. At the same time each head of a household will be given a small printed leaflet which discusses rationing.

In due course newspaper advertising will appear, as in earlier ration book distribution campaigns, setting forth the whereabouts of the various distribution centres and the dates and hours at which they will be open. Consumers should watch closely for this information, as it is quite possible that the location of distribution centres may differ from that prevailing during earlier campaigns.

In the meantime Local Ration Boards are most anxious to enlist the services of volunteers to help in the distribution of the ration books and to keep the cost of distribution down to the exceedingly reasonable levels which have prevailed since Ration Boards assumed such responsibility.

Must Secure Forms To Sell Used Cars

Under a Prices Board order now in effect, all persons, whether dealers or individuals, who sell a used car are required to secure forms from the nearest office of the Board which will record details of the transaction in triplicate. One copy of the form is returned to the Board office the second is given to the purchaser and one is retained by the seller.

Archbishop O'Sullivan To Visit Napanee October 22nd

His Grace Archbishop O'Sullivan, of Kingston, is making his first pastoral visitation to St. Patrick's Church here, on the evening of Sunday, October 22nd. His Grace will be officially welcomed on behalf of the congregation by the pastor, Dean Leacy, and will confirm a large class prepared for this occasion.

Many members of the clergy from surrounding parishes will greet the Archbishop on that evening.

RCAF Casualty List Totals 15,961, July 31

Ottawa, (CP.) — The R. C. A. F. Thursday last, issued its 1 000 th casualty list of the war, covering an unspecified war period—probably up to a month ago. The list raised the total of casualties suffered since the war started, but a recent official compilation placed casualties at 15,961 on July 31st.

This total compared with 33,239 for the army and 1,838 for the navy, and was made up of 9,846 killed, 2,625 casualty lists and the navy 281. missing, prisoners and interned and 896 wounded. The army has issued 625 casualty lists and the navy 281. for the First Great War Canadian dead and missing on the Royal Naval Air Service, the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Air Force—formed in the last months of the war—totalled 1,160, or 15.7 per cent of the Empire air casualty total.

Approximately 23,000 Canadians served in the British air services in the-last war. The present strength of the R.C.A.F. is 190,000 men and 14,000 women.

NAPANEE COUNCIL APPOINTS DR. STRATTON REEVE FOR BALANCE YEAR

A. E. Holmes Named to Council Board

At the regular meeting of the Napanee Town Council held Monday evening, Deputy-Reeve Dr. C. M. Stratton was appointed Reeve of the Municipality for the balance of the year, filling the position made vacant by the death of John Gealt. Daly. Councillor G. D. Robson was appointed Deputy-Reeve, succeeding Dr. Stratton and Mr. A. E. Holmes was appointed Councillor filling the position vacated by Mr. Robson.

The action was taken by the Council following instructions to the Municipal Board regarding the proper procedure.

A letter received from the Public Utilities Commission asking for instructions regarding returning the street lights of the town to the same strength as before restrictions were imposed in S. ptember, 1941, was considered and the Council directed the Commission to continue the lighting at its present strength until December 1st.

The Wood Committee reported that an order had been placed for 500 cords of hardwood for resale to the citizens of Napanee and that the purchase of an additional 200 cords of hardwood slabs is being negotiated.

A letter received from the Town Garage Collector, H. McCutcheon, asking for an increase in salary of $15.00 per week was referred to the Police Committee to report. Reasons given for the requested increase in salary were scarcity of help and the excessive amount of garbage and rubbish being put out for collection.

A motion was passed granting the Street Committee an additional $1000, and the Public Welfare Committee $500 over the appropriations.

A request from the Boy Scouts for permis ion to hold the Annual Apple and Tag Day on October 14th was referred to the Police Committee with power to act.

TEMPLE CHOIR AT GRACE CHURCH

On Monday evening, October 2nd, the Temple Choir, a well-known musical organization in Kingston, under the leadership of H. W. Hartshorn, with Miss Lenore Black as accompanist, presented an evening's programme of excellent quality at Grace United Church.

The Choir, made up of twenty men, gave a varied programme including choruses and marimba solos. The soloist was Mrs. Glen S. Burton, who sang several very fine selections.

The accompanist, Miss Black, opened the programme with an organ solo which was greatly enjoyed.

Following the programme refreshments were served to the visiting artists by the members of the Woman's Association, under whose auspices the concert was given.

CANADA PROVIDES CLOTHES FOR MILLION PEOPLE

In the first four years of war 42,240,932 yards of wool and 300,000,000 pounds of military cotton goods were produced by Canadian textile workers to meet service needs. Little wonder that civilians can't get all they would like!

Battle dress of all kinds bears a 'Made in Canada' label. Canadian textile and clothing industry workers have made uniforms for almost one million men and women serving in the armed forces of the Dominion, and have sent another million uniforms and 500,000 great coats to Great Britain, as well.

With the Armed Services operating in varied climates, it has become necessary to produce a variety of special items of clothing. Lined and unlined parkas, winter guard suits, marine garments, sweaters, gloves, and a multitude of other clothing has been turned out for fighting men. To fill Air Force requirements, special flying suits, helmets and boots are being produced. Warm coats, sweaters and underwear go to the Navy as protection against icy kinds.

Web equipment —the battle harness of the soldier, is made up in sets of belts and pouches. Six hundred and fifty thousand sets have been manufactured for Canadian and Empire troops. In addition 6,000,000 pieces of knitted goods have been sent to British troops overseas.

LONDON ROBOMB DAMAGE

London, (C.P.) — The record of London's bomb damage was given in the House of Commons:

Houses damaged beyond repair, 25,511.

Houses seriously damaged and not habitable, 52,277.

Houses damaged, but habitable, 77,630.

Houses slightly damaged, 873,177

Total—1,027,995.

"We were surrounded by natives," related the explorer. "They just uttered savage cries, danced madly and beat the earth with their clubs."

"Sounds like golf," said the bored listener.

B. S. M. WM. HOWITT WOUNDED IN ITALY

Mrs. William Howitt, Jr., Napanee, received word on Monday of this week, that her husband, Battery Sergt. - Major William Howitt, had been slightly wounded while on active service with the Canadian army in Italy. The extent of the wound had not been ascertained when the wire was sent from Ottawa.

B.S.M. Howitt enlisted early in the war, with the 47th Battery and later was transferred to an anti-aircraft unit. He has been in Italy for some time, during which he has seen a great deal of service. His brother, Major Gilbert C Howitt is also in Italy with the Canadian army.

NEW OFFENSIVE AGAINST WEST WALL OPENED BY ALLIES

Port of Calais Taken by Canadians

WEDNESDAY—

The situation along the Western Front was somewhat of a stalemate because of bad weather conditions and stronger Nazi resistance. The Germans declared the Arnhem sector was then wiped out.

After the Russians had taken complete control of Estonia, the Germans fell back on Riga, the last Baltic capital, where they might make a stand.

Allied forces in Italy crossed the Rubicon River.

Strategic targets in Manchuria were again attacked by United States super-fortresses.

THURSDAY—

Of the force of 8,000 men forming the British First Airborne Division landed at Arnhem, less than 1800 escaped. 1200 were wounded. 1600 were still hiding in the forests north of the Rhine and the fate of the other 4000 was unknown. The airborne force accounted for the killing of from 12,000 to 15,000 Germans.

The British Second Army which held its salient along its whole length at Nijmegen.

The Soviet armies around Riga continued to tighten their ring, capturing more than 200 communities.

German resistance in Italy north of the Rubicon, was reported to be stronger, but the Allies continued to extend their holdings.

FRIDAY—

The British Second Army swung westward in an effort to trap about 200,000 Germans now in Western Holland. On the French coast, the British Fourth Army took the Citadel of Calais and with it a dozen 14-inch guns, used to bombard Dover.

Soviet forces drove into the Lupkow Pass leading from Poland into Czechoslovakia and the Germans claimed the Russians were within fifteen miles of Szeged Hungary's second city.

On September 23rd, United States carrier-based planes sank 22 Jap ships and damaged 43 more in the Philippines and Celebes area.

In Italy Allied advances were made along both coasts leading to the occupation of seven strategic towns.

The Japanese lost 1,100 planes during September.

SATURDAY—

The United States Third and Seventh Armies leaped out in a new attack against South Nazi resistance along the southern sections of the Western Front.

British forces tightened the trap on the Nazis in Holland. Calais and Cap Gris Nez was under final assault by the Canadians.

The Russian Army advancing on Riga killed 30,000 Germans and captured over 15,000 by seven September 17th and 26th. The Russians were also pressing a sideways offensive against Hungary.

In Italy the British Eight Army made gains in the southeastern section of the Po Valley. The Allied Fifth Army made important gains at strategic points on different routes to Bologna.

Seventeen further planes sank 2 Jap ships damaged another 70 and destroyed 36 planes in a raid on the Central Philippines.

MONDAY—

The Canadians approached the port of Calais on Straits and with it a garrison of 4000 Germans.

In the Normandy area strong Nazi counter blows were beaten back by the Allies.

Before the week end the Allies Fifth Army in Italy made steady progress. The British Eighth Army captured Savignano and cleared the Germans from east bank of the Fiumarino River to the coast.

The Russians seem unable to force a crossing of the Vistula River to relieve the Polish patriots in Warsaw. The Russians however in Yugoslavia captured 10 towns in Serbia and a total of 2000 Russians crossed the Danube from Roumania.

Allied forces continued their attacks against the Japs in the Philippines and Celebes areas.

Jap forces were reported only a few miles away and closing in on Kweilin, China.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR GUEST SPEAKER ROTARY LADIES' NIGHT

Dinner Served by Selby Church Women

John M. Brownell, Governor of the 170th District of Rotary International, which includes 32 Clubs in Northern New York and Eastern Ontario, was the guest speaker at the Napanee Rotary Club's Annual Ladies' Night on Tuesday evening of this week. The dinner was served at Selby United Church by the women of the church and attending it were members of the Club and their wives, as well as a large number of other guests.

President Bill Huston presided at the entertainment which followed the dinner. Music, which was arranged for by Alex MacGregor, included a selection by the Rotary Quintette composed of Harry Scott, Alex. MacGregor, Bert Weiss, Lorne Miller and Al. Wallace, with W. R. Eppes at the piano, and Adam Scott, violinist and vocalist. Hemer Jackson, guitarist and George McKnight, accordionist.

The baby member of the Club, Mr. Fred Carter, who was attending his first regular meeting, was introduced by Will Wilson. Dr. Hall spoke briefly in the interests of the forthcoming Victory Loan and W. J. Wiggins, gave a pep-talk on the sale of tickets on the prizes for the Frolic.

Pere. Laidley introduced guest. Pt.-Lt. Clifford Card, son of Rotarian Mel Card of Newburgh, who is home on leave after serving overseas with the R.C.A.F. for two years during which time he was awarded the D.F.C. by His Majesty the King.

During the evening's program, Rotarian George Switzer and his sister-in-law, Miss Elizabeth Robertson, a guest, whose birthdays were on Tuesday were presented with gifts by F. G. Mills, on behalf of the Club.

Tony Holmes extended the thanks of the Club to the ladies of Selby United Church for the bountiful dinner they had served.

The Governor was introduced by W. A. Grainge and thanks were expressed to him by C. E. Jamieson on behalf of the Club. Mrs. Brownell, the Governor's wife, was presented with a wedgewood plate, by Charlie Walters and Mrs. W. R. Huston.

The District Governor John M. Brownell, is Vice-President of the High School at Alexandria Bay N.Y., and is a Charter Member of the Club at the Bay. He is 43 years of age and is a veteran of the Great War in which he served in the U.S. Navy.

Mr. Brownell spoke on the subject "The Junior Partner," stating that one of the most important of the post-war problems, especially to Rotarians, will be child welfare and the education of youth. Unfortunately, he said, in the last generation men were too busy to foster the companionship of their children. It should be borne in mind that children imitate their parents, and with that knowledge, parents should be careful to set a proper example so that children may reflect the best that is in their elders.

Mr. Brownell accented his address with several factual illustrations, one of which was that in the United States about seven times as much is spent to fight crime as to educate youth.

In closing he urged Rotarians to be companions to their children, to cultivate the co-operation of youth and work together with them to overcome the problems of the day.

THANKSGIVING

It is a genuine mark of a people's religious background and faith that the Government, once a year, proclaims a day of thanksgiving, not for some great and special event in the Nation's life, but because the Harvest has been reaped. We in this country are singularly fortunate. No bomber has dropped bombs on our homes. No marauding army has pillaged the countryside. None of us have been driven out of our dwellings by the exigencies of war. To be sure there have been great losses in life. The list of those who have given themselves in the great struggle mounts with each passing day. Few remain untouched by the loss of friends or relatives. Yet our homes, our institutions, our countryside have remained unscathed, while half the world has suffered the nightmare of battle.

In spite of the rapid expansion of our industrial processes during the past five years, Canada is still a good producing country. A trip through the countryside these bright October days shows men and boys, yes, and women, too, at work in the fields; fruit is being picked, potatoes are being digged, and the hum of the threshing machine is heard in the land. We have had good crops this year. The soil has returned her produce. There is plenty of food for ourselves and much to ship to other parts of the world. Ontario, with its diversified farming, has produced bountifully — all sorts of fruit and cereals, and animal products. The prices have been good and the farming community, which is the background of the Nation's life, is prosperous and satisfied. The West, which is a great granary of Empire, promises a good crop of wheat. Early snow has interfered with harvesting in some districts, but snow does not permanently damage the wheat, and the return is promising. We will be able to do our share in providing for the starving people of Europe.

We have much for which to be grateful. Thanksgiving, particularly under the circumstances which prevail this year, should mean more than a holiday. It might well be a day of humble gratitude to God for all our blessings, and a recognition of our dependence on Providence, through rain, and sun, for Nature's gifts available for us in a quantity so great, that we are the envy of the world.

V

STEADY DOES IT

A few weeks ago, when the Armies of the United Nations were sweeping the Germans out of France, people were expecting the war to end in a few days. Predictions as to the probable date of its ending were common. Even men in high positions were not averse to taking a chance on hinting that it won't be long now. It is a strange commentary on the fickleness of human nature that, immediately there was a halt at the Siegfried Line, public opinion veered round sharply. We are warned not to be too optimistic, and many writers and some commentators are holding out the prospect of a winter stalemate at the West Wall.

The truth of the matter is hard to arrive at. But certainly we should guard ourselves against an over-optimism on the one hand, which assumes it is all over but the cheers, and undue pessimism on the other, that the Armies are bogged down for the winter. The task of following up the gains made, of redistributing the forces and consolidating the bridgeheads, insuring adequate supplies of all kinds, is one of colossal magnitude. It all takes time — and yet, time is the essence of the situation. The Nazi Armies must not be given time to make their preparations. They must be harried and worried and pounded incessantly, until the Armies of the United Nations are ready to strike with all their force again.

These are some of the reasons for the conditions which prevail at the West Wall. We may rest assured that the Germans are not going to surrender easily. We may be sure, too, that the Armies of the United Nations are not going to give the Enemy much rest. It would be a mistake to move until they were ready. The value of perfect planning and adequate preparation was never better demonstrated than on D-Day. Similarly at the West Wall. Another invasion has to be made, and all the meticulous care and planning that made possible the success in Normandy, has once more to be done. There are signs now that the day of waiting has passed. It may well be that the battles now in progress will break a way through the West Wall, which will provide a road to Berlin.

DEGAULLE HAS A PLAN

General Charles de Gaulle was a problem for The United Nations for a long time. The situation between those who were for de Gaulle and those who were 'against' him, became so tense that it threatened the harmony of the two great English-speaking peoples. Since D-Day, however, this tension has been eased, and deGaulle has gone back to his homeland, the hero of the French people, backed up by both the British and the United States Governments. Consequently, anything that he has to say to the French people, has some importance. He speaks with authority, and his ideas will be respected. There is more than a passing interest, therefore, in the address which General de Gaulle gave on Monday. In this address, for the first time since the invasion of Normandy, the French Leader dealt with the economic set-up in France. He said, among other things: "We have reached the point where it is no longer possible to admit the concentration of interests known as trusts, which to-day answer our needs no more than did the military feudal system."

The tenor of the address, if we are to judge it by the all too brief accounts which have been published to-date, is that there must be more state control of industry. The address, so the dispatch says: "included state control of all resources, and an equal share of the national income for all Frenchmen."

This is a forthright position. Apparently, de Gaulle has been doing a lot of thinking about economic problems, as well as military ones. There can be no quarrel with the position taken by the General. It is in keeping with modern trends. The unrestricted competition which had much to commend it in the early days of modern manufacturing and merchandising, led to amalgamations, combinations, trusts, and cartels. The result was seen at its worst in the depression, when food and goods were destroyed and manufactured goods kept off the market by the great "interests."

Germany tried to solve this problem in one way, Russia in another, and now the Democracies are planning to achieve the control of the natural and other resources of the various countries, each in their own way. President Roosevelt has come out against the continuance of cartels; now de Gaulle comes out against trust. Great Britain is tackling the problem in her own fashion. All, however, are seeking a control of the wealth of the nations, and a more equitable distribution of national income. This is a healthy sign, and may go far towards preventing, in the future, the conditions, out of which war grows.

V

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

Sometimes we are apt to underrate the ingenuity, the prowess and the skill of our own military leadership. The Germans had built up such a tradition for military efficiency that we had almost accepted the tradition as fact. When the history of this war is written it will be seen that The United Nations have outwitted, outfought and outplanned the Germans on many points. In an interview with a reporter, last week, General Montgomery said that when the war was over, he would like to have a chat with Rommell, to find out how his mind works and to discover why he made so many decisions that were disastrous to his side.

Perhaps one of the most thrilling stories of the way in which our leaders have beaten the plans of the enemy, has now been released by the British Bureau of Information. It tells of the conquest of the robots. The Germans were depending on these to crush Britain. They established a strongly-guarded secret experimental area, hundreds of miles from any Allied probable bombing target. There, were gathered the great German scientists and thousands of workers. The plan was discovered by The United Nations. The place was bombed to bits and all the work, along with most of the personell, destroyed. They had to begin all over again. That took time, a lot of precious time.

Then the Germans began to build the ramps from which to launch the robots against England. These were discovered by the United Airmen. Day and night, for months, they were pounded until, new launching sites further inland had to be built. That took time, precious time. While this was going on, German industry was being converted from producing planes to making robots. They were depending more on the secret weapon than on the more orthodox bombers. Meantime, preparations for D-Day went steadily forward. The robots which the Germans had planned to launch against Britain a year ago, were not ready until a week after the forces of the United Nations had landed in Normandy.

It makes a nice subject for speculation, as to what would have happened had the United Nations not been alert and wise to all that was going on, and taken adequate measures. Had the Germans been able to launch their secret weapon against Britain a few months earlier, the whole invasion plan might easily have been disrupted.

MR. AND MRS. F. F. SHARPE, CELEBRATE THIRTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

(Contributed)

'Echo Farm' Violet. — The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Sharpe was the scene of a delightful gathering when their neighbours and friends met to extend congratulations to them on the occasion of their thirtieth anniversary Saturday evening, September 30th.

During the evening a beautiful bouquet arranged by Mrs. Will Close was presented to Mrs. Sharpe, by little Miss Barbara Knight of Wilton and at this point, little Miss Alice Anne Scouten and Miss Lela Abbott, carried in a gaily decked basket of gifts for the happy couple, followed by Mrs. Close, who read a short, appropriate address, and presented Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe with a pair of boudoir lamps from the club of which they have been members for the past five years

Mrs. Sharpe responded, thanking their friends for the way they had chosen to keep the memory of the thirtieth anniversary green in their memory. A host of lovely gifts came out of the mysterious basket, china, crystal, pottery, lustre ware and pyrex. It was truly a basket full of surprises and warm wishes.

Delicious refreshments brought the happy event to a close, after which the guests extended their sincerest greetings to the family. Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe's sons, Billie and Jack, had previously presented their mother and dad with a bouquet of thirty American Beauty roses, in honour of the occasion. Jack, the older son is serving his country on the hospital ship 'Lady Nelson' and could not be home with his family, but he too has the good wishes of the community

Post-War Fire Problems of Industry

Toronto.—Support of next month's fire prevention week is being urged on Ontario industrialists by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations. In a memorandum issued by the Associations, there is an article by W. L. Clairmont, Dominion Fire Commissioner, dealing with post-war fire problems of industry.

The article says: "Based on the experience of the last war fire losses are likely to arise from the inactivity of war industries. Part of the solution to the post-war fire prevention problem would appear to be to keep the wheels of industry turning and not allow the many plants now producing materials for war to become obsolescent."

Because fire prevention has played such an important role in this war Mr. Clairmont hopes that the fire-consciousness which has been developed will carry through into the post-war years. He points out, "to keep the idea of fire prevention constantly before the public we need the active support of our industrialists."

In conclusion, Mr. Clairmont emphasizes "a cause in which hundreds of lives and millions of dollars worth of property are at stake is one that must call for the support of every public-minded citizen."

Ont. Division Red Cross Post War Plans

Toronto Sept 25. — The question of what should constitute activities of Canadian Red Cross in Ontario following cessation of hostilities was set forth in a report which Colonel J. W. Langmuir presented to the executive committee of Ontario Division of Red Cross. "The great name which Red Cross has achieved in this war will be maintained by the continued operation of branches in times of peace," he said. Rehabilitation of members of the armed forces (men's and women's divisions), now in military hospitals, at lodges connected with such hospitals, extra medical and surgical services not provided for by government, Visiting Homemakers Service, supplying extra food and instruction in nutrition where necessary, a personal welfare service, and co-operation with all welfare organizations in every community, he listed as essential to the post-war program of continuing Red Cross branches.

He foresaw the continuation after the war of the Red Cross projects of Home Nursing, First Aid, Emergency Reserve, Junior Red Cross, Red Cross Corps. None would demand the vast administrative services necessary in time of war, and many would be on a smaller scale. Branches in operation only during this war should feel it their duty to continue their services in a limited degree. Preparation for any emergency and adequate preparation for immediate relief in the event of disaster, was the job of every Red Cross branch now and in the future.

GRADE 1 GUIDE FOR RELIGIOUS TEACHING READY

Teachers' guides or textbooks on religious education instruction in grades one of public schools of Ontario are being distributed to-day by the Ontario Department of Education and will be used in conjunction with the teachers' manual recently distributed.

The guides for grades two and upwards will be distributed when received from the printers.

The grade one guide is entitled "The Friend of Little Children" and is to be regarded as provisional and experimental. The department invites comment and criticism of the guide, particularly on illustrations and class methods. These reports should be in before May 31 next, so a revised edition of the guide may be prepared by an English editorial board and revised by the department for use in Canadian schools.

"In some quarters detailed lesson helps of this kind are regarded with disfavor on the ground that they spoon-feed the teachers or encourage the less energetic to avoid the discipline of personal study," the guide states. "Best lessons are undoubtedly the result of personal preparation by each teacher with his or her own class in mind. Many teachers are not in a position to work out their own lessons from the outline laid down in the course of study. The teaching of Scripture is a specialized subject requiring as much training and expert knowledge as other subjects in the curriculum. The increasing pressure on the home makes it more and more difficult for the teacher to give that needful study which will make the Scripture lesson as effective as it ought to be. It is emphasized the book is a guide to the teacher and should not take the place of individual selection and adaptation for the particular class. The best use the teacher can make of the guide both for himself and the class is to regard it as a walking stick and not a crutch."

Devroping Minds

The guide states the teacher is like a gardener "nurturing tiny and delicate plants rather than that of a mother at the breakfast table filling cups with tea." The child's mind is a living and developing thing, not an empty receptacle into which facts have to be poured, says the guide.

The guide adds "the two leading thoughts that little children should be led to grasp are the facts of the love of the Heavenly Father and that Jesus is their friend."

Lesson one coupled with a Scriptural reference, is on the wheat harvest, next the vegetable harvest, the harvest of fruits and then the lesson on "home and helpfulness, helping neighbours."

Transportation For Wounded 'Shocks' New Glasgow Mayor

New Glasgow, N.S., (C.P.)— Criticism of the sending of wounded Nova Scotia soldiers home from Halifax with only second class train transportation after their arrival aboard hospital ships was expressed, last week, by Mayor Donald MacLeod.

"I am shocked to see badly wounded men from the fighting fronts arrive at our terminal city here in second railway accommodations provided," the mayor said, "I cannot too strongly protest that wounded personnel be given second class rail tickets. They should get pullman berths."

The mayor made his criticism in a statement. It was prompted by his meeting two returned soldiers from Nova Scotia on Sunday night after they had landed during the week-end aboard a hospital ship.

He said there was a contrast between the treatment of these soldiers and the special train by which the lieutenant-governor early had travelled from Halifax to Kentville, N.S., this week.

Mayor MacLeod said he planned to write a letter to the army authorities which would be taken before the town council for endorsement.

FOREST MILLS W. A.

Mrs. Bert Asselstine opened her home for the September meeting of the Woman's Association of the United Church. There was a good attendance of members and their guests of the Roblin Woman's Association.

Mrs. M. Sanford conducted the devotional and was assisted by Rev. Lewis. Misses Marion Young and Shirley Armstrong contributed a vocal duet.

The president, Mrs. Bert Asselstine presided for the business. Each member is to donate an article at the next meeting for the bazaar. It was decided to pay the share on the taxes for the parsonage.

The visiting president, Mrs. Stanley Lasher and members presented a very interesting literary and musical programme. At the close a contest arranged by Mrs. Volney Woods was won by Mrs Elburn Cook.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

VICTORIA W. I.

The Victoria Women's Institute held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. E. A. McQuaig. The meeting opened with the ode followed by the creed. Owing to the illness of the convener, Mrs. A. Graham had charge of the programme which consisted of community singing, a quiz by Mrs. Graham and a very interesting paper on Historical Records which was given by Mrs. McLeod. Various collections of Indian money, horseheads and many other Indian novelties were passed around for everyone to see. Current events were given by Mrs. Edgar and a humorous reading by Mrs. D. Wood. A vegetable and fruit contest by Mrs. Graham, the prize winner being Mrs. Edgar.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and her helpers.

WILL YOU HELP THIS WINTER?

If you are not required on the farm this winter you should take other work.

Extra winter workers are needed for woods operations—logging and pulpwood and fuel cutting—base metal mines, coal mines, meat packing and cold storage, grain handling, railway track maintenance, iron foundries and other high priority occupations, varying with the area.

Please offer your services to:

The nearest Employment and Selective Service Office; or

The nearest Provincial Agricultural Representative; or

Your Local Farm Production Committee.

A good response to this appeal is important to Canada's welfare—please act immediately.

Postponement of Military Training continues while in approved essential work off the farm.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 8TH, 1944

JESUS' PROGRAMME FOR MEETING LIFE'S PROBLEMS
Lesson Text: Matthew 4: 1-4; 6-21-34. Luke 4: 16-21.

Jesus was led of the Spirit into the wilderness, not necessarily a desert, but a quiet place where He could face the implications of His Messiahship. He went, as the Bible says, to be tempted of the Devil. We need not suppose a personal devil appeared that would be too easy. Mostly anyone could resist temptation, posed by such a one. No! the temptations were much more subtle. They involved a deep inner struggle on which Jesus had to decide once and for all certain fundamental attitudes to life.

Jesus fasted as He contemplated His future. Such periods of fasting are more common in the East than they are with us. Ghandi fasts every once in a while, especially when he is facing some vital problem. Jesus was too preoccupied with spiritual needs to think about His body. It was only when the struggle was over that he was 'so hungered' that His bodily needs became imperative.

The particular temptation here described is the temptation to get along without work. If He did not have to work then He could devote all His time to doing his particular work. Well! Jesus made His decision. He put away the temptation to test God's power. It is a good thing for the world that He did so. His conquest marked Him as ready for anything that God had in store for Him. Jesus was ready to go forward in trust and in faith. "Man," Jesus pointed out, "does not live by bread alone." To be sure, men must have bread. We must live. There have been times in recent years when men and women and little children have been denied bread. During those years, churches and ministers were loud in their denunciation of a system which permitted people to starve in the midst of plenty. And that is as it should be. All the same, bread is not enough. Beneath the maldistribution of food in our generation, is a moral degradation which is eating the vitals of on society. We will not get a just economic order until we get good men. Jesus knew that. He was not concerned with plans, but He was concerned with men and women, with their deep spiritual needs. Our modern Christians have laid on them a terrible responsibility in having unto them the Kingdom of God all those now outside its borders to bring to all men a saving knowledge of Christ. Not until men are committed to His way is there hope for a just order and a durable peace.

We are living in days of great strain or tension. The growing prevalence of heart attacks, especially among middle-aged business men, is a result to a very large extent of these tensions, and of the business worries which the strain of war has increased. Look around at the number of comparatively young men who have had heart attacks in the past few years. It will surprise you more-ly to recount the number. Invariably the doctor will tell the patient not to worry. "Have no thought for tomorrow." Jesus knew that only trust in God, faith in His Fatherly care can remove the tensions of life and bring peace, contentment and happiness.

Then in the final passage of this study, Jesus gives us the heart of His own message He returned home back to His old home town, went to church and read the lesson, then sat down. The lesson He read was significant. He said that He Himself was the fulfilment of it. He would preach the gospel to the poor. He would heal the broken-hearted. He would recover sight to the blind. He would set at liberty those that were bruised. There's a programme for you. Suppose the Church did that. Suppose each church member did just that, and why not? Is not that what are the aspects of His followers. When the men and the women who have committed themselves to Christ, take that commitment seriously, and go out to implement in action the teachings of the Master, confident of God's everpresent, never-failing help, the Kingdom will not long be delayed.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, Oct. 3. — Mr. and Mrs. Elden and Mrs. Stanley and Merle, of Lyn, called at the parsonage on their way to Brockville.

Leslie Hall, of the R.A.A., Yarmouth N.S. who has been spending the past two weeks at the parsonage, left on Monday night for Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

Sunday evening saw the first of a series of Song - Festes to be held in the United Church throughout this coming winter. The Song-Feste was largely attended and very hearty gospel hymn singing took place under the leadership of Lucille Wightman, with Bessie King at the piano. Special numbers, a solo from Eileen Hounslow and Leslie Hall, also an inspiring message from the latter, added to a fine evening. Watch for forthcoming announcements with regard to the Song-Festes, when witnesses for Christ from other parts of the province will participate.

Presentation and 'Safe Journey'

Following the evening service at Temple Baptist Church Yarmouth, N.S. last Sunday evening, the young people and members of the congregation gathered in the church vestry to wish 'Safe Journey' to Mrs R. Wightman, who was returning to her home in Newburgh, Ontario, after having spent the summer here in Yarmouth with her husband. Ralph Wightman, assisted by Leslie Hall led a lively sing-song which included special numbers by Miss J. Eldridge, Mrs. Fenton, Albert Button, Mrs. H. Eldridge and Mrs. R. Wightman.

The pastor, Rev. A. H. Whitman, presented Mrs. Wightman on behalf of those present, with a lovely gift as a tangible expression of the appreciation which they wished to show to her for her willingness to help wherever called upon, especially in the field of music, during her short stay in Yarmouth.

In reply Mrs. Wightman said she felt that she had really done nothing to deserve this token; she remarked in passing that she was also taking back with her a bottle of salt water as a souvenir of Yarmouth.

She expressed her thanks to all whom she had met during her visit here for the kindness that they had shown her and expressed the hope that she would be able some day to again visit Yarmouth and Temple Church. At the conclusion of the sing-song the ladies of the church assisted by the young people, served tea at which time everyone had an opportunity to wish god-speed personally to Mrs. Wightman.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Oct. 2. — A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at Yarker parsonage Monday, September 25th, when Rev. W. G. Fletcher united in marriage Florence Fern, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Boulton and Cecil Luverne Griffith of Camden East. The bride looked charming in a two-piece Alice blue lace gown over pink satin, with hat to match and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. The bride was attended by Mrs. Hubert Yeomans, who wore a street-length frock of fuschia crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. Hubert Yeomans was best man. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was gold earrings and to the best man a Ronson lighter. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to Napanee, where a wedding dinner was served. Returning to Camden East, the bride donned her travelling suit of black, trimmed with blue, blue accessories and a black coat. Amid showers of rice and confetti, the happy couple left for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Rochester, N.Y. On their return they will reside in Camden East.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Sept. 29. — Thursday evening, September 21, Mrs. Clifford Milligan entertained twenty-eight guests at a shower in honour of Miss Marguerite Gilmour, bride-elect of the month. Court whist was played during the evening, the winners being Miss Laura Kirkpatrick and Miss Nellie MacDonald. After a delicious lunch, Miss Gilmour was invited to a prettily decorated chair, and Miss Doris Chapin and Miss Rowena Milligan carried in a gaily decorated basket, well filled with gifts. Miss Gilmour opened and displayed the gifts, heartily thanking everyone for their kindness.

On Saturday afternoon, September 23, Mrs. F. W. Proste entertained at afternoon tea in honour of Miss Marguerite Gilmour. Mrs. Proste, assisted by Miss Dougal Ryan, received the guests, who were shown to the livingroom, very attractively decorated with cut flowers. The dining table was very lovely with an Italian cut-work cloth, long white tapers in silver candlesticks and was centred with bowl of coloured flowers in a silver bowl. Mrs. Robert Gilmour and Mrs. Dan Gilmour poured tea. Refreshments were served by several girl friends of Marguerite. During the afternoon Mrs. Proste spoke of Marguerite's willingness to help in all branches of church work as well as community activities, especially on the flower committee. She concluded her remarks by wishing Marguerite every happiness in her new home. The bride-elect thanked Mrs. Proste and all present very sincerely.

On Friday evening, Sept. 22 at the home of Mr and Mrs Smith Gilmour over forty friends gathered at a shower in honour of Miss Marguerite Gilmour, bride-elect of the month. Upon her arrival, Miss Gilmour was escorted to an armchair decorated in pink and white, over which was hung a large white bell, filled with wrapped parcels. With a low bow these were placed by David in front of Miss Gilmour, who proceeded to open them, assisted by Miss Margaret McGregor. During the opening of gifts, showers of confetti fell from the bell above her head. After the gifts were opened and displayed Miss Gilmour thanked everyone for being so generous. Mrs Thomas Scouten then asked the attention of the guests and expressed to Miss Gilmour on behalf of the Women's Institute appreciation of her help to the Institute especially in the Girls Club work. Mrs. Easterbrooke, president of the Institute, presented Miss Gilmour with a silverware teapot. In Miss Gilmour's reply of thanks, she also spoke of the great help she had derived from her work in the Girls Club and highly recommended all these classes to the girls. Pte. Sid Jolly read a letter which came by mail. One of the gifts received by Miss Gilmour was a Bridge Book. This was shown and several of the items in it were read by different guests. Mrs. Lockhead sang "I Love You Truly" and Miss Mitchell played several piano solos after which lunch was served in the dining room where a pinch and social time was enjoyed by all.

On Wednesday last, September 27, a shower was given in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradshaw, at the Beaver Lake Pavilion. The evening was spent in dancing. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received for which Mr. Bradshaw on behalf of his wife, thanked the assembly. Lunch was served to about 300 guests.

The September meeting of the Women's Institute was held on September 28 at the home of Mrs. Clarence Milligan. The president, Mrs. H. Easterbrooke opened the meeting with the ode and creed. The roll call was answered by 'Who built my house and why.' The secretary read the minutes of the June meeting and business was dealt with. Mrs. Earl Bradshaw had charge of the program. Historical Research and opened this part of the meeting with a solo by Miss Dougal Ryan. A history quiz was enjoyed by all the ladies being Mrs. Clifford Milligan and Mrs. Hawley. The meeting closed with the National Anthem after which lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

Mr. F. W. Chapin of Toronto spent the past week visiting his daughter Miss Doris Chapin, at the home of Mrs. Smith Gilmour.

Mrs. W. G. Richmond is spending some time visiting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Truscott in Ulverton, Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnston of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Amey, Mrs. Boulton and daughter, Mrs. Mayeow, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bradshaw, of Rochester, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradshaw.

Mrs. Darius Detlor has returned home after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Stanford Thompson, of Northbrook.

A number from this village attended the Tweed Fair on Friday last.

Mrs. Hubert MacKinley, of Seeley's Bay, visited at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. Detlor, one day last week.

On Monday evening, September 18 a miscellaneous shower was given in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cowdy, in the Town Hall, here. The evening was spent in dancing to the music of the Nolan Orchestra. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received for which Mr. Cowdy, on behalf of his wife, thanked the assembly sincerely. Lunch was served to about 200 guests.

Why did you break off your engagement with Mabel?

When we were looking over a flat, her mother said it was too small for three.

Mose, charged with theft, was on the witness stand, and the judge sought to discover if he knew the value of an oath. He said:

"Mose, if you tell a lie under oath, do you know what happens?"

Mose: Yassuh Jedge, I goes to Hell.

Judge: And if you tell the truth?

Mose: I goes to Jail.

Into One Pocket—Sure! but OUT of the other

Each of us is both consumer and producer.

As a producer each of us would like to get MORE money for our goods or services.

As a consumer each of us wants the costs of living kept down.

But we can't have it both ways.

As long as goods are scarce and money plentiful, prices have to be controlled or they'd jump sky high.

If prices are to be kept down, then costs of production including salaries, wages and raw materials must also be controlled.

One Person Can Start It!

When any one of us:—

- offers to pay more than legal prices;
- asks higher returns for his services;
- asks higher prices for his goods.

He helps start a chain that forces every one else to do the same and nobody is better off.

THIS IS ONE OF A SERIES ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA TO EMPHASIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF PREVENTING FURTHER RISE IN THE COST OF LIVING NOW, AND DEFLATION LATER.

MISERIES OF Baby's Cold Relieved As He Sleeps

Now . . . here's reliable home-proved medication that works 2 ways at once to relieve distress of child's cold—even while he sleeps! Just rub throat, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Instantly VapoRub starts to relieve coughing spasms, ease muscular soreness or tightness, and invite restful, comforting sleep. Often by morning, most of the misery is gone.

For baby's sake, try VapoRub tonight. It must be good, because when colds strike, most mothers use Vicks VapoRub.

"Elmer wears his Sunday best to eat this ice"

"And why shouldn't I?" rumbled Elmer. "It's so good, I have to celebrate somehow!"

"That's right," smiled Elsie, the Borden Cow. "Borden's Ice Cream is a treat that, makes any occasion seem like a party. Every mouthful is so creamy-smoo-o-th, so full of delicious flavor, so refresh . . ."

"Gee, Mamma!" interrupted little Beulah, "what makes it so wonderful?"

"Well, dear," answered Elsie, "Borden's system of Quality Control is applied to making Borden's Ice Cream bricks and Borden's Mel-O-rol, too. Only the purest and best ingredients are used."

Treat your family regularly to Borden's Mel-O-rol or brick Ice Cream . . . in various delicious flavors.

Anglican Junior W.A. Awarded First Prize In Dom. Competition

The prizes for Junior W. A. Dorcas work in the Dominion Competitions have been announced by Mrs. J. H. Elliott, the Dominion Junior Secretary. The Junior W.A. of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Napanee, had been awarded first prize in the competition. There are 670 Junior branches in the Dominion with a membership of 16,844. The branch prize was a beautiful coloured picture entitled "The Hope of the World".

The competition included two grades of work — A. for hand made dolls and B. for stuffed toy animals. The following members sent in entries and were awarded prizes:

Gale Roffey—1st prize for doll.
Florence Shaw—1st prize for doll.
Janie Wilson—2nd prize for doll.
Barbara Hawley—2nd prize for doll.
Eleanor Sladden—2nd prize, doll.

These receiving Honourable Mention Certificates for stuffed animals were as follows: Lois Tustin, Barbara Ham, Wanda Hawley, Jean Knuth, Mary Grass, Eva Walker, Marjorie Dibb and Jacqueline Baker.

Prizes for Perfect Attendance at 27 meeting were awarded to Marjorie Dibb, Barbara Hawley and Eva Welker.

The prizes of books were presented at the open meeting on Monday afternoon, by Archdeacon Dumbrille who congratulated the leader, Mrs. Percy Chambers, and the members on achieving this honour in the Junior W. A. work. The articles sent in are used for Christmas gifts for children in isolated parishes in the Far West.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWN - FRIZZELL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 23rd, at 1:30 p.m., in the United Church, Marlbank, when Helen Elizabeth, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Frizzell, Tamworth, became the bride of Earl Garnet, second son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Sharp's Corners. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Baugh, and the altar was beautifully decorated with fern and fall flowers.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Archie Meeks, aunt of the bride. She was charming in a floor-length gown of white sheer over taffeta, with a floor-length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and red roses.

Miss Ruth Embury, as bridesmaid was gowned in a street-length dress of turquoise blue silk sheer over taffeta, with matching turban and shoulder veil, and wore a corsage of roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Gerald Frizzell, brother of the bride, and ushers were Mr. Thornton Brown and Mr. Herbert Frizzell.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Elwood Brown sang very sweetly "Oh Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, for about forty guests. Mrs. Frizzell received in a sundeck blue silk crepe dress with corsage of delphinium. The groom's mother was attired in a two-piece orchid silk crepe dress and wore a corsage of delphinium.

The bride's home was decorated with pink and white streamers, and the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Mr. Baugh and was responded to by the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and chain, to the bridesmaid a compact, to the best man a gold tie set, to the ushers brush sets, to the organist and soloist, compacts.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti on a trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and points west. For travelling the bride wore a brown tweed suit, with matching accessories. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm.

OBITUARIES

THE LATE EDMUND PRUE

The death ocurred suddenly at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, on Wednesday, September 6th, of Edmund Prue. He had been ill only a few days, and his sudden death was a shock to his many friends and relatives. He was fifty-one years old and was born in Hungerford Township, the eldest son of Mrs. John Prue and the late Mr. Prue. The funeral was held on Friday morning at 9:30 at the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, where Rev. Father Fowell celebrated Requiem Mass.

He leaves to mourn his loss his mother, Mrs. John Prue, five brothers and four sisters: Surphine and Sidney of Tamworth; Oakley of Binghampton, N.Y.; Theodore, Canaque, and Fred; Mrs. Frank Langevin, (Delia) Stocco.. Theresa Prue and Mrs. John Sheppee (Stella) of Belleville; Mrs. W. D. Clark (Mabel) of Kingston.

The pall-bearers were Messrs Wilbert Carney, M. J. Barrett, J. S. Haggerty, Clarence Milligan, Jos. Lacey, William Murphy.

CANADIANS DO NOT FORGET

BY A PADRE IN ITALY

"This morning they brought into our Field Dressing Station an Indian lad with a Saskatchewan number. His officer showed he was of the United Church. He had a bad mortar wound in the abdomen and it is uncertain whether he will live. He had lost much blood, and the transfusion was slowly taking effect, passing into his veins drop by drop. Everlasting praise to our blood donors in Canada.

"I stood by him, trying to give the encouragement of a padre's words and sympathy. Presently he fell asleep. After lunch I waited for him in the operating tent. A verse from the Psalm: 'Wait on the Lord, be of good courage and He shall strengthen thine heart' 'God bless you lad. I'll see you when you wake up.' He gave my hand a squeeze and smiled.

"As I came away I was glad our Church had not forgotten the Indian."

Thanksgiving Services At Trinity Church

Thanksgiving service will be held in Trinity United Church next Sunday. The choir under the leadership of Mrs. J. E. Madden, is preparing special music for the occasion.

Dr. F. W. Stapleford, who is supplying the pulpit during the illness of Rev. G. M. Chidley will preach. The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Church and National Life," and at the evening service the subject will be "The Vision of a Better Future."

The evening service will begin at 7.00 oclock.

Belleville Presbyterial Executive Meeting Held In Bridge Street Church

BY FLORENCE MACMULLEN

An Executive Meeting and Workers' Conference of Belleville Presbyterial was held in Bridge Street United Church, on Tuesday September 19th, with fifteen members of the executive and several presidents of auxiliaries in attendance.

A beautiful basket of gladioli graced the piano and the presiding, Mrs. Stanley Spafford, presided over the two sessions.

The morning worship was taken by Mrs. Earl Bailey, using the theme "Giving and and Receiving," with Mrs. J. N. Lovelace at the piano.

Definite plans for the Fall rallies are not complete but they will be held the second or third week of October, at Ivanhoe, Foxboro and Napanee.

Rev. Fred Lane, Home Missions secretary, told of the work of his department in the North country.

Several items of special interest from the Nineteenth Annual Report of the W. M. S. activities of the Dominion of Canada, were presented and all were urged to read the valuable information found in its pages. There are 2,483 auxiliaries, with a membership of 62,335. W.M.S. women and the total membership of all missionary organizations is 165,690, of this Belleville Presbyterial has 76 auxiliaries and 2,000 membership.

Each officer answered roll call with a statement of her duties and problems.

The treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Bunt, said the finances were $6,188.42 for the first six months. A special increase is being asked from all auxiliaries.

The ladies of Bridge Street served an appetizing dinner, which all enjoyed.

Mrs. Thomas Wilson based the afternoon worship on 'Stewardship of All of Life'. The various secretaries brought messages from their departments, which included post war plans, enrolling all missionary members for temperance, the advisability of ordering the magazines early, sending in interesting material to press secretary for publication in the Monthly, Fall C.G.I.T. rallies, Japanese Christians in Canada, and the great need for new candidates.

TRADE DEPARTMENT WILL BE CREATED AT ONTARIO HOUSE

To assist producers throughout this province to secure overseas markets the Ontario House in London, England is creating an industrial and trade department.

Major J. S. P. Armstrong, Ontario Agent General, said the new department will be under the direction of an Ontario trained industrial engineer and recognized authority on trade and commerce. "The department will operate in close liaison with Ontario producers," he said. "The British want to do business with Canada. The department will give accurate, unbiased information on conditions in this province sufficient to enable an intelligent, long range analysis to be prepared.

The Agent General said the Canadian end of Ontario House is largely centred on the Department of Planning and Development. He said that advanced planning already accomplished in Ontario would save much time and confusion when hostilities cease.

Major Armstrong said that more than 10 000 Britishers have indicated a desire to settle in this province after the war. He stressed that Ontario servicemen would be given first priority in emmployment opportunities and that no immigration from the British Isles into Ontario was contemplated until this obligation had been met in full.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

x x x

On September 26 the Sillsville W. A. met in the hall with five in attendance to do war work. Owing to the small number present, the quilt was not finished. The treasurer gave a report of money taken in and the amount paid out for different material and the amount on hand at the present time. Lunch was served and the amount of $1.10 was collected. The next meeting will be in two weeks' time, October 10.

DORLAND

Dorland, Sept. 30 — Harvesting buckwheat, etc was held up the early part of the week by the damp, cloudy weather, but the heavy rain Thursday, cleared the air and work is moving again. Light frost has been reported, but no damage, as yet.

Rev. F. J. Armitage, B.A., of Bay Circuit, delivered two inspirational sermons at the anniversary services conducted in the United Church here last Sunday. Special music was furnished by the choir at both services. Beautiful dahlias and gladiolus adorned the church.

The unfavorable weather discouraged attendance at the Napanee Fair but quite a number are attending Picton Fair and report a good showing and a large crowd on Friday.

Rev. F. J. Armitage and son were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John, on Sunday last.

Mr. Albert Magee and Miss G. Smith, Kingston, and Mrs. G. L. Minaker and children, Milford, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bird Sunday.

Mrs. Gladys McLeod, Douglas, is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman John.

In Loving Memory

DAVIS — In proud and loving memory of my dear cousin, Sergeant Vernon Davis who gave his life, his all, in Italy, October 4th. 1943.
May his reward in Heaven
Be as great as his sacrifice on earth.
Remembered by 40ap MRS. HUGH TYNER.

DAVIS — In loving memory of our hero son, Sergeant Vernon Davis, who was killed in action, October 4, 1943.
Somewhere in Italy, in a soldier's grave
Lies our dear son, Vernon, among the brave.
He never shunned his country's call
And died, beloved by one and all
Lovingly remembered by his WIFE (Overseas)
40ap MOTHER and FATHER,
and Sister, LORETTA.

HUGHES — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Thomas Hughes, who died on October 2nd, 1940.
Not to-day, but every day.
In silence we remember.
Ever remembered by his WIFE.
40ap SON DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

GALT — In loving memory of John W. Galt, who passed away so suddenly on October 9th, 1934.
Too far away for voice or speech
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sadly missed by Grandchildren.
40a PANSY and WALTER.

VANDERVOORT—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Charles W Vandervoort, who died one year ago to-day, October 4th.
Ever remembered by
HIS CHILDREN
40a and GRANDCHILDREN.

Rev. C. W. DeMille Speaks on Temperance

A special service for all the Bay Pastoral Charge of the United Church was held in Hay Bay Church last Sunday afternoon (October 1) and was attended by a large congregation. The minister, Rev. F. J. Armitage conducted the service and an address on the situation as regards the liquor traffic in Ontario was delivered by Rev. C. W. DeMille, D.D., secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation. The address was factual and persuasive, and charged with deep earnestness, and impressed the congregation. A substantial offering was received for the work of the Federation.

Added interest was given to the occasion from the fact that this was a return of Mr. DeMille to a pastorate in which he served more than thirty years ago, and with great success. He was warmly welcomed by his old friends.

A male quartette composed of Messrs. Karl Claire and Grant Sexsmith and Mr. Huyck, rendered a selection with deep feeling. Mrs. Wilfred McCabe accompanied on the organ.

J. D. MAYHEW

Special Speaker at Newburgh Church

Newburgh, Oct. 2 — The illustrated message delivered by Dr. Dorman Clarke of North Carolina, at the United Church Newburgh last Wednesday evening, was very suggestive of the possibilities for groups and individuals to make a real contribution toward the extension of the Kingdom of God. His message was "The Lord's Acre Plan." The idea is that someone might dedicate a piece of land, an acre more or less, and what is grown on that land be given for the Lord's work—and this over and above the regular givings. It might be that a boy would undertake to raise a calf or pig and give part or all of the sale money. Some younger brothers or a Sunday school class might take a chicken and raise it and give it to the Lord's work. By such means, not only is there an increase in the givings of the people but also an increase in the spiritual life of the people.

Dr. Clarke suggested that some project be set before the people representing the church, repairing the roof, a missionary objective, etc. in order to interest them in the idea

The Late Miss Lena Walters

Miss Margaret Lenora (Lena) Walters, died at her home, Graham St., Napanee, on Friday, September 29th, after an illness of several months.

She was the youngest member of the family of the late James Walters and Margaret Cunningham, and had lived all her life in Napanee. For some years she was associated with her brothers in the tailoring business, established and conducted many years ago by their father, the late James Walters.

During her illness she was a patient at the Kingston General Hospital on several occasions where she underwent treatment. She had been home for some weeks before her death.

Miss Walters is survived by one sister, Miss Agnes Walters, and three brothers, Charles A., George T. and Ernest J. Walters, all of Napanee.

She was a lifelong member of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church, where her funeral was conducted on Sunday afternoon by the rector, Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrill. Interment followed at Riverside Cemetery in the family plot.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. H. E. Boyle, A. E. Holmes, Hawley Searcy, W. K. Huston, Harold McGreer, Gerald F. Smith

The Late Douglas Syer

Funeral service for the late Douglas Syer, 10-year-old son of Corpl. George Syer and Mrs. Syer, Napanee, was conducted at the Wartman Funeral Home on Monday, October 2nd. Rev. H. N. Rabbie had charge of the service and Mrs. Eva Thompson and Mrs. H. N. Rabbie sang "I'll Meet You in the Morning." Interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

He leaves, besides his parents one sister, Shirley. His father is serving with the armed forces overseas.

Second Carload of Red Cross Jam To Britain

Toronto October 3. — "Will you please convey our grateful thanks for this jam. I am pleased to be able to tell you that this has been used in our Emergency Field Kitchens which serve lunch to the inhabitants of bombed houses immediately after a flying bomb raid." This paragraph is contained in a letter dated August 30, from Mr. Tyler, Willesden Centre, organizer for the W.V.S. in London, England. The letter reached Headquarters Jam Division of Red Cross recently. "This jam of yours is better than anything we can get in the shops today — and it has made all the difference to the mid-day meal we serve these people. Everybody is extremely appreciative of your great kindness."

The second carload of jam left the Ontario Division Warehouse in Toronto last week, bound for Britain, making a total of 72,000 pounds of jam and honey sent from Ontario this season through the Joint Red Cross- Women's Institute project.

With a group of United States soldiers, a unit of Canadians is today writing history for Canada with sheer bravery. The Special Service Force wears in battle, an un-adorned U. S. Army uniform. Super-commandos, they train in a shroud of deepest secrecy at Helena, Montana. Now they are fighting on the road to Berlin.

7 OUT OF 8 CANADIAN WOMEN WHO USE DRY YEAST USE ROYAL!

In the homes, all over Canada, loyal, patriotic women are discovering new ways to economize . . . new ways to save money to lend to their country. A little saved here and a little saved there provides money to lend to Canada to help pay for the war. Small sums from millions of Canadians mount to billions when totalled up.

The amount that you may lend to your country may seem a small sum to you, but pennies make dimes and dimes make dollars, and Canada needs every single dollar that every Canadian can save and lend. Canada's need for borrowing is greater now than ever before. Every Canadian must lend, and lend more than before.

Money you save and invest in Victory Bonds will benefit you in a personal way, too. You will have cash, when the war is over, to buy things you want for your home . . . things you are doing without now! . . . cash to pay on a new home . . . to pay on a new car.

WORTH WHILE Wasn't it?
● Citizens of Ontario have responded splendidly in support of necessary restrictions in the use of electricity. Inconvenience from "dim out" conditions, darkened store windows and partly lighted streets have been patriotically accepted in order to save power for the tools of victory. The additional voluntary savings of power by Ontario people also contributed substantially to the victories in Europe.
Your Hydro, which had the responsibility of carrying out the orders of the Dominion Power Controller in Ontario, is grateful for the co-operation of Hydro users.
One trying phase of the war is passing. Now, by conserving and concentrating our efforts for final victory, we may look forward with confidence to an early day when abundant power will be available for peacetime use. The added strength that we have built for war can then be used to bring greater light and safety to more Ontario streets and homes, and take over innumerable tasks on farms, in our homes, and industries.
Plan now to take full advantage, after victory, of the added leisure, convenience and safety that abundant electricity can bring to you.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

MARLBANK

Marlbank, Oct. 2 — Anniversary services in the United Church were well attended on Sunday at both the morning and evening services. Rev. W. H. Baugh delivered two very eloquent sermons, which were listened to with great interest. The choir rendered two anthems at each service, which were in keeping with the services. The anniversary offerings were very gratifying.

Mr and Mrs. Ben. Sedore Napanee, called on friends here on Sunday while returning home from attending Tweed Fair.

The Woman's Association held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. W. G. Burd on Tuesday evening, with an attendance of 33 members. McCutcheon presided and opened hers and visitors. The president, Mrs. the meeting with a hymn, followed by prayer. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs C. Benn. The topic for the meeting was Service. The programme was prepared by Mrs. C. Benn and Mrs J. Jarmin. Rev. Baugh gave a very interesting talk on Service. A recitation was given by Alma Lewis, after which another hymn was sung. A solo was given by Mrs. J. F. York, followed by a reading by Mrs. M Brown. A solo by Edna Benn followed by a reading by Mrs Hurd. The roll was answered by naming a public servant. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Bessie Allen. Business was despatched, after which the meeting was brought to a close with the Mizpah benediction. The treasurer's report was given. Lunch money, over $3.00. A quiz contest was given by Mrs. Benn. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Burd for the use of her home.

Quite a number from here attended Napanee Fair on Tuesday and despite the bad weather a good crowd was in attendance.

A Thanksgiving with Future
Not just for today but for the Future
Let us give thanks. For now the picture clears,
And through the smoke and steel of battle,
The surging, fighting shapes of men,
Is vision of a finer world.
It's been a hope so long—a desperate dream
Tagged with the label "wishful thinking."
Those days are gone. Washed out by blood,
Wiped out by fire at Cherbourg, Caen,
Falaise and Paris, France.
Not yet the end—too soon for that.
But signposts leading to the end
Read Naples, Rome and Florence,
Marseilles, Toulouse and Lyon,
Jassi, Grodno, Brest-Litovsk.
Along these ways the future can be glimpsed
With liberation for the trodden lands,
Four shining freedoms for humanity—
And for proud homes a soldier coming back
To make the ring of happiness complete.
And so—when we sit down this day
The family table with its vacant seat,
Anxiety still at our board,
Let's look beyond—to a shining future
And most of all for that, give thanks.

CHURCHILL CONFERS WITH STALIN IN MOSCOW

Great Advance Made by Russians in Battle Area

WEDNESDAY—

A new United States offensive drove a wedge north of Aachen. First Canadian Army men occupied Merxhem, a northern suburb of Antwerp. British troops pushed ahead eight miles into Holland.

• • •

The Allied Fifth Army took Monghidoro, an important junction eighteen miles south of Bologna, in Italy.

• • •

Polish patriots gave up their 63-day struggle for Warsaw and thousands of insurgents escaped to join the Russian Army.

• • •

The Germans reported that strong Allied forces had landed on the northwest part of Crete.

• • •

THURSDAY—

On the Western Front, the United States Third Army captured strategic Fort Driant at Metz. The British Second Army beat back German counter-attacks north of Nijmegen. Dunkirk civilians were leaving the city during a truce, before an all-out assault.

• • •

Allied Fifth Army men made slight gains but British and Canadian troops on the Adriatic were stalled by bad weather.

• • •

The Russians surged into Yugoslavia on a broad front, reaching within thirty miles of Belgrade.

• • •

In the Pacific, United States heavy bombers smashed Japan's most important source of aviation gasoline in Borneo.

• • •

Half of the German occupation forces on the island of Crete were reported to have been killed by the Allied troops which landed on the island.

• • •

FRIDAY—

The British Second Army gained ground in heavy fighting south of Arnhem. Steady gains were also made by Allied Armies in Holland and in Germany.

• • •

British troops landed from the sea and air in western Greece, seizing Patras.

• • •

The Russians advanced ten miles northeast of Belgrade and the Yugoslav capital was expected to fall at any time.

• • •

SATURDAY—

A new British crossing of the Rhine near Arnhem was reported. The Germans hurried new troops into the break made by the United States First Army, south of Aachen. The First Canadian Army drove across the Leopold Canal and aimed to clear the approaches of the Port of Antwerp. Allied planes struck at Dunkirk, following the end of the truce.

• • •

More than half of the Peloponnesus Peninsula, in Greece, was reported in the Allies' hands and British troops had sealed off the entrance to the Gulf of Corinth.

• • •

Some advances were made in Italy by Allied and United States troops.

• • •

Russian and Yugoslav troops were said to be fighting the Germans in the outskirts of Belgrade.

• • •

Reinforced Japanese troops reached the suburbs of Foochow, last Chinese held major port on the East China coast.

• • •

Allied planes dropped 7,000 tons of bombs on Berlin and other key targets in Germany, on Friday.

• • •

MONDAY—

United States troops penetrated Aachen and had almost closed a trap around the strategic city. Canadian units made a slight advance north of Antwerp. Across the Leopold Canal the Canadians ran into violent opposition from the Nazis.

• • •

In Lithuania the Russians advanced 60 miles on a front of 176 miles in four days. At one point they were only 45 miles from Memel.

• • •

In Italy United States troops went forward in face of strong enemy opposition to within ten miles of Castel San Pietro, an important station on the Bologna-Rimini railroad.

• • •

Allied troops were reported nearing Corinth, in Greece, and Nazi defenders in Corinth and Athens were said to be withdrawing.

• • •

More than 16,000 tons of high explosives were dropped on Germany on Saturday, by 7,000 planes —a record for the war.

• • •

TUESDAY—

The United States Army attempt to isolate Aachen resulted in the last main road out of the city being cut.

• • •

In an attempt to crack the German pocket at the mouth of the Scheldt estuary and open a waterway to Antwerp, Canadian troops in special craft, landed from the sea at the rear of the enemy.

• • •

Soviet troops advanced to within twelve miles of Memel and the last roads from which the Germans might escape from the Baltic States, were under direct Russian gunfire. Russian troops were also reported fighting only fifty miles from Budapest.

• • •

2,000 United States heavy bombers attacked the Rhine city of Koblenz, fifty miles behind the Siegfried Line, on Monday.

• • •

Premier Churchill and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden of Britain, arrived in Moscow on Monday for a conference with Premier Stalin.

VALID DATES FIXED FOR BUTTER COUPONS

Valid dates and coupon numbers for butter up to the end of the year are as follows: October 12, coupons 80 and 81; October 26, Nos. 82 and 83; November 9th, Nos. 84 and 85; November 23rd, Nos. 86 and 87; December 14th, Nos. 88 and 89; December 28th, Nos. 90 and 91. It will be remarked that a three-weeks period between coupons occurs in December. This has been arranged so that a further "butterless week" may help to conserve stocks for consumption during the low-production period of the winter.

PTE. EARL K. CLARKE KILLED IN ACTION ON ITALIAN FRONT

In Italy since last Easter, Pte. Earl K. Clarke, of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment, has been killed in action, according to word received by his wife and parents. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clarke, 34, Chatham St., Belleville, and is a grandson of Mrs. Richard Loucks, Napanee.

Educated in Belleville, Pte. Clarke was employed with the Smith Transport prior to his enlistment in the army in May, 1942. He trained at Kingston and at Woodstock and before going overseas was stationed in Newfoundland. He was killed on September 18th.

Surviving besides his parents are his wife, formerly Helena Marie MacDonald, Kingston Road; two brothers, Harold C. Clarke, and George C. Clarke, and two sisters, Mrs. Jack Boyle and Mrs. Charles Crowe, all of Belleville. A third brother, Raymond, a member of the same regiment was taken prisoner of war on August 26th.

AIRFORCE RECRUITING TO BE DISCONTINUED

The end of recruiting, immediate demobilization of 4,200 potential aircrew, a first-in-first-out general demobilization plan and formation of a Pacific air unit made up of volunteers were announced at a press conference in Ottawa, last Thursday, by Hon. C. G. Power, Air Minister.

In announcing there would be no more recruiting for his force, which now has a strength of 204,000 men, he answered the question which had been widely asked since October 1st, date of scheduled resumption of recruiting after a summer moratorium.

When Mr. Power recently disclosed curtailment in the Commonwealth Air Training Plan by amalgamating training commands, closing out stations and cutting the size of the Air Council, it was widely speculated that if recruiting was restarted it would be on a restricted scale.

He said that an air crew reserve of 4,200 waiting to start training in various schools throughout the country would be given a chance of volunteering for either the Army or Navy and pointed out that the "mechanics" were already set up for arranging such a transfer.

He added that if the men did not volunteer they would be subject to military call under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

First Farmer: Potato bugs ate my whole crop in ten days.

Second Farmer: They ate mine in two days and then roosted in the trees to see if I would plant some more.

Seed Merchant: That's nothing. Right now there's one over there going through my books to see who has ordered seed for next spring.

WHEN THE NEED IS GREATER, FEWER COME!

Mr. Russell T. Kelly, Hamilton, Chairman of the Province of Ontario, Blood Donor Service, wrote the local clinic, as follows:—

"Blood Serum is needed, and needed badly — It is doubtful if in the past two years our supply of serum has been as low as to-day."

Optimistic war news has been the cause for slackening, when actually the need is growing greater.

If some man dies for lack of serum, whose son will it be?

New donors may have an examination at the clinic. Those who have given are urged to return.

The next Clinic will be Thursday morning, October 19th.

250 Tons is Objective in Quinte District

250 Tons of wastepaper will be the objective of a salvage drive to be held in the Bay of Quinte District on October 16th, it was announced by E. Wray VanLuven, Provincial Organizer of Salvage Campaigns for National War Services, who emphasized the importance of salvage, particularly at this time, due to the increased need of containers for war equipment since the invasion.

With the shortage of paper becoming more acute, daily people must not relax their efforts with the date of Victory nearing, but must continue to furnish the necessary material for conversion to war equipment, particularly wastepaper, he stated.

In urging the support of all citizens in its efforts to secure the quota set by the Government, Mr. VanLuven said: "We are simply asking the citizens to make a survey of their attics, cellars and sheds and dig out all the wastepaper they have, bundle it in neat parcels and place them on the curb facing their residences on the date set for the drive in this district."

The present appeal was most important and it was the duty of every citizen to lend his support in order that the objective may be reached he added.

Mr. VanLuven said officials were counting on individuals not becoming complacent at the last hour, but on the contrary, were asking that the salvage efforts be redoubled in order that the equipment to hasten the day of Victory may be produced as fast as possible.

"Every little bit helps, and I hope that every citizen of this district will do his part," he said. He voiced the appreciation of his Office to those volunteers who since the war's beginning have devoted most of their leisure time to assisting in salvage work.

Some of the war time uses for wastepaper were given as follows:— Air Force emergency packs, ammunition containers, army ration containers, automotive oil containers, camouflage paper, envelopes for military despatches, building paper and board for cantonnments, flare spacers for signal flares, fuses and component parts, gas mask canisters, grenade containers, helmets and helmet accessories, instrument panels, practice and incendiary bombs, shell containers, shipping containers for military supplies, targets and many other uses.

EMPEY HILL UNITED CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

One of the most successful and largely attended anniversaries in the history of Empey Hill United Church was held on Sunday, October 8. The morning service was attended by an unusually large congregation, among which were many former residents of Empey Hill community who still treasure the memories of their early associations with Empey Hill Church.

Rev. W. R. Merrick conducted the services with the Rev. H. A. Kent, M.A., D.D., as the special preacher for the day. Dr. Kent's morning theme was taken from Psalm 90, verses one and two, emphasizing the great truth that God is man's refuge, who alone can give the satisfaction and safety for which the soul of man craves in the stress of life.

The evening service was also attended by a large and worshipful congregation, fervently uniting in the spirit of thanksgiving to God, for His unfailing mercies. Dr. Kent based his evening message upon II Timothy, chapter 4, verse 7, defining the true nature of the Christian FFaith as St. Paul believed and experienced it to be. He showed vividly that to St. Paul it was so great and precious, that despite all that he was called upon to suffer, nothing could cause him to relinquish his hold upon Christ, his Lord. "I have kept the Faith" was Paul's great achievement. We are also called to this same triumph in our Christian life.

Another inspiring feature of both morning and evening services was the special music provided by the choir, also the numbers so effectively rendered by Mrs. Hugh Ramsay, Newburgh, and Mr. Garnet Brooks. All these presentations were most appropriate and inspiring. Miss Marjory Price presided at the piano.

The pastor, before closing the service, extended his hearty thanks and appreciation to Dr. Kent for his inspiring messages, to the choir for their contribution of music, to the congregation for their outstanding generosity and co-operation in making the anniversary one of the best in the experience of the Empey Hill congregation.

For several weeks previous to the above services the work of installing a new furnace and the painting of the Sunday school room and the auditorium of the church was proceeded with and completed in time for the anniversary occasion. The Sunday school room now has a very pleasing appearance, while the auditorium with its transformed interior, presents an aspect of quiet dignity and structural beauty, conducive to the spirit of worship, as was evident on Sunday when the altar too, was adorned with a beautiful variety of flowers set against a background of colourful foliages.

On Monday evening the anniversary occasion was continued by the local talent of Empey Hill Church, when three groups presented three one act plays, namely (1) That's What They All Say; (2) Polishing Henry, (3) Straw in Her Hair. Musical numbers were also given by Harold Kimmerly, Jack Stafford, accompanied at the piano by Miss Shirley Stafford. All these items provided nearly three hours of first class entertainment. The impersonations and presentations were very realistic and full of humorous and delicate situations. The proceeds of the entertainment which were over $56 were very gratifying.

With the singing of the National Anthem a most pleasant evening was brought to a close.

DR. E. W. STAPLEFORD SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS ON IMMIGRATION

Club Discusses Plans for Annual Frolic

The regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Napanee Rotary Club was held Tuesday noon at the Superior Restaurant. During the business session following the luncheon, plans were discussed for the Rotary Frolic to be held October 26, 27 and 28th.

A. E. Holmes, the vice-president, received congratulations on his appointment to the Napanee Town Council.

The speaker for the meeting was Dr. E. W. Stapleford, who is supplying the pulpit of Trinity United Ch during the illness of Rev. G. M. Chidley. Dr. Stapleford spoke on the subject "Immigration," a topic on which he is specially equipped to speak.

Dr. Stapleford has a wide knowledge of life in both western and central Canada, and for some years was Principal of Regina College. He presented figures to show that during the years of greatest immigration, Canada was sending to the United States as emigrants hundreds of thousands of young men and women. If the money spent on immigration were spent on improving conditions for our own growing youth Canada would be in a better condition economically as well as numerically. Our falling birth rate, at least, in the Anglo-Saxon portions, is greatly to be deplored.

Dr. Stapleford insisted that until our returning soldiers are well provided for and until the men and women now employed on war work have found proper employment, that immigration should be confined to specially selected quotas which would not displace Canadians, and that this should be applied also to refugees.

OTTAWA BOYS STEAL MONEY FROM NAPANEE HOME

Last Thursday, three young Ottawa boys, two of them 15 and one 16, appeared before Magistrate Garvin charged with breaking into the home of Flight-Lieut. Morrison and stealing the sum of six dollars. One of the boys, who was on probation from St. Joseph's Training School at Alfred, was sent back to the school and the other two were given a suspended sentence.

The motives of the boys were present and agreed to make good the amount stolen of which the boy had spent $3.00.

The three boys entered the home which is just on the outskirts of the town on the Deseronto Road, during the afternoon, while Mrs. Morrison was away. They ransacked cupboards and drawers and apparently were only interested in money, as nothing else was stolen.

Neighbours, who saw the boys around the house, gave the police their description and they were picked up in Belleville and brought back to Napanee.

NEWS DESPATCH ABOUT LIEUTENANT J. DOUG. GRAHAM

Friends of Lieut. J. Douglas Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham, Napanee, were interested in a small item concerning him which appeared in the Toronto Globe, last Saturday, and which read as follows:

"Lieut. J. D. Graham, Napanee, did four night patrols to find tank crossings over the bed of the meagre little Besanizo River for the assault on Cotlano Ridge. For the first time they claimed out those fords with Sherman tank-bulldozers.

"The engineers have figured at almost every turn in the current Adriatic offensive."

Lieut. Graham, who is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Graham is a graduate in mining engineering at Queen's University. He is a member of the Canadian Engineers and has been with the Canadian Army in Italy, for some months.

FT.-SGT. DON EAST C.C.F. CANDIDATE PR. EDWARD - LENNOX

Nominated Last Week at Picton

Flight-Sergeant Don. Wesley East is the Canadian Commonwealth Federation candidate for the Federal Riding of Prince Edward-Lennox.

Don. East, as he is so familiarly known throughout Prince Edward County is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry East of Bloomfield, Ontario. Since March 1941 he has served with the R. C. A. F. and at present he is stationed at Mountain View, Ontario. He was chosen to represent the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox, on Tuesday night at the C. C. F. nomination meeting held at the Legion Hall, Picton. Mr. Colin Carter, of Carter Bros. Limited, was also nominated, but withdrew in favour of Flight-Sergeant East, expressing his belief that Don was better fitted for the job. Mr. Carter said: "I feel that Don has better qualifications and ability to do a better job."

In accepting the nomination Don said he felt that it was his duty to his fellows in the service to express their point of view and to help make a better Canada for them. "I feel that the old system must be changed for the better," he said continuing. "The New Zealanders that I have trained at Mountain View also helped me to desire to bring the C.C.F. policy to Canada." — Picton Times.

WENDELL WILLKIE

The passing of the late Wendell Willkie was unexpected. He had been in the hospital for a month, but was pronounced out of danger by the doctors. He slept away shortly after the medical men had pronounced him on the way to recovery. Many people outside the United States will mourn his passing; thousands who never saw the man will sorrow because he was cut off so early in life; he was just fifty-two years of age.

Mr. Willkie was practically unknown except to a small circle, until 1940, when he succeeded in capturing the Republican Nomination for the Presidency of The United States. He failed to defeat Mr. Roosevelt, nevertheless he polled the largest Republican popular vote ever polled. He was not popular with the Republican leaders. Indeed his nomination was taken as a popular victory over the Old Party Guard. The movement away from the Old Guard however, lost ground after the election, and, after failing to get support in the Wisconsin Primaries this year, Mr. Willkie withdrew from the contest.

Though defeated in the last election, Mr. Willkie kept before the public. He co-operated with President Roosevelt so far as he could. He travelled extensively, and wrote vigorously. Yet, he retained the right to criticise the Roosevelt Administration whenever he felt called on to do so. In this, he showed himself a really great character, working with the man he opposed, but retaining the right to criticise whenever, in conscience, he thought that necessary for the public good.

Those who saw Mr. Willkie on his visit to this country, will not soon forget his forceful manner, his utter devotion to the cause for which we are at war, and his spontaneous reactions to the mood and feeling of the audience. Wendell Willkie was popular in Canada. Thousands here will mourn his passing. There can be no doubt but that the strain under which he laboured during the past few years, had its effect on his body. He drove himself hard in the service of his country, and is a casualty of war conditions.

BECOMING INSISTENT

The demand that the Zombie Army should become conscripted for overseas service is becoming insistent. Ever since 'D' Day our forces have been in action in France; they have been in action in Italy for a year. There have been heavy casualties. A glance through the daily paper, at any time now, would convince even the most skeptical, of the need of reinforcements for those who are bearing the burden on the fighting fronts. Open charges have been made by men whose reputation is above reproach that the reinforcements that have been sent to France lately, have been green troops, many of them ill-prepared and ill-trained. Under more leisurely circumstances, it would be sufficient to demand an investigation into these charges. But time is too short for that now. Men are dying now, men are being taken out of the fighting ranks, wounded, now. There is need for reinforcements now, trained reinforcements. It is not enough to deny the charges. It is a case of life and death— men's lives are at stake.

The Government held a plesbiscite and was authorized, as a result of the vote, to take the men of the Zombie Army and send them overseas, whenever they were needed. There are from seventy-five to eighty thousand men in this Zombie Army. They have been well trained. They do nothing else but keep up their training. The Government has tried to force these men to enlist for overseas service by all means short of conscription — by advertising campaigns, by appealing to their patriotism, and to their self-respect. The Government has even tried to shame them into volunteering, and yet, there they are, seventy thousand strong — well trained, clothed, fed, and kept at the expense of the country and rendering very little, if any service. All this when the nation is battling for its very existence.

What is holding the Government back? Why the delay? Why the hesitancy? Those are questions on everybody's lips these days. The question is insistent and requires an answer. What is more insistent though is the demand that the Government get well trained reinforcements from the Zombie Army overseas, at once.

WORTH A TRY

An Associated Press despatch from Philadelphia, last Friday, told of a hypnotist, D. K. Ernest, saving a lot of trouble. He had visited a high school in a Springfield Township High School, near the city of brotherly love, to demonstrate his powers of mind over mind. Thirty-five students acted as subjects and then the report says, "suddenly there was hysterical laughter, sobbing and more than thirty students collapsed. The demonstration ended abruptly, and for two hours a school physician, nurse and hypnotist worked to snap them out of it."

Really there is nothing so unusual about that. We have seen staid old gentlement throw up their hats, hit their neighbours on the back and otherwise act goofy at a football game. We have heard demure and precise little women shriek like a siren when the home town hockey team made a good play; and it is authentically reported that 'teen agers and some who are older, mostly of the female gender, drop like nine pins whenever Frank Sinatra gets going.

We've been wondering, since we saw the report from Springfield, if it would not be possible to put to some practical use the powers of such men as Ernest and Sinatra. Why not send these men off to the front line, and, using loud speakers try their luck on the Nazis. It it worked and the enemy swooned all over the place, the task of the Armies of The United Nations would be made light indeed. It might not succeed, but again it might—it is worth a try anyway. Even if they failed we would, at least, have the satisfaction of getting these swoon producers out of the way for a while.

V

WILL NOT DOWN

The Communist bogey, which played such a part in forming public opinion among the Democracies before the war, still retains its power to frighten Mr. John Public, at least so those who are directing the strategy of the present election campaign in the United States believe. Those who have read the startling revelations made in the book "Under Cover", will know that there is much more to fear, on this continent from the Nazis than from any other subversive group. Nazi emissaries, it has been proved beyond a doubt, had a well-organized plan to undermine the whole democratic way of life on this continent. They had their leaders chosen; they had money; they had wormed their way into business, politics, the army. Indeed, even some well known religious leaders were giving their support to the movement. The same technique that had proven so successful in Germany, was adopted — Jew baiting, race prejudice, and class antagonism. The tightening up on laws against subversive organizations, which came as a result of the war has nipped this movement in the bud. Some of the leaders have been condemned in the courts. Still others are to be tried.

This was the real threat to the Democratic way of life on this continent. But in the present campaign we look in vain for any reference to it. On the other hand, however, the Communist bogey is very much in evidence. It is rather remarkable the recuperative powers this bogey possesses. In the pre-war years, it was quite easy to bring down public scorn on the head of any person by labelling him a Communist. Only let a man be called a communist and it mattered not how patriotic, how sincere, how genuine his ideas, the matter was settled. He was not fit to be classed with decent, law-abiding citizens. But when things were going rather badly for Great Britain and the Russians came into the picture as an enemy of Germany, nothing was too good for the Russians. They had come into the fray at the right moment, and were bearing the brunt of Hitler's organized might while the United Nations were getting ready for the blows that were to be struck later.

Now, however, the scene has changed again. The United Nations are ready; they have a great army, air superiority, control of the seas, and a steady supply of men and munitions. The Russians are doing a good job, but so are our armies, navies and air forces. So, out comes the Communist bogey again. If President Roosevelt should be re-elected, it is urged the Communists will have won a victory. That was why Mr. Roosevelt, in his recent radio address, went out of his way to say, he has not sought and will not seek communist support. Looking oyer the American Press, we gather that the Communist Bogey is scaring the people right enough. At least, it is having the effect of a red herring, for much of the editorial comment seems to be pro and con on the issue. The Democratic Party is charged with being more than sympathetic to the Communists, while they, of course, deny the allegation.

Looking from the side lines, the present political campaign is an interesting study in human psychology. People still strongly react to fear, particularly the fear of the Communists. But perhaps we should not comment too freely on this, as we ourselves may have an election before too long.

HAS NAZI LEADERSHIP A PLAN?

BY RUSSELL HILL

Despite the slackening in the pace of the Allied advance on the Western Front during the last half of September, and the apparent success of the German attempt to stabilize the line on their own frontiers, the military situation of Germany, viewed objectively, is far worse today than it was late in 1918, when Ludendorff felt compelled to ask for an armistice.

At that time the main German armies were still intact in the west, the eastern front having been completely liquidated earlier in the year. This time with their main armies committed to the east held down there and the best part of their army in the west destroyed in the recent battle of France, the Germans are thinly holding a 500-mile front from the mouth of the Scheldt to the Swiss border with a scrub team consisting of elements of some fifty divisions.

In addition there is the fact that in this war Allied air power is a far mightier weapon than in 1918.

Yet the Germans continue to fight. They have lost the industrial regions of northern France and Belgium, the oil of Roumania and the mineral and agricultural resources of France, Finland, the Ukraine and the Balkans, upon which their war economy was largely based. Their last great industrial region—the Rhineland— is so close that it can feel the full weight of Allied bombing efforts even if it succeeds in withstanding assault by our land armies.

Under these circumstances it is only natural the question should be raised whether the Nazi leadership has any plan at all, or whether it is merely fighting on out of sheer desperation.

That is a hard question to answer because we cannot know whether Hitler and those around him admit to themselves in their private thoughts that all is lost. If they do have any hope left beyond that of dragging all of Germany down with them into the abyss of defeat it must be based on the following strategy.

The German armies have been smashed in France, if their remnants were to hold the Channel ports as long as possible this would make the Allied supply position so difficult that new forces—the last scrapings of the German manpower barrel —would have time to man the Reich's western defences. If these would hold until winter weather arrived to hamper offensive operations, forcing a stalemate until next summer this would give time for the perfection of new so-called VVV weapons.

Thus viewed the campaign in the west is a race for time. Although it would be impossible to find anybody in the Allied camp to accept the thesis that such new weapons could avert final German defeat, it is realized they might postpone the date of that defeat and could certainly inflict new miseries unon Allied civilians. Therefore, there is just as great a desire here to end the war quickly as there is in high German quarters to prolong it.

It cannot be denied that this German strategy has been partially successful. For a long time our rapidly advancing armies have had to depend for supplies on the single port of Cherbourg in the north, supplemented by the beaches. Their advance has left Cherbourg as far behind them as Marseilles has been left behind the forces that landed in southern France.

German garrisons have clung stubbornly to the Channel ports. Antwerp has fallen, but this port, greater than any in northern France, cannot be used until the Germans have been cleared from the mouth of the Scheldt. Dieppe, Le Havre, Boulogne and Calais are now in Allied hands, but of course it always takes time to restore any harbor where the enemy has been able to carry out demolition work.

In the meantime the weather has been getting worse. There were far too many days in September when aircraft could not take off. Rains are beginning to soften up airfields and secondary roads. During the months to come we must expect an average of 16 or 17 days rain each month. The mud will get worse. This does not mean operations will cease. But Allied commanders will not be able to take full the full weight of the offensive power at their disposal.

This picture may look dark but it can be brightened up a bit. During the last few weeks, while there has been a comparative lull in the American sectors, and the British have suffered the reverse of Arnhem, the inevitable process of clearing ports, repairing rail networks and getting supplies for ward has continued. The Air Forces are beginning, when weather permits, systematic attacks on the enemy's communications networks in western Germany similar to those on the communications of northern France, which preceded and accompanied the invasion. Where there were spearheads three weeks ago there now are mass armies.

The month of October should tell which side will win the race. If we win the Germans will be beaten before winter. If they win we will be faced with an unpleasant winter campaign.

V

AXIS TROOPS HAVE NO EXCUSE

For the first time Allied troops have inflicted complete defeat on the Germans without leaving the enemy the faintest excuse for their failure.

General Montgomery's drive along the North African coast and the Anglo-American liberation of North Africa could always be presented by the Germans as far-off fronts which could not be adequately exploited because of the failure of Italian seapower.

The Battle of Italy could be excused on the grounds that the Badoglio Government "stabbed Germany in the back."

But the Battle of Northern France has proved that the Allies can fight the Germans on their own terms and defeat them decisively, while the victory of the French Forces of the Interior at Paris suggests that their victories of 1940 were anything but total.

For the British people it is a triumph not only of arms but also of faith. In 1940, when even Britain's friends had doubts of her survival, Churchill spoke as much of victory as he spoke of defiance to the German threat. Even at that time he was laying the foundation of the present success. He was sending reinforcements to North Africa and, inspired by his offensive spirit, Combined Operations Command were working out the preliminary techniques for the return to Europe.

The British people kept their faith in spite of the blitz, in spite of severe rationing, in spite of the heaviest taxation any nation has ever known, and recently in spite of flying bombs. The team of American, Dominion, French and British armies which General Eisenhower has placed under General Montgomery's command has amply vindicated that faith — above all it has been vindicated by the fact that Paris was liberated by Frenchmen inside the city itself.

This time the German militarists can offer no scapegoat for its defeat. It is a purely military defeat and they cannot shift blame on anyone but the Allied armies, and their superior skill and power.

ELECTION FORECASTS

BY NORMAN MARSHALL

A Canadian Press despatch from Quebec City has noted that the Liberals there are expecting a Federal election by November 27. In view of recent events, this date is very plausible, and we may well be given a general election before Christmas.

The Prime Minister, Mr. King, wants his prestige boosted before he goes to the country. In his election campaign, he must convince people there is no one else in the country as capable of representing Canada at the peace table and that no one else can bring Canada safely back into the paths om peace.

Mr. King, himself, is a hard man to sell, especially on the first point, that part of the electorate which has a long memory, a memory which recalls his attitude towards collective action against aggressors and his refusal to take steps to arm Canada for the conflict which everyone but him saw coming. His record in the field of the development of the Canadian economy is not much better; here he can make extravagant promises, but it is remembered that he failed miserably to help Canada out of the depression of the thirties.

Never underestimate the cagiiness of Mr. King. If you recall the last Quebec conference, you remember that Mr. King (along with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt) were deciding the fate of the world. Mr. King succeeded in being unphotographic more than usual. The conference going on at present offers him the marvelous opportunity of proving to Canada that he really is an international politician. We may expect every implementation of the decisions at Quebec to be heralded by announcements pointing out how clever Mr. King is.

The war in Europe will probably be over, with the possible exception of a mopping-up campaign, by late fall. Mr. King will, perforce, be required to go to the country because his one chance of winning the election is to call it when people are in the mello mood of victory.

There's another victory loan campaign coming up this fall, and the electioneering will have to be delayed, if Mr. King is sincere in fighting this war, until after the loan is over. That brings us to the period of from November 1st to December 15th. Then we may expect an election, and the probabilities would seem to be November.

Perhaps the greatest indicator of a coming election, in the very near future, is the activity of the National Federation Headquarters in Ottawa. This activity — people coming and going and printed material being delivered — has been increasing from week to week over the past two months.

BUREAUCRACY

A judge in Ottawa has just fined a laundry there $300 for breaking the ceiling of the Prices Board in selling services to an Ottawa Hotel.

Certain circumstances in this case have made it worthy of notice of every Canadian who is interested in the preservation of his freedom.

The laundry wanted to raise its prices and found that the hotel company was agreeable to such action. Then the laundry got in touch with the Prices Board, and was told that forms would be sent, upon application to confirm the Prices Board decision over the 'phone that raising this price would be authorized.

The laundry, therefore, wrote to the Prices Board and made formal application for the increase. Not getting a reply, in the light of the previous telephone conversation, it was assumed that the authorization has been given by tacit consent.

The laundry was prosecuted and fined because it had been unable to secure from the Prices Board the service which it has a right to expect from a public servant. The actions of the Prices Board had led the laundry to take illegal action and the Prices Board was at least partly responsible.

And yet, in spite of the explanations of the laundry, and the offer to restore the "excess profits" which had been acquired by the higher price, the heavy fine of $300 was levied.

This is dangerous law, and it is to be hoped that the laundry will appeal and obtain redress. If not, the mistakes of every bureaucrat in giving advice, are going to be visited upon the person he advises, not the man who made the mistake.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 15TH, 1944

JESUS' UNDERSTANDING OF MAN

Genesis 1: 27; Psalm 8. Matthew 12: 9-21

This week's lesson goes deep down into fundamentals. It deals with the essential nature of man. There is a special need for emphasizing the Biblical view of man at the present time, when life seems to be held so cheap. The world has been shocked beyond measure during the past few months, as bit by bit the story of man's inhumanity to man in an exaggerated form has been made public; torture chambers, lethal chambers, death chambers, are not a thing of the past. Never before has there been such a systematic and scientific destruction of life as that which has been revealed to the world as the veil which surrounded Europe for four years has been lifted a little. Making all allowance for exaggeration and war propaganda there can be no discounting the balanced judgment, and the cold objective reports of correspondents whose reputation is above reproach.

With life held so cheap there is a danger that the modern tendency toward what has been called "humanism" would be accelerated. Men and women are only higher forms of animals, it is held by humanists. Once men adopt that view of human life it becomes cheap, and people are regarded as animals, not as persons.

Over against this is set the Biblical view of men. In the very first book of the Bible we are told that man was made "in the image of God". He was different from the animals; he possessed infinite worth; he possessed Divine attributes, thought, will, judgment, conscience, and a yearning for a better life. That view runs all through Holy Writ. In the eighth Psalm, the Psalmist raises the question: "What is man, that thou art mindful of him?, and the Son of Man that thou visitest him?" And he answers his own question: "Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honor". But it was left for Jesus to give us the complete answer to the question as to man's nature. He is one with God; related to Him as a child to a father.

Here in the text we find this illustrated, first by Jesus' attitude to law and tradition. The Hebrews, and especially the Pharisees, were sticklers for the law. Everything had to stand aside that the regulations of religion be meticulously obeyed. There was, for example, to be no healing on the Sabbath day unless a person's life was in danger. Consequently when Jesus healed on the Sabbath these champions of the law were up in arms. Jesus posed them a question: "If a sheep were in danger they would lose no time in saving it". Man is of more value than a sheep. When the law stands in the way of human life and a choice has to be made, human life comes first. The law must go. This was a somewhat revolutionary doctrine. It was one, nevertheless, that Jesus proclaimed, and which had to be learned.

Of course it is well to remember that there is another side to this. A side, too, which Jesus himself would have not neglected. In our day the danger is not that we put an over-emphasis on Sabbath observance, but that we go to the other extreme. Sunday, which is God's day, ordained by him for worship and rest, is in danger of degenerating into a holiday. History has shown that when the Sunday goes, much that makes life strong and vigorous and stable goes with it. The so-called "continental Sunday", now becoming familiar in other areas than Europe, was, undoubtedly, a symptom of the spiritual decay of European civilization.

In the concluding section of the lesson Jesus, in another way, underscores his faith in man's essential God-like nature. The writer of the Gospel points out that in his healing ministry Jesus was fulfilling the prophesy of Isaiah, that dimly burning wicks and broken reeds would not be destroyed. The dimly burning wick and the broken reeds are symbols of broken and handicapped men and women. It is the christian estimate of human life that these broken specimens of society have worth in God's eyes. The pagan philosophy which, for the moment, dominates the minds of the Nazis, teaches that the weak have no place in society. The nation should develop super-men and destroy all weaklings. This Germany has systematically done. Aged and handicapped have been put to death, that they should be no burden on the State. The strong, the vigorous and the healthy alone are allowed to live and to propagate their kind.

The view of Jesus, the view which has dominated our christian society and has been incorporated into our christian civilization, is quite the opposite. The strong must bear the burdens of the weak. The physically and mentally handicapped are the special care of those in good health. Fundamentally and basically every man, every woman, and every child is of infinite worth in God's sight. He calls us all by name, even the hairs of our head are all numbered. It will take us a long while to impress that on the whole world, particularly since the atrocities and the persecutions of recent years. This, however, is the church's duty; it is the individual christian's personal responsibility.

TRINITY AUXILIARY

The opening meeting of the Trinity Women's Evening Auxiliary was held in the Sunday school room on Tuesday evening, September 19th. After the supper hour, Miss Sherry opened the meeting with a hymn followed by prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Ruth Graham gave the treasurer's report. It was moved and seconded that Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Ballantyne be delegates to the Half Day held in Selby on October. At the close of the business Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Ballantyne took charge of the worship period and program. Passages of scripture were read by Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Ballantyne, after which various hymns in connection with scripture were sung. Mrs. Knox gave a very interesting chapter from the study book, letter of the Christian Work done in the war zone.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

FLINTON

Flinton, Oct. 6. — Farmers are taking advantage of the nice weather and are busy digging potatoes.

Mr. Wilfred Lessard holds the record for having the best garden. Dry weather never seems to affect him. At present he has in his possession six potatoes weighing 6½ lbs. Also Wm. Beatty, who is 82 years old, has a few potatoes weighing about the same as these grown by Mr. Lessard.

On Friday the school put on a vegetable dinner, cooked in an old-fashioned cooker, on the school grounds, which was a grand success. Mothers and friends of the pupils were invited, and, in all, it was a grand dinner and was enjoyed by all. Much credit goes to the staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Casey also Mrs. Wilma Cox, attended Picton Fair on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Yanch spent Thursday in Napanee.

The ladies of the Community Club packed Christmas boxes on Thursday for the boys serving overseas. Twenty-two well filled boxes were packed. Let us hope that this will be the last time we have to pack Christmas boxes for overseas.

Age doesn't stop Mr. John Bryden from going places, for he won two prizes for being the second oldest man at Madoc Fair. Mr. Bryden is very active, and helps at digging potatoes. He is always ready to attend church with the family.

Several from here attended Madoc Fair and report a grand show.

Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Adams, of Thomasburg, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. James Marisette.

V

SELBY

Selby, Oct. 9.—The Sunday School room of the United Church was the scene of activity on Tuesday evening last, when the ladies of the W. M. S. served dinner to Napanee Rotarians and their guests.

Mrs. Mary Denison had charge of the missionary program of the W. M. S. on Thursday afternoon, which was very interesting. The Christmas cards were on display and are in charge of the President, Mrs. Jim Rose.

Mr. Jim Vankoughnet is working on an addition to his residence.

Mr. Will Telford met with an unfortunate accident while operating his wood saw. His many friends hope to see him around again very soon.

Miss Helen Collings and Theodore Winter were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Collings on Saturday afternoon. Rev. W. R. Merrick officiated.

Dr. A. C. Tummon is spending this week in Chicago, Ill., and other western points in the United States.

Mrs. J. Clark, of Napanee, spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. John McConnell.

Miss Gladys Rikley spent the week end at home.

There was a good attendance at Sunday School and a number attended the anniversary services at Empey Hill. Worship service in the United Church in the evening was withdrawn.

V

YARKER

Yarker, Oct. 10 — Mr. Jas. Greenway spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Instant, Adolphustown.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Shangraw and little daughter, of Kingston, were week end guests of Mr. Shangraw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Shangraw.

Pte. Sgt. J. A. and Mrs. Wright and Nancy, also Mrs. Gordon Wellard, of Belleville, and Mr. Gordon Wellard, of St. Thomas Airport, were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wright.

Mrs. A. Baker, of Moscow, spent Saturday with her daughter, Mrs. Merrill Wright.

Mrs. Gertie Snider and son, Gordon, of Kingston, spent the week end at their home, and also visited Mrs. Snider's mother, Mrs. A. Hamilton.

Mrs. Dobbin and daughters, Phyllis and Judith, left on Friday to join Mrs. Dobbin's husband, who is in the R.A.F. in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Wright were guests of Mrs. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Baker, Moscow, on Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Asselstine has returned home from Ottawa, where she visited Mrs. A. Hall.

Mrs. Spence, of Saskatoon, is spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Warner.

V

BETHEL

Bethel, Oct. 6. — Real nice fall weather is being enjoyed for this time of year, and all are hoping it will continue for some time, so the farmers can get their fall work done.

Mr. Ross King has been putting extensive improvements on his farm buildings, and has converted the upper storey of his drive shed into a large laying house for his pullets, of which he has over 200.

Miss Jean McKnight, of the R.C.N.S., Cornwallis, N.S., arrived home on Tuesday night, and will spend the next two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. McKnight, and sister, Helen. Mrs. Leonard Coulter, of Godfrey. We welcome Jean home once more and wish her a pleasant holiday.

Mrs. Percy Galbraith and Mrs. Wm. Jackson were among the ladies of the Yarker-Colebrook W. M. S. who were guests of the Odessa W. M. S. on Wednesday afternoon, and had a very pleasant time. The weather was ideal, very warm and summer-like.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Harry Woodruff and his bride, formerly Mrs. Ethel Milsap, of Colebrook, who were married September 30th.

Mr. Justus Gilligan has recently had his house wired for Hydro and will soon be enjoying its benefits. Mr. Arthur Hart had the contract for the wiring.

Mr. William Jackson recently lost a valuable cow, and Mr. E. D. McKnight has had a seriously sick cow for several weeks, but it has shown slight improvement the last few days.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Galbraith has returned home after spending last week with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Galbraith.

ENTERPRISE

MRS. S. D. WAGAR

Enterprise, Oct. 6. — On Tuesday evening September 26th, the beloved wife of S. D. Wagar passed peacefully away at her home, where she was born on September 8th, 1875.

Mrs. Wagar was the daughter of the late Cornelius Clancy and Annie Johnson. She was actively engaged in church and community work all her life.

She was a life-long member of the Methodist Church, now the United Church. In her youth she was a regular attendant at Sunday School and in Young People's activities. Later she was a member of the W. A. and the W. M. S. and also of the choir, where she served for 30 years, acting as soloist. She was also a life member of the Red Cross Society.

She was of a quiet and retiring disposition and always had a pleasant word for all with whom she came in contact.

Mrs. Wagar was confined to her bed over two years and during all that time she never complained but was always patient, and met her many friends with a cheery smile and pleasant conversation.

She is survived by her husband, S. D. Wagar. An infant daughter predeceased her some years ago, also an adopted daughter, Mona Denyes, a cousin of Mr. Wagar, predeceased her at the age of 18.

Her pallbearers were Gordon T. Wagar, Charles Graham, O. B. Jackson, Henry Hartman, Morley Huffman, of Moscow, and Wm. Fretts, of Napanee.

The flower bearers were Earl Wagar Jr., and Charles Davey.

After a largely attended service in the United Church, conducted by Rev. H. E. Prair, interment was made in the family plot at Centreville.

V

MARLBANK

Marlbank, Oct. 9. — Quite a number from here attended anniversary services at West Plain on Sunday evening. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Lewis, was assisted by Mr. Erwin Hancock, of Peterborough, who delivered a very fine discourse. The Forest Mills choir furnished special music and three anthems, which were in keeping with the Thanksgiving service.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Phillips, Lorraine and Donna, Toronto, spent the holiday with friends here and at Lime Lake.

Mrs. Dave Garrick, of Kingston, spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. Dale Claussen.

Word has been received here that Pte. Gordon Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odis Davis, Selby, has been wounded in action. Pte. Davis is a nephew of Dalton Somerville, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tuepah and baby, of Collins Bay, spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. E. Knell.

Mr. W. C. Marlin spent Thanksgiving in Toronto with his daughter, Marian, and other friends.

Mrs. M. F. Beckwith and son, Nicholas, and wife and little daughter, Linda, returned to Toronto on Monday after spending a few days with relatives here. They were accompanied to the city by Mrs. Jas. Young and Mrs. W. Kendall, who will visit friends in the city.

Mr. Billy Burd left on Sunday for Toronto.

Miss Mary Williams, of Kingston, was the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Williams, over the holiday.

Mr. Bert Johnston has treated the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bird to a coat of paint, which adds greatly to its appearance.

Miss Price received the sad news of the tragic death of her brother-in-law, which occurred at Durham, Ont. Death resulted from a fall under a tractor, which he was operating. Miss Price left immediately by bus, and thence by train from Tweed, to be with her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. George Purcell and sons, of Kingston, were Saturday evening guests of friends here.

A large number attended the Red Cross meeting on Thursday afternoon of last week, when 14 boxes were packed for boys overseas from this district, namely: Albert and George Allen, Russell Kimmett, Lyal Renn, Kenneth Tuepah, Gerald Kirkpatrick, Carman Deshane, Jim Smith, Paul Farnsworth, Donald Beckwith, Joe Anderson, Dalton Allison, Douglas Sommerville, and Earl Harten. A lot of treats were donated as well as a nice sum of money received for the boys' boxes. A cheque for $50.00 has been received by this Red Cross Unit from the County of Hastings, for which the Red Cross is very grateful.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mount have moved to their new home in the village which they purchased recently. It was formerly occupied by Mrs. G. Allen.

Mr. Grant Baldsley, of Kingston, and Mr. Ted Turkington, of Belleville, spent the holiday at their respective homes here.

Mrs. James Harton and Donna have returned home, after visiting relatives in Watertown, and Mrs. Harten's brother, Reg., and family, in Kingston.

James Young, who has spent the summer in Toronto, has returned home, and is attending High School in Tamworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kellar, of Kingston, spent the week end here with friends.

DORLAND

Dorland, Oct. 7. — The early part of the week was quite cool, with light frost at night, but the last few days have been almost like summer. The heavy rain which accompanied the electric storm on Thursday night halted buckwheat threshing. Apple picking and potato digging are going on. Both crops are quite plentiful.

A number from here attended the world-wide communion service, in which the circuit joined, at Conway United Church last Sunday morning.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent at the parsonage on Wednesday, when the W. M. S. was entertained by Mrs. K. J. Crawford. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. J. Simmons.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Mr. Dale Baldwin, who was married on Tuesday to Miss Dowling. They will reside on the farm Mr. Baldwin purchased in North Frederieksburgh some months ago.

Mrs. James Bruce is a patient in Kingston Hospital.

Quite a few took Friday afternoon off to attend Mr. M. B. Wintle's auction sale at Parma.

What might have been a serious accident occurred the week of the bridge near the U. E. L. cheese factory, when a car driven by Junior Frost collided with the driven by Norman Brooks, who recently returned from active service in Italy. We understand that Frost, who still has a broken shoulder as a fall from a bicycle some weeks ago and is still in a cast, failed to turn from the centre of the road and struck the Brooks car, which rolled over into the ditch. Both drivers were alone in the cars. Gunner Brooks suffered [illegible]

You hold the mortgage You collect the interest

A Victory Bond is a mortgage on Canada . . . all of this country's resources guarantee payment of principal and interest. And money you lend to Canada, when you buy Victory Bonds, is the safest investment you can make.

You can borrow on Victory Bonds for seasonal farm requirements or any bank will pay cash for your bonds should you need cash at any time.

Money is a vital war weapon. Canada needs every dollar that every Canadian can save and lend . . . more than ever before. As the war increases in intensity, Canada's need for money increases, too. Our country's all-over borrowing needs are increased by over three hundred and twenty million dollars at this time. We must each be ready to lend again, and to lend more.

Thousands of small grains make a bushel of wheat. So with the money that Canada must borrow, from Canadians, to pay for the war: small sums loaned by individuals mount up to billions.

Lend all you can . . . money you have saved and money you can save . . . but do not think that small loans are unimportant. Put your savings into mortgages on Canada—marketable mortgages. You will be doing a worthwhile war job . . . and you will get your money back . . . with interest. 7-57

Victory Bonds will provide cash for farm improvements you plan to make when the war ends . . . new buildings . . . new machinery . . . better stock . . . cash to pay on a new car or a new home.

CAR CRASH AT DUNDAS ST. EAST

On Saturday evening, about 6:30 a car accident occurred at the bridge at the foot of Rblin's Hill, in Napanee, when a car driven by Dr. F. J. Buckley, Brantford was struck by a Duncan Transport, driven by George L. Scott, Ottawa.

The Buckley car, a 1942 Ford, going east, had just entered the bridge, when it was struck on the left side by the transport. The wheel of the Ford was torn off and considerable damage was done to the front of the car. The transport left the travelled portion of the road and after crossing the sidewalk struck a large tree on the lawn of Mr. Pollard at the east end of Dundas Street. The tractor of the transport was almost completely wrecked.

Mrs. Buckley, who was driving with her husband in the Ford was slightly injured, but none of the others involved in the accident were injured.

CANNED PEARS

Peel — leave whole or cut into halves and core. Cook gently in a boiling light syrup four to eight minutes according to size and firmness. Pack hot and cover with boiling syrup. Adjust lids and process twenty minutes in boiling water bath

Open Kettle Method: Same as for peaches.

PEARS IN SALADS

Use equal amounts of diced raw pears and apples when you make Waldorf salad; stuff the cavities of peeled pear halves with salmon salad; mix diced pears, cubed cantelope and maraschino cherries with a light syrup.

PEACHES OR PEARS WITH CHEESE

For a dessert type salad, fill cavities of peeled and cored halves of fruit with cream cheese or cottage cheese and apple jelly or old cheese and peanut butter. Dressing isn't necessary

BROIL FRUIT

Put slices of peaches and pears on a grill. Drizzle with honey and mint and broil for five or six minutes.

PEACH COFFEE CAKE

Cream two tablespoons shortening and one-quarter cup sugar. Add one beaten egg. Sift together one and two-thirds cups flour, half-teaspoon salt and two teaspoons baking powder Add alternately to creamed mixture with half-cup milk. Mix just until blended. Pour into greased pieplate. Arrange sliced peaches over top. Crumble two teaspoons flour, two teaspoons of butter, one-quarter cup sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon together. Sprinkle over peaches. Bake in electric oven at 375 deg. F. for 35 minutes.

TAKE A TIP:

1 Before fastening corks into bottles, boil them for five minutes to soften them. Then, while hot, press them into bottles. The corks will fit tightly when cool.
2 Clean plaster vases by dipping into a thick liquid starch. When dry brush off the starch and dirt will vanish with it.
3 Try adding a pinch of nutmeg to creamed corn — a different but blending flavour for a change.

Mrs. J. C. says: I have always put a piece of paper under the dish pan to keep the metal from marking the porcelain sink.

Miss E. M. says: Try Bacon Muffins — here you've put a plain muffin batter into the tins sprinkle with finely chopped raw bacon. Bake as usual. They are a real treat.

* * *

THE QUESTION BOX:

Mrs. D W. says: Is it true that you should sprinkle sliced cucumbers with salt and allow them to stand some time before serving?

Answer: There is no evidence that salt makes cucumbers easier to digest. Salt would draw water from the cells and make the cucmber limp and unappetizing. This water contains valuable minerals and vitamins which would be lost. Crispness would be lost too.

Mrs. E. C. says: Mould formed on some extra fruit juice I had in covered bottle in the refrigerator. Could I use it ?

Answer: Such mould is not injurious to health, but may change the flavour. Usually the mould can be skimmed off and the syrup, boiled will be alright. To help avoid it, pour hot syrup into sterile jar, cover at once, and place in the refrigerator as soon as cool. If syrup is kept for an extended period, reheat it occasionally and always keep in airtight container.

Mrs. G. J. M. has a suggestion for R.B.:

To make Red Chili Sauce:

Peel and core tomatoes, put in pan, mash with wooden potato-masher cut up onions, bring tomatoes and two onions to a boil, then take off lid of pan and let cool till Chili Sauce thickens. Then put in sugar, salt (spices mixed with the vinegar) and let cool for a few minutes longer, stir well.

Cold Spanish Sauce

One and one-half cups canned tomatoes, quarter onion, a sprig of parsley, bit of bay leaf, six cloves, one-third teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of paprika, few grains cayenne, three egg yolks, slightly beaten, three tablespoons salad oil one tablespoon gelatine, dissolved in three-quarters tablespoon vinegar and three-quarters tablespoon of cold water.

Cook tomato and seasonings fifteen minutes. Rub through sieve. Add oil to egg yolks. Combine mixtures, cook over hot water, stirring constantly. Add dissolved gelatine. Strain and cool.

Brown Mushroom Sauce

Three tablespoons baking fat, few drops onion juice, three tablespoons flour, one cup top milk, half - pound mushrooms, sliced, one teaspoon beef extract, salt and paprika.

Melt baking fat add onion juice and flour. Brown on electric element 'low'. Pour on milk gradually, while stirring constantly. Add mushrooms, cooked in fat. Season with beef extract, salt and paprika.

Maraschino Sauce

Two-thirds cup boiling water, one-third cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, one-quarter cup maraschino cherries, cut in halves, half-cup maraschino syrup, half-tablespoon butter.

Mix sugar and cornstarch, add gradually to boiling water, stirring constantly. Boil five minutes and add cherries, syrup and butter.

Rosbury Sauce

One egg yolk, one cup powdered sugar, half-cup scalded milk, one teaspoon cornstarch one-eighth teaspoon salt, half-teaspoon of vanilla, one tablespoon lemon juice, grated rind of one-quarter lemon, one egg white.

Beat egg yolk until thick and lemon-colored and add three-quarters cup sugar gradually, while beating constantly. Mix remaining sugar with cornstarch and salt and pour on, gradually, scalded milk. Cook in double boiler 10 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, and afterwards occasionally. Combine mixtures, add flavorings and egg white beaten until stiff.

I. O. D. E. NEWS

The regular business meeting of the Alice T. Harshaw Chapter I.O.D.E. took place Friday evening, October 6th, in the Recreation Hall with with the Regent, Mrs. Mervyn Owen, presiding. A splendid report of The Navy League Tag Day was given, and a letter of appreciation was read from The Navy League. A vote of thanks was extended to those who helped with the Tag Day.

The following officers were added to the executive: Mrs. Thos. Bowen as 1st Vice-Regent, replacing Miss Jean Gibbard, and Mrs. William Howlett Jr., as Social Convener, replacing Mrs. Jack Hope.

Arrangements were made for the purchasing of articles to fill "Personal Property Bags" for civilians and service women overseas. These comfort bags will be packed at the next meeting.

It was moved and seconded that the Chapter sponsor the Service Counter at the Mohawk Airport for Y.M.C.A. services, in charge of Mrs. Herb. Knuth.

There were sixteen members present at the meeting, which closed with the National Anthem.

U. E. L. CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

The regular meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held in the Chapter's Room, on Monday afternoon, October 2nd, and was presided over by the Regent, Mrs. D. R. Hall. The attention of the members was especially called to the District Paper Drive which will begin October 16th. Paper is urgently needed for the war effort and the co-operation of all citizens in this important matter is expected. A film prepared by the Provincial Salvage Committee is to be shown in the Granada Theatre all week preceding the opening of the drive. Glass jars and bottles of all kinds, except broken glass, are needed.

One minute's silence was observed in respect for Mrs. Craig, a member of the U. E. L. Chapter for many years, who passed away during the summer.

The meeting decided to make and fill 30 personal comfort bags for women and children in England.

A donation towards the I.O.D.E. war work was acknowledged from the Brewers' Warehouse, Napanee.

Mrs. R. Douglas was appointed Ex-Service Personnel Convener and it was decided that a wreath would be purchased from the Legion and would be placed on the Cenotaph for Armistice Day.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

RED CROSS NEWS

Owing to the holiday week end, the monthly business meeting was postponed and will be held next Saturday, October 14th. A full attendance is requested.

IMPORTANT Those wishing to join the home - nursing and emergency reserve classes, will please register. Give your names in at the Red Cross rooms or to Mrs. Victor Cowling ('phone 54). As there are a great many wishing to join and only a limited number can be taken on, those registering first will have the first chance to join.

The Blood Donor Clinic is in need of jam. Now that there has been such a bountiful supply of fruit, it is hoped there will be a generous donation, which will be gratefully received. Please leave your gift at the Red Cross rooms, next Saturday.

"Shur-Gain" 13% Fattening Mash

As more and more poultry are marketed the importance of proper finish becomes more apparent. A well-finished bird is the only one that sells profitably, especially in a well-stocked market. It simply doesn't pay you to market unfinished birds, and the little extra labor involved in finishing is more than repaid in the extra profits from well-finished birds.

Your grade A poultry pay a premium not only on their body weight but also on the easily-obtained finish. Two weeks' crate feeding on SHUR-GAIN 13% Fattening Mash will put firm, mellow finish quickly and economically on market poultry, and turn culls into cash.

In Loving Memory

McCOY — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Lance-Corporal John McCoy, who died from wounds, in Italy, on October 5, 1943

TO A YOUNG SOLDIER
All your brave dreams are done now that you lie
Under the soil of Italy,
Soldier, good-bye.
Those who have loved you well
Over the years
Share a proud grief to-night,
Deeper than tears.
Life was a banner bright,
Flag yet unfurled.
This you, who loved it so,
Gave to the world.
Every year you shall stand,
Gallant and true;
Sadly your homeland says
Soldier, adieu!
Ever remembered by FATHER, MOTHER, BROTHERS and SISTER.
Mr. and Mrs. A. McCoy, Edward Gordon, Arthur, Wallace and Ruth.
41ap

MARTIN — In loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, Sarah, who passed away October 14, 1941.

Just when your life was brightest
Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
Sadly missed by MOTHER and DAD,
SISTERS and BROTHERS,
Brother TOMMY (overseas)
41ap

DAFOE — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Elizabeth Dafoe, Marlbank, Ont., who passed away on October 15th, 1940.

She was a wonderful mother.
She played life's battle square.
No matter when we needed her
We always found her there.
So on this day our hearts go out
To the dearest and best of mothers
Who never had time to think of herself
But always thought of others.
Lovingly remembered by
HUSBAND and FAMILY
41ap

SUTTON — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Thomas Sutton, who died October 24th, 1940.

Four lonely years have passed away
Since our great sorrow fell;
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well.
She never thought when leaving home
She no more would return
That she in death so soon would sleep
And leave us all to mourn.
We do not know what pain she bore
We did not see her die.
We only know she passed away
And never said goodbye.
Sheltered by the Rock of Ages
Anchored on the golden shore
In the arms of Jesus
Rests our loved one, evermore.
Lovingly remembered by Husband, GNR. T. J. SUTTON and two BOYS, and MOTHER, DAD and FAMILY.

SELBY W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of the W. M. S. was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon, September 8th, with the president, Mrs. J. Rose, in charge. The meeting was opened with a hymn, and the secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and the watch tower was responded to by an article sent in on India, by Mrs. J. McConnell, who is convalescing since her operation. Two letters were read, one from Mrs. McConnell in thanks and appreciation of cards and letters sent her during her illness in hospital, and one from Mrs. G. Price, for a letter of sympathy sent her by the society in the loss of a brother overseas.

Following the business, Mrs. Rose introduced the new Study Book, "West of the Date Line." Mrs. J. Henderson and Mrs. Wood read the first chapter and various places were pointed out on the map west to the Southwest Pacific and Southeast Asia place of heroic interest involved in the world war. Mrs. E. Robinson sang a solo, after which Miss Gladys Rickley gave a travelogue of her trip during the summer holidays to the Maritime Provinces and returning by way of Quebec. Mrs. Henderson received the offering and Mrs. B. Denison led in prayer.

The National Anthem was sung and Mrs. Rose closed the meeting with the benediction.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

A meeting of the Busy Bee Mission Band was held at the school on Wednesday afternoon, October 4th, and was conducted by the vice-president, Beulah Craig. After singing a hymn and repeating the Members' Purpose, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mary Vanalstyne and approved. The roll call was answered by each member repeating the first commandment. The call to worship and response was given, another hymn sung after which Miss Stafford gave the Bible reading, and Rosemary Moore read a prayer.

The offering was received by Leonard Moore and Donald Vanalstyne and responded to in song. The Watch Tower Item consisted of news from different missions and mission hospitals across Canada and were read by seven pupils. Beulah Craig read a poem on peace, and Mary Vanalstyne gave an article on stewardship, after which Mrs. Wales told some more experiences of "Tommy Two Wheels".

The meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem and repeating the closing prayer.

The old-fashioned farmer was hard to convince. No, declared he, I'll have no such contraption in my house. Planners are bad things.

Oh, but father, protested the sweet young thing, you don't understand. A planner is a thing that helps you to plan your meals.

WEDDING BELLS

WAITSON - MOORE
A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at 10:30 a.m. Monday, October 9th, at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Napanee, when Alice Jean, second youngest daughter of Mrs. Herbert Moore and the late Mr. Moore, Napanee, was united in marriage to L.S. William Waitson, of R.C.N.V.R., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Waitson, Napanee.

Archdeacon Dumbleton performed the ceremony, and Professor Eppes played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Pte. Bryce Moore, R.C.A.S.C., Kingston, the pretty young bride looked lovely in a white sheer street-length dress with a shoulder-length veil with orange blossoms. Miss Isabel Moore, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was becomingly gowned in a pink sheer with white accessories, and wore a corsage of mauve asters.

Cecil Baker, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother on the Newburgh Road. Guests were received by Mrs. Moore dressed in blue crepe with matching accessories. Mrs. Waitson, assisted, wearing brown crepe with black accessories.

Mrs. Pat Paton, Kingston, Mrs. Cecil Baker, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. Bryce Moore assisted in serving.

L. S. and Mrs. Waitson left amid showers of confetti for Toronto and western points. Upon their return they will reside in Napanee.

New Attitude Towards Employment For The Blind

Colonel E. A. Baker, Managing Director of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, is convinced that one of the few good things which may emerge from the present war is the inauguration of a more satisfactory technique for the employment of blind people in industry. In the Annual Report of the C.N.I.B. for the year 1943-44 he says "The General improvement in the employment situation has given us another opportunity of an entirely different nature. For many years there was such a limited choice of available occupations, and such anxiety on the part of blind workers to try any kind of employment as long as it meant a little income, that there was slim chance of developing a plan for scientific selection of either job or man. The practical course was to fill the first available position with the first available man. Now we have reached the point where we can take the time and organize the method for the better matching of emulovee and occupation. It is possible for us now to make a reasonably thorough appraisal of a prospect's capabilities and to reach more or less accurate conclusions as to his fitness for various types of employment. It is not our intention to become involved in complicated psychological tests and intensive study of mental aptitudes, but it is our purpose to make a positive move towards discovering the type of employment for which his abilities are best adapted. It is a field in which we are feeling our way, but it seems to me that it is an important matter. So far as I am aware, such a venture has not been embarked upon by other agencies for the blind but a large industrial concern have found it exceedingly valuable, and I see no reason why, to a limited extent at least, we cannot derive some profit from the experience of others."

WEDDING BELLS

TURNER - AKEY
In Toronto, on Saturday, October 7, the marriage took place of Maude Viola Akey, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Amey Roblindale, to Richard Robert Turner, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Turner, Trenton. Rev. Addison performed the ceremony and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Linklater, of Toronto.

The bride wore her going-away costume, a powder blue wool suit, with matching hat and purse, navy blue shoes, and corsage of pale pink roses. The matron-of-honour wore a dress of lightweight suntan wool with brown accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Gerald McFarlane, Toronto.

On their return from a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Turner will take up residence in Trenton.

Cards of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Brown wish to thank their friends, relatives and neighbours, for the lovely and useful gifts received at the showers held at Marlbank and Ebenezer. 41ap

I hereby wish to thank Mr. R. W. Milligan, Insurance Representative of Napanee, also Mr. L. G. Fozard, adjuster, of Belleville, and the Willis & Faber Insurance Companies of Montreal, for their very efficient and prompt payment of my fire loss, in full, Moscow Ont., October 9th, 1944. 41ap JAMES PINE.

HOW TO COMBAT Rheumatic Pains
Rheumatic pains are often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail to remove uric acid promptly, it may cause the aches and pains causing excruciating pains. Treat rheumatic pains by keeping your kidneys active. Use a doctor-tested kidney stimulant like Dodd's Kidney Pills. For half a century the favorite kidney remedy. 170

Raspberries Bear In October

Mr. George Burton, R.R. 3, Napanee, who lives at Bethany on the South River Road, brought to The Beaver Office last Friday, October 6th, a branch from a raspberry bush on which were a cluster of ripe berries.

She was a good-looking blonde and when her life went flat she hailed a passing motorist. He stopped. "Wonder if you'd help a girl in trouble?" she inquired.

He said: Sure Sister, what kind of trouble do you want to get into?

A. No, a soldier on leave is issued ration coupons by his unit before leaving camp.

Q. Is there a ceiling price on used bicycles?
A. Yes, maximum prices have been set by the WPTB on all types of used bicycles. The sale price of a used bicycle requiring repairs must not exceed 60 per cent of the price of a rebuilt bicycle.

Q. What is the difference between a used and a rebuilt bicycle?
A. A rebuilt bicycle is one which has been repaired and can be sold as substantially equivalent to a new bicycle, that is, it is sound in tires, brakes, wheels, bearings etc. Men's and women's rebuilt bicycles one year old or less may be sold at 100 per cent. of the cost price, women's bicycles over a year old at 95 per cent. and men's at 90 per cent. of original cost.

MORVEN

Morven, Oct. 10.—On Sunday evening the United Church held their Thanksgiving service in charge of their student minister, Mr. C. W. Trill. The church looked very homey with its beautiful display of vegetables, fruit and flowers. Miss Edna Wood sang one of her delightful solos, which was enjoyed by all who heard her.

Mrs. J. F. Lake and Mr. C. A. Lake spent Sunday visiting their cousins, Mrs. H. E. Bell, Mrs. W. A. Reid, and Mr. W. A. Reid, Toronto, who were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Pudick and Harold.

Mr. J. F. Diamond, of Batavia, N. Y., and his son, Dr. Ralph Diamond, and wife, of Boston, Mass., called on their cousin, Mrs. George Clark, and Mr. Clark, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Page and son, of Toronto, spent the week end at their summer home, and attended the evening worship service on Sunday.

Charlie T. Gausden, of Napanee, spent Sunday in our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Vanslyck spent Thursday at Picton.

Mr. Blake Demyes, of Kingston, spent Sunday at his home.

Mrs. Sills has returned to her home at Gretna, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craig.

Several of our ladies are planning to attend the missionary rally to be held in Grace Church on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Parrett, Mrs. Peter Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chadwick and Miss Edna motored to Napanee Hill on Monday evening and attended the church play.

THE DUTCH WILL DO JUSTICE

"It will not be so long now until the Netherlands is again under Dutch rule," Dr. G. J. van Heuven Goedhart, newly-appointed Netherlands Minister of Justice declared to the people of Holland over Radio Orange, official Dutch station in London.

The Minister who was a prominent progressive leader of the Dutch underground movement, escaped to England recently and was appointed Minister of Justice shortly after his arrival.

Speaking of the transition period immediately following the liberation, the Minister pointed out that the Government wishes to take only the most necessary temporary measures for it realizes that, on principle, its task finishes at liberation."

Paying tribute to the courage of the people of Holland among whom he had lived during years of oppression, praising their deep patriotic feelings and their personal contribution to the liberation of their country by putting up a never-ending resistance against the enemy the newly-appointed Minister said: "I call to you and say—courage. The end is near. Approaching liberty gains ground daily."

Mr. Van Heuven Goedhart made it clear that he had not "the desire nor the power to elaborate on a program of action for the period immediately following the liberation." "But" he said, "all who want to see Holland happy will, I think, agree on the following points:

"First, justice, not murder, must be done. Granted, the Government is prepared for quick severe justice.

"Second, there must be Military Authority, particularly as long as the operations of war are unfinished. Granted, the Government saw to that.

"Third Military Authority must thoroughly understand and respect peoples' liberties. Granted the Government saw to that too, and your re-born freedom will be real freedom.

"Fourth, immediately after the liberation of our European territory, we must go after the Japanese with all our strength in order to free Indonesia. Granted, the Government is ready with all measures for that purpose.

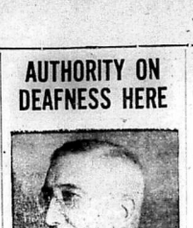
"Fifth the nation has an undeniable right to participate, through representative assemblies, in determining policy for the administration of towns, provinces and country. Granted, this is exactly what is wanted by the Government which will see to it punctually that councils, assemblies and chambers with full powers will function immediately.

"Sixth, the press which is now daily dishing out German lies must be banned until it is cleaned of all stains left on it by present editors, managers and directors. Granted the Minister of Home Affairs dealing with this matter is of exactly the same opinion and will see to it that this happens.

"Seventh, all officials who collaborated in an intolerable way with the enemy must disappear, apart from further punitive measure. Granted, a regulation for this is ready and those concerned can make a note of this."

This misprint from a Sydney newspaper interview with the tenor, Richard Tauber, is amusing. "A singer's throat becomes hot; he goes into cold air, and before he knows what has happened, he has caught a chill and cannot sin for a fortnight."

AUTHORITY ON DEAFNESS HERE



H. P. PUTNAM

Mr. H. P. Putnam, with long experience on hard of hearing problems will conduct a free Clinic for the hard of hearing at the Paisley Hotel, on Saturday, October 14th, from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Being hard of hearing himself, Mr. H. P. Putnam takes an understanding interest in helping the hard of hearing, and is well qualified to make scientifically correct fittings of bone and air conduction instruments.

The new Acousticon Speech-Hearing Test will be given free as well as a private demonstration of the new Symphonic Acousticon hearing aid which is based on U. S. Government findings, and made by America's oldest hearing aid manufacturer. Simply call at the Hotel at time mentioned above. Evening appointment for a demonstration in your own home may be had by phoning the hotel, on above date. 41a

ADOLPHUSTOWN

Adolphustown, Oct. 9.—St. Alban's Church was filled on Sunday morning last for the service of confirmation by Bishop Lyons. There were 13 candidates from Sandhurst and Adolphustown, and the rector, Rev. Mr. Secker, assisted in the service. A full choir was in attendance and Mrs. George Chalmers was at the organ.

Thanksgiving holiday visitors included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harkness and son, John, of Kingston, and Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Duffett, of Nanaimo, with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Duffett; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Anderson and son of Cataraqui, at Mr. C. P. Allen's; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mallory with Mr. and Mr. R. J. Allison, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis and family at Mr. Herb Trumpour's.

Flt.-Lieut. James Heathcote, who has been in England for the past three years, arrived home this week, and will spend a month with his parents, Mrs. Heathcote and caughter, Anne, are expected within a few days.

Mrs. Secker received the sad news on Saturday of the death of her brother, Mr. David Graham, of Orleville and with Mr. Secker, left to attend the funeral.

FARMERS! WILL YOU HELP THIS WINTER?

If you are not required on the farm this winter you should take other work.

Extra winter workers are needed for woods operations—logging and pulpwood and fuel cutting — base metal mines, coal mines, meat packing and cold storage, grain handling, railway track maintenance, iron foundries and other high priority occupations, varying with the area.

Please offer your services to:

The nearest Employment and Selective Service Office; or

The nearest Provincial Agricultural Representative; or

Your Local Farm Production Committee.

A good response to this appeal is important to Canada's welfare — please act immediately.

Postponement of Military Training continues while in approved essential work off the farm.

Firestone EXTRA VALUES

Are more important NOW than ever before

Extra Values You Get Only in Firestone Tires

Vitamic Rubber—Extra protection against weather cracking and wear.

Gum-Dipping—Each tire cord is insulated against friction and internal heat to protect against blowouts.

Gear-Grip Tread—Thousands of sharp-edged angles provide extra protection against skidding.

Safti-Lock Cords—Tightly woven, stronger cords Safti-Locked together for extra strength.

Firestone tires have always been noted for their extra values and consistent high quality that mean longer wear, more safety and greater value.

And, just as you would expect, it is Firestone that today is the pacemaker and pioneer in developing new materials, new methods and new machines that have resulted in tremendous advancement in tire design, construction and performance.

With new tires so hard to get it is more important than ever to get the best tire that money can buy with your tire ration certificate . . . and that means Firestone . . . because Firestone tires stay safer, longer.

Know-How—More than 40 years experience assures extra performance.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities

This is the first of a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get the full details save and read every advertisement.

For complete information write for the booklet "Back to Civil Life"

The Future After Discharge —

A MESSAGE TO RELATIVES OF THOSE IN THE ARMED FORCES

When your boys and your girls come home, when they lay aside the uniform, when they go out into the world as normal peace-loving Canadians, what lies ahead? Can they pick up their lives as civilians, where they laid them down, months or long years ago? Are there plans to help them do the things they wanted to do before the war? Will they have security? Can they continue education, or receive needed training? Will they be assisted in home owning, or to establish their own business, and will they be enabled to pick up their family life once again?

These are questions which concern all those Canadians who have loved ones in the services. They are questions which this series of advertisements is designed to answer.

OPPORTUNITY IS THE OBJECTIVE

Canada has been making plans for your boy's and your girl's return to civilian life since early in 1940. These plans are in effect and operating now. The aim is that every person who has served shall have opportunity. Thousands, already back in civilian life, have benefitted by training, by maintenance grants, by advice of departmental officials, and by the social security provisions. There is ample help for those men and women who want to help themselves.

ASSISTANCE ON DISCHARGE

When your boys and girls are discharged from the services, they will be given:

1. A clothing allowance of $100.00 (if discharged after August 1, 1944).
2. Their pay to date of discharge.
3. One month's additional pay, if they have 183 days' continuous service, as a rehabilitation grant.
4. A railway warrant home or to the place of enlistment.

Dependents will receive:

1. Their normal dependents' allowance to date of discharge, with assigned pay.
2. An additional month's dependents' allowance, with assigned pay, if there has been 183 days' continuous service.

Your boy or girl will be allowed to retain certain items of uniform. They will be given a complete medical and dental examination and will be eligible for free needed treatment for a year after discharge. Those discharged not physically fit, in need of continuing treatment and unable to work, will have their pay and allowances of rank continued for at least a year if necessary and, if the disability is pensionable, for as long as curative treatment is beneficial. All are interviewed by Veterans' Welfare Officers and told of the re-establishment programme.

WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

On discharge, those enlisted to serve outside Canada, or those who served in the Aleutian Islands, are eligible for a war service gratuity. It provides $7.50 for each thirty days' service in Canada and the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas or in the Aleutian Islands. For those with overseas service or with service in the Aleutian Islands, there is an additional seven days' pay and allowances for each six months of such service. Payments will be made at the end of each month in the months following discharge. Complete details of the war service gratuity will be given in a later advertisement.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

In addition to the war service gratuity, there is a re-establishment credit of $7.50 for each thirty days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas. This is for things such as the purchase or repair of a home, the buying of furniture, a business, or government life insurance, and for certain other purposes which will assist your boy or your girl in becoming re-established. This credit, which is reduced by grants given for training or education, or under the Veterans' Land Act, is primarily for those who do not wish assistance under these three plans.

RETURN TO FORMER JOBS

If your boy or girl held a civilian position before enlisting, and was not engaged to replace somebody already in the forces, and if the position still exists, and your boy or girl is capable of filling it, it is the employer's duty, under the law of Canada, to reinstate him or her in that position with seniority. Application for reinstatement must be made to the former employer within three months of discharge from the forces or from hospital.

Veterans' Welfare Officers are stationed in key centres throughout Canada. They are the friends of Ex-Service men and women. It is their duty to advise and assist all Ex-Service personnel with their re-establishment problems. If there is anything about the Rehabilitation programme which you do not understand, consult your nearest Veterans' Welfare Officer.

TRAINING AND EDUCATION

The surest way to permanent employment—the thing your boy or girl will want—is a skill to get and to hold a job. Canada's plans give opportunity to acquire needed skill either at university or in preparation for a business or industrial career. Fees are paid by the state, along with living allowances, while training or continuing education.

WHILE ILL OR UNEMPLOYED

There is protection against illness or unemployment by maintenance allowances which can be drawn against in the first eighteen months after discharge. There is also protection under the Unemployment Insurance Act for those who enter insured employment and remain in it fifteen weeks.

HOME OWNING AND FARMING

There is provision to assist city and other workers to have homes of their own, either on small acreages of land outside the high taxation area, or in town, under the National Housing Act. Full-time farmers can be given financial assistance in full-time farming, while commercial fishermen may secure financial help in getting their own homes, on small acreages of land, and in buying needed fishing equipment.

FREE TREATMENT

In the year following discharge, service men and women are eligible for free treatment, hospitalization and allowances for any condition, even if not the result of service. Pensioners are entitled to this for life for their pensioned disability.

THE POLICY ON PENSIONS

Canada's Pension Act is administered by an independent commission, all former members of the services. Any permanent disability suffered overseas, not a result of misconduct, is pensionable. Where service is in Canada only, the disability must be a result of service.

HERE'S MY FEED PROBLEM . . .

My dairy feeds seem to be costing more than they should.

HERE'S THE ANSWER . . .

You may be overfeeding some of your cows. Keep a written chart of milk production and switch to "Miracle" Dairy Feeds. Tests show that "Miracle" Dairy Feeds cut feed costs about 20% and increase milk production as high as 25%.

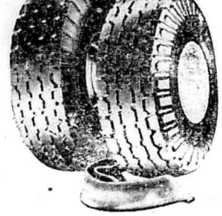
Synthetic Rubber Tires



FOR CARS AND TRUCKS

One point to remember in purchasing Tires is that there is only one grade of Synthetic Rubber in tires for civilian use, and this is made to the formula selected by the Government as the most satisfactory substitute for natural rubber. When you buy these "EATON" Tires, however, you get the benefit of the knowledge gained by government sponsored research plus the craftsmanship of expert tire builders who have been producing "EATON'S" Bulldog Tires for years.

MAPLE RIDGE W. I.

At the September meeting of the Maple Ridge Institute the district president, Mrs Jim Haggerty, Napanee, was entertained. The meeting was held at the spacious home of Mrs. Jack VanKoughnet. The president Mrs. Walter Herrington, presided. It was decided that each member give 50c towards packing the boxes for boys overseas. It was unanimously decided to give an elderly lady of ninety, Mrs. M. Uens, a box of fruit.

Mrs. Haggerty gave a ninteresting talk on Our Coat of Arms. As each province came into the union and brought its crest, it became very confusing, so after two years' deliberation, the present coat of arms materialized. The speaker showed illustrations of the coat of arms of Canada and of the provinces.

Mrs Benn, the convener, took charge of the meeting and her talk stressed the topic, Canadianization. She also had a test on figures, showing there is a harmony in figures as well as music.

After the singing of the National Anthem a dainty lunch was served and a vote of thanks was tendered all those who made the meeting such a success. There were thirteen members and three visitors present.

GRACE CHURCH W. A.

The September meeting of the Woman's Association of Grace United Church was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon, with a good attendance. Mrs. Wilfred Smith, president, presided and was assisted in the devotional period by Mrs. Fred Russell. The treasurer, Mrs. H. W. Vine gave a splendid report of the finances, which showed a substantial sum, both in the general and organ funds. Mrs. R. S. Wales reported on behalf of the "mile for coppers" which has been a good success. The proceeds will go towards the organ fund. Canvassers were appointed to ask for cash donations in lieu of the anniversary supper. It was decided to have a pot-luck supper for the congregation at the time of the anniversary. Rev. C. D. McLellan spoke on behalf of the enlisted men, and also of the addresses which will be placed in the Book of Remembrance. Miss Olive Hambly read the letters from the sick and shut-ins.

The programme consisted of a vocal solo by Miss Hazel VanAlstyne, a reading by Mrs F. A. Correll and a piano duet by Mrs. Bert Seymour and Mrs. B. M. Black.

STEADILY CLOSING IN ON ALL FRONTS AROUND GERMANY

Greece Practically Free of Germans

WEDNESDAY—

United States First Army troops encircled Aachen and closed in to complete the conquest of the first big German city. The British Second Army repelled sharp counter-attacks west of Arnhem and the Canadians made good progress on the Scheldt River Estuary.

• • •

Soviet armored forces closed in on the big Baltic port of Memel and practically completed the encirclement of 100,000 German troops.

• • •

In Greece, British and Greek forces occupied Corinth.

• • •

Rain, mud and strong German resistance held up the Allies in Italy.

• • •

United States forces invaded the tenth Palau Island, stepping stones to the Philippines.

• • •

THURSDAY—

In the face of furious enemy artillery fire, Canadian First Army troops cut the last escape route for nearly 15,000 Germans from the Scheldt River Estuary and thereby won a major battle for control of the great port of Antwerp. Massed Allied artillery and dive - bombers opened an assault to destroy Aachen after the German commander refused to heed the surrender ultimatum.

• • •

The Germans were reported to be planning to evacuate Greece.

• • •

In the Pacific, hundreds of carrier-borne United States planes hammered Ryuku Islands, 200 miles from Japan and destroyed 89 planes and 58 surface craft.

• • •

Bulgaria accepted preliminary armistice terms and agreed to evacuate within two weeks, territories seized from Greece and Yugoslavia.

• • •

The Russians started what is generally conceded a general Autumn offensive, with gains all along their front.

• • •

FRIDAY—

United States troops penetrated the outskirts of Aachen after frantic Nazi counter-attacks were repelled.

• • •

Canadian landings in the Scheldt bridgehead were reinforced and there were indications that the Germans might be intending to leave Holland.

• • •

Soviet troops forced the Germans back on a 110-mile front in Western Lithuania and were preparing for a movement in strength into pre-war Prussia. In Yugoslavia the Russians took the rail and road centre of Subatica.

• • •

In the Pacific, 1,000 Allied planes hit Formosa and others made a heavy attack on a vital oil centre in Borneo.

• • •

R. A. F. and United States heavy bombers smashed at synthetic oil plants and aircraft factories in Germany.

• • •

In Burma, British troops were reported making steady progress in a frontal attack on the Japanese near Tiddin.

• • •

SATURDAY—

Canadian forces launched new attacks on the Sheldt River beachhead and in their sector north of Antwerp, against heavy Nazi opposition.

• • •

A major tank battle was said to be developing as the Germans moved heavy armored forces to burning, wrecked Aachen.

• • •

The Russians captured Riga, the Latvian capital and main Nazi Baltic naval base.

• • •

Farther southwest other Soviet troops hammered the German East Prussia frontier defences on a front extending across Lithuania.

• • •

New landings by the Allies in Greece were promised and the libera-

BD. OF EDUCATION REGULAR MEEING

At the regular meeting of the Napanee Board of Education, held on the evening of October 10th permission was granted No. 1 I. F. S. at Camp Mohawk, Deseronto to use the necessary rooms at the Napanee Collegiate and Vocational School for night classes in geometry, algebra, trigonometry, physics and chemistry for airmen who wish to continue their studies in these subjects.

The Board received a request from the ministers of Grace and Trinity United Churches and St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church that a Sunday evening be designated for a service for young people and that the School Board be asked to co-operate by allowing the principals to give notice and urge pupils to attend. After consideration, on motion it was moved by J. M Simpson and C. B. Creighton and was carried that the Board did not see fit to either grant or withold its co-operation, as the matter was of a controversial nature and that as a result, no action be taken by the Board.

The special committee to consider the extended programme for agriculture in Grade IX, composed of G. F. Smith, D. R. Sharpe and Ward Wartman, recommended that the Board introduce, this Fall, in Grade IX, the extended programme for agricultural instruction, as outlined in a circular from the Department. The recommendation was accepted by the Board and the Special Committee was instructed to continue with negotiations and when approval has been received from the Department, proceed to secure a teacher, if one is required.

C. E. Jamieson, Principal of the N. C. V. I. reported 242 pupils enrolled in the Collegiate and 51 in the Vocational School.

J. A. Hill acting-Principal of the Public Schools, reported the attendance as 487. In the kindergarten primary classes there are 23 five-year olds and 31 six-year-olds.

Archdeacon Coleman Resigns Position of Diocesan Secretary

At the October meeting of the Executive Committee of the Church of England, Diocese of Ontario, held in St. George's Hall, Kingston, last week, Archdeacon J. H. H. Coleman tendered his resignation as Secretary to take effect November 30th.

Regret was expressed at Archdeacon Coleman's desire to retire, and Canon L. E. Davis, Rector of St. Paul's Church, Brockville, was appointed to succeed him.

VICTORY LOAN PARADE, SUNDAY, OCT. 22

On Sunday afternoon, October 22nd at 3:00 p.m. the Seventh Victory Loan Parade will take place in Napanee. All those who saw the Parade in the last Loan agree that it was the bigzest and best ever put on in Napanee for this purpose. Victory Loan Officials state that this Paradae should even surpass the last as. Among the personnel will be representatives of the following Units:—

THE NAVY, represented by ratings from H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui" along with their famous Bugle Band;

THE ARMY will parade the following: Royal Canadian Corps Signals Band and Depot Band. Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, the 47th (R) Field Battery, R.C.A., Napanee, and a detachment of the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

THE AIR FORCE will be represented by Personnel from Camp Mohawk and a Flight of the Women's Division. Mountain View Air Station;

The Veterans' Organization will be represented, and it is hoped that a full turn-out of Veterans will be on hand;

The Younger Generation will be represented by "Miss Canada" Girls and the Boy Scouts.

The following is part of the equipment that has been assured for this event: 25-pounds guns gun tractors, walkie-talkie sets, sound cars and a Float from the Royal Canadian Air Force, Mountain View.

It has been rumored that some time, either preceding or during the Parade, a flight of Nine Medifm Bombers, Nine Harvard Trainers and one Lancaster, will appear over the Town of Napanee.

The Route of the Parade will be as follows: From Gibbard Memorial Baseball Park south to Bridge Street, West to Donald Street, south to Dundas Street, east to Adelphi Street, north to Bridge Street, west to Centre Street, to Armouries. The Salute will be taken at Harvey Warner Park, by Col. A. E. Duncanson, D.S.O., V.D., of Barriefield.

Citizens of our County asked to Invest a Minimum of $1,00,000

On Monday, October 23rd, 1944, Canada's Seventh Victory Loan will be inaugurated. The County, as a whole, has been asked to subscribe for Victory Bonds to the extent of at least $1,300,000,000. Of this total, the Citizens of the County of Lennox and Addington have been allotted the Minimum Objective of $1,000,000 as their share in this, the largest of all Victory Loans. This sum is the same as we were asked to invest in the Sixth Victory Loan. We missed our objective on that occasion by $85,000. Now is our opportunity to show the rest of Canada that we can and will regain our proper place in relation to other Counties.

Do not think that because we can see the end of the war in Europe in the near future, that the need of supplies is not as great as ever. Until such time as both the Germans and the Japanese have been thoroughly defeated, and the last shot fired, we can ill-afford to relax even one iota in our efforts.

Your Victory Loan Salesman will be calling on you some time during the period between October 23rd and November 11th. Welcome him with open arms, for he represents the avenue through which you can throw your punch at Hitler and Hirohito.

Last Loan we Failed our Objective by $85,000.

We Must put this one Over The Top . . .

LIONS CLUB HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

At a well attended meeting of the Napanee Lions Club held at the Superior Restaurant on Monday evening six new members were inducted into the Club. The new members were cordially welcomed by President Harry Skitch and Vice-President Bill Barrett. Lion Barrett took charge of the induction ceremony and in a few brief words, spoke on the aims of the Lions Club.

Following this, Past-Presidents G. E. Gibbard and Russell Hunter, were presented with past-presidents' pins in recognition of their services to the local Lions Club.

The speaker for the evening was Lion J. Diamant of the Napanee Collegiate staff who spoke on a subject that is of great interest today, "Greece". Mr. Diamant was introduced by Lion Albert Hill.

The address took the form of an open discussion in which Mr. Diamant answered questions on his native land. Some of the questions asked by an attentive audience were: The Government of Greece, Chief Industries, Products of Agriculture, the Greek Flag and the origin of its colors, the Clothing and Dress of the different Peoples of the Nation, and the Foreign Problem as it affects Allied Nations and Greece.

Mr. Diamant answered in his usual easily understood manner the various questions put to him and a great deal of interest was taken in the speaker's version of the difficulties facing the nation which is so situated in the centre of Europe as to be of great importance to practically all the powers of Europe.

Mr. Diamant concluded his remarks by requesting the members to donate any used or new clothing to a bale he was preparing to send to his native village in Greece, soon as shipping was opened to that country.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the Club by Lion Albert Hill.

The next meeting of the Club will take the form of a joint meeting with the Napanee Rotary Club and will be held on October 26th.

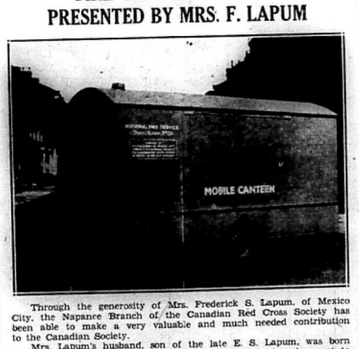
Farmers Exempt In Trucking Law

Farmers using their own trucks to transport their farm goods to market are exempt from the 35-mile limit to road travel. A recent statement from the Transit Controller warned commercial truckers that the 35-mile limit must be observed during the fall movement of produce to market.

FIRE SERVICE TRAILER PRESENTED BY MRS. F. LAPUM



Through the generosity of Mrs. Frederick S. Lapum, of Mexico City, the Napanee Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society has been able to make a very valuable and much needed contribution to the Canadian Society.

Mrs. Lapum's husband, son of the late E. S. Lapum, was born and educated in Napanee, where he lived till 1906 when he went to Mexico and was engaged in business there until his death, three years ago. He always retained a warm place in his heart for his native town. His widow, mindful of his attachment for Napanee, desired to assist Canada's war effort by presenting, through the local Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, a suitable memorial of her late husband.

Upon conferring with the Canadian Commissioner, it was learned that the British Red Cross was sorely in need of a number of motor canteen trailers. Mrs. Lapum gladly offered to defray the entire expense of securing such a vehicle and sent her cheque for the amount.

It was the intention for the local Society to receive the cheque from the hands of the late Hartley Lapum, brother of the late Frederick S. Lapum, but owing to the illness of the brother, he forwarded the cheque in a letter to the Society — one of his last acts on earth, as he passed away on the evening of the same day.

The trailer, manufactured in England, is now in use and as will be seen in the accompanying photograph, it bears a memorial plate with an appropriate inscription.

The Canadian Red Cross Society, especially the Napanee Branch, and the many friends of her late husband, deeply appreciate this generous act of Mrs. Lapum.

COL. ELIZABETH SMELLIE HEAD OF VICTORIAN ORDER SPEAKS HERE

Only Woman Colonel in Canada

The Napanee Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, held an open meeting, Tuesday evening, October 10th. Mrs. T. Hunt, president, presided. Mrs. W. S. Phippen read the minutes of the last meeting, and the treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Medd gave her report. Miss Mary Morrison, the Victorian Order Nurse read her report for September.

Mrs. Hunt introduced the speaker of the evening, Col. Elizabeth Smellie, C. B. E. R.R.C., LL.D.

Colonel Smellie is the Chief Superintendent of the V. O. N. for Canada, but has been on leave of absence from the Order for almost four years. During this time she served as Matron-in-Chief of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Nursing Service.

Colonel Smellie is the only woman in Canada to hold the rank of full Colonel, and this rank is permanent although she has recently resigned from the Service to return to her position as Chief Superintendent of the V. O. N., in Ottawa. She has been associated with the V. O. N. for over twenty years.

Colonel Smellie told first of some of her experiences during the last four years, as Matron-in-Chief of the Nursing Service, and how during that time in both Canada and England, and every board ship, she encountered many prominent people who were very interested in the V. O. N. organization. In England she met the Minister of Health as well as the Deputy Minister, who were both very anxious to hear details of Canada and how our services would fit in with future health plans in Canada. They discussed with her the present and future health plans for England.

While in England, Col. Smellie was entertained by the Queen's Organization, which is similar to our own V. O. N. Mrs. Vincent Massey was also a guest. Since returning to her work in the V. O. N. Col. Smelie has been visiting some of the V. O. N. branches in Western Canada, and while in Vancouver addressed the Rotary Club.

Colonel Smellie found a great many changes in the branches and in the kind of services required, but was gratified to find that interest in the importance of the V. O. N. has been retained right through, and into this our sixth year of war. She is also very proud of the nurses we have in the Victorian Order. She said only the very best nurses have a real love for this type of nursing. Col. Smellie also spoke on the V.O.N. as a National Order. She compared it to the British Empire Earth branch as run independently by its own Board, and the Central Office in Ottawa draws its strength from these branches as a whole.

Mrs. A. McGregor expressed the appreciation of those present for Col. Smellie's interesting address.

Colonel Smellie's sister, Mrs. P. M. Macodinnell was among the out-of-town guests at the meeting, and her husband Major P. M. Macdonnell R.C.A.M.C., Barriefield, expressed their pleasure at being present.

Miss Lenora Herrington, president of the Napanee and County Red Cross, was asked to say a few words and she spoke of the importance of the V. O. N. work and her interest in Col. Smellie's talk. Miss Herrington (who was decorated by the King for bravery under fire), and Colonel Smellie were both in the Nursing Service in the last war. Miss Herrington is also a Past President of the Napanee V. O. N. On account of her past associations with Col. Smellie, this meeting was of special interest to Miss Herrington.

The hostesses for the social part of the evening were the representatives on the Board from St. Patrick's Church, Mrs. H. McNeil, and Miss E. C. Anderson. They were assisted by the following ladies of St. Patrick's Church, Miss E. Fox, Miss A. Cavanaugh, Mrs. H. Lewis, Miss N. Hunt, Mrs. A. Davern, Mrs. L. Raby. Mrs. L. B. dore presided at the tea table.

Nursing Report for September

September has proved a fairly busy month with 174 visits being made. 27 cases were carried and one convalescent also attended. The largest number of visits were made to medical patients. With the particularly heavy bedside nursing programme visits for instructive purposes necessarily were reduced.

Five Well Baby Conferences were held during September. These continue to be well patronized. The total attendance was 73.

During the month it was found necessary to change the conference day to Tuesday from 2 to 4 p.m. instead of the customary Thursday afternoon.

Fifteen visits were made to the two public schools and 30 hours spent in the schools by the Nurse.

MR., MRS. S. SHETLOR HEAR FROM SON, PRISONER, GERMANY

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Shetlor, R.R. 7, Napanee, received the following letter from their son, Pilot Officer Lorne Shetlor, who is a prisoner-of-war in Germany.

Pilot Officer Shetlor was shot down over Aachen, on May 24th, and it was several weeks later before word came to his parents that he was a prisoner-of-war. Two other members of the crew were reported killed and another has not yet been accounted for.

Dear Folks:—

Here I am getting settled down at last on a permanent P.O.W. camp. My address is unchanged "Airgrider" on outside. Everyone leads a very lazy life here with plentyof fresh air and sunshine, and we do not work. Each man gets one Red Croks parcel per week, so , along with what the Germans provide, we get plenty to eat and drink. There are 50 to 100 American or English cigarettes in each parcel. You can consult the Red Cross about letter-writing. I do not think it worth while to try to send me parcels but wish you would help out the Red Cross with money.

How are you all coming? O.K., I hope, like I have been since being taken, the middle of June. Will drop you another line later on in the month.

Love to all,

LORNE M. SHETLOR.

WHAT MR. BROWN LOST

Mr. Brown is a fairly prosperous farmer. He had to work hard though for all he got. But he has something to show for his labor. His farm was paid for, he had some good stock, and his family were fairly well taken care of. Mr. Brown has saved a bit of money, too. Every month he managed to put a little in the bank. There were times when the milk cheques were pretty skimpy and he found it hard sledding to get by. Yet he always managed, somehow, to lay aside a little, even if it was only two or three dollars. The time came when he had the tidy sum of a thousand dollars in the bank. That was for a rainy day, he said. "You never know," Mr. Brown used to say, "just when you will need it. There may be sickness or some other unforeseen event that demands ready cash."

Then the war broke out, and the Government floated a loan. Mr. Brown read about it, and heard about it over the radio, but finally decided to leave his money in the bank. That was four years ago. Since then the bank has paid Mr Brown One and One-half Per Cent. on the thousand dollars. In the four years he has received $60 interest. Mr. Brown just let the interest add up and he now has $1,060.00 to his credit.

Mr. Smith, a neighbour to Mr. Brown, is in about the same financial position. When the war broke out, his farm was paid for; his family were pretty well grown up and after a long hard struggle, he had a neat little nest egg in the bank. Like Mr. Brown, he read about the War Loan ,and heard about it over the radio. He figured that Three and One-Quater Per Cent. interest was better than One and One-Half Per Cent. So he bought a Thousand Dollar Bond. Every six months since then Mr. Smith has received a coupon worth $16.25. He has these added to his credit in the savings account. Now his thousand dollars has grown to $1,160, a hundred dollars more than Mr. Brown.

Fortunately, both for Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith, the rainy day they feared never came. Prices of the things they had to sell remained good, and there was a steady demand for them. The families had kept their health and there were no unforeseen accidents. But even if there had been Mr. Smith could have met them just as readily as Mr. Brown. If he needed ready money all he had to do was tell the banker and he would have sold the bond and got the cash.

The other night Mr. Brown got out a pencil and figured all this out, and decided that any way he looked at it, Mr. Smith had made the better deal, and that he himself had pulled a boner when he did not put that thousand dollars in a War Bond. "He was not going to be caught napping the next time," he said.

WARMING UP

The election across the Border is warming up. The air waves these days are alive with addresses of one sort or another, but mostly of a political nature. The most recent poll of public opinion gives Mr. Roosevelt a very small margin over his Republican opponent, Mr. Dewey. The margin, according to these samples of public opinion, is decreasing somewhat. Whether these are accurate barometers of political winds is hard to say, nevertheless they reflect a tendency which cannot be ignored.

As the campaign proceeds, however, many who would oppose Mr. Roosevelt on most counts, are coming to the conclusion that it would be unwise, under present war conditions, to make a change. The New York Times, which is one of the most influential American papers, reached this conclusion last week. After a long and careful analysis of Mr. Roosevelt's record, and of the platform of the Republican Party, it came out flat-footed in favor of Mr. Roosevelt. This will undoubtedly have a great influence on public opinion in the States.

We, in this country, are more interested in this election than in most elections across the border, because for us, Mr. Roosevelt typifies the anti-isolationist. We have only a passing interest in his internal policies. But, certainly in the field of Internatinoal Politics, the President has given inspired leadership to his own country and, indeed, to all the United Nations.

THE TEMPO INCREASES

The tempo of the war has increased during the past few days. After a quick and rapid occupation of France, the United Nations had to have time to reorganize their forces and make adequate preparations for the all-out drive against the fortress of Germany. And, of course, while the United Nations were making vast preparations, Germany was busy improving her defences and getting ready to repel the invader. In a sense, Aachen was a test of strength. The Germans have held on to the very last, bringing up reserves in the face of the most vigorous bombing and blasting. The United Forces steadily and relentlessly pushed the attack. It would appear that the Nazi forces intend to keep the enemy off German soil, if at all possible. This is what the United leaders wished to know, so that they could make plans accordingly. The plans seem to have been about completed.

Germany now stands alone, having lost Hungary, her last remaining Satelite. It would appear that the United Nations are now in a position to exert the maximum force. From the East, the great Russian armies are pushing into East Prussia; in the South, they are striking through Czecho Slovakia, while the Germans have evacuated Greece and the Greek Army of occupation is trying to find its way back home over a dangerous and precarious Balkan route In Italy the United Nations keep up the pressure continually moving north and preventing the Nazis from removing any troops which are sorely needed by the hard-pressed armies on the other fronts.

The war hurries to a climax. Premier Churchill is in Russia, quite probably among other things to report that all is in readiness. So that we may, in the near future, look for a tremendous exhibition of power used against the enemy. Indeed, if the issue is to be settled this year, action for a final showdown will have to begin at once. We are now well into October—Fall rains and mud will soon hamper large scale military operations. Some time ago military leaders declared their intention of concluding the war this year. If this is still the Allied strategy, it may well be that what we are now seeing, is the beginning of the end.

NEW ALIGNMENTS

Careful political observers see in recent political manoeuvering a new alignment of political forces in this country. Last week, Mr. Hepburn, former Liberal leader of the Province of Ontario and for a number of years its Premier, returned to the fold. Since resigning the leadership, he has been an Independent Liberal, holding himself aloof from the Party caucus. But now he is back again. He will be the House Leader and it may well be that he will become the Party Leader, as well. Mr. Hepburn always had one bogey, it was Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and the Federal Party. But there are evidences that the bogey has been laid low. Mr. Hepburn does not seem, now, to be quite as bitter towards Ottawa as he once was. Should it come about that Mr. Nixon should be called to the Upper Chamber, the breach of long standing between the Ottawa Liberals and Mr. Hepburn would quite likely be all healed. That would seem to be the trend of events—a strong Ontario and Ottawa Liberal organization, with Mr. Hepburn at the helm, in Ontario.

On the Progressive Conservative front things are happening, too. Premier Drew has made a strong attack on the Ottawa Liberal Government's social legislation. Naturally, this has been resented most strenuously by Quebec. For it is argued in Ontario that the people of Quebec will benefit most by the social legislation and are in fact determining Dominion policies. Mr. Godbout, until recently the Liberal Premier of Quebec, has taken Mr. Drew severely to task for his remarks about Quebec. Mr. Duplessis, too, the present Leader of the Union Nationale Party, and Premier of Quebec. This, however, may be somewhat of the nature of window dressing, for there is more than a probability that Maurice Duplessis and Premier Drew will work in close co-operation as the days pass. They will, at least, have common opposition to Premier King and to Mr. King's incursion into what both leaders maintain to be Provincial rights. Indeed, a compact between Mr. Drew and Mr. Duplessis is not at all far fetched. As a matter of fact, it was almost suggested by 'Le Devoir' French language paper of Montreal, which declared: "His" Mr. Drew's) position is the same as ours," and suggested to its readers that "Mr. Drew ought not to be harried because he spoke the truth." This compact, if one is made, will be the easier because for a number of years Mr. Duplessis was Conservative Party leader in Quebec.

This is an interesting development, and if it should work out as present trends indicate, the end of Mr. King's sway at Ottawa may be within sight.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 22ND, 1944

RELIGIÓN IN EDUCATION

Lesson Text: Matthew 7; 7-12. Luke 6: 39-45.

This week's study has to do with one of the most insistent problems of our day. Premier Drew of Ontario, has recently taken a forward step and introduced the teaching of religion in our schools. Only a beginning has been made. When his programme is complete, religion will be taught as a regular subject in both the primary and secondary schools. No prime minister would do that unless there was a public demand. That there has been a demand is undeniable, and this is the more remarkable as the trend in education during the past fifty years has been to divorce religion and education almost completely. The public, now having seen where that divorce leads, as it has done in Germany, is coming back to the view that religion and education are closely related.

Jesus did not deal with the formal importation of education, but, he made it perfectly clear that at the very basis of a complete life is religion. Education permeated with the religion of Jesus is the only guarantee against a generation of trained pagans. In the first passage set for today's study our Master urges his followers to ask, seek and knock, promising those who do that the door will be opened. Petition, investigation, and persistence have their reward. Is the way the verse might be paraphrased, petition, reflecting the prayer or religious life; investigation, the intellectual, and persistence, the volitional. These three are essential to a well developed character. Omit any one and life becomes dwarfed and lopsided.

To illustrate the point that Jesus raised he used a story from the home: "What man is there of you who if a son will ask a loaf will give him a stone; or if he ask a fish will give him a serpent?" No man in his right senses would dream of doing any such thing, and yet that is what has been done. Children crave the full life They are eager to get the best out of it. We have assumed that they can get that best by being taught the so called cultural subjects. That is giving them the stone, the serpent for the fish. One of the difficulties in imparting character lies in the possession of those who teach, unless they themselves have eaten bread they will serve only stones. "A teacher cannot impart that which he does not possess". Our religious teaching in the schools may become nothing but stones unless those to whom is entrusted the task of providing a balanced diet are themselves possessors of that which they would impart.

Jesus concludes this section of his address with the famous saying: 'Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye also unto them.' That needs little explanation. It takes a lot of courage, however, in these days of war and strain, to apply it. But Christianity makes great demands. It challenges the heroic in us all.

"Can the blind lead the blind." Jesus asks in the next section. And, of course, the answer is no. He was thinking of the religious leaders of his own nation; good men after a sort, perfect in their knowledge of the law pantctillious in their obedience to it, but getting nowhere when it came to establishing a Kingdom of God on earth. There is always a danger that religion as it grows and becomes established, will degenerate into a formal thing, when priests and pastors will concern themselves with obedience to ritual and the regulations of the ecclesiastical organization, than to the spirit. This goes for teachers and leaders as well. They must continually draw inspiration and help from the source of all life or and persistence have their reward. they become actors a parts. A heavy responsibility rests on all who teach or lead, lest they regard the thing that has been, as true just because it is old, and so come to think in terms of maintaining the status quo rather than in opening the heart to new revelations of God.

The real teacher, whether in the pulpit or behind the desk, will always remember that "no good tree bringeth forth corrupt fruit." "Each tree is known by its own fruit." There is no desire to make all trees alike each tree has its own contribution to make. An apple is an apple, and a pear is a pear; both are delicious. each has its own appeal to the eye and the taste. Each child is a special personality. To assume that we are all just biological animals and can be pressed into one mould, is a fallacy all to patently demonstrated by events in our own day. Every child has his or her own personality. The wise teacher will develop that, seeing to it that each is surrounded with the spiritual climate and nourished from the spiritual soil which will make perfect the special mental contribution which each can make to the well being of the whole.

From Lieut. F. C. Brown

The following letter was received recently by Mr and Mrs Rae Brown from their son Lieut. F. Cameron Brown, who is with the Canadian Army in France:—

Dear Mother and Dad:

Well, it's only half an hour till supper, but I'll start this and try to finish it off after supper before dark. I haven't written since Sunday so have a bit of news.

I've been living pretty much the life o fa Boy Scout here, til to-day, when they found a job for me and I did a kit inspection this morning and a route march this afternoon. But before that I'd report over to my Company Office around 9:30 a.m. pick up some mail to be censored and after I'd finished that I'd done my day's work, for which I still get paid my 240 francs.

Among other things, Fitz (my Canadian tent mate) and I have been breaking in a new batman, a young Welsh lad, who is a bit slow, but under careful tuition he's coming along. We got tired of having things washed in cold water, so we got a small wash tub from the Quartermaster and made a little fireplace out of bricks, so that we now possess a mobile hand laundry, and I have carefully tutored Taffi, our batman, in the fine art of fire building, clothes boiling, etc and have got the fact impressed upon him that (1) socks will not be boiled, (2) towels, etc. will not be boiled at the same time as shirts and handkerchiefs. Does No. 2 matter, Mom I wasn't sure, but it seemed a good idea to have at least two rules. Then, too, another fine art is that of "oeuf gathering." Being in the country here we naturally go on the prowl to buy eggs with varying degrees of success. I always seem to have enough companions eager to accompany me since my French is the best of any of the gang, with the exception of Hank Richard, who is a French Canadian One afternoon, Monday, I guess, I went out with two other fellows and got us one apiece. You see there's no surplus about, since there are a lot of troops. Then, the next evening, I was out with three other fellows and got us one apiece again. However, a bar of soap played a large part in this operation, and so happy, we retreated to our camps once more.

Monday night, a couple of us decided we were a bit too dirty to live with ourselves, so Irish Dick Gillespie, an Irishman, and I, went in search of water — all too rare around here it seems — and managed to get several buckets in the local village, while our third man of our team procured a washtub and constructed a fireplace and got a fire going. Then, I found one of the boys with a folding canvas bathtub (I have one, too, stored in England, thought it too heavy and awkward for its useful-ness) so we were all set. We flipped to see who had the first or clear bath and your little son is still a lucky guy. I quite enjoyed the bath, but I imagine I did look funny in the tub—a wee thing some three feet long and two feet deep. To lie on my back I stuck my feet in the air.

Yesterday Irish, Fitz (my tent mate) McKibbin from Toronto and I got the Colonel's permission and set out for a coastal town we wanted to see—it's of interest to Canadians, hitchhiking is almost or I believe much better than back home in peace time because there is bags of trucks going both ways on the main roads and drivers are always willing to pick you up. So we got into this town around dinner time—most cafes have no food and are selling only drinks, but we found a little spot where we got quite a good little meal. Mutton, nice gravy, potatoes, beets and cucumbers with lemonade, but we paid 70 francs apiece, so you can see that prices are high enough. After dinner we looked around a bit. The town was damaged some by bombs, but was taken by land forces with scarcely a shot. Then we looked at the defences down on the beach—deadly enough. Good thing they didn't have to land there. Then we went to a movie, a theatre taken over by the Army for the Army; the picture was poor, though. Mae West and Victor Moore in Tropicanna. I suppose had we been in camp or in England we would have walked out half-way through but we hadn't seen a show since we left England, so we stuck it out. After the show we decided we had better strike straight back to camp, so we started up a road leading out of town. After a bit we picked up a truck—the driver wasn't quite sure about whether he was going our way, but we thought it must be O.K. and took the chance—and landed up fifteen kilometres from our first objective, a town on the main road on a barren bit of road with no traffic. So we wandered along rather disgusted with ourselves but still believing in our luck. We ate a few apples from an orchard along the road, but for the most part they are cider apples and not much good. The country through there is very pretty and looks quite like home, except for style of farm buildings. Anyway, finally we could see a truck coming along and as it came up to us we could see it was a livery truck but I hailed it anyway and asked for a lift. We climbed up on the back with four men and a woman who were there, and since the other fellows didn't speak French, I had quite a busy time and talked quite volubly to the bunch of them. Among other things, I found out that we could get supper at this town we were heading for. And since it was on the main drag and there was plenty of traffic, we could have supper and still get a ride before dark. Which we did. We had a bottle of cider, egg omelette, French fries— oh yes, soup, boiled pear for desert — for forty francs apiece. Not too bad; nice change from camp food, too. The cider was a bit better than the last I tasted.

We finally got home about 10:45 caught a lift with a big truck. Small lights are used at night—not quite as strict as once they were—but still it's tricky enough but drivers had none at all. He must have been a good lad as we horsed right along just as if it had been peacetime conditions. All in all, it was quite an interesting day. I like going out like that, nothing definite, just sort of bumming around, and when we are not really busy we might as well be seeing the country.

Had a very good supper to-night, good stew, dessert and coffee. A wonderful change after days of infernal tea from chlorinated water. There are mushrooms about and we get some, sometimes, with our meals. Had breakfast this morning, of eggs, beans, mushrooms and sausage, not bad, eh?

Well, that is about all for now folks. Keep well, and my best love to you both. Love, Cameron.

Requests for changes, extensions, new installations—they all come to the Service Representative. If the need is not directly related to winning the war* she has no alternative but to defer the installation and to put the applicant's name on the waiting list.

Sometimes if the applicant is a business man, she suggests re-arranging facilities at his premises so that no new equipment is needed. In these days of acute telephone shortages, our hands are tied. We are doing our utmost, in the circumstances, to stretch available equipment to the limit.

[*A directive of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board requires Bell Telephone "to do such things as may be requisite to conserve any and all telephone plant and facilities".]

Anniversary Services

Anniversary services were held in the United Church on October 8th, with Rev. W. H. Baugh, Tamworth, as guest preacher. Rev. Baugh delivered two inspiring messages on "The Christian Way of Life" and "Cross-Bearers." A full choir with Miss Vivian Vannest as pianist, sang the following anthems: "Come, Let us Sing," by Carrie B. Adams, with the solo part being rendered by H. E. Vannest; "Let Not Your Heart be Troubled," solo part by Mrs. R. C. Covert; duet, H. E. Vannest and Roy Hartman, by Ira B. Wilson; a duet "I Will Exlol Thee," by Carrie B. Adams, Mrs. R. C. Covert and Marion Covert. "Teach me Thy Way," by Otis M. Carrington with the solo part by Mrs. H. E. Frair. The pianist used "She's a Rose Garden Prayer" as prelude, "Schumann's Important Event" during the offering and the first movement of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" at the conclusion of the service in the morning. Miss Vannest used "The Stranger of Galilee" as prelude in the evening, "Traumerei" during the offering also Schumann's "Nocturne in F. Major" and "Waliz in A Flat" after the service.

The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, foliage and house plants. The ushers were D. B. Wagar and H. M. Jackson. E. W. Jackson, G. A. Wagar, W. W. Jackson and Allan Burgess received the thankoffering.

TAMWORTH

(For Last Week)

PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Tamworth, Oct. 9. — The community here was shocked to learn about the sudden passing of Mr. Leonard Brown, on the morning of October 2nd. He had not been well forthe past two weeks but no one thought his life would be ended so suddenly. He had attended the funeral of his late brother-in-law in Hamilton and upon his return home had not been well and was confrined to his bed for a few days. The deceased came to Tamworth with his wife and only son about nine years ago. He learned his profession as a baker while a boy in Scotland, and took great pride in turning out a perfect loaf that the public would enjoy. Therefore he built for himself a thriving business and was favorably known by all. His wife, the former Miss Margot Hill, Guelph, has been his constant helper, and due to his father's poor health is the only son, Graham, was given leave for the summer from the R.C.N.V.R. and has been of great assistance in the business. The remains were taken to Guelph for funeral and burial, after having rested at the A. Hannan Funeral Parlors here until Thursday. Mr. S. J. Haggerty accompanied the body to Guelph, by train. There remain to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father his wife and one son, Graham.

ABBOTT - GILMOUR NUPTIALS

On September 30th, at 2 p.m., a pretty late Autumn wedding was solemnized, when Marguerite Florence, only child of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Gilmour, was united in marriage to Ralph Franklin Abbott, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Abbott of Empey Hill. Rev. A. W. Scaton of Sydenham, officiated. The youthful bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. Pearl Rogers.

The bride's gown was white triple sheer over taffeta. It was fashioned on princess lines with sweetheart neckline trimmed with daisies made from the sheer. Her veil was caught with a headdress of white flowers and sheer made on the half hat style and hung to the floor forming a short train. Her flowers were American beauty roses. Her attendants were Miss Helen Marshall, Reg. N. of Montreal, as bridesmaid, who was dressed in blue sheer, with touches of pink ribbon, her shoulder length veil was of pink net and was held in place by a net bandeau of pink edged with blue net, silver slippers completed the costume. Miss A. Gilmour, cousin of the bride was maid of honor. She wore pink silk net over pink taffeta with touches of blue ribbon. Her shoulder length veil was of pink net and was held in place by a net bandeau of pink edged with blue net, silver slippers completed the costume. Both attendants carried arm bouquets of white mums tied with white taffeta ribbon. They also wore silver monogrammed bracelets, the gift of the bride.

Mr. William Abbott was his brother's attendant. Mr. Wray McLaughlin and Mr. Donald Beckett acted as ushers. The church was decorated with ferns and seasonable flowers. Before the bridal party arrived at the church, Mr. Garnet Brooks sang two selections, I'll Walk Beside Thee and O, Perfect Love. During the signing of the register Mr. Brooks sang Because. The groom's gift to the organist was a large sandwich plate, to the soloist and ushers, billfolds.

After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the home of the bride's parents and received the best wishes of the 65 guests present. The bride's mother also the mother of the groom received with the bridal couple. The former was dressed in cut brown velvet, trimmed with steel beads and buttons. She wore a corsage of American beauty asters. Mrs. Abbott wore blue chiffon velvet. Her corsage was of roses. A delicious luncheon was served by young friends of the bride, Miss Leafa Hudson of Enterprise, being the caterer in charge. Rev. W. H. Baugh, present minister of the United Church, here, acted as toastmaster and called for a toast to the King. This was responded to with the National Anthem. He then asked Rev. Seaton to propose a toast to the bride. This was ably responded to by the groom.

The young couple left amid showers of confetti to visit friends in the Georgian Bay district and in the United States. The bride's travelling suit was of chartreuse green wool, green hat and veil and brown purse and shoes. She wore the groom's gift, a silver fox scarf. Upon their return the young people will reside at Empey Hill where the groom is a prosperous young farmer.

REG. CONFERENCE HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The Regional Conference of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations was held Monday, October 16th, in the auditorium of Napanee Collegiate Institute. Mrs. Harvey, of Kitchener, Ont., a provincial vice-president, was chairman of the conference which opened with the singing of 'O Canada' followed by devotions led by Ven. Archdeacon Rev. R. J. Dumbrille.

Members of the Association were warmly welcomed to the Collegiate and to Napanee by Mr. C. E. Jamieson Principal of Napanee Collegiate.

A group of fairy songs were sung very ably, by Mrs. Ross Miller, of Napanee.

Mrs. R. K. Hall, provincial president, who was to have been the principal speaker at the conference, was unable to attend and Mrs. Jagger of Hamilton, Ont., a provincial vice-president, was her very capable substitute. The subject of her discussion was 'Civic Responsibility.' 'People' she said, 'were no longer as interested in voting as they should be. At a recent election in a large city, less than thirty out of one hundred voted.' This was definitely not self-government, she pinointed out.

Following Mrs. Jagger's talk was a discussion period during which members from each centre represented gave a short contribution on 'What is Your Strongest Characteristic?'

Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Richards spoke for Belleville, Mrs. Webster for Picton and Mrs. Douglas for Napanee. Mrs. McIntosh, president of the Kingston Council introduced the members from Kingston schools, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Graham and gave an interesting contribution herself. This was followed by an address on 'Radio' by Mrs. Noble, provincial radio convener from Toronto. The importance of radio as an instrument of education was pointed out and how the Home and School Association had brought its influence to bear to have more programs suitable for children presented. The CBC Mrs. Noble added, is putting on a series of programs similar to the 'American School of the Air.'

'A sing-song led by Mrs. Miller of Napanee was a pleasant interlude.

An interesting talk was given by Mr. Macklem, public school inspector, of Belleville, on 'Community Schools', which he said are an experiment, mostly in rural districts, which combine education and entertainment for the people of the community. Here, he said, is the answer to what will keep the young people interested in their own centres without travelling miles for entertainment.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the members of the Napanee Home and School Association.

Magistrate's Court

Ross McCumber paid a fine of $10 and costs of $5.50 last Thursday in the Napanee Court after pleading guilty to being intoxicated in a public place.

Word was received on Friday, October 13th, that Sergt. Jack S. Black, Fifth Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, had been slightly wounded while in action in Italy. The wire announcing the injury gave no other details except that Sergt. Black was in hospital.

Sergt. Black, whose wife and two sons, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Black, live in Napanee, has been overseas for three years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other Wartime Prices and Trade Board rulings should be mailed to: Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville, Ont.

Q. Are butter coupons 82 and 83 valid?
A. No, butter coupons 82 and 83 will not become valid until October 26th.

Q. Now that we have Ration Book No. 6, are we to keep our number 3 and 4 books?
A. Yes, keep these books as there are coupons in them which are valid until December 31st.

Q. How can I find out if there is a re-make centre in my district?
A. Communicate with the Consumer Branch, W.P.T.B., Ottawa.

Q. I was told I had to surrender one D coupon for a glass container of grapefruit. I thought it was coupon-free.
A. Grapefruit in glass containers was removed from the ration list from August 24th to October 14th and is now rationed at the rate of 20 fluid ounces per D coupon.

Q. I am the owner of a store and wish to advertise a clearance sale by means of a circular to be delivered by mail. May I have 1700 of these printed?
A. Yes, providing the total weight of paper used does not exceed 25 pounds in one calendar month.

NEWBURGH W. C. T. U.
The W. C. T. U. met on Wednesday September 27th, at the home of Miss Cameron, the president, Mrs. G. Finlay, in the chair. The devotional exercise was given by Mrs. J. Wilson, followed by all present repeating the pledge. The yearly programs for 1944 and 1945 were submitted by the president and accepted, with slight change. It was moved by Mrs. Wartman, seconded by Mrs. Wilson, that the date of the October meeting be held at Miss Duff's convenience.

Miss Cameron reviewed the July-August W. R. Tidings. Her theme, "The world is one, we cannbt live apart." The speaker said no long as people are in economic distress, so long will they be tempted to drink their way out. Following this was an interesting clip sheet, and discussion.

The meeting was closed with prayer by the president.

Over a cup of tea a half-hour of friendship was enjoyed.

NEWBURGH W. I.
The September meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H. Ramsay, with the president in the chair. The meeting was opened with Ode and the Creed, and Mrs. Vandervoort read The Children's Song, by Kipling.

The knitting convener reported work done in the past two months: 32 pairs short sox, 6 pairs of men's gloves, 1 pair seaman's long stockings, 4 ladies' sweaters, 12 seamen's sweaters, 11 helmets, 1 girl's sweater. The quilt convener reported 4 quilts and the donations for the quilt fund amounted to $14.96.

Miss Cameron was appointed delegate to the area convention in Kingston. It was decided to pack and send three ditty bags to sailors, Mrs. Card and Mrs. Shiler to buy supplies and pack them. The Institute decided to send a donation for a wreath to be placed on the Cenotaph at Napanee.

A paper on Canadian Industries was given by Mrs. Stewart Moore. She spoke of the new industries brought to our country since the beginning of the war, by refugees from Europe such as the Bata Shoe Company, Pottery at Hamilton, Petrick's near Woodstock, who are making beautiful bowls, vases, flowers, china brooches, etc. from Ontario clay and other minerals. A paper prepared by Mrs. R. Pluke, How cocoa and chocolate are Produced, with illustrations, was given by Mrs. Moore. An instrumental solo by Mrs. D. Wilson was heard and the meeting closed with the National Anthem. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

A family living in a suburb of Melbourne, finding the usual notices on the gate ineffective in discouraging hawkers and canvassers, replaced them with the following on: 'Beware of the Aspasmthus! If attacked, do not run but walk slowly backwards.'

Reported 100 per cent. efficient.

Double Your Profits on Pigs!

FARMERS in all parts of the country are finding out that feeding grain alone is not the most profitable way to raise pigs. When a balanced ration is fed instead, not only is the amount of grain required cut in half, but the pigs are ready for market three to six weeks earlier. We show below in a simple way what farmers who keep records have found out from experience.

1100 lb. grain in 7 months produces a 200 lb. market hog.
Average price for a 200 lb. hog, including Grade A bonuses ..... $ 29 00
Cost of raising on grain alone is 1100 lb. grain, plus cost grinding 20 08
Profit per hog, over feed cost ..... $ 8 92

650 lb. grain, plus 50 lb. SHUR-GAIN HOG CONCENTRATE, in 5½ to 6 months produces a 200 lb. hog value ..... $ 29 00
Cost of raising on balanced ration is 650 lb. grain, plus cost of grinding, plus 50 lb. SHUR-GAIN HOG CONCENTRATE 13 76
Profit per hog over feed cost ..... $ 15 24

Maximum Prices of Used Bicycles Set

Maximum prices for all types of used bicycles have been set by the Prices Board. They are based on three classifications—rebuilt bicycles, the equivalent to rebuilt bicycles and bicycles requiring repairs. The seller must guarantee the first two types of machines for periods ranging from 30 to 90 days, depending on the sale price. It is further provided that the seller must supply the buyer with a sales invoice giving complete names and addresses of both buyer and seller, a description of the bicycle sold and the sale price. A copy of the invoice should be retained by the seller for a year after the date of sale.

PRICES BOARD OFFICER SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS

At the regular luncheon meeting of the Napanee Rotary Club Tuesday, William Congdin, of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Kingston, was the guest speaker. He was introduced by Lorne Millet. Mr. J. S. Fraser, also of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, spoke briefly.

Mr. Congdin claimed that the regulations regarding prices in Canada during the period of the war, had been of the greatest value to the citizens of the country and a great contribution to Canada's war effort. The needs of the people had been the first consideration and as a result of the regulations the public has been well fed and clothed and no one has suffered. Efforts had been made through the ration system to assist the trade in buying more than they needed and to keep supplies evenly distributed from coast to coast. In all cases the needs of different localities had been studied. Shorter hours for retail businesses had been suggested in order to reduce the selling of goods, which had been found an effective means of keeping up supplies.

The cost of administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board does not amount to anything, Mr. Congdin said, in comparison with the amount of money saved the consumer. Following the war some regulations will need to be kept in force for some time in order to keep labor employed and prevent a severe deflation.

George J. Tustin M.P., expressed the thanks of the club to the speaker.

An appeal was made by Peter Ganas for used clothing and shoes to be shipped to his home town in Greece, which has been liberated recently by the Allies along with the greater part of Greece.

SELBY W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon in the Sunday school room, with Mrs. M. Denison in charge, assisted by the president, Mrs. J. Rose. The theme for the day was "Love Thy Neighbour." Scripture lessons were read by Mrs. A. Fridsen and Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Wood read Our Duty to Our Neighbour. The treasurer reported $84.31 on hand. The missionary bale was valued after the meeting. The secretary, Mrs. E. Robinson, gave the minutes and called the roll which showed Mrs. McConnell responded for India, Mrs. Sexsmith for Peace and Arbitration and Mrs. Wood, secretary of Christian Stewardship. Two delegates were chosen, Mrs. M. Denison and Mrs. E. Robinson, for the Autumn rally of the W. M. S. to be held in Grace Church, Napanee. Mrs. M. Denison gave the second chapter of the study book, which was followed by an instrumental number by Mrs. E. Price. Mrs. F. Jackson received the offering and Mrs. McLeod led in prayer. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

WEDDING BELLS

WINTER - COLLINGS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Alex Collings, Sharps' Corners, on Saturday October 7th, at 2:00 p.m., when Rev. W. R. Merrick united in marriage Cora Helen Bernice Collings, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Collings, and John Theodore Winter, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Winter, Napanee, Ont. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, as Mr. Clarence Bradshaw, Selby, played the Wedding March. The bride was charmingly dressed in a street-length gown of white sheer and wore her mother's finger-tip veil caught with white gardenias. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli with red asters, baby's breath and fern.

Miss Lois McConnell, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant and wore powder blue crepe and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli with red and white asters. Mr. George Collings attended the groom.

Miss Peggy Booth, Selby, sang 'When Song is Sweet,' during the signing of the register. The reception followed with 35 guests present. Those assisting in serving were Vera Graham, Thelma Booth, Dorothy Winter and Peggy Booth. The bride's mother wore a gown of old gold with a corsage of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother wore a beige suit with American Beauty roses.

The bride and groom left amid a shower of confetti for Toronto, Niagara Falls and other western points. The bride travelled in a dress of golden topaz, with colored sequins and brown accessories. On their return they will reside on the Slash Road, Napanee.

The groom's gift to the bride was a Gruen wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a gold locket and to the best man an initialed tie set.

FOX - JONES

At St. Brigid's Church, Toronto, on October 9th, 1944, the marriage of Dorothy Elizabeth Jones, eldest daughter of Mrs. Jessie Jones and the late Thomas Jones, and Alfred Raymond Fox, son of Mrs. James Dugan and the late Ernest A. Fox, formerly of Napanee was solemnized by the Rev. A. P. Caley, uncle of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, wore a gown of white brocaded organdy with finger-tip veil, and carried a bouquet of red roses and bouvardia, with white satin streamers. The bride's two sisters, Misses Marguerite and Viola Jones, attended as bridesmaids, gowned alike in pink sheer, with matching headdress, and carried baby mums. The groom's brother, C.S.M. R. E. Fox, was best man. The two little flower girls, Miss Joyce Dugan and Marlene Caley were ushers. During the signing of the register, the bride's cousin sang Ave Maria.

Immediately following the ceremony a family lunch was served at Diana Sweet tearooms. Later in the afternoon a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents. The guests were received by the bride in pink, wearing a black and white crepe dress, with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses and the groom's mother was gowned in a Queen's blue crepe dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo. For her going away costume the bride chose a blue suit with matching hat, tweed top coat and black accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. On their return the couple will make their home in Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

DOWDLE - PENNELL

Newburgh Anglican Church was the scene of a pretty Autumn wedding, Saturday, October 14, 1944 at 11 a.m., when Beverley Louise, the younger daughter of Mr. Albert Pennell, Malhbank, became the bride of Albert Dowdle, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dowdle, Newburgh. Canon Spencer officiated.

The pretty young bride, given in marriage by her father, was a radiant figure in a floor-length gown of white sheer over satin, with shirred bodice, V-neckline trimmed with gold sequins and long sleeves. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and ferns. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Milford McLennan, Kingston, who wore a floor-length gown of pink sheer over satin, with short bolero and headdress of pink flowers to match her gown. She carried an arm bouquet of baby mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Milford McLennan, of Kingston.

The groom's gift to his bride was a chest of silver, to the bridesmaid a gold pendant and chain set with her birthstone, and to the groomsman, a leather billfold. The groom's mother was gowned in black crepe with white accessories. After the ceremony the wedding party motored to Napanee, where luncheon was served in the banquet hall of the Superior Restaurant, to twenty guests. After toasts were proposed to the bride and groom, the happy couple left among showers of confetti and good wishes for Montreal, Quebec and points east. For travelling the bride donned a two-piece suit of turquoise blue and matching hat, with silver fox, grey top coat and black accessories. Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm, near Newburgh.

W. A. TEA AT ANGLICAN CHURCH

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary Magdalene Church held a very successful tea on Friday afternoon, October 6th in the Sunday School room. The guests were received and welcomed by the president, Mrs. T. Austin Smith and the vice-president, Mrs. W. E. Wilson. The treasurer, Mrs. Hambly, took the admission.

The room was very attractively decorated with Autumn flowers. Mrs. Claude Knight, Mrs. W. E. Wilson and Mrs. H. M. Johnston were the conveners of the tea table which looked most attractive with its bouquet of fall flowers and yellow candles. Tea was served at small tables. Pouring tea were Mrs. H. M. Johnston, Mrs. P. Cambers, Mrs. J. A. Amey and Mrs. Richards. The tea assistants included Miss H. McGreer, Mrs. A. Hill, Mrs. Henry Young, Mrs. Claude McDonald, Mrs. Derby, Mrs. Grass and Mrs. Phippen. The conveners of the home cooked food table were Mrs. LeMaistre and Mrs. W. E. Richardson.

WEDDING BELLS

SWITZER - DOWLING

The quaint and picturesque old Chapel of St. James, adjoining St. Mary's Cathedral, was the scene of a lovely Autumn wedding, when at 11 a.m. on Monday, October 9th, 1944, the Rev. Father Wiley, rector, united in marriage, Margaret Helen Dowling of Kingston, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Dowling, Enterprise, and Russell M. Switzer, only son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Switzer also of Enterprise.

Given in marriage by her father the lovely bride wore a gown of ivory slipper satin, made very long, and fashioned with basque bodice, sweetheart neckline and gathered skirt. Her veil of white net fell in soft folds from a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of red Premier roses. She also wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by Miss Bette Brand Kingston wearing a most becoming floor-length frock of brocaded organza with tight-fitting bodice and full skirt. She wore a Juliette cap with shoulder-length veil and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. James McKim, Kingston, was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the British American Hotel, for the immediate families of the contracting parties. Mrs. Dowling, the bride's mother, wearing a smart gown of Queen Elizabeth blue, with navy hat and corsage of Sweetheart roses, received her guests. Mrs. Switzer, the groom's mother, who also received chose a lovely shade of orchid, with black hat and corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Switzer left on an extended trip to American cities, the bride travelling in a smart brown tailored suit, small feather hat and matching accessories.

DO THIS
If Child Has a Cold
Don't take needless chances with untried remedies. Relieve miseries this home-proved, double-action way.
WORKS 2 WAYS AT ONCE
PENETRATES to upper breathing passages with medicinal vapors.

REGULAR MEETING C. A. SOCIETY

During the past month Miss McCabe, supervisor for the district of Children's Aid Societies visited the local society and after carefully reviewing the work being done, made a strong recommendation that at least a part time assistant be secured to aid the superintendent, Mr. W. P. Barrett. Mr. C. L. Graham, the president of the Lennox and Addington Society, brought the matter before the members of the Board of Directors at the meeting held last Thursday evening and after thorough discussion, it was decided to secure, if possible, a part-time assistant for Mr. Barrett to take over some of the routine work such as regular visits to boarding and adoption homes. The matter of arranging the necessary details was left with the Finance Committee, which is convened by Ward Wartman.
The Membership Committee, through its convener, Miss E. C. Anderson, reported that plans had been made to secure annual members of the society. Any citizen of the community may become a member by paying the fee of 50 cents per year.

On the fighting front our men are still "slugging it out". Each advance . . . each new sector . . . each mile that the battle front is extended . . . is hard going. Much fighting lies ahead.
There's more to be done on the home front, too.
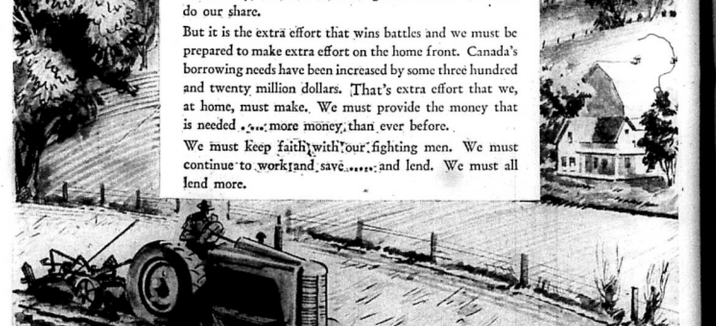
More money is needed to enable our country to carry her share of the war's cost.
Our duty is clear . . . we, at home, must provide the money. Canada must get this money from Canadians.



Fortunately, most of us have good incomes. We can do our share.
But it is the extra effort that wins battles and we must be prepared to make extra effort on the home front. Canada's borrowing needs have been increased by some three hundred and twenty million dollars. That's extra effort that we, at home, must make. We must provide the money that is needed . . . more money, than ever before.
We must keep faith with our fighting men. We must continue to work and save . . . and lend. We must all lend more.

GROWING UP WITH CANADA...
-FOR 75 YEARS!
Up through 75 eventful years of Canadian history . . . up from horse and buggy days to the fast-moving, mechanized world of today—General Motors of Canada and the pioneer venture from which it sprung, have grown with this growing nation.
Thanks to the constant and continued support of the Canadian public, General Motors, through three-quarters of a century of service to Canada—has developed into a vital national asset . . . a power for progress in peace, a tower of strength in war!
From GM's busy assembly lines has rolled a mighty measure of the automotive transportation that has helped build modern Canada. From GM's factories and foundries, at this critical time, is pouring an overwhelming volume of that splendid fighting equipment which is speeding Victory.
As a partner in Canada's forward march to nationhood and inspired by a seventy-five year long tradition of high craftsmanship—General Motors of Canada, in this its Jubilee Year, pledges itself anew to the proud task of producing "More and Better Things for More People".

Belleville Presbyterial W. M. S. RALLY Grace United Church

A representative gathering assembled for the morning session. Miss Mata Mellow president Grace Church W.M.S. welcomed the delegates and Mrs. Frair, of Enterprise, replied.

The following committees were named: Resolutions, Mrs. Armitage of the Bay Circuit, Mrs. Gerald Hawley, Yarker, and Mrs. Baugh, Tamworth; Courtesy Committee, Mrs. Stanley Haggerty; Nominating Committee, Mrs. Fred Bell, Mrs. Percy Anselatine, Mrs. G. R. Finlay.

A letter from Mrs. Farnsworth of Belleville was read, encouraging W. M. S members and urging the circulation of total abstinence pledges.

Members from the Deseronto Auxiliary conducted an inspirational worship period. Mrs. H. Bunt gave a talk on the Stewardship of Prayer. Little can be accomplished, she said, without prayer, That is our first work. Real prayer is never a waste of time. Jesus was the master teacher of prayer. He taught the work of the Kingdom comes first, even before our own needs. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God." Mrs. Boyce rendered a beautiful solo, "Passing Down Life's Way."

Mrs. Corkill introduced the guest speakers, Mrs. James Laughland the chairman of Home Organizations of the Dominion Board, and Mrs. Stanley Spafford Belleville Presbyterial president; Mrs. Harrison, Belleville Presbytery Baby Band secretary; Mrs. McCreary, literature secretary of Belleville Presbytery. Stories of the year's activities were read by the secretaries of the two sections.

Napanee South reported nine auxiliaries having a membership of 56 life and 243 annual members. Average givings, $3 to $5 per member. Napanee North reported 11 auxiliaries with a membership of 296. The average givings per member $2 to $7. There are two C.G.I.T. groups, eight mission bands and six baby bands. These have been doing good work through the past year.

The World Day off Prayer was attended by all members. Thank-offerings were given as Easter and Thanks giving. A very fine literature display was exhibited by Mrs. McCreary, literature secretary of the Presbyterial.

For an hour in the morning session the convention divided into two groups, one led by Mrs. Laughland, on adult work of the W. M. S. and the other by Mrs. Harrison, leader of younger groups. The findings of these groups were reported in the afternoon by their respective leaders.

The forword this year is Advance. Last year the Belleville Presbyterial increased its givings $1,100. We are asked to do it again this year. Let each officer stress her own job — magnify her office. No one else will if you don't. Our Dominion Board needs $160,000 more to carry on our missionary program this year. Each member must increase her giving 15 per cent. We can do it and we must if we are to avoid another war. Let us go forward together. Our first loyalty is to the church. To serve well we must be informed, we must be active, must pray must give systematically. Our study book is so timely this year: "West of the Date Line." We find it most interesting as the daily press brings to our attention happenings in those very islands. Our boys in the service are finding the church there, due to our missionaries. Our objective is fifty new candidates for the mission field in the next four years. We must pray. The W.M.S. was born and nurtured in prayer. As long as we have a living religion it will cost us something. et us remain steadfast.

God grant us wisdom in these coming days,
And eyes unsealed that we clear visions see
Of that new world that He would have us build
To life's ennoblement and His high ministry.
Not of our own might can we hope to rise
Above the ruts and failures of the past,
But with His help, who did the first earth build,
With hearts courageous we may fairer build this last.

1944 - 1945 OFFICERS

Napanee South Vice-President — Mrs. C. A. McLellan.

Napanee South Secretary — Mrs. Elmer Alkenbrack.

Delegate to School for Leaders — Miss Margaret Vannest.

Delegate to Library Committee — Miss Mellow.

Napanee North Vice-President — Mrs. Thomas Wilson.

Napanee North Secretary — Mrs. Kenneth Weese.

Delegate to Library Committee — Miss Susie Shorey.

Resolved that we place ourselves on record as favouring a more intensive study of the evils of alcoholic beverages than is now being taught in our public schools.

Also, be it resolved that we petition our women to sign the total abstinence pledge, as is reausted by the Dominion Board.

These were carried unanimously.

The courtesy committee, Mrs. Stanley Haggerty, expressed the thaiks of the delegates to the entertaining church for hospitality, to our guest speakers and to the organist, Mrs. B. Black.

Rev. H. E. Frair brought the convention to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

Invitations for next year's rally were received from Tamworth and Deseronto, which were graciously accepted.

HAWLEY

Hawley, Oct. 16 — The October meeting of the Maple Leaf W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Vernon Ackerman on Thursday afternoon, October 12th, with a splendid attendance of members and visitors. The roll call, "Why I like to Live in the Country" was well responded to, and business dealt with. Mrs. J. L. Smith, convener of the program, took charge of the meeting, and introduced the guest speakers, Rev. and Mrs. Walker, of Bath. Mr. Walker gave a very interesting and educational talk on "Ames of the Bible" in connection with the home life. Mrs. Walker then gave violin selections, and two very humorous readings. Miss Hazel Cummings gave a splendid reading on "The Month of October" in comparison with old age, which was brought out very clearly by the speaker. A vote of thanks was tendered all those who took part in the meeting, and also to the hostess. The National Anthem was sung and refreshments served by the committee in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fretts and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Fretts spent Tuesday in Watertown.

Master Tommy Butcher, of Napanee, spent the week end with his aunt, Mrs. E. O'Connor.

Mr. V. Boston has returned home, accompanied by little Miss Nancy Woods of Napanee, where she has been during the illness of Mrs. E. Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummell, of Prince Edward, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Fretts.

Mrs. J. R. Ackerman is attending the Kingston Area convention in connection with the W. I., as federated representative.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith spent Friday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fretts, accompanied by Mr and Mrs. Lipsey, left on Monday on a motor trip to Quebec.

Mrs. M. Myers and Mrs. W. G. Fretts packed boxes on Saturday for the boys overseas, and also Miss Lava Perry, of C.W.A.C.

A number of people from this vicinity attended the funeral of the late Mr. H. Claringbold, at Conway Church, on Wednesday afternoon. We extend sympathy to the bereaved widow and friends.

Rev. and Mrs. Walker, of Bath, took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ackerman on Thursday evening, and baby Carolyn Marie Ackerman was baptized by Mr. Walker.

Son, why don't you play circus? It's great fun. First you make a sawdust ring—

But where would I get the sawdust, dad?

Here's the saw. Just cut some of the firewood into fireplace lengths. And you can have all the sawdust you make.

Local Holsteins at Championship Show

Local Holsteins did very well in the hot competition that featured the Regional Championship Show held on October 11th at Warkworth. Lyle Craven, Bath, won second prize in a very strong class of Senior Yearling Heifers. Rockdale Rag Apple Chief, Thomas E. Cochrane, Setlla, had the third and seventh prize Senior Yearling Heifers. Also the eighth prize Junior Get-of-Sire; Lemon Bros., Odessa, the sixth prize Aged Cow, sixth prize three-year-old Heifer, and eighth prize Progeny of Dam; Harold McCaul, Napanee, the fourth prize two-year-old Bull; and William A. Scott & Son, Stella, the ninth prize Junior Yearling Heifer.

The Lennox and Addington entry in the County Herd Class stood sixth. The winner was Peterborough.

RED CROSS NEWS

The regular montily business meeting of the Red Cross rooms, was held in the Red Cross rooms, Saturday, October 14th, with the president in the chair.

On Saturday, October 21st, there will be a draw for lucky ticket holders on several articles now on display in the rooms.

Mrs. Victor Cowling gave an interesting report of the Refresher Course given in Toronto last week. The nursing class in charge of Mrs. Cowling will be opening shortly, those desiring to register may do so at the Red Cross rooms.

Mrs. Bogart received a letter from England this week, acknowledging the gift of a dress she had sent. The letter, too long for publication, has been a source of inspiration to the workers. The woman, 34 years of age with six children, had her home hit by a flying bomb, her gratitude for the relief offered by Canadian Red Cross, and for the dress in particular was so moving, that regular workers have been encouraged to even greater efforts.

On Thursday, October 12th, an extra large shipment of knitted garments was packed.

There is plenty of work for everyone, and new workers will be more than welcome.

SPECIAL YOUTH SERVICES

Arrangements have been made for special Youth Services to be held in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, in Grace United Church and in Trinity United Church.

To these services the young people of Napanee are invited. It is hoped that High School students as well as the pupils in grades five to eight of the Public Schools will consider this announcement as an invitation to be present at these services.

The first of this series of Youth Services will be held in Trinity United Church, next Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Special music will be given by the choir. Dr. E. W. Stapleford will give the address.

The November Youth Service will be held in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene and in January a similar service will be held in Grace United Church.

News About St. Paul's Church, Sandhurst

Youth Sunday was observed in St. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, Sunday, at 11:15 a.m. by a celebration of the Holy Communion. The A.Y.P.A. attended. The newly confirmed received the First Communion. These were Mr. M. Creighton, John Creighton, Mrs. G. White, Jean Peters, Lena Peters, Mrs. J. B. Elliott, Herbert Bartlett and Clifford Hines.

Barbara Baird sang very effectively a solo entitled "The Morning of Life." H. Bartlett and C. Hines acted as sidesmen. The rector preached on the subject "Making Christ a Reality in Life."

The regular meeting of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A., Sandhurst, was held in the Parish Hall. One new member was admitted and several visitors were welcomed. At the business meeting it was decided that several members will go to the Dominion Conference at Smith's Falls. An invitation is to be extended to the United Church Young People to be guests at a Hallowe'en party on October 27th. A few words of welcome were given by the president, to Miss Gray, schoolteacher at Sandhurst. Best wishes were extended to Lena Peters who is leaving for Toronto. A period of games followed the business of the evening.

Moscow United Church Observes Seventy-Fifth Anniversary

Anniversary services were held in Moscow United Church, on Sunday. Ideal weather prevailed and large congregations filled the church both morning and evening.

The guest speaker for the occasion was the Rev. A. C. McCallum, Bayside, chairman of Belleville Presbytery, who delivered two inspiring sermons. His theme in the morning was "The Church at the Crossroads," and in the evening, "Making Sure of God." The church was beautifully decorated with plants and Autumn leaves.

Mrs. Laughlin presided at the piano and was assisted by a soldier choir, made up of representatives of the Armed Forces stationed at Kingston, including Sergt. H. Pruden, M.M., first tenor, Sergt. E. Simpson, second tenor, Sigman F. Williams, first bass, Corpl. A. T. Prestwick, second bass, and Sigman. D. E. Harvey, second bass. The Rev. (Hon. Captain) C. C. Gilbert, Padre, read the lesson at the evening service and played accompaniments for some of the special numbers. Mrs. Norris accompanied at the morning service.

Used Car Prices Are Now Changed

October 1st marked the beginning of a new year in the life of used cars and trucks under orders of the Prices Board. Under them the value of a car or truck declines as its age increases. In consequence of this, those contemplating the sale of used cars or trucks should communicate with offices of the Board if they wish to have correct information concerning the prices that may be charged.

ARCHBISHOP O'SULLIVAN MAKES FIRST VISIT TO ST. PATRICK'S CH.

Confirms Large Class First Communicants

The occasion of the first pastoral visitation to St. Patrick's Church by His Grace, Archbishop O'Sullivan of Kingston, afforded a splendid opportunity for the pastor, Dean Leacy and his faithful and devoted people to offer a joyous and heartfelt welcome to the Chief Pastor of the Archdiocese. The Dean, in simple, but telling phrases, expressed the happiness and gratitude of himself and of the laity of the congregation, in having the Chief Pastor with them. The Archbishop responded very feelingly and thanked everyone for their enthusiastic reception, and following the examination of the candidates, especially prepared for this visitation, His Grace administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to a large class of children and adults.

The Archbishop then preached one of the most eloquent and forceful sermons ever heard in St. Patrick's Church, on the duties and obligations incumbent on a Christian, who must live the Christ life and live it daily, if heaven is to be his eternal inheritance. The sanctuary, the rare beauty of it beyond description held the attention of the entire congregation, for here, before their very eyes, were being enacted functions of apostolic times. The musical score enhanced the dignity of the ceremony and the choir was singled out by the Archbishop with a special encomium of praise. Benediction of the blessed sacrament brought to a conclusion an event which will ever be cherished as a priceless pearl in the long rosary of more than three quarters of a century's outstanding events in the history of St. Patrick's parish.

GUNNER J. H. MACK INJURED OVERSEAS

Mrs. John Mack, Dorland, received a telegram from Ottawa on Thursday, October 19, stating that her husband, Gunner John Henry Mack, had been wounded in action in France on Monday, October 9th. Nature and extent of wounds not yet known.

Mrs. Mack received further word Friday, October 20th, from a Canadian Red Cross Welfare Officer, stating that Gunner Mack had been wounded in the arm, but was not seriously wounded. He was able to send a message to his wife, telling her not to worry.

Gunner Mack has been overseas three years.

NOW'S THE TIME
— AND —
NOW'S THE HOUR!

This good old U.E.L. County of Lennox & Addington has come to another testing time — a time to prove that words alone will not bring this war to a victorious conclusion. Across Canada, for the next three weeks, your Government is askng for a Loan — is asking you to keep equipment on the forward march. Dollars will do it, and we have the dollars.

— WITH VICTORY IN SIGHT — KEEP IN THE FIGHT

Meet your Salesman as a friend. He is out to do a good job for those boys away from home, and to end this war quickly!

HITLER HASN'T QUIT, NEITHER HAVE WE!

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

On Monday of this week the Victory Loan opened in the County of Lennox and Addington. This will be the seventh time that the Citizens of the County have been asked to invest their funds in Victory Bonds. In the six previous Loans, the County's record has been good with the exception of the Loan last Spring, when we failed to reach our objective by the sum of $85,000. Conditions are much better in the County this Fall than they were at the time of the last Loan, and there is no reason why we cannot make our objective of $1,000,000 and surpass it by the $85,000 which we failed to invest at that time.

Complacency abounds in certain quarters right across Canada. "Our battle is nearly over; our money will certainly not be needed now in the same quantity as in the past," is the cry. Granted that the German threat has been turned into a German defeat, and we can look forward to a comparatively early termination of the European phase of this war, it must not be forgotten that the day of Japan's defeat could be far distant. It is your patriotic duty to invest in Bonds to the limit of your capacity so as to ensure the return home of our fighting men without one minute's delay.

The appeal to patriotism should not be necessary to sell Bonds, as self-interest is all that should be required. Simple arithmetic shows us that dollars earning One and One-half Per Cent. in the bank are doing just half the job for their owners that they would be if invested in Victory Bonds paying "Three Per Cent. These Bonds can, in emergency, be cashed with the same ease as if you were cashing a cheque. If you are in need of funds for a short term you can take your Victory Bonds into the bank and your bank manager will allow you to borrow up to Ninety Per Cent. of their face value. The interest charges on loans where Victory Bonds are put up as collateral are only slightly higher than the Three Per Cent. interest rate that the bonds bear.

If your salesman has not already called upon you he will do so shortly. Be ready to meet him, and place a bigger order than you ever have in the past.

If you desire any additional information regarding investment value, market ability, etc. of Victory Bonds, drop in and talk it over with your bank manager. He will welcome the opportunity to assist you.

M.-H. COMBINES TO SHOW IN NAPANEE

Once again Lennox and Addington hits a new high in Victory Loan entertainment. On Wednesday evening, November 1st, at 8.30, in the Napanee Armouries, the Massey - Harris Variety Show, "Combines of 1945", will be staged on behalf of the Seventh Victory Loan.

This production is sponsored by the Lions and Rotary Clubs of Napanee, and has been donated by the Massey-Harris Company Limited for Victory Loan presentation entirely free of charge. Any profits derived from this performance will be used for Service Club work in the County.

This is an entirely new show, and as such surpasses the "Combines of 1944" which played here last Fall. The cast is made up of employees of the Massey-Harris Company, who, when they are not on the road with the show, are making implements of war at the Company plant. The show is designed primarily for Army, Navy and Air Force camps, but loan directors were fortunate in securing it for Napanee for one of its free civilian performances.

The cast consists of 25 performers, including 18 beautiful girls, and our spies report that this will be the best performance of its type ever staged in Napanee.

EDUCATION HOLDS YOUTH'S FUTURE DREW BELIEVES

Premier George Drew told an educational convention last week, that the youth in this country must not only have an opportunity of employment at adequate wages but must, also, be provided with an adequate education to enable him to hold his job.

The Premier declared that education fails unless it provides each child with a sound knowledge of religious beliefs, ability to use his own tongue, an understanding of good literature and a fair and accurate knowledge of history. He said the Province of Ontario has taken steps to implement these.

"Without a knowledge of history as a living vibrant thing Canadian children would not be possessed of a background against which to form sound judgments of the events on which they must decide in the important years ahead," he said. "There should be implanted in the minds of children a full knowledge of the events of the last few years and that few months so that they will be able fully to realize what men have done when faced with similar conditions."

The Premier declared the world has been galvanized into new hope and new action by the speeches of Prime Minister Winston Churchill and in his faith in what the British people could do based on his knowledge of Britain in the past, of British history.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT BLOOD CLINIC HELD LAST THURSDAY

Officials Encouraged by Renewed Interest

The last Blood Donor Clinic had an increase of twelve donors over August and September. The appeal to keep this effort up had an effect most encouraging, and proves again the finest characteristic of the Anglo-Saxon race, the spirit of unselfishness in a time of need. The need is now so great that serum is being flown every day from the United States, in liquid form. There is not time to dry process the blood.

WHAT YOU WON'T MISS THEY DIE WITHOUT.

Following is the list of donors and the number of donations each has given:—

First Donation — Mrs. Wm. Dibb, A. V. Roy, Donald Elliott, John Watters, Mrs. Annie Clark, James Jeffrey, Sidney Wilson, James McKeown, Eldon Miller, Glen Richmond, Sam Blue.

SPECTACULAR PARADE OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR VICTORY LOAN

Large Number County Citizens See Parade on Sunday

The Seventh Victory Loan Parade was held in Napanee on Sunday, October 22nd, 1944, to inaugurate the opening of the campaign on Monday, October 23rd. By any standard it was a huge success. The day was perfect and the personnel and equipment everything that was expected and more. The route of March was lined by citizens of the County.

The parade was under the direction of Capt. P. U. Laidley of the 47th Field Artillery (Reserve), Napanee and much of the credit for the fine showing is due him and his aides. Three bands were featured: the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Bugle Band of Cataraqui, the R.C.S. Brass Band, and the Depot Brass Band, both of Kingston. The following units participated in the march: the R.C.N.V.R. of Cataraqui, R. C. A. F. Detachment from Deseronto; a Flight of the Women's Division R.C.A.F., Mountain View; Personnel from R.C.O.C. and R.C.E.M.E. of Barriefield; a company of Canadian Women's Army Corps from Kingston; the 47th Field Battery (Reserve), Napanee; and the "Miss Canada" Girls, and Boy Scouts of this town.

Featured was a magnificent float from R. C. A. F. Station, Mountain View. On this float was a two-ton block buster, a rocket platform and two gun turrets. One of these machine gun turrets was operated by an air gunner and spewed forth blank ammunition along the route of march. It was the cause of much favorable comment. Four 25-lb. guns drawn by gun tractors, presented another item of interest.

The salute was taken by Col. A. E. Duncanson, D.S.O., V.D. of A21 Barriefield. On the saluting base were Wing Commander Bervin of Greenwood, Mr. W. A. Grange, Honorary Chairman, and Dr. D. R. Hall, Chairman of the 7th Victory Loan Committee for the County of Lennox and Addington. During the parade three Harvards and three Sissman Trainers put on quite a demonstration in the air.

As the parade was being dismissed, a Lancaster Bomber from Malton, on a routine test flight, appeared in the sky directly over the town. The personnel of the I. O. D. E. kindly served sandwiches, cake and coffee to 75 C.W.A.C.'s from Kingston and 50 W.D.'s from Mountain View, at Gibbard Recreational Rooms.

PTE. 'BUD' FRASER WOUNDED, FRANCE

Word was received in town on Thursday by Mrs. Mary Fraser, that her husband, Pte 'Bud' Fraser had been slightly wounded the 9th of October, in France.

Mrs. Fraser received a letter the following day from her husband, written on the 10th while in hospital, saying that the bullet had gone through the right arm and he expected to be back in action soon.

Pte Fraser went overseas in 1939 with the H. & P. E. Regiment, transferring three months ago to the S.D. & G Highlanders. He had not been in any previous action.

ROTARY NEWS

The meeting of the Rotary Club on Tuesday, was turned over by President 'Bill' Huston to Frank Correll the manager of the Rotary Frolic. The discussion which followed put all the finishing touches on the arrangements for the various booth managers for the Frolic. Arrangements were also made for the Annual Children's Parade on Saturday, October 28th after which treats for the children will be distributed.

Harry Johnson, President of the Smith's Falls Rotary Club, also Rotarians Andy Davidson, Norman Langhorn, Bill Patterson and Gerald Smiley, all of Smith's Falls, were Tuesday's luncheon guests of Rotarian George Switzer.

GOVERNMENT'S ARMY POLICY 'CRIMINAL FOLLY'

The King Government's policy of sending untrained or insufficiently trained men into battle while keeping a conscript army at home 'must be regarded as one of criminal folly,' Progressive Conservative Leader John Bracken has declared to the convention at Alliston.

He demanded straightforward answers to straightforward questions" when he said the Government must say whether the conscript army would go overseas, would be demobilized to "take the jobs the fighting men leave" or would be maintained at home at a cost of $150,000,000 a year.

WHERE EVERYBODY CAN HELP

Not everybody can fly a bomber, not everybody can navigate a corvette, man a field gun, or climb a twenty foot wall with a sixty-pound pack on his back. But everybody can help support the man who flies the bomber, navigates the corvette, climbs the ramparts or does one of the other thousand essential services that are the prerogative of youth in war time. It is hard to think of any person or group of people in Canada, unless it be professional people who have not benefitted financially by War-time prosperity. We in Napanee and in Lennox and Addington are no exception to the general rule. We are much more prosperous than we have been for a long time. We owe it to ourselves, we owe it to those in the fighting forces, to lend our money which we have in our savings accounts, largely as a result of the war, to the Government, in order that it may meet its financial obligations.

All the propaganda and effort put forward to get the people to buy War Bonds, ought not to be necessary. Surely by now, every last man and woman, boy and girl, knows what the war is costing in blood and treasure. We know of those who went to France, to Italy and to other areas of battle, who have paid, not in dollars, but in blood, and in many cases with their lives. Nothing that we can do will compare with that. This County did not do all that it ought to have done in the last loan—probably a lot of people just did not bother. They thought the money would come any way. It did not come as it ought, it did not come as it was hoped and expected it would come. Now, we have another opportunity, an opportunity to retrieve our reputation. We have the money; the need is greater than ever — it costs Canada $16,000,000 a day for war purposes — all we need is the will.

The Salesman will call, but why not beat him to it and 'phone the banker. Lennox and Addington has a glorious record on the fighting front—there must be adequate and generous support from the home front. This is the opportunity!

I'LL BE BACK

"I'll be back," that is what General Douglas MacArthur said when he left the Philippines in March, 1942. Those are not his exact words, but they are a colloquial way of putting his famous promise. After putting up a remarkable defence against overwhelmingly superior forces. General MacArthur escaped through the Japanese lines to Australia, where he issued a statement. He said, "The President of The United States ordered me to break through the Japanese lines and proceed from Corregidor to Australia, for the purpose, as I understand it, of organizing an American offensive against Japan.

A primary purpose of this is the relief of the Philippians.

"I came through and I shall return."

Last week General MacArthur returned. It was a different situation than that of March, 1942. Since the dark day when MacArthur left the Philippines, The United States has performed miracles. It has raised and thained an army of prodigious size, developed a navy and air force of unbelievable power. Under General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz, island after island in the South Pacific has been retaken from the Japanese, and in preparation for the attack on Leyte, the Air Force blasted out of existence the airfield on Formosa from which bombing and fighter planes would have taken off to hinder the invasion of Leyte. As it was General MacArthur's exploit was successful. Thousands of troops were landed the first day, and within a few hours the General himself landed, along with members of the Philippine Cabinet. They immediately issued a pronouncement that they would administer the affairs of the liberated part of the Islands until the whole group were ultimately freed.

This invasion was the greatest since the landing of the United Forces in Normandy on June 6th. It is said that more troops were landed by MacArthur than were landed in Normandy the first day of the invasion, there. In Normandy, it has been announced that 250,000 landed the first day. So that more than the 250,000 were landed on Leyte. This is the more remarkable when it is recalled that Leyte is 7,000 air miles from America. Over these miles had to be transported practically all the equipment for the undertaking.

The conquest of the Philippines may not be an easy one. The terrain is mountainous, and difficult for an invading force. Then, besides, there are several thousand islands in the group. But if General MacArthur can succeed in getting air bases, he may not attempt to clean out all the Japanese, but press on to get control of the main centres, leaving pockets of Japanese to be taken care of later. That has been his strategy in previous invasions.

There is one thing about it, the fate of the Japanese hold on the Philippines is sealed. The United Nations have complete air superiority, have command of the seas and have endless resources of every sort, human and material. Once the Philippines are solidly in the hands of the American Forces, indeed before they are completely subdued, we may see the attack on Japan proper begun. By that time, if Germany has been defeated, Japan will experience the full might of The United Nations. By now, they should be beginning to realize the mistake they made when by their unscrupulous methods, they hoped to seize the whole of the East, along with India. It was a great dream, while it lasted.

SIGN POSTS RESTORED

The sign-posts — finger-posts they call them in England, which were removed when the Nazis threatened to invade England, have been restored again. It is not at all surprising that the restoration of these sign-posts along the highways and country lanes have received a great deal of, almost affectionate, comment in the British Press. The reason for this can hardly be because of their use to motorists, for as yet, gasoline is still available only in small quantities for essential services. The ordinary civilian receives none at all. Whatever travelling is done, is done on foot or by bicycle, but even at that the average citizen is too engrossed in the conduct of the war, to find time for pleasure travel.

The reason lies deeper. The road signs in Great Britain seem so much a part of the nation, with their quaint names. They were a constant source of interest to the traveller of other days and will be, once more, when normal conditions return. But it is not only the stranger from overseas who finds interest and joy in these signs, the British themselves love them and have missed them. Their restoration, besides being an evidence of a great liberation, has a deep appeal to the Englishman's love of the countryside, as the following, from the "Liverpool Post" abundantly testifies:

"Wherever the traveller may go, says the "Liverpool Post" in England, now the finger-posts are pointing him the way again, guiding him along the high-roads or by-paths, as they did for countless decades before the threat of the country's invasion.

"How readily we can read these newly erected signs! Here's the road you seek, they seem to be saying. Never a city is neglected, never a town is overlooked. A finger-post does honor to the nearest place, and care little whether that place be a great centre of population or a remote village.

"It is when a remote village is named on the finger-post that the true traveller's heart is uplifted. Tired though he may be, he has a lightening step as he reads the name he has never quite known before. Sometimes, a quaint name, sometimes lovely: "Goose Green, four miles' . . . 'Little Silver, two miles'. How good the names of little places sound."

A THORNY QUESTION SETTLED

The recognition of General Charles de Gaulle as the Head of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, settles a thorny problem. The United Kingdom, Canada and the other Dominions of the British Commonwealth, The United States and Russia, all announced simultaneously that they had recognized General deGaulle's leadership. Other nations will accord recognition in due time. There has been quite a difference of opinion for a long time over the status of Gen de Gaulle. From the time of the invasion of Africa, he has had to fight all the way. The main obstacle to his recognition as Leader of the Free French seemed to be The United States, and many believed President Roosevelt himself. Some of the things General de Gaulle did, seemed hard to explain. There were times when he appeared a stormy petrel, stirring up trouble just at the most inopportune moment. But de Gaulle was struggling for political control of France during the time of her readjustment and until an election should finally decide on a leader and on a government. It was a hard fight, for France was helpless, and only the French outside France could do much about it.

It may have been assumed by The United Nations, that General de Gaulle was not popular with his own people. If that were the reason why there was delay, it has surely been dispelled since "D Day." De Gaulle has been welcomed enthusiastically everywhere he has gone in France and, apparently has the confidence of the French people.

When France lay defeated at the feet of the Nazi aggression, and other leaders either capitulated or collaborated with the invaders, Gen. de Gaulle, alone among the leaders of France, made his way to England and placed himself at the disposal of the British Government From that day on he has never ceased to work for the freedom of France. Primarily a soldier, he has shown himself an astute political leader and a wise statesman. He has earned the right to all the honor now accorded him, and the right to form a provisional government which will handle the civil administration of France pending the final decision of the people themselves. There will be general satisfaction in the action of The United Nations.

TIME URGENT ON EUROPE FRONT

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One of the most urgent facts confronting both sides in the war in Europe is that it is getting nearer the end of October. This means that in two or three weeks under normal conditions, autumn rains will begin in earnest. Mud—some of the world's worst—will turn the battlefields of the eastern and western theatres into morasses which will bog down armies. Storms will impair the efficiency of the air fleets either for fighting or as the eyes of the ground forces.

If Europe gets its usual autumn, the Allies have a fortnight or so to launch offensives to break Hitler's frontier defences and set their armies ranging through Germany. And by the same token this is the critical period in which the Nazi dictator must use every means available to stand off his enemies until the bad weather comes to his aid.

All this fits in with the German insistence that both the western Allies and the Russians are on the verge of great new offensives. Indeed, Berlin, says the Red Armies already have struck. These Nazi claims are not surprising, for this not only would seem to be the appointed hour for a general Allied assault but signs are plentiful that the United Nations are about to tighten their vast military ring about Germany.

The western front is in a ferment. The Germans, acting on their own forecast, have been counter-attacking heavily along the crucial northern flank of Gen. Eisenhower's armies. These attacks are calculated to keep the Allies off balance and so hamper their launching of an all-out drive.

The Allied armies have increased their pressure, especially along the 50-mile front extending from Aachen to the Dutch town of Venray. And the Germans say that a bit further north in the Nijmegen-Arnhem area of eastern Holland at the extreme left of the Allied flank, the British Second Army is "at the ready."

Supporting the idea of impending upheaval is the intense Allied bombing of the great Rhenish cities and communications. Cologne in particular has come in for some of the most concentrated bombing ever seen.

Keep your eye on that sector from Aachen north to Arnhem. It's hot.

The vital question of supplies may be the crux of Eisenhower's problem in engineering a great attack. The Allies need more harbor facilities near the scene of the probable breakthrough. The Belgian port of Antwerp, now in Allied hands, would answer this description but for the fact that German guns in Dutch territory menace it. The hard-hitting First Canadian Army now is engaged in removing this threat.

On the eastern front the Germans claim that Red forces have opened a double-barreled drive against East Prussia. The Russians are reported smashing at the "sacred German soil" from Lithuania and from the south near Warsaw. This latter operation also aims at turning the German Vistula line.

Hitler's hold on the Balkans is shattered. Already his troops are believed to have evacuated most of Greece and Yugoslavia His position in Hungary—military shield for the Danubian gateway into Austria— is impossible, due to desertion by Admiral Horthy's government. The country is in chaos, with civil strife between pro-Nazis and anti-Nazis. And the Red Army sweeps on towards Buapest.

The Allied tidal wave is swallowing all Southeastern Europe.

V

MILITARY HEART OF GERMANY

When Allied armies cross the Rhine River, they will have penetrated the spiritual as well as the military heart of Germany. Germans traditionally regard "Father Rhine" as the centre of their patriotism and the symbol of their country.

It is the scene of Wagner's Das Rine dhr Dibelungen musical symbol of German emotion; the seat of the league of free towns that conquered the medieval robber barons preying on the river's commerce. Lord Byron sang of the "Blended Beauty" of its banks and other British writers from Thackeray to Meredith and Bulwer-Lytton occupied themselves with its legends.

The Rhine is not only one of the most beautiful and romantically celebrated rivers on the continent but is also a mighty highway of commerce from Central Europe to the sea, ranging in width from 125 to 1,110 yards.

The Rhine's historical and political significance dates back to the dawn of history. It marked the natural eastern boundary of the Roman Empire, and when the Romans were succeeded by the Franks, Charlemagne united two banks in the Rhineland, 200 years before the Norman conquest.

The centuries that followed Charlemagne were filled with turbulence and romanticism. The archbishops tried to rule but, lacking an effective central authority, they lost out to petty counts and barons who claimed independence and from their castles commanding the Rhine subjected the river's heavy commerce to toll fees. In 1254 the League of Rhenish Towns pulled down many of these robbers' nests, the ruins of which, still splendid in their dereliction, have become tourist sights.

The Rhineland was involved in the 30 Years' War, subsequently suffered its greatest havoc from the generals of Louis XIV in 1689, and finally enjoyed a period of comparative prosperity under Napoleon. In 1815 it again became German.

A storm centre of foreign policy, and a League of Nations' testing ground after the first Great War, a large part of the Rhine's territory was occupied by Allied armies. The troops were to be removed as Germany evidenced the faith of disarmament. But Hitler did not keep that faith, and Allied armies are on their way back to the Fatherland's sacred river.

Through Faith to Victory

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown.' And he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God . . .'"

Do you remember when His Majesty, King George VI used this quotation?

"Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way."

It was Christmas, 1939, when he made those lines immortal . . . on the eve of the darkest year of the war. In a few months we were to experience Dunkerque, and for years we knew no victory. Today, the faith of the faithful—the Thanksgiving of all of us—is justified. We have come to the time when we may continue that quotation:

"So I went forth, and finding the hand of God, trod gladly into the night. And He led me toward the hills and the breaking of the day in the lone East."

When we could see no light ahead, we bought Victory Bonds to "furnish the tools." We "carried on" with more Victory Bonds in the second Victory Loan. With the Third Victory Loan we declared that, "Nothing matters now but Victory." Dawn began to gray the night, and we "Backed the Attack" with more Victory Bonds. Success in Sicily brought a feeling of complacency that had to be overcome to make the Fifth Victory Loan the success that it was. Last spring we met the Sixth Victory Loan in an attitude of tense expectation of the invasion of Europe from the West.

Our guide has not failed us. Our past efforts have been rewarded with success. Would you falter now, and "turn back into the darkness?" Or will you follow on to the daybreak? Buy one more Victory Bond than before.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCTOBER 29TH, 1944

International Temperance Lesson — The Christian Motive for Living
Text: Psalm 4: 5-8; Luke 4: 4; John 6: 35; Romans 12: 1, 2; 13; 12-14

Amid the world shaking events through which we are passing, men and women are, in so many instances finding the things they had been accustomed to depend on, swept away. In the days of peace and material prosperity the tendency among people is to trust in money and the things money can buy. But as family after family see the pride and joy of their hearts go off to war, a change takes place, and as casualty lists come in, those bereaved find little permanent satisfaction in the things they possess. They grope after some assurance of eternal life, some hope of reunion — something, some person, or belief that will bring peace and contentment. In such circumstances, religion is the only hope. Men and women find solace there. "Offer the sacrifices of righteousness and put your trust in the Lord." The two are necessary. sacrifices (offerings) of righteousness and trust Righteous living and trust in God the psalmist discovered were the twin means of securing happiness.

"I will lay me down in peace, and sleep; for thou, Lord, only maketh me dwell in safety." Before me as I write this is a personal letter from a soldier. After referring to being wrecked on "D Day", he says: "Well the Lord is certainly good to me. praise His name. The words of the psalmist ring true every day, for God is proving to be a shelter to whom we can put all our trust. He meets our every need in fortress and in shelter." "Who will do us any good," asks the psalmist, and then answers his own question, "Lord, Thou only makest me to dwell in safety." The experience of the psalmist is being repeated over and over again in the lives of others who like the soldier whose letter is quoted above, find all else swept away.

What the psalmist said about God's provision for man's deepest need, is confirmed by our Lord. "It is written man shall not live by bread only but by every word of God." To be sure man must have bread. For several years during the depression, bread was denied millions of people. We have discovered, under the pressure of war, that bread can be had for all, if people only have the imagination, the will and the determination. Achievements undreamed of have come as a result of the war—they must come as a result of peace. But man is more than an economic animal, to make him happy, he must have books, pictures music and worship, man does not live by bread only. That was what the psalmist felt. He needed God and finding, found the longings of the heart stilled. Jesus illustrated that from His own life, "He that cometh unto Me shall never hunger or thirst."

Men and women who lack a religious background are very apt to make light of the experiences described above. Desiring satisfaction they seek it in bodily satisfaction, excitement, stimulants. Paul suggests that the transforming power of the Spirit is essential to all such. "Be not conformed to this world but be ye transformed." If the Church ever loses the emphasis on the power of the Gospel to transform, it will prove a traitor to its heritage and its responsibility. Perhaps there has been too great a tendency for the Church to conform to the world's demands. When the Church fails to become the conscience of the world, it loses its unique place and its Divine mission.

More specifically Paul deals with drunkenness and wantonness as a means of getting satisfaction. He urges his readers to avoid these. As a motive for living, they are worse than valueless. It should be unnecessary even to comment on this, and yet the traffic in strong drink continues to blind, befuddle and mislead its victims. Paul is a wise teacher—he not only tells his hearers what not to do, but he tells them in a positive way what they should do: "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ," he says. If we are ever to create strong, healthy, vigorous and wholesome citizens, they must be kept away from the temptation of intemperance by giving them something more satisfactory, more attractive more permanently helpful. To testimony of the ages is that nothing meets all these requirements save the religion of Jesus Christ and commitment to His cause.

RED CROSS NEWS

Mrs. George Switzer and Miss Elizabeth Robertson, were hostesses at the Saturday afternoon tea at the Red Cross rooms. Tea is served each Saturday at four o'clock, and a hearty welcome is extended to everyone to attend.

The Nursing Class, under the supervision of Mrs. V. Cowling, will open next Thursday night, at the Red Cross rooms at eight o'clock. The graduates of last year's class will be welcomed to any of the lectures without charge.

A special programme has been arranged for Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11th, and a special invitation is extended to all.

FARMERS! WILL YOU HELP THIS WINTER?

If you are not required on the farm this winter you should take other work.

Extra winter workers are needed for woods operations—logging and pulpwood and fuel cutting — base metal mines, coal mines, meat packing and cold storage, grain handling, railway track maintenance, iron foundries and other high priority occupations, varying with the area.

Please offer your services to:

The nearest Employment and Selective Service Office; or

The nearest Provincial Agricultural Representative; or

Your Local Farm Production Committee.

A good response to this appeal is important to Canada's welfare — please act immediately.

Postponement of Military Training continues while in approved essential work off the farm.

NOTES ON HISTORY THE UNITED CHURCH AT MOSCOW

WRITTEN ON THE SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

BY JOSEPH FOSTER

Anniversaries whether of man or of institutions are important events. They are the hill-tops from which we review the past and then facing about, endeavor to catch a glimpse of the way that lies ahead.

In this monetary and capitalistic period, the question is sometimes asked: "Does it pay from a business standpoint, to build churches? Are they an asset to the community?"

The answer to these questions can be found in the for sale columns of the newspapers, almost any day. For example: The vendors having property or farms for sale are very careful to say that said property is within easy distance of the church.

During the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway across Canada Sir William Van Horne, one of the first presidents, directed the engineers who had charge of surveying the town sites to locate the ground for a church. When asked why this was done, Sir William replied: "No community is safe without a church, therefore, the presence of a church in a neighborhood, will curb lawlessness better than a dozen policemen."

Speaking at a recent church anniversary, Rev. George A. Williams, of Toronto, said: "That the Church is the finger of God pointing men heavenward. Take the Church out of any community and what have you got."

The United Church at Moscow was built in 1869, and prior to union was known as the "Wesleyan Methodist Church."

The original board of trustees with one exception, was chosen from the ranks of the early settlers, as follows: John Lucas, Edward Amey, John Baker, Jacob Amey, James Burns, Zara Vanluven, John Amey, George Lake and Joseph B. Lucas.

The late Miles Storms, one of Moscow's pioneer settlers was the architect and builder and later became the Sir Christopher Wren of Lennox and Addington, having built and designed most of the churches in the County, which are to-day, standing monuments to his memory.

The Moscow United Church is of stone construction. The Saul Brothers of Camden East did the mason work. Lyman Amey donated the ground and George Garrison, the church bell.

In 1942 two years ago, Mr. Earl VanLuven, of Colton, California, established a trust fund, for the benefit of the United Church, to perpetuate the memory of his father and mother, who worshipped in this church for many years.

The pulpit of the Moscow United Church, has been occupied by many outstanding and distinguished ministers, and during the seventy-five years of its existence, no less than thirty-six clergymen have ministered to the spiritual needs of the community.

1924	Rev.	G. T. McKenzie.
1935	Rev.	W. S. Smart.
1939	Rev.	W. G. Fletcher.

On Sunday, October 12th, 1919, twenty-five years ago, under the pastorate of Rev. J. F. Everson, the congregation of the Moscow United Church fittingly observed the 50th anniversary. Rev. Mr. Carruthers was the guest minister. On the Monday evening, following a fowl supper and sacred concert was given, when the church was filled to capacity.

In the early days, the Moscow Appointment was part of the Wilton Circuit and two ministers were required in the work. The senior minister or superintendent as he was called, resided at Wilton and the young minister lived at Moscow. The services were taken alternately by the two pastors.

Camp meetings were held regularly every summer and the Wilton Circuit owned a large tent which seated five or six hundred people. The camp ground was located in the Township of Ernestown and was known as the "Ebenezer Camp Ground."

The early Methodists did their part well, in laying the foundation of Christian principles, broad and deep, and wherever the ring of the woodman's axe, or the crack of the hunter's rifle was heard, the pioneer preacher, with his Bible and hymn book in his saddle-bags, followed the adventurous settler, to preach the glad tidings of the cross.

The preachers of these early days, had no arm-chair job. Six weeks or two months of each and every year, were given to special work for the conversion of souls and some of us can remember the thrill that swept the community, during those old-fashioned revival meetings, which stirred the place to its very foundation, that roused in men and women sacred emotions long dormant, that turned sinners to repentance and lifted struggling humanity to new heights and brought, about a unanimous verdict for the cause of true religion.

The early settlers of the Moscow District and the men and women who laboured to build this church, were truly Christian people who sincerely believed that a Divine Providence rules and directs the affairs of men. They were successful too, in a material sense and bequeathed to their descendants a goodly heritage.

All those honest hearts have long since ceased to beat and it becomes the duty of those who are left, to emulate their example and vindicate by their own worth, their right to share in so great a heritage, and with Longfellow, let us ever remember that:

"Lives of great men all remind us,
"We can make our lives sublime,
"And, departing, leave behind us
"Footprints on the sands of time."

Selby Church Anniversary

On Sunday, October 22nd, anniversary services of the Selby United Church were held under most favourable conditions. The sunny weather made it most inviting to attend services of worship and thanksgiving, with the result that reverent congregations filled the church both morning and evening, to capacity.

The services began with quiet music played by the organist, Mrs. George Robinson, and the Rev. F. J. Armitage, B.A., guest preacher, in charge of the services, delivered two impressive sermons. In the morning the theme "What the Church has to offer to the World," was very interesting and revealed the fact that the Christian Church has the moral and spiritual resources and realities to meet the need of the world to-day. The evening's theme was "I'm proud of the Gospel of Christ," taken from Romans first chapter and sixteenth verse. Both messages were convincing and inspiring and their presentation will long be remembered.

The music and anthems by the choir provided a very impressive contribution of the spiritual atmosphere and enjoyment of the services, also the special solos and duets so effectively rendered by Mr Garnet Brooks and Mr Ted Wilde, which were very appropriate and uplifting.

The flowers and ferns which adorned the altar gave an added touch of beauty to the place of worship and contributed their lesson and influence to the occasion. So in every respect the anniversary occasion was a remarkable success, for the members of the congregation not only expressed their thanks to God for His mercies in voices of praise, but also in their freewill thankoffering which exceeded any previous year.

ENTERPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coates have returned to their home in North Bergen, N.J., after spending several months at their summer home in Enterprise.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Frair, Mrs. H. E. Vannest, Mrs. George Nelson, Mrs. Roy Hartman, and Mrs. H. M. Jackson attended the W. M. S. rally in Grace Church, Napanee, on Thursday.

Mrs. George E. Wagar of Kingston, was the week end guest of Miss Leafa Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Vannest, Miss Vivian Vannest, Lloyd Vannest, Mrs. W. H. Vannest, Mrs. H. E. Frair, and George Frair were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Switzer, Desmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Knowlton are visiting friends in Kingston.

Mrs. Stafford Murphy and her younger daughters are holidaying in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clenahan, of Kingston, spent this week with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wagar.

Miss Marion Covert was bridesmaid at the King-Huffman wedding in Moscow.

Mrs. Oscar Pyke and daughter, Rose, of Kingston, are guests of Mrs. Pyke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Whalen.

Several friends gathered recently at the home of Miss Marion Covert to honor Miss Dorothy Huffman, of Moscow, a bride-elect of this month. Contests and music were enjoyed during the evening. The winners of the former were Misses Grace Watham, Dorothy Kerr, Mary Elizabeth Robinson, and Dorothy Wesse. Later in the evening Miss Huffman was presented with a decorated basket containing many lovely and useful gifts. Then a dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. R. C. Covert and Mrs. H. A. Carscallen. The bride-to-be thanked her friends for the lovely gifts, and they departed wishing her much happiness in the future.

There were 983 Ration Books, No. 5, issued at Mrs. Alex. Davey's store on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Mrs. G. A. Wagar was in charge, with Mrs. H. A. Carscallen, Miss Freda Wagar, and Mrs. H. M. Jackson assisting.

FOREST MILLS

Forest Mills, Oct. 21. — The members of the Ebenezer Woman's Association were guests at the regular meeting of the Forest Mills W. A., which was held at the home of Mrs. Fred McFarlane on Tuesday evening. A number of ladies met at the home of Mrs. D. M. Sandford on Wednesday and packed nine Christmas boxes for the boys overseas.

Miss Gertrude Bertrim is ill at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Miles, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ball, of Colebrook, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook.

Mrs. James Whitelaw of Bellville, at Mrs. Sharpe's sister, Mrs. Maple Dennis, and Mr. Dennis on Friday.

SELBY

Selby, Oct. 22. — Mr. William Telford is ill at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kerr have had as guest for the past week their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sharpe and sons, Douglas and Robbie, who drove down from Toronto.

Mrs. B. F. Denison is visiting friends in Toronto.

Selby anniversary services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Armitage, of the Bay Chapel, who preached very inspiring messages to record congregations, both morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fitzpatrick, of Napanee, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fitzpatrick for a couple of days last week.

Mr. Fred Wesse is having his home in the village repainted this week.

DORLAND

Dorland, Oct. 21. — Ideal autumn weather has prevailed of late, and much of the season's work is getting caught up. Although there has been little frost, many of the trees which have been decked in such gorgeous colors are shedding their leaves.

Deer hunters have had very little sport, as ducks are very scarce so far this season.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rollin on the birth of a baby son.

Messrs. Herman John, Morris John, R. J. McIlwaine, Leo Mack, and F. W. Berndt have been in Kingston this week moving buildings from the sale of the new school building which is to be erected.

The choir of the United Church here will assist with the anniversary services to be held in Hayburn Church to-morrow.

Mrs. James Bruce, who has been a patient in Kingston General Hospital, has left the hospital and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. Loucks, in Napanee.

CROYDON

Croydon, Oct. 16. — The dance in the hall on Wednesday evening was a decided success.

A large crowd attended Mrs. Stewart Close's sale on Thursday and everything was sold for a good price.

Mr. and Mrs. Knolton Hannah and daughter, Brockville, spent Thanksgiving week end with Mrs. Hannah's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Galbraith, and Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith accompanied them home to spend a few weeks and to visit their other daughter, Mrs. Raymond Campbell, and Mr. Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hughes and family, and Mrs. Bryden Wesse spent the holiday week end with the latter's daughter at Buffalo, N.Y., and Mrs. Jack Jolls accompanied them as far as Toronto.

Quite a few in the community have been ill with tonsilitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Marlin and Mrs. Christine Close spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Lockridge.

Glad to see Mr. Herb. Bawn around again, after being under the doctor's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hughes and family were Sunday tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wartman, Wesley.

Mrs. Jack Jolls went to Kingston on Monday to spend a few days.

Mrs Harold Hughes and Mrs. Arthur Doupe spent Friday and Saturday in Kingston.

Pte McGregor is spending his 21 days' furlough with his parents here and with his wife and daughter, Marlhe at Marlbank.

L-A/C Geo. Close and Mrs. Close and Dorothea, of Westbrook, spent Thursday and Friday with Mr. Geo. Close's mother, Mrs Christine Close.

"Never mind, Elmer, we're saving enough for an extra Victory Bond"

"Confound this old sink, anyhow!" complained Elmer. "Why don't we get a new one?"

"That would be nice," answered Elsie, the Borden Cow. "But we can get along with this one if you'll just be patient. Besides, we can use the money to buy a Victory Bond."

"I've already planned for our Victory Bond purchases," announced Elmer.

"Silly!" laughed Elsie. "We can always buy an extra one, can't we? In fact, now is the time when we should give our fighting forces greatest support!"

"But Mamma," said Beulah, "isn't the war nearly over?"

"Things do look bright," replied Elsie. "But we mustn't let down our effort on the home front one little bit!"

HOLDEN, OF DESERONTO, PUTS THE SALE IN HIGH GEAR

Canada is the only country in either North or South America that is governed by the Party System. All other countries have a Democratic form, in which a Member can vote as his conscience dictates and his God intended he should, irrespective of any Party.

In Canada, a Member MUST vote as his Party tells him to, or vote himself out of office and stand a new election, in which he might not be returned. Rather than take that chance he will vote as he is told to. It is time we Canadians changed the System.

We have changed our system many times to meet the needs of the people. We are now selling goods at prices the people can afford.

Buffalo Fur Coat; Ladies' Coats; Fur Rug; Carpets; Furniture; Groceries; Electric Stoves and Plates; Gas Engine; Saw Table; Phonograph; Records 2 for 25c.; Golf Clubs, and scores of other things away below par.

Our Canadian Boys on the hills of France
Have kept the Boche on a backward dance,
It is up to us on the home front line
To supply their needs in every clime.

We believe, if you are loyal and care,
You should Buy Victory Bonds
With all you can spare. 43a

In Loving Memory

ARMSTRONG — In loving memory of Fred H. Armstrong who passed away October 25th, 1943.

I cannot say and I will not say—
That he is dead—he is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there;
And we, O we, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of here;
Think of him still as the same, I say:
He is not dead—he is just away!
Lovingly remembered by his

Magistrate's Court

On Thursday, before Magistrate Garvin in the Napanee Court, Harvey Thompson Newburgh pleaded guilty to having in his possession unexpended loose gasoline coupons, and was fined $25.00 plus costs of $5.00. G. P. Smith appeared on behalf of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Chauncey Oliver, R.R. 5, Napanee, who is facing a charge of sending threatening letters to Geo. J. Tustin, M.P., and who is at present out of custody, on bail of $2'000, was remanded for hearing until Thursday, October 26th.

C. E. Lakins, for failing to stop after an accident and also for careless driving, paid fines and costs totalling $51.40 in the Magistrate's Court, last Thursday.

Provincial Constable Smith, in his evidence, stated he was called to investigate an accident which happened about midnight on October 11th, two miles east of Napanee. During his investigation he found a car bumper which apparently had been torn off a car when it caught on a passing car. Later, he found that the bumper belonged to Mr. Lakins' car and Lakins stated to the officer that he had heard somenoise as he passed a car on the road, but did not consider any damage had been done. The car which Lakins' car struck was damaged to the extent of at least $50. Mr. Lakins pleaded guilty to the two charges through his counsel, J. A. Regan

In Napanee Police Court, Friday, a charge laid against Reginald Kenehan, Newburgh, of assaulting Bessie Huffman, Newburgh, was dismissed when no evidence was presented. Kenehan, who was also charged with using gasoline in his motor car other than graded gasoline, obtained in exchange for a valid coupon was found guilty on evidence and was fined $25.00 and costs of $8.00.

William Andrews, Flinton, was found guilty of having liquor in his possession, not purchased on his own permit, and was fined $100, costs, with an alternative of spending three months in gaol.

Sidney Rogers, Napanee, charged with theft of some tools, pleaded guilty, but was given a suspended sentence of two years.

TYENDINAGA EAST W. I.

Tyendinaga East Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. H. P. Husband, September 13th, for the regular meeting. In the absence of the president, the first vice-president, Mrs. M. Schamerhorn presided and opened the meeting with the ode and Lord's Prayer. Roll call was answered by bringing a quilt block. The minutes and correspondence were read, also a letter of thanks for fruit received. Mrs. Percy Kimmerley was appointed delegate to the convention in Belleville, October 24th and 25th It was decided to join with the Red Cross members to serve lunch for the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company demonstration at Lonsdale Hall. Mrs. M. Schamerhorn kindly offered her home for quilting and a pot luck dinner on November 1st.

The programme was in charge of Mrs. Fred Kimmerley which consisted of readings by Mrs. J. McRae and Miss Bernice Akey, and a poem by Mrs. C. J. Akey.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close after which a dainty lunch was served. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess for a pleasant evening.

WEDDING BELLS

BALDWIN — DOWLING

On Tuesday, October 3rd, at 10:00 o'clock in the morning a pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Annunciation, Chippawa, when Anna Marie, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Dowling, Chippawa, became the bride of Daly Raymond, son of Mrs. Baldwin, Adolphustown, and the late Delbert Baldwin.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Father E. O'Sullivan. Mr. Austin Dillon presided at the organ, and, for the occasion, the church was beautifully decorated with flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautifully attired in a lovely white satin gown, with fingertip veil, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and fern. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Frances Dowling, who wore a long gown of mauve silk and carried a bouquet of yellow roses with fern. The groom's brother, Maurice Baldwin, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to about 35 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

Amid showers of confetti the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara and Western Ontario, and on their return they will reside at the groom's home near Napanee.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl rosary, to the bridesmaid a silver locket and chain and to the best man a morocco billfold.

MOUNT PLEASANT PIONEER W.I.

On Thursday evening October 5, the regular meeting of Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. P. Cassidy and was well attended by members and visitors. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. A. Sexsmith, who in her opening remarks, welcomed the visitors present after which the Ode was sung and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. The members responded well to the roll call, which was to tell of some item of interest which had been read in Home and Country.

After several items of business had been dealt with, the meeting was addressed by Mr. Russell Hunter of Napanee, in connection with the coming Victory Loan drive. Mrs. Garnet Dupre was appointed delegate to attend the W. I. Convention to be held in Kingston, the middle of October. It was decided that the branch buy articles needed for the First Aid kits of the two schools in the district, Mrs. M. Hart and Mrs. T. Murphy to be in charge of this. The president announced that a quilting would be held at her home on October 27th.

Mrs. Claude Nugent was convener of the evening's programme which opened with community singing, after which Theresa Murphy gave a recitation. A very interesting paper on The Women's Institute was prepared and given by Miss Ruth Nugent. Mrs. Stafford gave a reading entitled "Women and Flowers" after which Mrs. W. Hudson gave a demonstration of ways of using up odd bits of yarn. Another very instructive demonstration on patching, was given by Mrs. Nugent. Two vocal solos by Lois Parks were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Murphy kindly invited the branch to meet at her home for the November meeting.

Following a vote of thanks to the hostess, the meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. James Haggerty, president of the Napanee Women's Institute, presided for the monthly meeting which was held in the agricultural boardroom on Tuesday afternoon last with a fair attendance. The meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, the Prayer for Peace and the Salute to the Flag.

It might be stated that Mrs. Fred Richards has been appointed secretary-treasurer in the place of Mrs. Robert Lennox, who tendered her resignation recently. Mrs. Marshall Hudson was appointed delegate to the area convention to be held in Kingston this week, with Mrs. Fred Richards the alternate delegate.

Mr. Russell Hunter gave a brief but interesting talk on the forthcoming Victory Loan.

Mrs. Alma Aikenbrack was appointed leader to look after the girls' work. The usual amount was raised towards the wreath to be placed on the Cenotaph, Armistice Day, November 11th. Mrs. Katherine Powell is the convener for this work.

It was decided to have a euchre on the afternoon of Friday, October 20 and the conveners are Mrs. Ed. Vine and Mrs. W. J. LeMaistre. Prizes will be donated by Mrs. Alma Aikenbrack and Mrs. Merlin Grooms and Mrs. Edward Vine.

The conveners of the programme were Mrs. Fred Richards and Mrs. James Magee. The programme included a paper on Linseed Oil, given by Mrs. Rose Oliver, a demonstration on the carding of wool, by Mrs. Jas. McGee, a paper on the Control of Injurious Insects, given by Mrs. Alma Aikenbrack.

A vote of thanks was tendered all who took part in the program. This was moved by Mrs. Frances Nicholson. The lucky ticket on the quilt which the branch had made, was drawn, and the holder of the ticket was Mrs. Fred Richards. The roll call was Suggestions for Raising Funds.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Good Attendance At Youth Service In Trinity Church

The first in a series of special youth services to be held in the Protestant churches of the town, this winter, was held last Sunday evening in Trinity United Church. The attendance of young people at the service was considered very satisfactory by those who were instrumental in arranging the services. Dr. E. W. Stapleford preached a most interesting sermon on a practical subject which appealed to the young people and held their attention.

Donald Smith, a junior member of the choir, sang a solo and the collection was taken by four boys, Donald and Murray Hogarth, Myron Mills and Gerald Creighton.

Following the service a social hour was enjoyed in the church school room during which the group sang well known songs, led by Gerald F. Smith. Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrille, rector of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, spoke briefly.

The next Youth Service will be in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, in November.

Special Speakers At Trinity Church For Next Month

Rev. Dr. E. W. Stapleford, who has been supply minister at Trinity United Church for the past six weeks left on Monday for Belleville, where he will be in charge of Bridge St. United Church for the month of November.

Next Sunday, Rev. C. W. Barrett, representing the Ontario Temperance Federation will be the speaker at the morning service. The evening service will be withdrawn on account of the anniversary in Grace United Church.

On Sunday, November 5th, Rev. Dr. J. M. Shaw, Queen's Theological College will preach both morning and evening.

On November 12th, the preacher will be Rev. P. D. Cameron, a chaplain recently returned from overseas service with the Canadian Army, will speak at both morning and evening services.

Professor Orton of Toronto University will be the preacher on Sunday, November 19th.

WEDDING BELLS

KING - HUFFMAN

At 11:00 a.m., Saturday, October 14th, a pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized at Moscow United Church when Dorothy Evelyn, second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Huffman was united in marriage to Donald S. King, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. H. King, Moscow. Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Yarker, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Kenneth Huffman of Napanee, entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Howard Bell. The bride's gown was white brocaded satin fashioned on princess lines, with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves, forming points over the backs of her hands. Her finger-tip length veil was caught with a headdress of heart-shaped pleating and orange blossoms. She wore a double strand necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom and carried a cascade of American Beauty roses with Bouvardia.

The bride's attendants were Miss Marion Covert of Enterprise, as the bridesmaid, who was dressed in misty rose crepe lace and wore a shoulder length net veil held in place by a bandeau to match her dress. Miss Janet Huffman, sister of the bride, was maid of honour. She wore white taffeta, with touches of blue and a white net veil held in place by a blue bandeau. Both attendants carried nosegays of baby pink Mums and Forget-me-nots. Little Miss Nancy Wartman acted as flower girl wearing a heaven - blue sheer dress and halo headdress to match. She carried a nosegay of Yellow Briar roses and baby Mums.

Mr. Arnold King, brother of the groom was best man. Mr. Norman Bell and Mr. Stanley Shane were ushers and also acted as attendants. During the signing of the register, Mrs Bruce Norris, sister of the bride, sang "Through all the Years."

Rev. W. Fletcher presented the bride and groom with a beautiful leather-bound Bible as they were the first couple to be married in Moscow church since its construction, seventy-five years ago. They left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

A reception followed at which forty guests were present. The bride's sister, Mrs. B. Norris, the groom's mother and Miss O. Wattam, received the guests. The former was dressed in green faconne crepe with brown accessories and wearing a corsage of Sweetheart roses; Mrs. King wearing a brown crepe suit and a corsage of Yellow Briar roses and Miss Wattam wearing a brown wool suit and a corsage of Talisman roses.

A delicious luncheon was served by friends of the bride. Those who assisted in serving were Miss D. Weese, Miss M. Robinson, Miss Dorothy Kerr, Mrs. Howard Bell and Mrs. Harry Moore. Rev. W. Fletcher was toastmaster and proposed a toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom.

The happy couple left for Toronto, Niagara, Rochester and Buffalo. The bride travelled in a gold wool dress with brown accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. King will reside at Moscow.

INCOME TAX FORMS EASY

Ottawa. — Income tax officials at headquarters here foresee no particular difficulty for Canadians in figuring out and paying their 1944 income tax early next year, despite the changed basis of taxation whereby the compulsory savings feature was dropped on July 1st last.

Employers making deductions of income tax at the source were informed prior to July 1st last how they were to make deductions for the second half of 1944 with the compulsory savings feature dropped. These instructions have been carried out satisfactorily by the employers across the Dominion.

When taxpayers come to make out their individual income tax return in the early months of 1945, department officials indicate they can proceed to follow the tables issued by the department a year ago by simply ignoring the column in those tables having to do with compulsory savings. Each taxpayer can proceed on the basis of having sufficient private savings to offset any compulsory savings he or she might otherwise have had to carry out. In due course, two years after the war income taxpayers who had compulsory savings deducted from their income at the source, will be paid back the sum so deducted from the first half of 1944.

Exhaustive efforts made by the income tax department, in consultation with several different labor, manufacturers' and other organizations, proved unavailing as to the general simplification of the income tax return. The department found it impractical in view of the information it is necessary to secure from the taxpayer, as well as of the information necessary to be given to the taxpayer, to inform him as to his rights in making deductions for such items as charitable donations or simplify the return to any great extent.

Maximum Ceiling Prices for Apples

In the revisions in the maximum prices for apples made by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, effective October 4th, 1944, no drastic changes have been effected in producers' prices. Ceilings for apples grown in the three Maritime Provinces remain unchanged from 1943. There is also no change in prices for British Columbia apples sold in the province, or in area west of and including Fort William, but when any of the McIntosh and Pamuese Snow varieties are sold for delivery east of Port William, shippers' prices have been slightly reduced. On extra fancy and fancy grades, the reduction is 15 cents per box, and on combination fancy— C and C grades, five cents per box.

Shippers' prices for Ontario and Quebec apples packed in baskets, bushel hampers and barrels—the bulk of the Ontario crop — are also unchanged, but shippers' prices for crates, boxes, and bushel cartons have been increased fifty cents per container over prices prevailing in 1943. The crate is a popular packing unit in Quebec.

Under the 1943 arrangement shippers' ceiling prices for Ontario apples included delivery throughout southern Ontario and to the island of Montreal. This area of free delivery has been reduced to include only that part of Ontario south of the 45th parallel. Thus the ceiling prices in such markets as Montreal, Ottawa, Cornwall, Sudbury, North Bay and others, will be increased to the extent that the freight rate from Toronto to such markets exceeds 25 cents per 100 pounds. To encourage immediate storage of McIntosh and Snow apples, charges for storing these varieties may be added after November 1st instead of a month later as was the case in 1943. The price adjustment of apples, food administration officials say, are designed to bring about a more nearly uniform selling price as large eastern markets for apples from different producing areas.

PHILIPPINES KEY TO PACIFIC

BY J. M ROBERTS, JR.

Japanese reports that the re-occupation of the Philippines has begun would fit perfectly into the picture of the Pacific war which has been building up for some time.

The battle for the Philippines is actually what the entire Pacific war has amounted to so far. Japanese outposts have been pushed back gradually for thousands of miles to prepare for this action.

Admiral Halsey has thrown a great arc of protection between the Philippines and Japan destroyed 915 enemy planes and with them the threat of aerial counter -action, sunk or damaged 312 ships, and smashed many of the bases from which both operated. Now history's greatest fleet and greatest floating air force can be pplaced at the disposal of General MacArthur.

It brings the climax of two long years of fighting a cunning enemy in the jungles of the Southwest Pacific with one hand while building, slowly and bitterly under the handicaps of priorities, the European striking force with the other hand hallowed be my name.

The battle will be long, but we can hope it will be less bitter than Japanese hate have been and will entrench themselves in the Philippines central and southern islands where native guerrillas and even Americans have been operating. South of Manila, it is expected, we will be moving on the individual islands which have been made the supply bases for the return.

Unless the situation has changed since latest reports came out, we can there be expecting a fairly big clash of armies. And even that will have been reduced through constant attrition of Japanese supply lines to a less determined point in the Solomons and New Guinea.

Once recovered as a base for further operations against the rest of the Philippines will open the way to the whole Pacific area and the sources of the Indies, Burma, Malaya on which the Japanese war machine depended will be largely cut off.

The War Service Gratuity and Re-establishment Credit—
OTHER ASSISTANCE AFTER DISCHARGE

The Canadian re-establishment program gives discharged members of the services assistance under a wide variety of measures during the period when they are deciding their future as civilians.

THE WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

This became law at the last session of Parliament, and provides, after discharge, monthly payments to those honorably discharged, who enlisted for service anywhere, and to those who saw service in the Aleutian Islands, for their period of service there. It provides a basic gratuity of $7.50 for each 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each 30 days' service overseas. A supplementary gratuity of seven days' pay and allowances, with Canadian subsistence allowance, is paid for each six months' overseas service. Service in Greenland, Iceland, the Aleutian Islands and any other theatre of war is exercised service. Other places in the Western Hemisphere are not. Airforce, flying outside the Canadian waters, or stationed outside Canada or the United States, and Naval personnel in sea-going ships of war are regarded as on overseas service.

Monthly payments not exceeding monthly pay and allowances last received will start after January 1, 1945, unless the Act is proclaimed earlier.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

A re-establishment credit, equal to the base gratuity shown above, and not including the supplementary one is available in the 10 years following discharge for constructive purposes such as purchase of a home, business, furniture or tools, or payment of premiums under Government insurance. It can also be used for modernizing or repairing a home, for working capital of a business and other similar purposes. The re-establishment credit is reduced by any grant paid while training or continuing education, or by grants paid under the Veterans' Land Act, Rehabilitation Training, education and Veterans' Land Act grants cannot be paid if the re-establishment credit is used, unless an adjustment is made.

AT DISCHARGE

At discharge every man and woman is advised of the re-establishment program, is given a complete medical and dental examination, and may receive free treatment for any condition shown by the examination, in the year following discharge. They are allowed to return one uniform and certain other service clothing. All discharged since August 1, 1944, receive a $100 civilian clothing allowance and if they have 183 days' service and receive an honorable discharge, a rehabilitation grant of 30 days' pay and one month's dependents allowance. They also receive a railway warrant to their home or place of enlistment.

AFTER DISCHARGE

Service personnel seeking employment apply through Employment and Selective Service, but in many offices they will find "Veterans' Welfare Officers and other specially trained staff ready to assist them. Veterans who wish to return to their former civilian positions are entitled to reinstatement in that position, if the job still exists, if they are capable of filling it, and if application is made within three months of discharge. Under the law of Canada every ex-service man or woman with overseas service, or disability pensioners, receive preference in Civil Service appointments if qualified for the position for which they apply.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

Issued under the authority of Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of

VETERANS' AFFAIRS

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Martin and Family:

Tonight, we, your friends and neighbors, are gathered here for this quiet event to wish you much joy and prosperity as you take leave for your new home in the city.

You will find new pleasures and activities to fill your life, but we hope you will never forget your old friends, who will miss you who have always looked for the best in others, and given the best you had.

Now we ask you to accept this chair lamp and pictures as a token of remembrance from your old friends and neighbors of Violet, and may we leave you with this thought for the day: "That it isn't the biggest things that count and make the biggest show; it's the little things that people do that make this old world go".

Signed on behalf of the Violet community:

Mrs. Ford Scouten
Mrs. Walter Lemmon
Mrs. Annie MacDonald
Mrs. Franklin Hannah.

Mr. S. King spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Harold King.

Dr. John Coburn, of the Department of Evangellism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, spent the week end at the parsonage, being guest speaker at the anniversary services.

Dr. John Coburn, Mr. Towne, Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Herrington, and Mr. R. M. Wightman had tea on Sunday evening at Mrs. John Wartman's.

The anniversary services of Newburgh United Church on Sunday were outstanding in quality. The choir numbers were excellent. Dr. John Coburn's messages were arousing and thrilling.

In the morning Dr. Coburn talked about power to witness for Jesus, beginning at home and extending unto the uttermost parts of the earth.

In the evening he took as his text, "Ye are the salt of the earth," pointing out that salt seasons and preserves. To preserve it has to be applied directly as the farmer uses it to salt his pork to keep it from spoiling. He pointed out that there are forces in our civilization working for its decomposition, even as there were in the civilization of Babylon, Assyria, and Rome, which led to their overthrow. These are such things as the breakdown of family life as indicated by the number of divorces; loose, sexual living with its accompanying venereal disease; indulgence in intoxicating liquor, and a forsaking of the House of God. He said the christians are the salt of the earth and, therefore, they are the only hope for our civilization. "But if the salt has lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted?" How can our civilization be saved if christians —church members—have lost their preserving power? Salt preserves, because it is different from that to which it is applied—has something which the other needs to preserve it. Some church members have lost their preserving power—have become like the people of the world—and so are fit only for the garbage can, the modern equivalent of being cast out to be trodden under the foot of men. But there is this difference between salt and men. When the salt has lost its savor, even God can do nothing about it. But the man who has lost his saving power—the backslider —by returning to God can have his saving power renewed.

READY HELPERS' CLASS TRINITY CHURCH REGULAR MEETING

The Ready Helpers' Class of Trinity United Church held its regular monthly meeting last week, at the home of Mrs. F. Nicholson, with an attendance of forty members and several visitors. After opening exercises, Mrs. J. Francis gave the devotional, her talk being on Compassion, and closed with prayer. Mrs. B. Martin gave a recitation which was well received and which she had given forty years ago.

Mr. J. E. Robinson spoke briefly giving the history of the class which he had organized in October, 1918. Mr. Robinson said Miss B. Hawley was the only one of the original class present. Miss Hawley gave a short talk on the beginning of the class. Short talks were given by different members of the class including Mrs. Ham, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. F. Henderson, Mrs. W. S. Exley, Mrs. T. V. Anderson and Mrs. G. Switzer. The birthday hymn was sung for those whose birthdays came in September and October. Mr. E. J. Corkill gave a short address, closing with the poem "The Set of the Sail." Mr. J. E. Robinson pronounced the benediction.

Mrs. Nicholson was tendered a vote of appreciation by all for her gracious hospitality and a social hour followed. Pouring tea were Mrs. E. J. Corkill and Mrs. T. S. Moore and those serving were members of the class.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Oct. 23. — Pte. Darrin Johnston returned to the home of his mother, north of here, after having spent the past three years overseas. Going to France on "D" Day, Pte. John ton was in the battle at Caen, where he was wounded on July 26th. He states that five minutes after he was wounded he was picked up and was on his way to a hospital. While in hospital on the Lady Astor estate, he said, "Lady Astor visited the hospital each morning, and it was like a ray of sunshine. The boys all looked forward to her visit each day." Upon one occasion Lady Astor gave Pte. Johnston a cigar. He said it was the best cigar he ever smoked, and asked her if she had given it from Prime Minister Churchill. She laughingly made reply. Pte. Johnston's one eye is practically sightless. He is visiting his sister, Mrs. Herb. Milligan, and his brother, Arthur Johnston as well as his mother, Mrs. Frank Johnston, Sand Street. He has only a few days here and will report at Kingston headquarters by the middle of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redden have sold their home here to Matthew and Edward Burns, and will have an auction sale of their household effects on Saturday, October 28th. Mr. and Mrs. Redden have lived in this village for well over 30 years, and will be greatly missed in the village and community when they leave about November 1st to live with Mr. Redden's brother, Fred Redden, Portsmouth.

Miss Grace Coates, of Toronto, also Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Harkness, of Vancouver, B.C., were recent guests at the home of Mr. Andrew Stinson, and his sisters, Martha and Frances. They also visited other relatives and friends in this district.

A good sized audience greeted a number of youthful entertainers in the Town Hall here on Friday night. The program consisted of choruses, rhythm band, readings, duets, solos, dances, a skit, guitar duets, group songs, piano solo, and a play. The sponsors of this fine entertainment were Mary Scanlin 13, Lillian Sedore 12, and Joyce Amey 11. Master William Armstrong acted as chairman, and, after the program, invited Mrs. F. W. Proste, President of the local Red Cross Unit, to come to the platform, when he presented the proceeds of the evening to the Red Cross. This amounted to $22.50.

The election of officers for the Literary Society was held recently at the Continuation School here. President, Betty Tucker; Vice President, Rowena Milligan; Treasurer, Cora Gray; Secretary, Douglas Reid; Form Representatives, Grade 13, Iredel Carroll; Grade 12, Gerald Hannah; Grade 11, Herman Ackerman; Grade 10, George Kirk; Grade 9, Jean Reid. Also the following students, having won the highest standing during the year, were recognized: History, Ronald McKeown, James McCutcheon, Rowena Milligan, Reta Tyner, Cora Gray. French, Ronald McKeown, Herman Ackerman, Reta Tyner, Cora Gray. Latin, Herman Ackerman, Rowena Milligan, Cora Gray. Art, Betty Tucker, Laura York. Notebook, Mae Thompson, Mary Adair, Jean York. About 80 bags of milkweed pods have been collected by the pupils of the Public and Continuation Schools here.

Field Day exercises were held recently at the Tamworth Continuation School. The boys, under the direction of the Principal, Mr. H. J. Millar, were divided into three groups, Seniors, Intermediates, and Juniors. There were eight events in jumping, pole vaulting, and running. The three winners in each group were: Seniors, Gerald Marshall, Peter Macdonald, Joseph Murphy. Intermediates, Joseph Clair, Gerald Gray, Herbert Frizzell. Juniors, Elden Reynolds, Murray Millar, Roy Kennedy. The girls were under the direction of Mrs. Scott Gilmore. There were two teams, the Red Wings and the Commandos, the captains being Cora Gray and Mae Thompson. There were 16 events, consisting of captain ball, dodge ball, relays, potato race, etc. The score was 29 to 45 in favor of the Commandos. An interesting ball game concluded the program for the afternoon. The weather was favorable and the contestants are to be complimented on their happy enthusiasm. Before going out to the grounds Mr. Millar addressed the students on the purpose and objects of a Field Day. It would be a failure, he said, if the ideals of good sportsmanship were not upheld. Awards were made on merit only. It is the best team or the best man who wins. We should learn to be good losers and to play the last game as well as the first. Life, said Mr. Millar, has compensations for those who lose. Winners will receive crests at the Commencement Exercises, which will be held in November.

Mrs. Saint Clair Jones is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. A. Brown, and Mr. Brown, as well as other relatives in the district.

Those who attended the Women's Institute rally in Convocation Hall, Queen's University, Kingston, this week, were Mrs. Harry Easterbrook, Mrs. P. O. Ware, and Mrs. W. G. Richmond.

Mrs. E. M. Pedley and granddaughter, Glennis Pedley, have moved from this village to Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw have moved from their farm at Beaver Lake to their new home in the village on Station Street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spratt and family, also Mrs. Spratt's mother, Mrs. Hinchey, have moved to their new home in Tweed, where Mr. Spratt is employed as policeman.

Mrs. Earl Bradley and Mrs. Clare Zufeldt, of Ottawa, are spending a few days at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redden.

What might have resulted in a disaster happened at the home of Mrs. George Milligan recently, when the pipes in the hot water front in her kitchen range burst, sending water, pieces of the stove, ashes, etc., all about the Kitchen. Fortunately, at the time of the explosion, both Mrs. Milligan and her daughter, Mrs. Edna Hawley, were in the pantry. No one was injured, however, the stove was rendered useless, which necessitated the purchasing of a new range.

Tamworth Red Cross Thanked By Soldier For Cigarettes

The following letter wrs received by Tamworth Red Cross, in thanks for cigarettes sent overseas:

23-9-1944.

Dear Friends:

Here goes a few lines to thank you for the cigarettes that I received from you yesterday. I am still in Italy and right at the present time we have plenty of mud here and it sure makes it very hard for getting around. We are still in the front lines, and I am sitting in the gun-pit while writing you this letter.

Your cigarettes were forwarded on to me from England. I have not heard from Tamworth for quite some time now. The mail comes much more regular here than it did we were in England. The fruit son is over in Italy, by the and the Italian people are busy ering grapes to make wine. the most fortunate ones as their homes have been bl pieces in the air. I have met any of the boys from Tam lately. What kind of weath you having over there? We quite busy lately there are of shrapnel and shell flying so when you do not hear fr regularly, it is. Well, I forgotten you all because I not, and never will after unit has done to me and that I am sort of a couple er to you all. Each how could help each kind every your members and for all the done for me, and all the other from the district. I receive Enterprise a lot, so I am kept well read up in the news. I things are very quiet around worth now. It seems rather to write a letter when I news to tell you, so I hope you excuse such a short effort.

So, until later, cheerio! wi luck and best health to you a and every member of the Ta Red Cross.

Hoping to hear from you s

Yours sincerely,

The Russians penetrated to a depth of at least nineteen miles along an 87-mile front between East Prussia and were aiming at Konigsberg, the great port. . . .

British and Canadians in Italy made slight gains. . . .

Allied forces continued their drive in Leyte Island in the Philippines and a bridgehead was established on Samur Island, a link between Leyte and Luzon Islands. . . .

More than 1,000 R. A. F. and Canadian heavy bombers struck at Berlin and Essen. . . .

THURSDAY—

Two Japanese naval forces were reported to have been severely defeated in Philippine waters. Land advances in the Philippines were also reported by General MacArthur. . . .

On the Western Front the British Second Army advanced on a fifteen-mile front to the outskirts of Tilburg. Canadians on the west end of the line made further advances south of the Scheldt Estuary. . . .

Russian troops invaded Norway, capturing the Barents Sea port of Kirkenes. The Russians also completed the conquest of Transylvania and were developing a new offensive in North Poland. . . .

Enemy forces were said to be retreating in Italy, before the British Eighth Army, on the Adriatic front. . . .

The British drive to free Greece of the Nazis, continued successfully. . . .

FRIDAY—

In the naval battel in Philippine waters early in the week the Japs met a major defeat. At least thirty Jap warships were sunk or damaged. Included were ten battleships, two aircraft carriers and five cruisers. . . .

Allied landings were made on South Beveland Island in Holland and great attempts were being made to clear the Schelde Estuary of Germans and the channel to Antwerp. . . .

The Russians continued their advance in Norway and also in Hungary. In East Prussia, the Russian advance was held up somewhat by stronger enemy resistance. . . .

In Italy the British Eighth Army was within 37 miles of Bologna. . . .

In Greece, Greek guerrillas captured Larissa on the main railway to the port of Salonika, 75 miles to the north. . . .

SATURDAY—

About 10,000 Germans in the Breda pocket, in southwestern Holland appeared to be facing disaster, as British Infantry raced toward the two Maas bridges over which the Germans must pass, if they were to get away. . . .

The Canadians were reported to have established a strong bridgehead in South Beveland Island, in the Schelde Estuary. . . .

Word from the Eastern Front one of the most furious battles of the war was said to be in progress in East Prussia. . . .

The Russians had almost completed conquest of Ruthenia, a Czechoslovak province stolen by Hungary. . . .

As a result of the recent naval battle in the Philippines, the Jap Navy was reduced to about half its maximum strength. The Allied forces have taken control of nearly all of the Island of Samar. . . .

Japanese troops advanced sixty miles in eight days and captured an important communications centre in Burma Province. . . .

MONDAY—

German forces were reported in full retreat in southwest Holland, heading for the escape bridges over the Maas River. The Canadian Army took Breda, one of the main bastions of the German Line in Holland. In South Beveland Canadian troops crossed the causeway from the mainland, and occupied half the Island linking up with British troops. . . .

In the Philippines all enemy resistance collapsed leaving United States troops in control of two-thirds of the Island. . . .

Latest figures showed that about sixty Japanese warships were put out of commission in last week's naval engagements in the Philippine area. . . .

The Russians advanced fifty miles across Eastern Szechoslovakia, cutting the enemy's last rail escape route out of northeastern Hungary. . . .

TUESDAY—

The battle to free the approaches to Antwerp was considered about over. The German line in southwest Holland was reported cracking, as 40,000 enemy troops yielded Breda, the last big Nazi stronghold in the area, and were retreating on a 30-mile front toward Maas. . . .

Three more Jap warships were hit by United States Navy airmen in the Philippines, bringing the week's total of Jap ships sunk or damaged to 61. On Leyte Island, United States troops advanced to within ten miles of the west coast. . . .

The Russian drive was slowed down by heavy German resistance and bad weather, in East Prussia. . . .

A big new drive to sweep the Japs from Northern Burma and clear a land route to China, was reported to have been in progress for the past two weeks. . . .

British troops caught up with fleeing Nazis in Northern Greece and inflicted a sharp defeat on the enemy.

OVERSEAS STOCKS BLOOD SERUM ALARMINGLY REDUCED

Toronto, October 31. — Drastic depletion of blood serum stocks Overseas due to their emergency use for robot bombing casualties has created an immediate and a pressing need for Canadian blood serum greater than at any period in the war to-date. Dr. John T. Phair, chairman of the National Blood Donor Committee of the Canadian Red Cross announces declaring that the most critical time had now come for Canadian citizens "to give every ounce they can spare" of their blood.

At the urgent request for more blood by the British Research Council which stores and distributes all blood and blood derivatives in England, the Canadian Red Cross is shipping all available blood serum which is also being used by our Canadian Forces, for the treatment of members of the British Forces and British civilians bombing casualties, Dr. Phair declared. He pointed out that, due to robot bombing, alarming inroads had been made on the entire supply of dried blood serum built up in Britain.

Large reserves of serum are required for the Far East. The British Research Council have stated that on cessation of hostilities in Europe, great quantities of blood serum will be needed by all British Forces in the Far East and that only dry blood serum, such as produced in Canada, is practical for use under the climatic conditions of those countries.

Canadian Red Cross blood donor clinics are urged to do all in their power to maintain the number of blood donations at present level; and to increase the quantity to maximum.

ON TO VICTORY!

On Monday, October 23rd, Canada launched her Seventh Victory Loan, with the slogan: "Invest for Victory."

As an investment it is the soundest and most honourable that a Canadian can make.

As for the Victory, it will be the most momentous of our history — "Invest in Victory."

All signs indicate that this Seventh Victory Loan should be the best yet — the crops have been exceptionally good. Our fighting forces have gone from one triumph to another ever since 'D' Day.

Now they are right in the thick of the war's last and most bitter phase. — All this is to encourage us. — It is also to challenge us. This Seventh Victory Loan should be the best yet.

These are great days. These are the days for which we have been preparing for five years.

Now they are come and battles are being won on every front and events are surging to a final victory.

Citizens of Lennox and Addington have done well for Loans in other days of anxiety and peril — now, in these momentous days of sacrifice and Victory, is the time to do better than before.

Events demand it from us. These days of destiny inspire us to it. Your County War Finance Executive is deeply concerned that we make this Loan the best yet.

We have the means to do it in every town and every township. — We have the spirit to do it, as well

May the people of Lennox and Addington prove themselves worthy of their fighting sons.

William David Black Stricken at Age 76

One of the best known members of the Ontario Legislature up to the time of his retirement from politics last year, died on Tuesday, October 24th, at Ottawa, in the person of William David Black, one - time Speaker of the House, who represented the Eastern Ontario riding of Frontenac-Addington from 1911 to 1943. He was 76 years old.

Mr. Black was one of the stalwarts of the Conservative party, and his kindly disposition and willingness to lend a helping hand to all who needed it endeared him to thousands. Election after election, while others fell in political battle, he was returned by his constituency to Queen's Park. He was appointed Speaker in 1927 and served in that office until 1932, enhancing his reputation by his fair handling of difficult situations. His popularity crossed party lines and he had as many friends among the Liberals as he had in his own group.

The son of William Black and Janet Gowanlock, he was born in Dundas County in 1867 and received his public school education there while living on the farm. Mr. Black grew up with an intense love of rural life and he became associated with communal activities at a time when he had little thought of entering politics.

The greater part of his life was spent in Parham where his business interests included a general store, livestock business and a contracting office. He spent eight years in the Temagami district of Northern Ontario, engaging in lumbering and contracting. Mr. Black served his country as reeve, county commissioner and secretary-treasurer of the agricultural society.

In recent years Mr. Black's health became uncertain, but he continued to serve in the Legislature, though his voice was rarely heard in debate. Last year, at a dinner in Kingston, extended to him by his admirers, he announced that he was retiring from the political field after 32 years of continuous representation.

A conscientious worker, Mr. Black held many chairmanships of Legislature committees. He was chairman of the Public Accounts Committee for several terms and here again his impartiality and sound judgment was brought into play. As dean of the Legislature he was able to draw upon ripe experience in assisting young members.

Mr. Black is survived by his widow and two children, Mrs. J. Ward Strader, of Ottawa, and Keith Black, in the Ontario Government service, who returned to Provincial employment after serving overseas.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD GRACE CHURCH

Last Sunday, anniversary services, held at Grace United Church, were attended by large congregations both morning and evening.

Two practical sermons were preached by the guest speakers, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, B.A., B.D., of Picton, in the morning and Rev. Dr. James Semple, Bridge Street Church, Belleville, in the evening.

At the morning service, the choir under the direction of Mrs. Harold Denison, sang the anthem, "I walked to-day where Jesus walked", and Mrs. Harold Denison and Mrs. Aubrey Pringle sang a duet, "Far from my Heavenly home".

The anthem in the evening was "Spirit of God". Dr. Harold Angrove, Kingston, who was to have been the evening soloist, was unexpectedly unable to be present.

On Monday evening a supper was served in the basement of the church to a very large number of the members of the congregation. Following the supper, a short programme was presented, at which Rev. C. D. McLellan, the minister of the church, presided as chairman. The programme consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Harold Denison and Mrs. Aubrey Pringle, a reading by Fred Stafford, a short talk on the M. & M. Fund by Mr. A. MacGregor, a report on the anniversary offering by Mr. Arnold Roger, and community singing, led by Mrs. Bert Seymour.

WATCHES STOLEN AT DAVIS' STORE

Sometime during Friday night a side window at J. A. Davis' Jewellery Store was smashed, and several watches were stolen.

The thieves cut the plate glass with a glass cutter, but were unable to break the glass when it was cut, so used another instrument to smash a hole large enough to allow a hand and arm to be inserted in the window.

So far no trace of the thieves has been found.

A committee under the leadership of Mrs. P. Tanner served a very delicious lunch, in the assembly hall.

RECORD RESULTS ACHIEVED BY ROTARY AT ANNUAL FROLIC

Valuable Prizes Widely Distributed

By far the most successful Rotary Frolic in the long history of the Napanee Club was held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, in the Napanee Armouries. An especially large crowd was in attendance on Saturday evening when the drawings were made for the lucky tickets on the grand prizes on which many tickets had been sold by Rotary members during the past several weeks.

The members of the Rotary Club were assisted generously in carrying on the various games by members of the Napanee Lions Club and other interested citizens.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. T. J. Hunt, president of the Napanee V. O. N. made the drawing for the lucky attendance prizes of $10 and $5, which went to Bert Seymour and Reg. Burrows, of Napanee. Miss Lenore Herrington, President of the Napanee Red Cross Society drew the attendance prize tickets on Friday evening. The winner of the $10 prize was Mrs. Ray Huffman, and of the $5 prize, Mrs. E. B. Miller, Napanee.

The drawings for the grand prizes on Saturday evening were carried out by Mrs. D. R. Hall, Regent of the U. E. L. Chapter of the I. O. D. E. and Mrs Mervyn Owen, Regent of the Allen L. Ramshaw Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The prizes and the winners are as follows:—

False Alarm Gives Firemen Run

On Tuesday evening the local fire brigade was called to the fire alarm box at the St. Mary Magdalene's Church corner. On arrival it was discovered to be a false alarm.

Although a large number of children were on the scene, no trace of the party or parties responsible could be found.

Fire Chief Mills attributed the prank to be the work of some of the Hallowe'en personnel who were out in large numbers.

SERVICE CLUBS HEAR VICTORY LOAN SPEAKER AT JOINT MEETING

District Organizer Asks Assistance of Club Members

Speaking to a large audience at a joint dinner meeting of the members of the Napanee Rotary and Napanee Lions Club, on Monday evening, at the Superior Restaurant, Mr. W. Young, of Toronto, district organizer for the Seventh Victory Loan, made a strong plea for support of the loan, emphasizing the need to back up the men in the armed forces and to assure sound business conditions in Canada after the war.

Seated at the head table were members of the local Victory Loan organization including the speaker, and Dr. D. R. Hall, Mr. W. A. Grange, W. K. Huston, president of the Rotary Club and Harry Sixth, president of the Lions Club.

Mr. W. J. Wiggins spoke briefly regarding the assistance given them and thanked the members of the Lions Club for their help during the Rotary Frolic. W. K. Huston added his thanks to the Lions and turned the meeting over to Dr. Hall, Chairman of the Victory Loan Committee for the county who introduced the speaker and spoke of the spirit of co-operation existing between the two clubs which he hoped would be carried out during the loan campaign.

Mr. Young gave at the beginning of his address three principal reasons for supporting the Seventh Victory Loan, to back up the members of the armed forces who are fighting so valiantly; the need to prevent inflation, and from a self-interest point of view.

Speaking of the need to back up the armed forces by buying Victory Bonds to assure a constant flow of materials to the fronts, Mr. Young gave several concrete illustrations of the speed with which expensive equipment can be destroyed in battle and the absolute necessity that adequate reserves of supply are available to take the place of that which is destroyed. This can only be assured, he stated, if the government has sufficient money with which to purchase the needed equipment.

Regarding steps which must be taken as a means of avoiding inflation, Mr. Young referred to conditions in European countries which have had serious internal trouble caused by inflation. He said the Government had followed a wise policy in instituting price control and quoted statements by Finance Minister Ilsley, and Graham Towers, head of the Bank of Canada, on the necessity for post-war stabilization of currency and prices.

Some people, Mr. Young said, think of the Victory Loan as primarily being the responsibility of the banks and financial institutions. But it is the responsibility of every citizen of the County, if there is to be a better Canada after the war. Previous to the war Canada exported 33⅓ per cent. of its products, but after the war this figure will undoubtedly be raised to 50 per cent., so there must be a stabilized currency. If inflation were to come there would be a drop in prices, an increase in unemployment resulting in a serious business depression. If there is to be the better Canada everyone talks about it is up to every citizen to safeguard its possibility now, Mr. Young said in support of the loan from the motive of self-interest need not necessarily be considered selfish. Mr. Young said, but may be showing a wise spirit of economy. By saving now we may help to avoid a repetition of many of the pitfalls which followed World War I. It is a good time, he said, to take stock of the situation and build up a reserve with Dominion of Canada Bonds. A real victory cannot be assured unless good business can be carried on after the war.

When the salesman for the Seventh Victory Loan calls, Mr. Young asked that he be received not as one who is trying to sell something, but as one who is helping to build up an asset by the purchase of a bond.

In thanking the speaker for his excellent address, W. A. Grange Honorary County Chairman of the Victory Loan, added a plea to the members of the clubs to do everything possible to put the loan over.

EDUCATION WEEK

Every year school teachers and other educators set aside a week, during which an effort is made to focus public attention on the schools, colleges and universities. Beginning next Monday, Education Week will be observed throughout the country. The value of education has been forcibly brought home to the Democracies recently, by the vast changes that have been brought about in the nations which have adopted totalitarian policies. The whole attitude to life in those countries has been changed almost wholly because the State used modern methods of education and propaganda to this purpose. The present writer was, at one time, a member of the school board, and after making an address on behalf of the staff and a higher standard of education, was somewhat humbled when another member rose and urged the board not to pay too much attention to what had been said, as the speaker was an impractical idealist and knew little or nothing about the hard cold matters of dollars and cents. Both Russia and Germany have demonstrated the power of ideas when sown early and assiduously cultivated.

In Great Britain educators have frankly faced this issue and the Government has taken steps towards having the whole educational system overhauled. In Canada, too, the educators are busy, and departments of education are grappling with the problem.

The newer ideologies can teach us some things. We must not despise the knowledge because of its source, and one of the things they teach is the value of a planned education, an education with a purpose, and a definite aim. We have not bothered much about that in our schools, but we must. We must educate for peace, for democracy and for character, if we are to meet the challenge with which the newer ideologies confront us. Speaking at the Lafayette College Institute in Easton, Pa. last week, Clark M. Eichelbeyer, Director of the League of Nations Association and Committee to study the organization of peace, said:

"The teachers must take an active not passive role in this great movement for world security. Many of them have twice in one generation seen the most brilliant young people of their class rooms leave for the battlefield. Why should they not do everything possible now in a great campaign of education, to win the peace so that this will not have to be repeated a third time in our generation?"

Important, however, as teachers may be in this programme, they must be backed up by an enlightened public opinion. Men and women of all classes in the community, churches, women's institutes, service clubs, and others must support the teachers in their work. Working with children is an arduous, nerve racking but eminently important task, than which there is none greater. Those engaged in it need the encouragement and active support of the whole community. For the future is largely in their hands.

WANT MORE LIGHT

The City of Toronto is looking for light, having been permitted to brighten up the streets with electric signs and show window lights. As a result of government action lifting restrictions, the Queen City wants more light—but this time it is daylight that Toronto wants. The big city petitioned the Government at Ottawa to permit the municipality to return to Standard Time. It is dark now in the mornings when the people go to work so it is claimed. Well, the Ottawa Government has disallowed the request. The Government has done the wise thing, if we may be permitted to express an opinion. After all, the war is still on. A few weeks ago we were very optimistic believing that the war might end any day. But we are not so sure now. The German armies now that they are on their own land and fighting on their own soil, are putting up a stiff resistance. No effort should be relaxed. The factories must work as hard as ever.

There is a lot of inconvenience in the Daylight Saving, but any inconvenience we may suffer is nothing compared with that being borne by those who defend us overseas. That was a powerful potent argument a year or two ago. It is just as valid to-day as it was at that time.

There is one other reason why it is well to leave the clock as it is for the duration, and that is to avoid the confusion that would be bound to emerge, should municipalities here and there all across Canada, do as they pleased in the matter. We have become used to the New Time, it is universal on the Continent—trains, busses, factories, offices, all are geared to the new order of things. There is something very satisfying about this uniformity. We remember the confusion in the average home in Napanee, a few years ago when The Gibbard Factory was on fast time and the schools on slow time. The housekeeper was at her wits end to keep the home in order. No! We had better let well enough alone for the duration. And when the duration is over, it is hoped that the Federal Government will insist that one time be universal throughout the land. A Summer Time and a Winter Time.

V

KEEPING THE PITCHER

We met him in the train, a quiet spoken, somewhat nervous man, an American citizen, making a hurried trip on domestic matters. Of course we asked him how the election was going and his answer was pointed and colourful. "I'm for Roosevelt," he said. "I don't think we should pull the pitcher out of a winning team? That may not be a general opinion across the line. Indeed the most accurate estimates available indicate that the race for the office will be a close one, with President Roosevelt leading by a slight margin. The trips which Mr. Roosevelt has made in the campaign, seem to have aroused a good deal of enthusiasm for his candidature. On Saturday, he addressed one of the largest audiences in his career, when he spoke to 110,000 people in Chicago. Now Chicago is the home of the McCormicks and other powerful isolationist influences. But Mr. Roosevelt was accorded a rousing hearing in this windy city.

The experiences of the past few weeks give the supporters of Mr. Dewey, who have been portraying the president as a tired old man, something to think about. His travels have been the best answer to the charge. And if further evidence was needed of his strength and virility, it is found in the vigor of his campaign speeches.

We, over here, are not particularly interested in the internal politics of The United States, but we are concerned with the war in which the future of the whole of civilization is at stake. Mr. Roosevelt has played a magnificent part in the present issue. His influence and leadership have been of the highest quality. It was on that score, too, that our seatmate decided it would be unwise to "pull out the pitcher from a winning team."

UNWILLING TO FORGET

Russia has intimated that she does not intend to be present at the United Nations Air Conference at Chicago. Russia gives as the reason for her unwillingness to attend, the fact that Spain, Portugal and Switzerland have been invited to the parley, and these nations have never been friendly towards Russia. This decision does not quite throw a monkey-wrench in the wheels, as the conference will go on. But it is enlightening in more ways than one. It shows, for example, the difference between the Russian mentality and that of the Democratic peoples. The Democracies have learned to compromise. They compromise even with those who oppose them. They go on the assumption that we all live in one world and must do business with each other. Hence they are willing to meet and talk things over, even with those who have, to say the least, not been much of a help to the Allied cause. Certainly Spain and Portugal have not made the position of the Allies any easier by their so-called neutrality. All through the war they have played into the hands of the Nazis. But now that plans are to be made for the future, the Democracies have invited these nations to sit in on the conversations, and present their case.

How different the Russians! The Russians are not going to forget those who opposed her in her hour of trial. Of course, Russia has perhaps more cause than the others for the position she takes, for Spain had a division on the Russian Front, and hedged a long time about withdrawing them. Russia, apparently, is not going to forget that.

This attitude on the part of Russia, if carried into all the post-war international settlement, will interject a new note in the negotiations. Russia will have a lot to say when the war ends. She has earned the right to say it. The result will be that those who have opposed the Russian experiment will not be let off any too easy, while those who have been sympathetic to Russia will get preferred treatment. It may prove a bit embarrassing to the Democracies, but it may also teach the nations that have been unsympathetic to Russia, a much needed lesson.

KNIFING MR. DREW

Certain organs of news and opinion are going out of their way these days, to discredit Mr. Drew in the eyes of the people. Mr. Drew is charged, by them, with sowing seeds of discord between Quebec and the rest of Canada. Mr. Drew has certainly called public attention to the difference between Quebec and the rest of the Dominion. But that does not mean that he is stirring up disunity. The truth of the matter, as every person well knows, is that the disunity exists. Mr. Drew did not create it. As a matter of fact, the political leaders throughout Canada have shown commendable self-restraint in withholding comment on Quebec — at least to a very large extent — until the issue was raised by one of Quebec's own citizens. Once Senator Bouchard had opened up the whole question in the Senate, the matters he referred to were before the public, and so were open for discussion by leaders in the other Provinces.

It is one thing to create disunity, it is quite another to expose it. And undoubtedly the best way to establish unity is to let the nation know the facts. Nothing ever can be done of a constructive way, by suppressing the facts. All that Mr. Drew has done in his references to Quebec, has been to bring out into the open that which was smouldering beneath the surface. He will be commended by all fair-minded citizens for doing so.

"THE OLD LADY — OF — THREADNEEDLE STREET"

BY ERIC J. PULTON
In The Canadian Banker

The Bank of England, affectionately known as The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street has marked its 250th birthday and the following article is written around a sketch by Charles Dickens, published in July, 1850, after he had visited the institution. Mr. Fulton has combined extracts of Dickens' description or the Bank's early days, and his own to deal with the wide functions of this great pillar of fiscal strength.

• • •

The one constant fact about banking, in times like the present is its inconstancies. In wartime one can no longer depend on a stable scheme of things, and the banker to whom law and order are as meat and drink, is the first to deplore the fact that nowadays law and order are ever flexible and that the laws that fix prices, wages and almost anything else, do not at the same sweep of the pen fix the law itself.

Today, however the well known and ever constant Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, London, is 250 years old. While mellowing with the passing years she has become more and more firmly established as the matriarch of the financial world; she is today after two and half centuries, the same Old Lady; although she has had a new address and a new home and they have done something to her face, just to make her look a little more modern.

She was born in 1694, this venerable Old Lady. The man responsible for her a solid Scot named Paterson, persuaded William of Orange, whose Privy purse after his reverses in the continental wars was almost as low as his morale, that it would be a good idea to organize a bank with the object of lending money to the government. The first act of the Old Lady was to lend £1,200,000 to the government, at 8 per cent. She made a good customer and she has been a good friend to her biggest customer ever since. She has had her ups and downs; she has had trouble with her lessees and quarrelled with the landlord and moved from one place to another, but today she sits proudly on Threadneedle Street where she has lived since 1732 when she moved from Grocers' Hall Court, the envy and pride of her descendants now scattered all over the Empire. Her eye is clear and her temper can still be sharp, but she has weathered the storms and today, in a kaleidescopic financial world, hers is a step that is firmest and hers the voice that rings the truest.

• • •

In 1850 a prolific young writer named Charles Dickens, who was then in his boys, with had a respectful call on the Old Lady at her home in Threadneedle Street. He had just finished "David Copperfield."

"It was not without an emotion of awe," say Mr. Dickens, "that we passed her porters lodge. The porter himself habited in a red scarlet and massively embellished in gold lace is an adumbration of her dignity and suffer. His cocked hat advertises her stable antiquity as plainly as if she had written up, in imitation of her lesser neighbours, 'Established in 1694.' This foreshadowing became reality when we passed through the Hall, the tellers' hall.

"A sensation of unbounded riches permeated every scene, except, alas! that of touch. The music of golden sovereigns clattered in the ear as they jingled on the counters, until its last echoes were strangled in the pockets of lightened money bags, or died under the clasps of purses. Wherever the eye turned, it rested on money; money in all colors.

There was yellow money, white money, brown money, gold money, silver money, copper money, paper money pen and ink money. Money was wheeled about in trucks; money was carried about in bags; money was scavenged about with shovels. Thousands of sovereigns were jerked hither and thither from hand to hand; grave games of pitch and toss were played with staid solemnity; piles of bank notes competent to buy whole German cockedrums and Italian principalities, hustled to and fro with as much indifference as if they were (as they had been) old rags."

This is as pretty a tale as has ever been told of a banker's counting house; in 94 years all that has changed is the porter's clothes. No longer is the Old Lady's porter blazoned in scarlet, gold lace and cocked hat. Now-a-days she has given him a conventional silk topper and a plain black suit, and he fetches and carries for her with a quiet impressive dignity which better suits his mistress's advancing years.

Dickens would indeed have been amazed if he had been able to see a hundred years into the future; the shining steel of the great safes and strong-rooms which can be flooded with water at an instant's notice; the elaborate precautions against assault and battery from the skies. The Old Lady's housekeeping records, her accounts, too, have grown to such proportions owing to a succession of government loans, beginning in the War Loans of thirty years ago and continuing to the huge flotations of today, that he found himself inadequate and additional space, in different parts of London, had to be found. In 1925 she at last decided that the old home was too small and engaged Sir Herbert Baker to design a new place which would put all her family under one roof.

If we turn back to what Dickens has to say about the Old Lady's business of making money, which she has been doing in a manner quite unlike anybody else for a great number of years, "Although her works," says Dickens, referring to the bank notes which the Old Lady produces from her own presses, "are reverse of heavy or erudite, being flimsy to a proverb, yet the eagerness with which they are sought by the public surpasses that displayed for the production of the greatest geniuses who ever enlightened the world; she is, therefore, called upon for enormous copies of each edition . . . and reprints of equally large impressions are frequently needed at all times in a year. She is protected by a stringent copyright; in virtue of which piracy is felled with one blow at 1831, punishable with death. The very paper is copyright, and to imitate even that entails transportation. Indeed, its merits entitle it to more protection, for it is a very superior article. It is so thin that each sheet, before it is sized, weighs only eighteen grains; and so strong that when sized and doubled a single sheet is capable of suspending a weight of fifty-six pounds. . . .

About a year ago it was decreed that a modest five-pound note should be the largest allowed to circulate; thousand-pound notes could too easily be folded and passed from hand to hand in illegal transactions, and were too useful for black market trading. The actual notes have not varied much since Dickens' day. The paper is still a crisp, pure white and the ink is dead black. Counterfeits are difficult and very rare.

"Perhaps there is no Old Lady," said Dickens in his sketch, "who has attained to such distinction in this world at this highly respected female."

PARISIANS BECOME FOREIGNERS

This is the story of an eminent Journalist who lived four years of life in Paris under Nazi rule. He saw "Gay Paree" literally transformed into "Gray Paree" as hordes of Germans tightened their throttle-hold on resentful, suffering Parisians.

From the moment that the Germans entered the city, Parisians began a series of moral sufferings which can hardly be described "The Germans roped off the glorious Arc de Triomphe and hoisted a swastika on its peak. Within a few hours the city was covered with German signs. The capital itself became "Gross-Paris." The Place de l'Opera was soon "kommandantenplatz" and the Place de la Concorde "Haupt-quartier." Whole streets were closed to all civilian traffic and the headquarters of the "Militarbefehlshaber" at the Hotel Majestic was barricaded from public approach from this first day of the occupation until the day towards the end of August, 1944, when the people of Paris themselves tore down this modern Bastille.

At least half of Paris' police force was kept busy day and night guarding such headquarters of the supermen as the hotels, headquarters, movies, clubs restaurants and bars which were set aside for Germans. Parisians were allowed to use the sidewalks in front of these "sacred" places.

From the first day the Nazis entered Paris the display of the French flag was verboten. It was replaced everywhere by the swastika. The price of removal of the swastika was the life of the French policeman on whose beat it flew. The only exceptions to the no-Tricolor rule were for a handful of favored traitors: Herr "Von" Brinon, the Ambassador from Vichy; "Toupemenn" Darnan's militia; and barracks of the Anti-Soviet Legion, composed of a few thousand rascals led by pro-Nazi Doriot and Deat. The only French flags which escaped the prying eyes of the conquerors were those painted on the entrance of the city's public laundries.

Ingenious Parisians always found some means, however, to display the French national colors. Shop windows were arranged so that, "by accident," the goods displayed were in sequence blue, white and red. Despite the most cateful guard, every morning there appeared on the grave of the Unknown Soldier at the Arc de Triomphe a fresh tribute of blue, white and red flowers.

Street arrests were, of course, commonplace. The stories of gestapo brutalities in Paris would fill volumes. I will cite only a few examples which I personally witnessed:

Whenever the Allied air forces came over Paris, the French would stand on the streets and watch quietly, but proudly. One night a man dressed in civilian clothes pointed to bombers overhead and said: "That's their liberation." Bombs on civilians.

"They never bomb the city, but only the factories in the suburbs," corrected a young bystander of about 14. Whereupon the civilian proclaimed himself to be a gestapo agent, struck the youth hard in the face, handcuffed him and dragged the boy away with him.

It goes without saying that no one could express an anti-German opinion without the greatest of caution, but it was doubly hard to hold one's tongue because the Germans seemed to delight in provocation. There was, for example, the daily parade of the guard at one o'clock, from the Place de la Concorde to the Arc de Triomphe. During this lunch-hour display of arrogance no one was permitted to cross Paris' most famous boulevard.

Simply a snicker brought endless trouble. One summer afternoon in 1941 I was unable to visit the Observatory gardens. They were shut because a week earlier someone had laughed at the sight of grown men marching like geese. A German officer had shot down one of the laughers.

Normally the curfew was either 11 o'clock or midnight. If one could not get home before that hour, it was best to stay in a hotel somewhere. Even that was not easy. In all but a handful of the hotels no native Frenchmans were admitted. Indeed, before one could enter any hotel at all he had to be invited by a resident. And, of course, the Germans had positioned an overwhelming majority of the decent places.

The Parisian was indeed a foreigner in his own city what with requisitioned theatres, movies, restaurants, clubs and homes. But in some ways this was almost an advantage. It brought the Parisian less often in contact with the Germans. Fortunately, too, the Germans had notoriously bad taste. They were notably absent from the places of real artistic merit, preferring to dominate the cheaper, more vulgar places of entertainment.

One high French civil servant told me that his wife had sat down at the famous Cafe de la Paix early in summer, 1940, and counted there was a "razzia." His wife, together with a multitude of prostitutes, was arrested and went to a concentration camp where all were subjected to untold indignities.

It goes without saying that such stories never found their way into the Nazi Paris press.

BRETON UPRISING — A — GRIM BUSINESS

BY SONIA TOMARA

There are moments in the life of a newspaper writer when a story encountered is better than fiction One can hardly believe in its reality. While in northern Britiany where all that I had heard in Algiers and in London about the French "resistance" about their fight against the Germans, about their life in the underground suddenly came to light before my eyes. For two days I was in the midst of a people's war, as at the time of the French Revolution in 1789.

I could not have chosen a better place than Brittany to see the Maquis underground with my own eyes. Bretons are of Celtic stock, with the ardent imagination, mysticism and stubbornness of the Celts. They are born fighters and their country is ideal for the fight. The land in the Paimpol peninsula, which I visited, rolls gently towards the sea and is cut by deep ravine and creeks. There are fields of buckwheat, small oak-woods, farms hidden in thickets. Along the sea Germans had their garrisons and their defences. There were never big German forces in that region, but German soldiers, Gestapo men and Darnand's militia—henchmen of the Germans — had their footholds everywhere.

One could see how they were hated. The joy in Brittany was indescribable. People could hardly believe they were free again. The whole country celebrated. Crowds of men, women and children sat by the roads, cheering any American vehicle passing by. As to the resistance fighters with the Lorraine Cross on their left arms, they were the heroes of the day.

I saw dozens of them in eyes of children at the sight of dead Germans. We were driving along a canal in Pontrieux, when we noticed a crowd and stopped. A man was dragging something out of the water. "C'est un Boche" a girl cried to us; "he was very merchant, he must have stolen much," somebody else chimed in. The man moved slowly along the water and we could just see a German's black boots above it. The crowd moved in and the children laughed and shouted. They brought the bloated body to a stone pier and left it there head downward. The lad was blond and young. They had shot him the night before and had left him in the water.

In the Maquis of Kerfot, near Paimpol, was a little green meadow with fifteen graves, on one marked Seven Germans, four French women and three men traitors and one Russian from Central Asia were executed and buried there. Some of the women had to dig their own graves, a custom they themselves have taught to the people they have ruled for four years.

Life had become cheap under the Germans, and vengeance was ruthless. The Bretons would never admit that they had been beaten. The resistance among them began right after defeat. The majority of the Bretons are sailors and used to the eternal fights against the elements. I would like to tell the story of the Breton uprising as it was told to me by "Commandant Paul," chief of the resistance in the Pontrieux region. He is a school teacher, gray haired and grey eyed. He received me at his headquarters which was decorated with French flags.

"We started early in June our underground cells," he said. "I joined one soon as I returned from Germany, where I was in a prison camp

Mr. and Mrs. William Lake, of Newburgh, spent a few days with their son, Charlie Lake, and Mrs. Lake.

Mrs. Albert McConnell has returned home, after spending a week with her sisters at Cleveland.

Mr. W. S. Holmes, who has been a patient in the General Hospital, in Kingston, for the past two weeks, returned to his home here on Sunday. His condition has favorably improved.

Mrs. Clarence Davey, of Picton, spent the past week here visiting several friends.

Mrs. John Rogers spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Richmond, and sister, at Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Doupe and son, Peter, of Croydon, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Cairns.

A masquerade dance was held in the Municipal Hall on Friday evening by the congregation of St. Mary's Church. It was a very enjoyable and successful evening, as the attendance was good. Prizes for costumes were: Ladies', first, Mrs. Percy Paul, dressed as a pumpkin. Ladies', second, Mrs. Shrubb and Mrs. Pete Gidley as twins. Gents, first, Earl Jickling. Gents, second, John Perrier. Tickets were sold on a fruit cake, the lucky ticket holder was Mr. Gerald Amey, Collins Bay.

MORVEN

Morven, Oct. 30 — Mrs. Clifton Withers returned to her home on Sunday, after a pleasant week spent at Orillia.

Mrs. Hambly, of Sand Hill, spent the week end with Mrs. S. H. Fraser.

Mrs. Pilton, cousin of Rev. R. W. Street, spent the week end at "Old Orchard Manor".

Our heartiest best wishes go with Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Sheffer, who were married on Saturday afternoon and left immediately for a motor trip.

Miss Hagarman, of Petit Rocks, spent several days with her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Hunter, and Mr. Hunter.

Corpl. Ross Bell, Mrs. Bell and Miss Dorothy Bell, of Kingston, spent the Sunday supper hour at the Fraleck's.

Property improvement is quite in evidence in Morven. Mr. E. R. Craig and Mr. S. A. Wing have had their houses shingled; Mr. Wm. Robson has built an annex to his garage; Lance Corpl. Roy Tomlinson is busy repairing his residence and Mr. Roy Fox is preparing to build a house on his vacant lot.

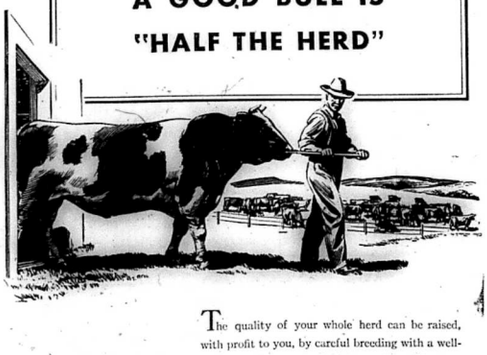
A GOOD BULL IS "HALF THE HERD"



The quality of your whole herd can be raised, with profit to you, by carcful breeding with a well-bred bull. The same principle applies with every kind of livestock.

Realizing the importance of good male animals, you may wish to purchase superior individuals but lack the cash to do so. Under such circumstances, the wise course is to discuss a loan for the purpose with your local bank manager. The Royal Bank of Canada is constantly making loans to farmers for this and many other productive purposes. If you have your eye on some desirable animal and need cash to make an advantageous "buy", talk your proposition over with the manager of our nearest branch.

BANKING BY MAIL

If there is no branch convenient to your farm, you can still enjoy all the facilities of this bank by conducting your banking affairs by mail. For this purpose The Royal Bank supplies a special form which explains the simple procedure where by you can make deposits, withdraw money, purchase drafts and money orders, etc., all by mail. Just write to any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada and ask for our Banking By Mail form SP 531.

WEDDING BELLS

HARRISON—WOODCOCK

The rectory of St. Agatha's Church in Upper Arlington was the setting for the informal morning ceremony on Saturday, October 21st, at which Miss Elsie M. Woodcock, daughter of Mrs. Silas Woodcock, formerly of Napanee, Ontario, was married to Mr. Russell E. Harrison, of Wayne, Mich. The Rev. Father George Kennedy officiated at the 9:45 a.m. service, which was followed by a breakfast for the families at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles F. Wendorf, 2206 Yorkshire Road, Upper Arlington, Columbus, Ohio.

For her marriage the bride chose a street-length dress of cafe-brown crepe trimmed with ice-blue satin to match her gloves. Her accessories were brown and she wore a shoulder corsage of yellow and purple orchids.

Mrs. Harry T. Remmer, of Utica, N.Y., who was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, wore a mink-trimmed dress of rose beige dress wool with brown accessories and a corsage of talisman roses and butterfly orchids on a large mink muff. Serving as best man for the bridegroom was Mr. Louis A. Boulay.

Later in the day when Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left for a brief wedding trip the bride changed to a navy blue suit with matching accessories and a Pimlico-colored topcoat. After their trip the Harrisons plan to live at 3343 Clark St., Wayne, Mich., where Mr. Harrison is director-engineer of the city. Numerous showers, dinners and cocktail parties honored Miss Woodcock in the week preceding her marriage.

Monday afternoon her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Wendorf, of the Yorkshire Road address, entertained with a large tea from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m., serving at the tea table during the afternoon were these friends of the bride: Mrs. L. A. Boulay, Mrs. Ann Remington, Mrs. Louis P. Brown, Mrs. A. Wayne Geissinger, Mrs. Floyd Green, and Mrs. Horace A. Kerr. Assisting Mrs. Wendorf as hostesses during the afternoon were Mrs. Frank A. Burgess, Mrs. Howard B. Lape, and Mrs. L. C. Hanson.

Forty women golfers of Scioto Country Club, of which Miss Woodcock has been a member for a number of years, gave a spinster dance and shower at 6:30 on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Louis P. Brown.

On Wednesday Miss Ann Harrington entertained with a bridge-tea and personal shower.

On Thursday Mrs. Edward Tarches was hostess at the cocktail hour — while Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Boulay were hosts at a buffet supper that evening.

WEDDING BELLS

INGOLDSBY—HOPKINS

The Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday, October 28th, when Mary Roceline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hopkins, Erinsville, became the bride of Charles Leo Ingoldsby, Centreville.

The pretty young bride, given in marriage by her father, was a radiant figure in a floor-length gown of white sheer over satin with shirred bodice, trimmed with silver sequins, and long full sleeves. She wore silver slippers and a finger-tip veil, which fell from a head-dress of white flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of tea roses and maiden hair fern.

The bride's attendant was her sister, Miss Jean Hopkins, who wore a floor-length gown of white sheer over satin, fashioned with a full skirt. She wore silver slippers and a shoulder-length veil and carried a bouquet of baby 'mums with maiden hair fern.

Mr. Flavian Ingoldsby, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Mr. Ambrose Kidd played the Lohengrin wedding march and other appropriate hymns. He was assisted by Mary and Ann McGrath and Mr. Jas. Ingoldsby, brother of the groom.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pair of gold earrings; to the bridesmaid a gold identification bracelet; to the groomsman a cigarette case, and to the organist a leather billfold.

The bride's mother was dressed in a two-piece gown of brown crepe with a brown felt hat and brown accessories and wore a corsage of yellow flowers.

The groom's mother was gowned in black crepe. She wore a black hat and matching accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

After the ceremony the wedding party motored to Napanee, where dinner was served in the banquet hall of the Superior Restaurant to about twenty guests. After toasts were proposed to the bride and groom and some time spent in entertainment, the happy couple left, amidst showers of confetti and good wishes for Windsor.

For travelling the bride donned a two-piece dress of moss green crepe. She wore a small hat of the same color, with brown coat and brown accessories.

Upon their return the young couple will reside at Centreville.

A LETTER FROM EIRE

BY J. H. MURDOCH

One of Eire's most serious social problems, the comparative lateness of marriage by young people, may have to be seriously tackled soon after the war ends. This is a curious social evil which Eire appears to have all to herself among modern civilized countries and certainly in English-speaking countries.

These "late" marriages are almost all in agricultural areas and that makes the problem all the more difficult. How the job is to be tackled nobody appears to know.

Recently in the Senate Finance Minister Sean T. O'Kelly confessed that the government had no ready remedy.

Prime Minister De Valera has suggested that the creation of "dower" houses on farmsteads might enable the old folk to move into a new home and so give their son or daughter an opportunity to get married, rear a family of their own and keep the farm going.

One of the main causes of late marriages in Eire is that there is usually only one house on each farm. The son or daughter has to wait until the old folk die until he or she can see the way to get married. This is playing havoc with the country's population.

In most continental European countries, in Britain, the United States and in Canada the average age at which people get married is from 22 years to 26. In Eire, a big percentage of the people are still unmarried at 35.

In the last census, that of 1936, there were 134,680 men in the country between the ages of 20 and 24. Of these only 5,098 were married; 129,529 were single and 53 were widowers. There were 119,833 women between the same ages and of these 16,184 were married; 103,558 single and 91 widowed. Of the 94,000 men between 30 and 34 years, 56,700 were unmarried and of the 89,000 women of the same ages, 39,000 were single.

Eire is the only civilized country in which the population has fallen consistently in the last 100 years. A century ago the country had a population of more than 6,600,000 not counting the six counties of Northern Ireland. Today, the population is just under 3,000,000.

There has been a steady flow of Irishmen to the Dominions and to the United States, particularly to the latter. The worst years of migration were between 1841 and 1851 because of the great Irish famine. Up to that time the population had been steadily increasing. Between these years the population dropped by nearly 1,500,000.

GESTAPO CONTINUES

The German army may flirt with revolt, but the Gestapo means to use its last ounce of power to cause as much suffering as possible. The Swedish home radio reports that not less than eleven Danish hostages were killed recently in the underground cells of Dagmarhus, Gestapo headquarters in Copenhagen.

Dr. Werner Best is acting on orders he has received to have such executions carried out secretly, which is a grim tribute to what the Danish strikers accomplished after the last publicized executions of hostages.

Gestapo arrests continue, and on the night of August 4 an act of Gestapo vengeance took place against Istedgade the street in Copenhagen where the Danish fought with such obstinate ardor against the Germans in the people's strike. Three Gestapo motors arrived in the street and began to fire without warning against pedestrians, traffic in general and people in the Cafe Postillon. Three Danes were killed and several wounded.

During this raid which was later announced by the Germans to have been against "Communists and people who associate with illegal elements" two incidents took place which will never be forgotten by those who witnessed them.

A worker was shot at by a Gestapo man and hit in the shoulder. Instead of fleeing, he turned around, and bared his breast shouting. "Shoot, you devils, and let us have an end to it!" He was shot, anti his body carried away by the Germans.

The mother worker who was peacefully walking through the street with his wife was stopped and searched for arms. None was found on him and in their annoyance the Gestapo shot and killed him in front of his wife.

Therapy For Battle Exhaustion

It is no news that the mental wounds inflicted by war are sometimes far more terrible in their lasting consequences than actual physical injury. A man without a leg or arm can still play a useful part in society. A man without a mind is a heavy burden both to himself, his family and society.

In the last war there were few cures for war neuroses or battle exhaustion — then called "shell-shock". The development of the highly successful, present-day treatments grew largely from experience gained at the time of Dunkirk and the Blitz.

The chronic neurotic is rare in the British Army, thanks to the careful weeding out at recruitment. But battle exhaustion can affect the nervous system of a first class fighting man as surely as a bullet can affect his body.

It was discovered at the time of Dunkirk that rapid treatment in such cases was absolutely essential. Medical authorities noted the marked difference between casualties who had been treated immediately with sedative drugs and those left untreated for days or weeks. They cite, as example, the many cases who returned from Dunkirk apparently quite sound, but in reality suffering from serious symptoms they did not want to report. The initial phobia left untreated, developed into highly aggravated fears, and by the time treatment could be administered, instead of one comparatively simple phobia to cure, there were a half-dozen others requiring harder, longer care.

Emergency sedation is now given as soon as the patient's condition is discovered, often quite near the field of action. Casualties (both mental and physical) are then sent back from the front to the transit hospital, which acts as a clearing station. Here all nationalities arrive mixed up together—Americans, Canadians, British — and all types of wounded, each with a label giving a preliminary MED diagnosis. The American and Canadian cases are sent to their own hospitals. The medical and surgical cases are sorted out and given first aid and then moved on within twenty-four hours. If they are not too severely injured — to base hospitals. The battle exhaustion cases are given more sedatives to keep them asleep until they can be passed back safely for further prolonged care.

Weight lost in battle must be regained before the soldier can be completely healed. While under sedation, patients are given insulin, which decreases blood sugar and enormously increases the appetite. They are then awakened every four hours and fed large meals. The combined method of quick, deep sedation and large feedings sends a good number of men back to their units fit and well in six days — a tremendous improvement over the months, even years, of patient treatment previously required.

In cases of loss of memory or inability to talk about some experience so terrible that it has become repressed within the patient, "truth drugs," more formally known as barbiturates, are often administered. These have somewhat the same effect on a man as too much alcohol. By degrees the patient becomes talkier drunk, then talkative. He is in a relaxed friendly state of mind. Skilful questioning and sympathy help bring the matter to the surface.

From the point of view of the knowledge gained in the treatment of war neuroses and the effective use to which it has been put in all theatres by the medical corps of all the Allied armies, the sacrifices at Dunkirk and the blitz are now contributing to our present medical as well as our military victories.

DEANERY MEETS AT DESERONTO

The annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Deanery was held in Deseronto, Thursday, October 26th, commencing with service of holy communion in St. Mark's Church, at which the Ven. Archdeacon Dumbrille, was celebrant. Canon Radcliffe acted as server.

Assisting were Rev. Herbert Pringle, Rural Dean; Canon R. W. Spencer, Camden East, and Rev. H. C. Secker, Rev. F. O. Ware, Tamworth, was also present. During the afternoon Rev. C. P. Heaven, Shannonville, was a welcome guest. Adjournment was made to the White Hall for a box lunch, tea being served by the ladies of the parish. Members were in attendance at the afternoon business session from all branches of the Woman's Auxiliary in the Deanery except Amherst Island.

Owing to recent bereavement, the Deanery Secretary, Mrs. Claringbold, Sandhurst, was unable to attend, and Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Napanee, conducted the meeting, Mrs. Lawrence, of the Deseronto Branch, acting as Secretary.

Guest speaker, Miss Frances Howard, recently returned from China, told of her mission work there in occupied China until such time as we were at war with Japan, and later in the unoccupied area. Her address was much enjoyed.

The Diocesan President, Mrs. J. de P. Wright, was present, and reviewed the Dominion annual meeting, which she had attended recently in London, also outlined plans for the coming year.

Mrs. Charles Reed, of Brockville, and Mrs. A. P. Dowdell, of Lansdowne, spoke about the Girls' Work and that of the Juniors and Little Helpers.

Mrs. Jamieson, Literature Secretary, briefly addressed the meeting.

An invitation from Tyendinaga Branch was accepted for next year.

The meeting was somewhat shadowed by the absence of the Deanery Secretary and also by the sad news received that day of the death of His Grace, Dr. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury.

In Loving Memory

DAFOE — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Melville Dafoe who passed away on November 4th, 1943.

In a graveyard, quietly sleeping,
Where the green grass gently waves,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
Whom we loved but could not save.
To those who have a mother—
Treasure her with care—
As you never know her value
Till you see her vacant chair.
Sadly missed by,
HUSBAND and FAMILY
44ap

CAIRD — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Garnet Caird, who died on October 30, 1943.

There is no death—the stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in Heaven's jewelled crown
They shine for evermore.
And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread.
For all the boundless Universe
Is life — there are no dead.
Think of him just the same, I say
He is not dead, he is just away.
Ever remembered by
WIFE and FAMILY
44ap

PRINGLE — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mark Pringle, who passed away on October 30, 1942.

Treasured thoughts of one so dear
Often bring a silent tear;
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Years roll on but memories last.
Ever remembered by
THE FAMILY.
44ap

ASSELSTINE — In loving memory of Mrs. C. H Asselstine, who passed away November 7th, 1943.

Her memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour she passed away.
Ever remembered by her Daughter
LOTTIE and FAMILY.
44ap

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot S. Oliver and family wish to thank their many friends and neighbours for their kindness in their recent bereavement. 44a

Mrs. Richard Hill, Moscow, wishes to express her sincere thanks to all who sent cards, letters, fruit, flowers while she was a patient at the Kingston General Hospital. 44ap

Mrs. W. Gallagher and daughter, Dorothy, wish to thank Mr. Roy Johnston, Mr. Frank Ham, Mr. Rod Wright and Mr. Ross VanDyck for the money they collected from the subscribers of the Balantyne Telephone System, for a gift to them before their departure for Detroit. 44ap

MR. AND MRS. F. C. BUTLER

BUTLER - HUGHES

In Brantaford, on Tuesday, September 12th, in Zion United Church, the marriage took place of Leila Marguerite Hughes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hughes, Tamworth, Ont., to Fred Charles Butler, youngest son of Mrs C. Butler and the late C. Butler, of Montreal. Rev. Mr. Craw performed the ceremony and the attendants were Mrs. Hazel Leeming and Mr. Harold Johnston, of Brantford, Ont.

The bride looked lovely in a street length dress of ice blue, ice blue hat and shoulder-length veil and a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Leeming, where the bride resides. After the reception, the bride and groom left for their honeymoon, by plane, Trans-Canada Air Lines, for Montreal. After their return, the groom, Sergt. W. C. Butler left, for the West Indies, the bride remaining in Brantford, Ontario.

The Late J. Orton Robertson

Death came with unexpected suddenness to Mr. J. Orton Robertson at the home of his son, Roy Robertson, in Richmond Township, near Napanee, on Monday, October 23rd. While conversing with a neighbour, Mr. Robertson was seized with a heart attack and died almost instantly. About a year ago he had a serious illness from which he made a good recovery and had apparently been in good health since that time.

Mr. Robertson, who was in his 83rd year, was born in Sillsville on the homestead where his parents, David and Dorothy Robertson, settled many years ago when they came from Scotland. All his lifetime was spent at Sillsville, until eight years ago when he and his wife moved to Richmond to be near their son. He was a man of excellent character and was held in the highest regard by all who knew him. He was a leader in the Sillsville United Church in which he was an elder and a regular attendant.

Mr. Robertson was predeceased by his wife, Helen G. Campbell, who died two years ago. He was also predeceased by his only brother, Bruce Robertson, who passed away eight years ago. He leaves an only son, Roy, with whom he was residing when his death occurred.

The funeral service was held at the home of his son, on Wednesday, October 28th, and was conducted by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace United Church, Napanee. Interment was made at Sandhurst Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Ryerson Pringle, Joseph Marsh, George Dupre, D. R. Sharpe, Morley Creighton and Harold Hough.

MORVEN GUILD BAZAAR - TEA

The ladies of St. Thomas' Anglican Church women's Guild held a very successful Bazaar and Tea on Wednesday afternoon, October 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Parrell "Venture Inn", Morven. Mrs. L. O. Walker, the president, welcomed the guests to the tea room, which was prettily decorated with colored streamers, pine boughs and cones. The home cooked food table, apron and fancy work table and fruit and vegetable table were all well patronized. The box of candy made and donated by the host, on which tickets were sold, was won by Mrs. Helen Curran, Morven. The basket of groceries, pair of fancy pillows and work basket were won by Laine Hewitt of Napanee, Fred Spencer, of Morven, and Mr. Geo. Daly Napanee, respectively. The proceeds amounted to $136.00. Guests were present from Kingston, Napanee, Switzerville and Violet.

The Late Chauncey Oliver

The sudden death of Chauncey Oliver, 27-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Oliver, occurred at the home of his parents, about four miles west of Napanee, at Sandhill, on Friday afternoon, October 27th.

The late young man was born in Richmond township, a short distance from his parents' present home and had lived all his lifetime with his father and mother, following the vocation of farming.

He is survived by his parents, one sister, Marguerite at home, and one brother Sergt. Oran Oliver in the Canadian Ordinance Corps, Kingston.

His funeral was conducted on Monday afternoon at the Tierney Funeral Home by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace United Church and interment followed at Deseronto Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Percy Vanvlack, Harold McCaul, Irwin Baker, Morley Oliver, Clayton Rendell and Stafford Byrnes.

RETAIL DELIVERIES RESTRICTIONS LESS

While general restrictions limiting retail deliveries to one a day per route remain in force, each retailer after October 30th may establish his own value limitations of deliveries and time limits on, returns, refunds and exchanges, the Prices Board has announced. Consequently, Board order 208, which fixed $1 delivery minimum and a 12-day maximum for returns, refunds and exchanges of goods is being revoked on October 30th. Because of the shortage of labor and gasoline, however, it is expected that most retailers will continue current restrictions on trade practices.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backaches often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

PLAN AIRPORTS ACROSS CANADA AFTER WAR

Hamilton, Oct. 18. Russell L. Gibson, president of Canada's largest pre-war manufacturer of light planes, announced recently a plan to create post-war jobs for hundreds of returning air force pilots and aero engineers through the building of 300 inexpensive Autoplane Airports throughout the Dominion.

Because the plan was "too big and important from the standpoint of returning airmen to be monopolized by any one company, the rest of the aircraft industry would be invited to participate Mr. Gibson said. The plan, he added, would be worked out in close co-operation with the regulations of the Department of Transport in Ottawa and with provincial and municipal governments.

All veterans' and other interested organizations would be asked to help. The Canadian Corps Association, for instance, has volunteered to accept the names of pilots and aero engine mechanics interested in taking part in the plan. Securing necessary sites would begin immediately.

Designed to accommodate easy-to-fly light planes and feeder line aircraft, the airports will consist of simple landing strips of turf or concrete together with especially designed service stations for the handling of both automobiles and light aircraft, the latter during daylight hours.

The 300 airports will be allocated at least one to each town and city with a population of 2,000 or over. All sites would be approved by the Department of Transport before purchasing.

The strips would be located as close to towns and cities as possible, adjacent to important roads or highways in most instances they would be at least 2,000 feet long and 200 feet wide, with provision for expansion to 3,000 feet for larger feeder line type of aircraft, if, as and when the government is ready to assist in the building and maintenance.

Municipalities will be asked to cooperate by beginning immediately to secure sites. Mr. Gibson stated. They will be urged to do this as a progressive civic move and as a patriotic contribution toward the problem of rehabilitating returned airmen.

"While we do not anticipate any such difficulty, the failure of any town or city to back up its own settlement will not result in dropping the plan so far as that municipality is concerned" Mr. Gibson explained. "The amount of land needed will not be so great as to make the cost prohibitive on a private purchase basis."

Adequate strips for light planes could, in many cases, be built for "just a few hundred dollars," strips which could later be expanded for larger aircraft, Mr. Gibson said. The buildings, designs for which have already been prepared, would not be expensive. In many cases the costs would be well under $5,000, especially where operators "begin with a pile of lumber and provide their own labour."

His own company was ready to make available to each operator of a brand new Canadian-built light plane now on the draughting boards, Mr. Gibson said. These would cost no more than a good automobile and no doubt other companies would be ready to provide competing models.

Post-war private flying in light planes will cost no more than motoring, Mr. Gibson predicted. The new planes will land at 35 miles an hour (less the speed of the wind) do 75 miles to a gallon of gasoline and can be flown under supervision after a few minutes' instruction.

Uniform charges and sales methods would be developed, he said. A man paying storage or hangar fees at one airport would find free accommodation elsewhere when visiting for instance.

Reconditioned planes would also be available as the development went forward. Meanwhile one feature of the plan involves the operation of small used car lots in conjunction with the airports and the rental of automobiles on a "drive yourself" basis to visiting pilots.

While the bulk of their business in the first few months would no doubt involve the servicing of automobiles, the operators would be able from the beginning to offer a variety of air services, including joy rides, flying instruction, charter flights, air taxi and plane rentals.

The businesses would prove economically successful from the beginning he predicted, and Autoplane Airports would become the centres of young people's activities in most communities.

Mr. Gibson said that no trouble raising capital was anticipated. Two such airports had already been spoken for by young air force veterans who happened to hear of the plan before its public announcement and both of whom were prepared to handle their own financing.

At least one large oil company was interested in the project and the committee in charge of the plan was ready to receive its proposals and proposals which might be made by others.

Nazi Industrialists Arrest Reported

BY LOUIS LOCHNER
Former Associated Press Bureau Chief in Berlin

Reports of the arrest of leading German industrialists which appeared to be reaching neutral European countries in increasing numbers should be treated with a great reserve. They may well prove to be Nazi propaganda intended to give these men the character of martyrs when in reality they have been picked to pull Adolf Hitler's chestnuts out of the fire.

The first report concerned none other than Hitler's wily economic wizard, the former Reichsbank President and Minister of Economics, Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht. Reports of his arrest were filtered into neutral countries soon after the general purge of last July. It is significant, however, that nothing more has been heard of his arrest. The Nazis did not hesitate to follow the incarceration of Dr. Karl Goerdeler, former Mayor of Leipzig and for a short time German price commissioner, with notice of beheading. Goerdeler was a fanatic anti-Nazi.

Schacht, on the other hand lent Hitler unqualified support. His guilt in bringing about World War II is outstanding. His clever barter schemes re sulted in a veritable avalanche of raw materials into Nazi Germany previous to 1939, which gave the Reich those stock piles without which Hitler never could have waged war as long as he has.

Many of the world's bankers and industrialists were misled by the wisecracks and disparaging remarks with which the high-collared cynical Schacht regaled them on their visits to Berlin. They thought of him as a liberal in disguise, when in reality he was all the time a well-camouflaged stooge of Der Fuehrer.

Recent rumors of arrest concern four of the most prominent industrial barons of Western Germany: Hermann Roechling, outstanding heavy industries magnate of the Saar Valley, and Albert Voegler, Friedrich Flick and Florian Kloeckner, tycoons of the Ruhr Valley.

It would not be surprising in the least to read one of these days that Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, head of the gigantic Krupp munitions concern, had been arrested!

All of these men, like Hitler's one-time particular friend, Fritz Thyssen lacked the courage to oppose Hitler and his mad plans for world conquest. When among themselves, most of these men vented their disdain at the meteoric rise of a lance-corporal without breeding, without culture, without family background, without learning. Yet publicly they accepted him, rendered lip service and what is more important, collaborated heartily with him.

Just to give one example: The Nazis no sooner had defeated the French in 1940 that Hermann Roechling was entrusted with getting the heavy industries of Alsace - Lorraine started again.

A year later the Nazis moved into Russia. One of Roechling's ablest engineers was dispatched to Odessa to start the smelters and other industrial plants and make them work for Germany.

If the captains of finance and industry who are now represented as under arrest were not Nazis, at least they were imperialists. As such they constitute a menace to any attempt to rear a post-war German democracy.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities

The third in a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get full details, save and read every advertisement.

Training and Education—
Doorways to Opportunity

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

In planning Canada's re-establishment program, its framers worked with one principal idea in mind. This was that the only answer to the problem of permanent re-establishment is a job, and that the surest way to get and hold that job is by the skill necessary for it.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Every ex-service man or woman who will be assisted in re-establishment by training is eligible to have it. There is provision for paying fees for all courses and, in addition, the ex-service man or woman may receive maintenance grants up to:

$60 monthly if single;
$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances;

This training is available for the period of service to a maximum of one year, but can be extended beyond that period, if necessary, and if service is more than one year.

EDUCATIONAL TRAINING

This is available to all who are admitted to university within 15 months of discharge and, as in vocational training, fees are paid and there are maintenance allowances up to:

$60 monthly for a single man;
$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with allowances for dependent children.

These allowances will be continued on a month for month basis of the time in the services, providing all examinations are passed. Outstanding students may have assistance continued to completion of the course.

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

Under the re-establishment program Canada's veterans who, within 18 months of discharge from the services, become ill or unemployed may draw maintenance allowances up to $50 if single and $70 for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances. The out-of-work benefits are for those fit and able to work, but for whom there is no work immediately available. In the case of serious illness there is free treatment and hospitalization for any condition in the year following discharge.

As a further security measure, every veteran who enters insurable employment is entitled, after 15 weeks in that employment, to unemployment insurance credit as though the whole period in the services since July 1, 1941, had been spent in the insurable employment.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND, ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

Issued under the authority of Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of

VETERANS' AFFAIRS

● That old saying, so well known to farm folks . . . "Plow to the end of the furrow" . . . so aptly makes our duty plain. And the end of the furrow is beyond the horizon.

Our men on the fighting fronts have weary, trying days ahead of them. We, on the home front, must not waver nor falter. Our duty is clear, we must keep faith with our fighters. On Canadian farms we must maintain our efforts to produce the foods our fighters and our allies need. That work will reward us with increased incomes.

And we must save . . . to have money to lend to our country to pay the increased costs that this war continues to pile up.

Money invested in Victory Bonds will help to buy the tools of war. They don't last long in action. They must be replaced. It's our job . . . the home front job . . . to see to it that our fighting men have everything they need.

Victory Bonds yield a double harvest. They provide our country with money to carry on the war. Later, they will provide money to buy things we will want and need, and which we have done without during the war. Victory Bonds will provide cash to pay for improvements for farm and home . . . new buildings . . . new machinery . . . better stock . . . new car . . . furnishings and conveniences for the home.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

In order that reports of organizations may be printed the week following the dates on which the meetings are held, we find it necessary to request that all copy be in our office not later than Saturday morning. We ask for the co-operation of the reporters, so that we may continue to be of service. — Editor.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Morley White, on October 24th when members of Sillsville W. A. met for war work. The quilt was bound and finished.

The meeting opened in the usual way and an acknowledgment was read for a donation of $5.00 to the Kingston Kinsmen's Club Milk for Britain Fund.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

GRACE CHURCH W. A.

The October meeting of the Women's Association was held Thursday in the Sunday School room, with a good attendance.

Mrs. Wilfred Smith, president, presided and was assisted in the opening by Mrs. W. Russell and Miss E. Bradshaw. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. P. B. Elliott. Readings were given by Mrs. W. Anderson and Mrs. W. Thompson. Letters from the sick and shut-ins were read by Miss A. Donnelly. The treasurer, Mrs. H. Vine gave her report and showed a substantial balance in the bank. Mrs. Percy Vine's and Mrs. F. Gowell's group held a dummage sale and the proceeds of $160 were given to be applied on the organ fund. The sum of $1700 has been paid on the organ. The canvassers reported for the cash canvass held in place of the annual fowl supper. Although the reports were not all in the sum of nearly $200 had been handed in so far. The final arrangements were made for the pot luck supper to be held on Monday night for the congregation.

Mrs. McLellan presented the Association with a box of useful articles for the kitchen, from the Girls' Club. Each article was wrapped separately and with a verse attached. These gifts were very much appreciated.

A hearty vote of thanks was voiced by Mrs. B. Seymour and Mrs. R. S. Wales, thanking the Girls' Club for their very generous gift.

The meeting was brought to a close with a prayer and the National Anthem.

NAPANEE W. C. T. U.

On October 30th, Napanee W.C.T.U. met in Grace Church, Mrs. Howitt, first vice-president, in the chair. After a moment of silent prayer, a hymn was sung and Mrs. Howitt led in prayer. A very helpful devotional period followed, led by Miss Rook reading from the 46th Psalm. She emphasized the thought that in these days of stress and strain, our God is still our refuge and our strength. Mrs. Elliott then sang a very appropriate solo.

The Provincial W.C.T.U. Field Secretary, Miss Duff, was then introduced and gave a most interesting and informative address. She gave a short report of her work in schools of our district, when she displayed temperance posters, gave temperance talks and showed temperance films. She spoke of W.C.T.U. work still being carried on throughout the world in spite of many difficulties. The work being done in China, for the downtrodden Chinese, was specially emphasized. Miss Duff said that Chinese soldiers were forbidden to use wine or opium. Speaking on the tobacco question, she suggested that a copy of the tobacco laws be placed in the hands of school principals for discussion in scientific temperance classes. She spoke of the patriotic work our unions have done and are doing — provided mobile canteens for our boys in Newfoundland and England, Fellowship Lodge in Petewawa Camp, and ditty bags for many of our boys; provided also Christmas boxes for the boys of Christie Street Hospital and visited them throughout the year; provided summer camps for girls. Miss Duff called attention to the very large number of liquor permits given out in Ontario, also the many busy bootleggers. Evidently the granting of 4.4 beer, government control of liquor and beverage rooms have not done away with bootlegging.

Speaking of the gambling evil she said that the Attorney-General of Ontario had referred to it as being fostered by service clubs, patriotic organizations and even churches, in their ways of raising money.

In closing, Miss Duff said that a resolution had been passed at convention, that men should not be allowed to enter women's beverage rooms, also that seats and tables be removed from these rooms. Also, she challenged our women to remove the temptation which might arise from alcoholic content in the communion cup.

SELBY RED CROSS

Selby Red Cross Unit reported the following work completed during the third quarter of this year: 7 pairs of socks; 3 pairs gloves, 3 ribbed helmets; 2 round-neck sweaters, 1 woman's pulover, 4 child's sweaters, 1 man's bed coat, 37 pairs surgeon's boots, 3 pairs men's pyjamas, 6 pairs boys' tweed trousers (8-year size), 1 woman's nightie.

ADOLPHUSTOWN Y. P. U.

The first meeting of the Adolphustown Young People's Union was held at Mrs. Clarence Davis' home on October 23rd. The meeting opened with a hymn. Mrs. Ross Humphrey read the scripture. Meditation was read by Mrs. Gordon Mack. Miss Ruth Hudson led in prayer. Miss Hudson acted as chairman for the evening.

Officers elected are as follows: President, James Smith; Vice-President, Ruth Hudson; Secretary, Mrs. Davis; Treasurer, Helen Smith; Programme Conveners— Christian Fellowship, Hattie, Allison; Christian Culture, Mrs. Gordon Mack; Christian Missionary, Mrs. Vine; Christian Citizenship, Helen Smith. Social Committee in charge, Mrs. Roy Smith, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Ross Humphrey. Press reporter, Mrs. Gordon Mack.

Letters and business were read and discussed. It was decided to hold meetings on Tuesday, every two weeks at the homes. Mrs. Gordon Mack and Leo Mack were chosen as captains for sides to get members and points were to be given to members present.

The meeting closed with the benediction.

For the guidance of members of the Canadian forces who volunteered for active service, who have served and have been honorably discharged and for the guidance of dependents of deceased members of the forces eligible under the regulations, there is some urgency in the announcement that application forms for the war service gratuity are now available at all naval, military and air force units and establishments in Canada, or at district or sub-district offices of the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Former members of the Canadian forces qualifying must use the printed application form but dependents and Canadians who served in other Commonwealth forces may send applications by letter. Dependents, however, should follow the printed form and indicate the member's name and service number, state the extent to which they were dependent on the discharged or deceased member, and whether they were getting dependents' allowance or assigned pay at the time of termination of the member's service.

Naval personnel or dependents should address their letters of application to —The Secretary, Naval Board, Naval Service Headquarters, Ottawa; The Army to—The Secretary, Department of National Defence (Army) Ottawa, attention Paymaster-General; Air Force to—The Secretary, Department of National Defence for Air Ottawa, attention Records Officer. What about the women? That was the major problem discussed at a meeting in Ottawa recently of women employment supervisors of the Employment and Selective Service officers from all sections of Canada. Indications are that the transfer of those women presently engaged in war production to new types of employment will call for serious attention by authorities. Opportunities for employment of women within their own areas and training courses to assist in the necessary readjustment are to be explored. Many married women, it is assumed will be ready to return to their homes when assured that the labour emergency situation has been eased. Sympathetic and prompt attention is also to be given discharged service women seeking civilian positions, the Labour Department points out in an article on the subject.

No part of Canada's total war effort can show a more astounding development from scratch than that accomplished by our shipyards and their Canadian workmen. In 1939 we had 14 large and 15 smaller boat-building establishments which employed about 4,000 men. In the summer of 1943 at the peak of the progress 75,000 men and women were busily employed in 25 major and 65 smaller yards. Of some 400 cargo ships ordered, 321 were delivered, which included 285 10,000-tonners. Of these 90 10,000-tonners were sold to the United States Maritime Commission. In addition, the Canadian Government has delivered 102 ships to the United Kingdom, and one to Australia under Mutual Aid, which are returnable to Canada at the end of the war. Canadian merchant seamen provide the crews for a fleet of merchant ships which grew from 37 at the beginning of the war to 150 in less than five years.

Here's an interesting note of one of the 10,000-tonners. After loading with ship's stores and water, it will carry on the average, 2,880 tons of flour, cheese, bacon, and ham; 2,150 tons of steel; enough motorized equipment to outfit a full infantry battalion; 1,900 tons of bombs; sufficient lumber, plywood and nails to build 99 cottages; enough aluminum to build 310 bombers or 640 fighter planes, and two complete bombers stowed on the aft-deck in a knocked-down condition.

Hospital Staff May Now Be Hired Directly

Professional and non-professional workers for hospitals may now be hired directly without passing through local employment and selective service offices, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, stated recently.

"In order to help meet the extreme need for hospital staff, this change in the method of recruiting workers has been granted to hospital authorities to accommodate what threatens to be a very serious shortage of workers," said Mr. Mitchell.

Male or female applicants may apply directly to hospitals for interview and be hired, without Selective Service permits, as formerly, although the necessary permits will be made out by the hospital authorities.

Local employment offices will continue to secure help for hospitals and will also be kept advised of all placements made directly by the hospitals.

Instructions have gone out from Ottawa to the employment offices that the changed procedure becomes effective at once.

OUTPUT OF HONEY

The 1944 honey crop amounts to 36,215,800 pounds, according to the preliminary estimate. This represents a decrease of 3,276,300 pounds, or 8 per cent, on the very large 1943 crop of 39,492,100 pounds, but it is 6 per cent greater than the ten-year average (1933-42) of 33,462,000 pounds.

Only in two provinces were the yields per colony higher than in 1943, namely Alberta with an average of 105 pounds, and Manitoba with 100 pounds per colony. In the other seven provinces, the average yields ranged from a low of 37 pounds in Quebec to 93 pounds in Saskatchewan. With the exception of Ontario, increases in the number of producing colonies, the greatest increase being in Prince Edward Island, where the number is 60 per cent larger than in 1943. In Ontario the number of producing colonies remained unchanged. Normally, about 50 per cent of the crop is produced in Ontario, but because of the unfavourable weather in 1944, the Ontario crop amounted to 39 per cent of the Canadian total.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On Friday evening, October 20th, about forty friends and neighbours met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl O. Martin, to bid them farewell before leaving for their new home in Napanee, and to present them with a lamp and table mirror. The following address was read:

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Martin,

Dear Friends:— Time brings many changes and some of these are very unwelcome. It is one of these very unwelcome changes that has brought so many of your friends and neighbours to your home to-night. For many years you have lived among us and now on the eve of your leaving our community, we desire to express to you our regrets at your going and also to assure you that our very best wishes follow you and your family. We shall miss you from our community and while we regret your leaving, we sincerely hope it will be to your advantage and as an expression of good will and wishes, we ask you kindly to accept this lamp. Long may you live to enjoy the use of it and may it be a constant reminder of your old home and loyal friends of Palace Road.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends: Mrs. Ross Brown, Mrs. Gerald Ungar, Mrs. Harry Pringle.

CEILING PRICES ON HAY ARE NOW FIXED

Ceiling prices on hay grown in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces have been fixed by the Prices Board. The basic maximum price for growers and shippers is $18 a ton for baled hay loaded on cars at the shipping point nearest the area of production. Variations in price are allowed if hay is delivered to a shipping point but not loaded in a car or if it is sold at the farm. If a grower or shipper sells hay loose or unbaled at the farm the ceiling price is $16.50 less the customary baling charges or $2 per ton, whichever is less. Provision is made for specified maximum mark-ups for sales of hay by wholesalers and retailers.

● That old saying, so well known to farm folks . . . "Plow to the end of the furrow" . . . so aptly makes our duty plain. And the end of the furrow is beyond the horizon.

Our men on the fighting fronts have weary, trying days ahead of them. We, on the home front, must not waver nor falter. Our duty is clear, we must keep faith with our fighters. On Canadian farms we must maintain our efforts to produce the foods our fighters and our allies need. That work will reward us with increased incomes.

And we must save . . . to have money to lend to our country to pay the increased costs that this war continues to pile up.

Money invested in Victory Bonds will help to buy the tools of war. They don't last long in action. They must be replaced. It's our job . . . the home front job . . . to see to it that our fighting men have everything they need.

CEILING PRICES ON HAY ARE NOW FIXED

Ceiling prices on hay grown in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces have been fixed by the Prices Board. The basic maximum price for growers and shippers is $18 a ton for baled hay loaded on cars at the shipping point nearest the area of production. Variations in price are allowed if hay is delivered to a shipping point but not loaded in a car or if it is sold at the farm. If a grower or shipper sells hay loose or unbaled at the farm the ceiling price is $16.50 less the customary baling charges or $3 per ton, whichever is less. Provision is made for specified maximum mark-ups for sales of hay by wholesalers and retailers.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

In order that reports of organizations may be prinfed the week following the dates on which the meetings are held, we find it necessary to request that all copy be in our office not later than Saturday morning. We ask for the co-operation of the reporters, so that we may continue to be of service. — Editor.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Morley White, on October 26th when members of Sillsville W. A. met for war work. One quilt was bound and finished.

The meeting opened in the usual way and an acknowledgement was read for a donation of $5.00 to the Napanee Kinsmen's Club Milk for British Fund.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

GRACE CHURCH W. A.

The October meeting of the Women's Association was held Thursday, in the Sunday School room, with a good attendance.

Mrs. Wilfred Smith, president, presided and was assisted in the opening by Mrs. W. Russell and Miss E. VanAlstine. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. F. B. Elliott. Readings were given by Mrs. W. Anderson and Mrs. W. Thompson. Letters from the sick and shut-ins were read by Miss A. Hambly. The treasurer, Mrs. H. Vine gave her report and showed a substantial balance in the bank. Mrs. Percy Vine's and Mrs. F. Gorrell's group held a dummage sale and the proceeds of $160 were given to be applied on the organ fund. The sum of $1700 has been paid on the organ. The canvassers reported for the cash, canvass held in place of the annual fowl supper. Although the reports were not all in the sum of nearly $200 had been handed in, so far. The final arrangements were made for the pot luck supper to be held on Monday night for the congregation.

Mrs. McLellan presented the Association with a box of useful articles for the kitchen, from the Girls' Club. Each article was wrapped separately and with a verse attached. These gifts were very much appreciated.

A hearty vote of thanks was voiced by Mrs. B. Seymour and Mrs. R. G. Wales thanking the Girl's Club for their very generous gift.

The meeting was brought to a close with a prayer and the National Anthem.

NAPANEE W. C. T. U.

On October 25th, Napanee W.C.T.U. met in Grace Church, Mrs. Howitt, first vice-president, in the chair. After a moment of silent prayer, a hymn was sung and Mrs. Howitt led in prayer. A very helpful devotional period followed, led by Miss Rook reading from the 46th Psalm. She emphasized the thought that in these days of stress and strain, our God is still our refuge and our strength. Mrs. Elliott then sang a very appropriate solo.

The Provincial W.C.T.U. Field Secretary, Miss Duff, was then introduced and gave a most interesting and informative address. She gave a short report of her work in schools of our district, when she displayed temperance posters, gave temperance talks and showed temperance films. She spoke of W.C.T.U. work still being carried on throughout the world in spite of many difficulties. The work being done in China, for the downtrodden Chinese, was specially emphasized. Miss Duff said that Chinese soldiers were forbidden to use wine or opium. Speaking on the tobacco question, she suggested that a copy of the tobacco laws be placed in the hands of school principals for discussion in scientific temperance classes. She spoke of the patriotic work our unions have done and are doing — provided mobile canteens for our boys in Newfoundland and England, also Fellowship Lodge in Petawawa Camp, and dainty bags for many of our boys; provided also Christmas boxes for the boys of Christie Street Hospital and visited them throughout the year; provided summer camps for girls. Miss Duff called attention to the very large number of liquor permits given out in Ontario, also the many bootleggers. Evidently the granting of 4.4 beer, government control of liquor and beverage rooms have not done away with bootlegging.

Speaking of the gambling evil she said that the Attorney-General of Ontario had referred to it as being fostered by service clubs, patriotic organizations and even churches, in their ways of raising money.

In closing, Miss Duff said that a resolution had been passed at convention, that men should not be allowed to enter women's beverage rooms, also that seats and tables be removed from these rooms. Also, she challenged our women to remove the temptation which might arise from alcoholic content in the communion cup.

LIONS CLUBS WILL ASSIST PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT

Lions International have volunteered the services of all Ontario Lions Clubs to make a survey of the natural and industrial resources of the Province. This offer was made to the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. It includes the enlistment and co-ordination of other service clubs.

The Department of Planning and Development in accepting this offer recognizes that a thorough study of community needs and community resources from every possible aspect is a necessary basis for taking stock for the purpose of planning. Planning is not the sole responsibility of any Government. It is the responsibility of every individual and every group or association of individuals throughout the Province. The Department of Planning and Development will fully survey carried out under the Lions Club proposal a very useful basis upon which to make preparation for the future.

The general prosperity of the Province as a whole will depend largely upon the continued prosperity of farmers and other primary producers. The development of local markets is always a great advantage to any farm community. The more industries can be distributed throughout the smaller centres of population the more the position of the agricultural communities will be directly improved.

The Department of Planning and Development intends to assist as far as possible the smaller and more isolated urban communities in the preparation of information as to their industrial advantages. The proposed Lions Club survey should be of great assistance in presenting a general view of the whole industrial situation, and particularly to provide detailed information about the smaller communities which might well support new industrial activity.

The Department is arranging for the assistance of the local offices of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and the Association of Municipal Electric Utilities through Mr. W. R. Strike, President of the O.M.E.A., and Mr. S. W. Caniff, President of the A.M.E.U. It is also arranging for the co-operation of the local Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce. Mr. F. D. Tolchard, the General Manager of the Board of Trade of the City of Toronto and Acting Secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of the Province is co-operating to this end.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! Co-operation and working together for a common cause are more important to-day than at any time during the last decade—and the women of Ontario are rising to the occasion. An analysis of our mail will vouch for that.

Good old-fashioned neighbourliness and willingness to share with others are expressed in your letters. They are reminders of those days when neighbours everywhere exchanged a loaf of bread for a jar of preserves over the back fence.

It is significant of this growing together in these times that Mrs. M. looks up old recipes gathered during the last war and sends them for you and me. We do appreciate all suggestions and discussions pertaining to our problems.

Spiced Cottage Pudding

Suggested by Mrs. C. B.

Half-cup shortening, three-quarters cup sugar, two tablespoons honey, half-teaspoon cloves, one-quarter tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon baking soda, two cups sifted flour, three-quarters cup water.

Cream shortening, add sugar and cream well together. Add honey. Mix cloves, cinnamon, baking soda and flour. Add water alternately with the flour and spices. Stir well and pour into greased cake pan. Bake in a slow oven of 325 degrees F. for one hour. Serve hot with Grape Sauce.

Grape Sauce

Suggested by Mrs. D.M.

Eight cups grapes, six cups granulated sugar.

Wash and crush grapes of any variety. Cook slowly on electric element turned low for fifteen minutes. Press through a coarse sive. To the pulp add the granulated sugar. Mix well and cook for fifteen minutes, stirring frequently to prevent scorching or sticking. Seal in sterilized jars for future use. Serve with puddings or ice creams.

Melon Ambrosia

One cup melon, cubed; one cup diced watermelon, one cup sliced orange, six tablespoons powdered sugar.

Mix all ingredients and chill thoroughly. Pile into sherbert glasses and serve garnished with fresh mint leaves. Yield: six servings.

Coddled Apples

Two cups boiling water, one or one and a half cups sugar, six apples.

Make a syrup by boiling water and sugar together for five minutes. Core and pare apples, lower into syrup and cook slowly. Cover and watch carefully. When tender lift out apples, add a little lemon juice to the syrup and pour over the apples.

We give you the recipe for pop-overs and cream puffs (war-time versions) together in The Mixing Bowl column because they are similar in principal and use. Pop-overs are sometimes served pipin ghot with butter in the same manner as tea biscuits—to accompany salads for simple fruit desserts. But they are also good split and filled with cream chicken, creamed green beans and carrots. Use as a main course accompanied with browned potatoes and a generous serving of salad. The puffs if made large are perfect for a company dessert. If filled with cream custard, fruit sauce or chocolate mixture. You will find these sweet puffs easy on the sugar and yet a satisfactory substitute for rich cakes.

Pop - Overs

One-quarter teaspoon salt, one cup sifted bread flour, seven-eighths cup milk, two eggs, half-tablespoon melted shortening.

Sift salt and flour together. Add milk gradually, beating until mixture is smooth. eBat eggs until light and add to first mixture. Add shortening and beat well. Pou into hot greased muffin pan and bake in electric oven thirty minutes at 475 degrees F., reducing the temperature to 350 degress F. for fifteen minutes. Yield: Nine pop-overs.

Cream Puff Shells

One-quarter cup butter, half-cup water, one-eighth teaspoon salt, half-cup bread flour, two eggs, unbeaten.

Combine the butter, water and salt in saucepan and bring to boiling point. Sift in flour and cook, stirring constantly until smooth mixture forms. Stir vigorously until mixture forms a ball in the centre of the pan. Remove from electric element and let stand five minutes. Add eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after adding each egg. Mixture should be very stiff. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered cookie sheet. Makes eight large puffs or eighteen small ones or 24 afternoon-tea size. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for twenty to twenty-five minutes longer. Small puffs will not take quite as long to finish baking. When cool, cut slit in side of puff and fill with cream custard filling salad mixture.

Cream Fillings For Puffs

One-third cup sugar, two and one-half tablespoons flour, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one cup of milk, one egg, half-teaspoon vanilla, two teaspoons butter.

Mix the sugar, flour and salt in a double boiler. Add the milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick (3 to 5 minutes.) Cover and cook for ten minutes longer. Add a little of this mixture to the slightly beaten egg, mix well and retur nto the double boiler. Cook for a minute later, stirring constantly. Remove from stove.

TAKE A TIP:

1 Use sweet cider to flavour gelatin moulds for variation.
2 If cocoa is to be substituted for one ounce of chocolate in a sauce recipe, use one quarter cup cocoa and mix with cornstarch and sugar.
3 Bake beets occasionally. Wash, trim and roast as you do potatoes.
4 Increase the amount of salt in a recipe when you substitute shortening for butter.
5 To plant slips of geraniums etc., put some lumps of charcoal in the pot — wood ash charcoal keeps the earth sweet.
6 For potted plants on the window sill, use glass gliders that you buy for furniture. They are convenient to use on a narrow ledge.
7 Always water plants with a little warm water — preferably at night.
8 Do not forget to pot some parsley. It grows easily and sppplies a summer green for winter salads.

MORVEN CHURCH DAMAGED BY TRANSPORT

Morven United Church was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars when a Smith transport crashed into it last Wednesday evening, about 9:30 o'clock.

The transport, driven by Jack White, Toronto, was travelling west behind another west bound motor. The transport driver attempted to pass the car ahead of him when he saw another car approaching from the west and in trying to get his vehicle back on his own side of the road, went into ditch and then struck the church, tearing out one corner of the brick structure.

A charge of careless driving has been laid by the police.

LIEUT. E. W. SILLS WOUNDED

Mrs. Lynn Crossman received word during the past week-end that her son, Lieut. E. W. (Ted) Sills had been wounded while on active service with the Canadian Army on the Western Front.

The wire stated that the extent of the wounds was not yet known and that he was wounded on October 31st.

The family was also asked to address mail to the hospital where Lieut. Sills is a patient.

Lieutenant Sills, who is a graduate of Royal Military College at Kingston, is in the artillery and previously to being wounded took part in the Allied campaign in Belgium and Holland.

His wife, formerly Margaret Bossenberry, is now residing in London, Ontario.

AMPHIBIOUS DUCK STOPS AT NAPANEE

On Saturday morning a great deal of interest was shown by Napanee citizens in the amphibious Duck which stopped in town for a short time while en route to Belleville, where it was to be a feature in a Victory Loan parade.

The duck, which was loaned by the United States Army for exhibitions during the Victory Loan campaign, can be used for transporting troops and supplies either on land or in the water.

COUNTY BOYS WIN THIRD PLACE IN POTATO CONTEST

Wilmot Craig R.R. 4, Napanee and Cameron Craven, R.R. 2Bath, winners in the Eastern Ontario Potato Club Competition were in Guelph last week end competing with other teams for provincial honors. Although the Lennox and Addington team did not win the championship, it was awarded third place in the competition in which there were twenty teams entered.

PTE. JACK THOMPSON
Killed Overseas, Thursday, Oct. 13th.

P.-O. HERB BUTCHER HOME ON LEAVE

Pilot Officer Herb. Butcher, son of Mr and Mrs. Lyle Butcher, Napanee, who has been on active service overseas for more than three years, is now on operational leave and is expected in Napanee some time this week to visit his parents. At present he is at Creighton Mines, Ont., with his wife and young daughter.

P.O Butcher, who won his commission overseas, enlisted in the R.C.A.F early in the war and went overseas as a wireless gunner. He has seen service in various parts of Africa, in the Mediterranean area, and in the Indian area.

THREE PLAYS AT GRACE CHURCH

On Friday evening of last week members of Empey Hill United Church presented three one-act plays at Grace United Church, under the auspices of a group of the W. A., headed by Mrs. Nelson Hart and Mrs. Charles Loucks.

The three plays were "That's What They All Say", "Polishing Henry", and "Straw in Her Hair".

The proceeds of the entertainment will be used in part for the organ fund of the church.

CROYDON, ENG. WOMAN, 78 YEARS STILL WORKING

Mrs. Edith Sutton, Strathcona, recently received an interesting clipping from an English paper sent by her son, Gnr. Thos. Sutton, concerning her mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Sutton, Croydon, England.

The clipping said in part: "When 78-year-old Mrs. Sarah Sutton, of Shafte bury buildings, Croydon, attended Croydon police court to have a clothing coupon form attested, she said she had been a laundry worker since she was nine, and was still acting as a scrubber in order to keep herself and do her bit for the war effort."

Gnr. Sutton also sent a picture of himself and his grandmother, and a newspaper picture showing himself in a group, including Hon. Vincent Massey, High Commissioner to Britain from Canada, and General Macnaughton.

NEW RECORD, TAX COLLECTION

Kingston. — A new record for tax collection was established in Kingston this year, when 99.7 per cent. of the total tax collection as a percentage of the net levy was collected, as compared with 99 per cent in 1943.

H. L. Schermerhorn Resumes His Duties

H. L. Schermerhorn, county road superintendent for Lennox and Addington, who has been on leave of absence the past three years while serving with the Royal Canadian Engineers, with the rank of lieutenant, has resumed his duties. C. E. Cobb of Kingsfon was the acting superintendent during Mr. Schermerhorn's absence.

PTE. C. H. SEDORE REPORTED MISSING

Mrs. William Herrington, R.R. 6, Napanee, received word recently that her grandson, Pte. C. H. Sedore, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Sedore, of Toronto, is reported missing overseas.

Pte. Sedore left Canada in June, of 1944.

The National War Finance Committee for the County of Lennox and Addington are particularly pleased with the Dollar Volume to-date on the Seventh Victory Loan. Larger amounts have been invested to-date than ever before and at the time of writing it looks as if, this time, our objective will be reached and possibly surpassed. This cannot, of course, be taken for granted, for the present pace must be kept up from now to the end of the Loan, to make our 'going over the top' certain. While the Dollar Volume, so far, is satisfactory, the Committee feels frankly alarmed over the relatively few number of people buying Bonds. We have sold greater volume than ever before to fewer customers than before. This is everybody's war, and everybody should make an effort to invest. Buy as much as you possibly can, but even if you have only Fifty Dollars, invest it in a small Bond. Get on the Victory Bondwagon, and own a part of Canada.

CLOTHING NEEDED FOR AHTIRKA

An urgent appeal is being made to all citizens to contribute more and still more warm clothing and bedding to Napanee's adopted town of Ahtirka.

Clothing will be packed and shipped again within the next two weeks, so let's make it a bumper shipment.

Donations received are as follows: Mr. A. S. Kimmerley, Napanee, $75. Mr. Richardson and Jack Caldwell, $5.00; Red Cross, Napanee; Mrs. R. Ham, Miss J. Light, Mrs. J. M. Simpson, Mrs. Nicol, Mrs F. Kayler, Mrs. Coulter.

U.S. WAR CASUALTIES, 472,779

Washington (A.P.) — American war casualties now total 472,779, it was revealed last week, coincident with announcement by U.S. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and the Navy of a new policy that will spare from combat service the remaining son in any family which has lost two or more boys in the war.

L.- CORPL. A. WAGAR NAPANEE, KILLED IN BELGIUM

Mrs. Geraldine Wagar received the sad news, last week, that her husband, Lance-Corporal Albert Wagar, aged 32 years, had been killed in action on October 23rd. in Belgium.

Lance-Corporal Wagar joined up in Kingston in January, 1942, and trained in Cornwall and Camp Borden, and went overseas in August, 1942. He leaves besides his widow, one son, Ivan, of Napanee; three sisters, Mary (Mrs. William Votenay), Gladys (Mrs. Earl Loyst), Kingston; Florence (Mrs. Henry Blanche), of Balsam Spa., New York; and one brother, Melville, of Sceleys Bay.

YOUNG SOLDIER ATTEMPTS STEAL F.B. MILLS' CAR

Pte. John Leo Claus pled guilty in the Magistrate's Court in Napanee on Monday, to theft of a car belonging to Frank B. Mills, on Friday evening of last week. He was turned over to Captain Joyce, of Kingston, after being given a suspended sentence and having paid costs of the Court, amounting to $5.50.

Mr. Mills' car was parked near Trinity Church. It was unlocked but the keys were not in the car. Claus managed to push the car for a block before he was apprehended.

Another charge of being intoxicated in a public place laid against Claus, was withdrawn.

Claus, when asked for an explanation of his actions, stated he could not remember anything because he was intoxicated at the time.

Kingston Man Fined in Napanee

F. H. McDowell, Kingston, appeared in the Magistrate's Court in Napanee on Monday and pled guilty to obtaining a pair of shoes valued at $11 and $5 in cash from F. J. Robin & Son, Napanee, on false pretenses. McDowell gave a cheque for $16.00 in payment for the shoes and received the balance $5 in cash. When the cheque was presented at the bank for payment, it was returned marked 'not sufficient funds'.

Magistrate Garvin had apparently seen McDowell on other occasions in Kingston Court on similar charges, but because none of them were of a recent date, he gave McDowell a chance by fining him $20.00 plus costs of $7.75 and stipulated that $16 of the fine was to be returned to F. J. Robin & Son.

WORD RECEIVED THREE NAPANEE MEN KILLED OVERSEAS

All Served with Canadian Army on Western Front

During the past ten days, word has been received in Napanee of the deaths overseas of three Napanee men, who were on active service with the Canadian Army. The men are Gunner Harold Armstrong, Pte. Raymond A. Parks and Lance-Corporal Albert Victor Wagar.

Word was received last Thursday that Gunner Harold Armstrong, aged 24 years, had been killed on October 25th, while fighting with the Canadian Army on the Western Front. His father, three sisters and a brother, reside in South Napanee, within a short distance of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Thompson, who were advised about a week ago of the death of their son, Jack Thompson, and also within a short distance of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Waitson, whose son was reported missing, some months ago.

Gunner Armstrong was born at Madoc, but lived for a number of years at Sharps Corners. Before enlisting in the artillery in July, 1940, he was a member of the 47th Field Battery (R) at Napanee. He went overseas in July, 1941. His family came to Napanee to reside shortly after his enlistment.

He was predeceased by his mother, eight years ago, and leaves, besides his father, four brothers, Wilbert in Windsor, Ont. Kenneth with the Signal Corps in Kingston, Eddie in the artillery in Belgium or Holland, and Glenn, at home; and three sisters, Helen, Beatrice and Vada, at home.

The death was announced a short time ago of Pte. Raymond A. Parks, who was on active service with the Canadian Army, on the Western Front. Private Parks, who was in about 19 years of age, had been overseas about four months. He was a son of Pte. Stanley Parks, who has been overseas for nearly five years, and was born in Napanee, where he lived until going overseas. He is survived by his father and mother, several brothers and sisters and by his grandmother, Mrs. Gage Nelson, also of Napanee.

A memorial service will be conducted at Grace United Church next Sunday evening for Pte. Parks and Gunner Jack Thompson.

Lance-Corporal Albert Victor Wagar was killed in Belgium on October 23rd. Before his enlistment in the infantry, in Kingston, in January, 1942, he was a resident of Napanee.

He was born at McLean, 32 years ago, and had been overseas since August, 1942.

He leaves to mourn his death, his wife, formerly Geraldine Brown, and one young son, Ivan, who reside in Napanee, three sisters, Mrs. William Votary and Mrs. Earl Loyst, Kingston; Mrs. Henry Blanche, Balsam, Spa. N.Y., and one brother, Melville Wagar, of Sceley's Bay.

RADIO ADDRESS ON VICTORY LOAN BY J. M. SIMPSON, K.C.

Urges Citizens to Invest Savings in Loan

The following address was made over Radio Station CKWS on Sunday evening, November 5th, immediately following the Victory Loan halfhour, by Mr. J. M. Simpson, K.C., the Chairman of the Speakers' Division of the Seventh Victory Loan for the County of Lennox and Addington:—

"I assume my first duty in making this brief address is to offer the people of Lennox and Addington congratulations for their great and spontaneous reaction to the country's appeal for funds. Much as I should like to make this my text for such an occasion, I regret to have to say to you—It is a pity that you have to be urged, scolded — shamed into doing more.

"I am making an appeal to your good judgment. All of us know that savings banks are bulging with money and for people to remove their savings from a bank account and to lend it as usury to their country, cannot be in any sense a matter of self denial. Your bank account earns a mere one and One-Half Per Cent; your country gladly pays you Three Per Cent. A victory Bond gives you no trouble or worry. It is the standard of value for the whole Dominion. Your interest is paid promptly and your principal is returned to you at maturity or, if you desire to have it sooner, you many have your money returned to you promptly upon presentation of your bond to any bank.

"Those who pay income taxes give their money to the country without interest. Those who purchase Victory Loan Bonds are simply lending, and they get paid for the privilege.

"This County of yours is in the very cradle of Canadian history. You have the richest lands; all the bounties which make glad the heart of man. You have lived in a country which, during all these years of war, has remained untouched by the foul foot of any enemy. Except for training manoeuvres you have never seen military, naval, or air forces. You have lived in peace, in a world at war. Because this is the seventh appeal of this country for funds, you are disposed to yawn, and say, 'What again?'

"There are no political or partisan considerations in connection with this Loan—nor as far as that is concerned — any other loan which your country asks from you. This is an appeal to you to LEND—not to give—to help win the war. It is not a matter of a donation. It is a matter of a sensible money saving loan — at interest.

"Why should one have to talk to you about the perils of war? Is it enough to lose one's temper about the dreadful deeds of those foul people who are distinguished by the word 'enemy'?

"Will you be content in believing that you are doing your part in loathing the foul things which those enemies have done — and are doing? Or will you help to beat down these enemies beneath your feet?

"I shall not indulge in dull remarks about your patriotic duty. That subject has been discussed often enough. But I do say this to you. If you are prepared to leave YOUR LIFE and YOUR LIBERTY in the hands of a boy overseas — would you care to consider taking something out of your bank account to finance him in keeping you safe?"

Magnetic Nail Picker Helps Motorists

Many citizens of the town were interested last week, in the Department of Highways' magnetic nail-picker which passed through Napanee. The machine is used on the highways to gather up nails which have fallen on the pavement and are a menace to motorists' tires. It travels at the rate of about five miles per hour.

New Zealand Soldier Expresses Gratitude To Canadians

The following letter was received recently from a New Zealand soldier by Mrs. R. H. Benn, R.R. 6, Napanee:—

October 16th, 1944.

Mrs. Benn,
R.R. 6, Napanee, Ont., Canada.

Dear Mrs. Benn:

I daresay you would expect it the last thing in the world to receive a letter from a "Kiwi" (New Zealand Soldier). My reason for writing to you is to express my gratitude for the wholeheartedness of Canadian people and soldiers of which I'm sure that other 'Kiwis' have a lot to do with. My opinion is that some people — I am referring at present to Canada's — as we know them, will go out of their way to be hospitable. My story is below.

We were situated near some of your boys, among them, I believe, was your son, Harry, with whom I had a long talk on various subjects. However, we had been given orders to move in the morning, early, and so set about dismantling our puptents. After we had gone to sleep in our slit trenches that night, rain began very heavily, and most of us sought sanctuary in a house in which a number of 'Canucks' were sleeping. Those 'Canucks' scouted round and found us beds and room in which to shelter from the rain, which, by this time was causing a flood in the drains and paddocks nearby. Gradually warmth returned and after a hot drink and biscuits, which your boys supplied, we retired to 'bed'.

I'm sure, in fact I'm positive, there was a general feeling amongst us 'Kiwis' of gratitude toward the 'Canucks' for which I have a lot of time, and when the war has finished, I hope to revisit the country of my birth, also the city of Quebec.

Many thanks Canadian people for your generosity.

THE CHIEF CONCERN — REINFORCEMENTS

Col. J. L. Ralston, until recently Minister of Defense, made a first-hand study of military requirements in Italy and in The Low Countries. He met officers and men, heard them tell of their needs; studied with them the requirements of the situation. He came back to Canada convinced that the time had arrived for the Government to take action in line with the results of the plebiscite. The Army Overseas needs reinforcements. The losses in Normandy and in The Low Countries have been greater than was expected. The Army needs men: it must be kept up to strength. That is the main consideration. It must not be lost sight of.

The average man is not concerned with the politics of the present shake-up in Ottawa. He wants to see his son or his brother at the Front, supported to the full. He wants to see that there are plenty of well trained men available to take the places of those who fall.

Mr. Ralston believed the time had come to send Overseas, the eighty thousand men in the Home Defence. These men have been in the Army a long time. They are well trained—or ought to be. Mr. Ralston knows the need, he sees the source of supply, and recommends that the need of the Armies at the Front be supported, reinforced by these Home Defence soldiers. The Cabinet refused to implement Mr. Ralston's recommendation. The members were not ready to send the conscripts overseas. The result was that Colonel Ralston resigned, and General A. G. L. McNaughton was sworn in to take his place as Defense Minister.

On Sunday, speaking at Arnprior, General McNaughton made his position clear. According to a staff report in' The Globe & Mail':—"General McNaughton declared himself . . . . as standing squarely behind the voluntary system. He did more: he, in effect, launched a campaign by asking veterans who have had battle experience to do their part 'to bring the younger generation to a sense of their obligation in support of their comrades overseas'."

General McNaughton, the new Defense Minister, built-up the Canadian Army Overseas. It is largely a creature of his own creation. It might be expected that he would desire, above all things, that they be adequately supported. We must give him credit for honesty of purpose. He believes that the voluntary system of securing reinforcements will succeed. It is sincerely to be hoped that he is right. Perhaps the new Defense Minister knows where he can get the men from. He may have more information on the subject of available manpower than his predecessor, Colonel Ralston. If he has, then time alone will make this clear. The only difficulty we see in this is, the immediate necessities of the fighting men. Men are dying now; men are being wounded now; reinforcements are wanted now. It is suggested, in certain newspaper dispatches, that the new Defense Minister may go overseas to see for himself what is needed and to find out what the men over there are thinking. This is all to the good, if there is time. But men's lives are at stake. Reinforcements are needed now. There are eighty thousand troops ready, and thained. Perhaps General McNaughton knows some other place where he can find fifty to sixty thousand trained men. It he knows that, and can get them to the front at the earliest possible moment, Prime Minister King will have cause for gratitude in appointing him as Minister of Defense in place of Colonel Ralston, who held office all through the war and did not know any place other than in the Zombie Army, where men could be found to take the place of those who have done their bit.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE

It makes quite a difference whether a party is in office or out of office. The party which is in is the object of all the barbed shafts and slings of those on the outside, while those not in, need not worry so much over what they say or do, so long as they keep pointing at the mistakes and shortcomings of those who are in. We have looked in vain to the two major 'out' parties in Canada for some specific announcement as to what they would do on the manpower question, were they in power in Ottawa. Mr. Coldwell, Leader of the C. C. F. speaking in Toronto on Saturday, tried to dodge the issue. 'The Evening Telegram' on Monday, reported Mr. Coldwell as saying that:

"Just before his address he had received a note asking him to comment on the current manpower question. As a reply, he said: "If we are going to conscript the lives of our young men, then let industry and wealth be placed on the same altar. We shall continue to demand that if our young men are conscripted, that wealth and industry should also be conscripted."

"A man who claimed to be a veteran of the First Great War, sitting in the first balcony, heckled at this point. He said he had sent the note and wanted a further answer. The hall was momentarily in an uproar. The heckler was shouted down."

The truth of the matter is that neither of the 'outs' are ready to declare that if they were in power they would bring conscription into force. The reason is quite obvious: as it now stands, no party can hold power without a substantial Quebec vote, and no party declaring in favour of conscription, would secure any support from Quebec. The situation is just as plain and simple as that.

V

ANOTHER TRY

The United Nations are going to have another try at a peace organization. They have met and made known their findings, which were achieved at Dumbarton Oaks. The outline of the new peace organization is as follows: There shall be (a) A General Assembly (b) a Security Council. (c) an International Court of Justice, and (d) a Secretariat.

All members of the organization will be members of the General Assembly, and each member of the organization will have one vote. "The General Assembly should meet annually in regular sessions and in such special sessions as occasion may require."

The Security Council is to consist of eleven members. Five of these are to be permanent: The United States of America, The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, The Republic of China, and, in due course, France. The General Assembly will elect the other six members to the Security Council to be elected for a term of two years, three retiring each year and not immediately eligible for re-election.

The International Court of Justice should constitute the principal judicial organ of the organization. To this will be brought matters of international dispute, for pacific settlement.

The Secretariat will consist of the Secretary-General and such staff as may be required. He is the Chief Administrative Officer and will be elected by the General Assembly.

This organization differs from The League of Nations in that the Security Council has immediate functions in the case of necessity. The statement says of this Council: "In order to ensure prompt and effective action by the Organization, members of the organization should by the charter, confer on the Security Council primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security and should agree that in carrying out their duties under this responsibility, it should act on their behalf."

Thus, it appears, that in case of a quick decision being made necessary by the action of some State, the Executive Council could act at once. This is an attempt to put teeth into the organization. It makes it possible to get action quickly, and it throws responsibility for enforcing the peace largely upon the United Nations.

It is to be hoped that this will become law, and that there will be sufficient public opinion behind it to make it work. At any rate, it represents an honest effort to get an organization which will enforce peace in the days that lie ahead.

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS

Twenty-seven years ago last Monday, November 6th, Russia lay in ruins. Her armies had been defeated. She had just concluded a dishonorable treaty. She was still under attack from the South and the East. Her economic life was in chaos. Her heavy industries lay in ruins. To all intents and purposes, it appeared, that Russia need not be reckoned as a factor in international life for a hundred years. And then, the revolution. The Old Regime was swept from office; State Socialism was established. A new way of life was set forth for the whole populace.

In twenty-seven years, the change has been phenomenal. The nation, then seventy-five per cent. illiterate, is now literate. Farming has been established on a sound basis. Industrialization has proceeded with phenomenal speed and efficiency. Raw materials, for generations untouched, have been exploited and used. The social, political and economic structure of the whole State has been broad based on the foundation of the common people.

The Army has been the amazement and the admiration of the whole world. Practically an unknown quantity, in 1930, it has demonstrated its power to outmatch in every way, the brains and the power of the military leaders of the greatest military nation in the world.

Now, on the anniversary of the revolution, Premier Joseph Stalin has made an address, which gives heart to all The United Nations. The achievements of the Army, even when put in cold print, are almost unbelievable. Premier Stalin, in his address, said that thirty German divisions are now cut off from East Prussia, "and are being finished off by our troops." He further said that "As a result of these operations (this year's) up to 120 divisions of Germans and their Allies were defeated and put out of action. Instead of 287 divisions which we faced on our front last year, of which 207 were German, we have facing us now, after all the total and supertotal mobilizations, only 204 German and Hungarian divisions."

Premier Stalin said further, that Germany faces inevitable catastrophe.

The Premier was not overstating the case. Russia has done an amazing job and the Democracies of the West will ever be grateful for her presence among them as a partner in arms. It must not be forgotten, however, that such vast achievements would have been impossible had it not been for the indomitable spirit of the Russian army and people. They have fought with fanatical zeal. This they have done in preservation of their way of life. They are determined to let nothing deprive them of the gains they have made in social living during the past twenty-seven years. They are giving their lives freely that the great experiment will not fail.

Letter Received By Rev., Mrs. Schamehorn From Jerusalem

The following letter was recently received by Rev. and Mrs. Schamehorn, from their son, P.O. G. R. Schamehorn, in the Middle East.

July 4th, 1944.

Dear Dad, Mother and Lois:

I am writing to you from Jerusalem! O all the places I ever expected to see, this was the furthest from my mind, and I have told you before we never know from one day to the next where we are going to be. I am sure that you would give ten years of your life to see what I have seen during the past three days.

It is impossible for me to tell you everything I have seen in a letter or to tell you what sort of impression seeing these things has made on me. However, I shall try to tell you briefly about some of the things I saw and leave the details until I see you.

The old city of Jerusalem is surrounded by a high wall and I think it must be very much like it was in the time of Christ. The new Jerusalem is built outside the wall and in many ways is quite modern.

In the old city I saw the place where Jesus was condemned to death and the pillar where He was scourged by the Roman Soldiers. I saw the three places where He fell carrying the cross to Calvary, also where He met His mother, the Virgin Mary, on the way and where Simon helped Him carry the cross. I was shown the exact place where He was nailed to the cross and where the spot where the cross was fixed as well as those of the two thieves.

Then I went down into His tomb and I must admit that it was a pretty solemn moment for me. There is still a piece of the rock in front of His tomb which was rolled away by the angel.

I went down to the Garden of Gethsemane and saw the stone on which Jesus knelt to pray. There are eight olive trees still there which are believed to have been there at that time, since the olive tree never dies.

I saw the Golden Gate through which Jesus entered on Palm Sunday, also the Mount of Olives from which He ascended to Heaven.

I went up to see the stone from which Abraham was going to offer up Isaac as a sacrifice.

Then I went out to Bethlehem and saw the Holy Manger, and it was well worth seeing. Just outside Bethlehem stands Rachel's tomb.

This afternoon I went to Jericho. I saw the remnants of the old walls which fell. I saw Elisha's fountain which still supplies Jericho with water. I saw the mountain where Jesus was tempted and where He fasted.

Then I went down to the River of Jordan which is nothing more than a muddy creek. I saw the mountains from which Moses saw the Promised Land. Then I had a swim in the Dead Sea which was the saltiest swim I have ever had.

That is a rough story of some of the things I saw. I took dozens of pictures which I hope some day to show you personally.

Right now I haven't more time to spend here but unfortunately I am not here on leave and have to leave also for me since it before Sorry I cannot tell you where I am going but will do so some day. I shall be back at my own station to resume my duties there very soon.

Just before I left I received your letter with the newspaper clippings about Cliff. I know how you must feel and I don't think there is much I can do to help.

I keep wondering how mother is. She has been through so much and there seems to be no end to it. I would dearly trade her for all the mothers in the world.

It is getting late and I am off early in the morning so will say so long again hoping everything is O.K. at home.

All my love,

Garnet.

Dear Mom and Pop:

Well here I am again. I'm fine and just now not having too bad a time. We are camped beside a river and are in swimming most of the time. We also fish, but not the way Milton does, we just toss a couple of grenades and pick up the fish off the top of the water. Jerry dropped a butterfly bomb the other night—it's a big can with five hundred small two-pound bombs and when the bomb is dropped it opens and the small ones scatter. The empty container landed a few feet from my tent and the small bombs burst all around us. The lad sleeping next to me had seven shrapnel holes in his mosquito net, and don't ever thing we didn't get a nose dive into our slit trench. There were no casualties. Since then I've dug my slit trench deeper. Don't worry about me; it is the poor lads in the Infantry to feel sorry for. It is only athlete's feet I have; the heat and dust at the front, make it impossible to look after them. It will be like a big holiday to me as I'll be in with the walking wounded. While I write I'm waiting for a plane so, in a few hours I'll be hundreds of miles from the front, in a place where the war is over.

October 10th. — I'm not allowed to tell you the set-up of this change of address, but I'm back from the hospital and my mail will be going round in a circle until it catches up to me. In the next parcel I send home will be a German flag. My feet are O.K. now, but a lot of patients in the hospital were battle casualties, but they said the feet were as important as anything. I helped the night nurse, as she had plenty of work. I also did a sofa pillow cover in embroidery. I'll send it home for you to finish up. If we don't get 'Jerry' out of here soon we'll be back to the same old muddy grind as in the spring as the dust is inches deep and now the rain is coming.

October 18th. I received your letter of clippings with Bob Templeton's picture. I guess the boys in France are having it tough, but things are really tough over here. Old 'Jerry' is putting up a real fight for every inch of ground. The mud is terrible and we know we are in for a tough winter. Turn to look at the map and you will see we are not about as far north as you are and will be seeing snow often enough, but we will be home some of these years.

Has Milton left Canada yet? I was going to send him a souvenir of Germany, but will wait until I come myself.

I received your Christmas parcel of October 1943, one year ago, last week. It had been all over the Canadian Army Everything was okay except the butter was spoiled. The fruit cake was real good. About the Italians you ask. The better class are the same as ourselves, much different from those in Southern Italy. They dress well and the material in the clothing is the same as at home. Rome is like any other big city in America and much nicer and cleaner than London.

Write soon and don't worry about me, please.

Love to all.

Charlie.

BLOOD DONORS STILL NEEDED

From Toronto 'Globe & Mail' October 13th, 1944.

The boys in the front line have not quit fighting and it will be a pity if Canadians on the home front withdraw any of their support from the war effort. Unfortunately, there are signs that too many people are becoming apathetic believing that all is over but the cheering. For example, there has been a noticeable decline in the number of blood donors since the reconquest of France. Officials of the Canadian Red Cross deplore this and point out that there will be some hard fighting before Germany throws up the sponge. The determined resistance of the Nazis at Arnhem proves that they have plenty of fight left in them.

So the need for Blood Donors is as great as ever. The fact is that supplies in Canada have been greatly reduced by large shipments overseas. Canadian blood was urgently needed in Britain to save the lives of robot victims, and in France and Belgium, for men wounded on the battlefield. Moreover, there will be no interval before a call for blood donors after the war. After the declaration of peace may boys will still be in hospital.

The Armed Forces themselves have set a worthy example for civilians. As Canadian units were waiting to take their places in the front line in Normandy an appeal was made at a medical centre in Southern England for 2,000 blood donors. Within 28 hours 2,512 Canadians awaiting their call to France had given their blood for wounded comrades who fell in the invasion of Normandy.

The Canadian Red Cross requires 25,000 blood donors each week. Giving blood to save the lives of soldiers is a duty and a privilege.

Next Blood Donor Clinic in Napanee, will be on THURSDAY NOVEMBER 16.

THE NEW PEOPLE

BY COL. WALTER ELLIT

Engines, money, land are only tools. A nation stands or falls by the vigour of the people who stoke the engines, and spend the money, and till the land. The people of this land have had a mighty hardening and hammering in the past five years. What will come out of it?

Confidence will come out of it! Confidence may degenerate into complacency, but it is the foundation and the certain sign of all gigantic effort.

The men who ran Durham Cathedral to the sky in a riverloop in the rainy north in 40 years endless effort had no quaver of indecision from start to finish; they can read their minds from their huge pillars, their heavy arches, their soaring towers.

So with the great outlines of Westminster Hall, which Londoners pass every day. "This hall is too big," said Rufus's advisers as they saw it begin to rise from the mud of Thamesside. "The only fault about this hall is that it is too small," said Rufus, "and by God it is but an ante-chamber to the hall I am going to build."

These men had been forged between the hammer and the anvil, between the Norman Conquest and the resistance of England. That hammering built a New People and confidence burnt in it like a bonfire.

Once a man was asked: "Why did the French fall in 1940? They had mountains of shells, swarms of tanks, millions of men," . . . and he answered: "Because they thought they couldn't do it." The tools were there, many of them; far more than they had four years later in the Maquis. But, behind the will, they could not begin, far less, finish the job.

The job of war is nearly done. The job of peace looms up before us. Confidence is there. It will all be needed before we lay off from the new schedules. But there it is, one of the hallmarks of The New People.

Toughness will come out of it. The first lesson of the war was the enormous value of physical unfitness which had to be cleared before the machine-age got itself physically tough again.

It was not in six months, or even in a year, that this could be accomplished. The whole problem of physical education fell down the crack; fifty years ago between the coming of the tramcar and the discovery of the bike's saddle.

It was not a problem at all long ago. A peasant does not "take exercise"—he looks with the utmost contempt upon those who do. He gets his exercise, as he gets his breath, without worrying about it, between daybreak and sunset all the days of the years. So with all those who engage in hard physical toil.

But they are a minority and a dwindling minority. Ever since we began to replace our muscles by electricity and steel.

The fibre of the race is perfectly sound. It can toughen and toughen to an undreamt extent. Lawrence of Arabia knew this. Orde Gingate of Burma knew this.

Lawrence, looking at a group of British recruits, soft pink and white Western men, said: "Out of these I knew could be picked a group who would outlast Jezdars, and outsuffer in their own desert any Arab of all Feisal's men."

Wavell, and later Montgomery, proved that true of an army, and Orde Wingate let Britons of no superman election or descent into the jungles of Burma to drink rainwater, to catch and eat pythons, to signal to the sky for an eye-glass when they wanted one and to catch it or go without.

And to beat the Japs at their own game they came out skin and bone indeed, but walking over the bellies of their conquerors.

I do not mean that these desperate heights of endurance are necessary, or even desirable, for everyday men. But gun-layers aim to overshoot their mark as well as undershoot it when they close the bracket and smash the target dead.

If a man has once been fit he remembers it all his life-long whether he seeks to recapture it or no. A man who has been through one of the modern assault courses, for instance, has a conception of what he can do after going through one who in the straitened surroundings of our city times has never gone over the obstacles more difficult than the bus stop to the Palais de Danse.

Lastly — and the marriage of this with their other qualities will be the real touchstone of the success or failure — The New People will know humility.

Every man knows what a hair's breadth separated us from the full rigor of the test under which so many other peoples went down. Every man hopes and believes in his heart that if that full test had come upon us we unlike many others, would have borne the strain.

But none can be certain, dead certain; and no one can repeat fullthroated the Pharisee's prayer and thank God that he is not as other men are.

A further circumstance compels humility. The New People saw in their lifetime, or heard from their elders, that war with a smashing victory to end it, only 25 years ago, ran on into a sort of stalemate. This is why many of the confident certainties of hostilities disappeared.

Other men in time as other men in spite endured great suffering, passed through great tribulation, and yet won to no triumphant other world at the end. It humility leads to true fear, which is the beginning of wisdom and the absence of over-weeningness (what the Greeks called 'hubus'—insolence), then all will be well.

If it merely leads to a mocking self-distrust; to the questioning of the use of anything; to the moviin-basement last word in cynical comment: "This is where we came in"—then the high hopes of The New People will end in frustration.

But we may take comfort in the fact that all the great ages have had their cynics and their doubters' The Elizabethan Greeks also knew despair and made of it the very material on which to rise to greater heights.

"Courage, my heart; thou hast known yet harder things," said Ulysses as he went down into Hell: and he poured the blood and called the spirits and came out of it for all that, back to the sunlight, back to the sea, and back to his own home from which he had wandered so long.

"And I looked and there was none to help; and I wondered that there was none to uphold; therefore, by own arm brought salvation unto me; and my fury it upheld me."

And there is one thing that completes that tremendous sentence. It is the slashing phrase of the psalms and fighting man King David. "Thy right hand shall teach thee — terrible things."

Terrible things indeed The New People have learnt: but with them they have brought the future.

From Father Confessor To Therapeutic Genius

BY GILL ROBB WILSON

Air power is a composite of many skills, professions and sciences. Some of them deal with machines and some with men. Aviation medicine sounds like a dry and technical subject. But nothing in the entire realm of aviation is more packed with drama and human interest.

The pure pill shooter is about as much use around a fighting outfit as a squirt gun, but a real flight surgeon who knows men as well as medicine is worth his weight in ammunition to any crewman.

I've done a lot of hangar flying with surgeons of fighting squadrons and developed an unlimited admiration for many of them. They are usually older than the boys who fly the planes and have had more experience at the sheer business of living. This counts mightily in their job of keeping not only the body but the mind of the combat airman healthy.

Smart squadron commanders lean heavily on their flight surgeons. The skipper is likely to be no older than the man he commands and has been chosen because of his leadership aloft. Administrative problems which deal with the vagaries of various personalities are beyond the youngster's range of experience. The flight surgeon can take this burden off his hands.

For example, let's take Joe Smith. Joe is a bombadier with 82 missions to his credit, and the sharp shooter of the outfit. He's what is called a lead bombardier. There are others coming along, but Joe is tops. The entire gang goes out with superb confidence when Joe is riding the nose of the lead plane in the bombing formation.

A string of tough targets is handed the squadron. If Joe can stand a few additional missions it will mean everything to the outfit. But Joe is a war-weary boy and the young squadron commander feels conscience stricken about asking him to do anything more. So he sends for the flight surgeon.

"What about Joe Smith? He's our best man and we sorely need him just now, but I'm not going to extract the last, nor even the next to the last mission out of any man. We'll sending Joe out be unfair. Look into it and let me know."

And now the flight surgeon has a devilish job on his hands. On one hand is the problem of the squadron's need and on the other hand fairness to Joe. He knows Joe is physically fit enough to carry out a few more raids. But what about the boy's mental condition. Will additional raids break his nerves and perhaps leave him a wreck for the rest of his life. No mere sawbones can answer that one. The flight surgeon has to have something of the great physician about him to make the right decision.

Sometimes the answer is one way and sometimes another, but I can tell you consideration of Joe is always the deciding factor. It is the sort of thing which holds an army together.

Each individual air man has a different capacity to endure the missions. One may have a limit of his effectiveness at 25 sorties. Another may be able to go 90 missions and still be highly effective against the enemy. It is no number of missions which can be called the optimum determinator for all crewmen. It is up to the flight surgeon to find out which man is superb and which man is jaded and relieve him before he reaches breakdown.

Invariably the human element in the surgeon's judgement is weighed against a man to give him the benefit of doubt. A boy was grounded after one of the toughest jobs with a combat outfit and a newcomer as surgeon to steer a course. Whereupon the boy protested the grounding as unfair. Following his removal from the job on the basis that he was unable to associate with the others.

I have had in mind for some time one of the toughest jobs with a combat outfit and that is the job of selecting the right men for the job. Not only must they be physically fit, but they must have the right mental attitude. In one squadron I visited a certain bomber boy was grounded after a number of missions and a newcomer assigned

Dorland, Nov. 4 — Everyone has been enjoying the balmy weather; flowers blooming quite like summer time but the rain falling today may usher in a lower temperature. The rain is welcome, as farmers are having difficulty finishing their plowing and a shortage of water is reported on a few farms.

The autumn supper, sponsored by the Women's Association, in the United Church on Friday evening, was a success. Several car loads were present from both Napanee and Picton as well as from various rural places. After enjoying a generous supper the audience was entertained in the upper part of the church by beautiful colored slides through the kindness of Mr. Buchanan, of Napanee. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Buchanan, Rev. K. J. Crawford handled the lantern.

Mrs. S. J. Simmons entertained a well attended meeting of the W. M. S. Auxiliary at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

Pte. Arnold Brooks is spending a leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks.

Mr. Mac Remington, who has been maker in the U. E. L. Cheese Factory for some years, has tendered his resignation, having purchased Newburgh factory. He with his family will be moving from our midst the end of this month.

Miss Joy Mayne, Deseronto Road, is the guest of Miss Lilien Carr.

An aged resident of the locality passed away suddenly on Wednesday, when Mr. Joseph Vance died while seated in his chair.

Miss D. Hawley quietly observed her 90th birthday on October 31st.

Mrs. G. W. Hawley, of Port Erie, is the guest of Mrs. G. A. Smith.

ERINSVILLE

Erinsville, Nov. 3. — During the past week we have had unusually fine weather, but lack of rain is causing much concern. Wells and cisterns have gone dry and farmers are obliged to draw water or drive their stock some distance.

Mrs. Marcella Parrell, widow of the late John Parrell, died at her home near Marlbank. She was in her 80th year, and a life long member of this parish. She leaves a large family to mourn the death of a devoted mother.

News has come announcing the death of Michael Reilly, of Saskatchewan. He was a brother of Mrs. Daniel Quinn and Wm. Reilly, of this place, and made an extended visit to his friends here during the summer.

Sheep killing dogs, roaming at large are causing much worry among the farmers who pursue this important industry. Their flocks have been visited and revisited by these marauders, and considerable damage and much loss have been sustained.

Mr. John Hanley and Mr. Michael Tureen are patients in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

The cheese factories in the vicinity have closed for the season.

The hunting season has opened and great numbers have gone north for the hunt.

MARLBANK

On Monday evening, October 23rd, Mr. Albert Pennell entertained a few friends at a family dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dowdle (Beverley Pennell). Later in the evening between 65 and 70 friends gathered to charivari the young couple. After refreshments, the rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

On Thursday evening, October 26, over 200 relatives and friends gathered at Marlbank Hall to present Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dowdle (Beverley Pennell) with a variety shower. The evening was spent in dancing. The bride and groom received many beautiful gifts.

On Tuesday evening, October 31st, over 100 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dowdle (Beverley Pennell, Newburgh, and presented the newly wedded couple with a kitchen shower. Many useful and lovely gifts were received.

SELBY

Selby, Nov. 5. — Rev. W. R. and Mrs. Merrick were entertained to dinner on Wednesday, the guests of Mrs. Charles Wilson, Napanee.

The homes in the village received many guests on Tuesday evening in Hallowe'en masquerade.

Mr. Robert and Swayne McCormick have returned from their trip to the west.

The residence of Gerald Wood is being renovated.

A number of hunters will be leaving the district this week for the north country.

Keith Gourlie, of Oshawa, visited his parents on his week end leave.

Donald McLeod was a week end guest at the home of Arthur McLeod.

Miss Myrtle Coolidge has returned home from Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Russell were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Winter, Empey Hill, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirk and Mr. and Mrs. John Chambers were dinner guests one day this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fitzpatrick, on the occasion of Mr. Fitzpatrick's birthday.

There was a baptismal service at the evening worship service for the following children: Wanda Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Booth, four generations of Mrs. Booth's family being present at the service; Glen Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Taverner (grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Race); David Glen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, of Kingston (grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McKnight).

Rev. W. R. and Mrs. Merrick attended the pot luck supper at Empey Hill on Tuesday.

GRACE CHURCH W. M. S.

The November meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was held in the Sunday School room with a good attendance, Thursday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Miss Mata Mellow, Mrs. C. D. McLellan presided for the opening and business period. Mrs. S. Booth assisted in the opening. Mrs. C. Dennison acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Valleau.

The Community Friendship secretary's report was given and a number of calls had been made. It was decided to buy 25 copies of World Friends to be used for the children.

Mrs. Harold Dupre had charge of the worship period and was assisted by Mrs. Delbert Winter and Mrs. A. Lewis. A vocal duet was sung by Mrs. F. Tompkins and Mrs. G. Ungar. Miss Hazel VanAlstine gave the chapter in the study book, which was very interesting. The offering was dedicated by Mrs. C. Dennison.

The National Geographic relates that when one of the Pan American Clippers was starting for Hawaii, a steward asked a lady passenger if he might put away her coat. No thank you, she said. I'll be needing it later when I go out on the promenade deck.

HOW AN ACTIVE SOLDIER FEELS ABOUT THE WAR

The following is a part of a letter received from Corporal Earl W. Stratton, now serving in Holland, with the Royal Canadian Engineers, and is a true personal experience.

Corpl. Stratton visited a home in Holland one evening, for a cup of tea and this is his experience.

It was just an ordinary Dutch family in any city that has been under German rule. There were the husband and wife, and six children between the ages of six weeks and nineteen years. They lived in a place not too dangerous, but bad enough, about half a mile from an important bridge, and on the second floor of a four-storey brick house. They live close to the German border and that's where the Allies would like to go through. To take this place the Allies must first drop paratroops to take the objective. When they do this 'Jerry' puts up a terribly stiff fight, and quite a number of paratroops are killed and wounded. They need help and are out on their own away from the main army.

In this family are two girls, eighteen and nineteen, and they do all they can to help. The father takes a rifle and helmet and joins the 'scrap.' At last Jerry is driven back and the main Allied Army drives its spearhead in and beyond the town. All the people in the town, including this family are overjoyed and can't do enough for the boys in uniform. At last they are freed from the 'Jerries' who have brought hell to about the swellest people on earth. No more will the 'Jerries'—savages—parade the streets shooting innocent civilians; no longer will they take the able-bodied men to work in their factories; no longer will they make slaves of the girls and women.

Some of the people did co-operate with the Nazis, and those who did can be seen paraded up and down the streets at the point of a rifle.

The rifle by the way, isn't in the hands of an Allied soldier in uniform, but in the hands of a member of the Dutch resistance movement. They are the ones who fought on even though, at times, they thought it was a losing battle. They are the ones whom 'Jerry' thought to crush—but that can never be done to a free nation. They who thought the Allies would never reach them.

Now the Allies have the town, the collaborators are rounded up, but 'Jerry' still isn't too far away.

Out of the blue heaven come two or three 88 m.m. shells. They land smack in the centre of a busy street. A dozen or more 'Civies' are wounded or killed. Does that stop the civilians from their work? Not at all. Their face stiffens and they work harder for peace and security. They love freedom and want Jerry to be crushed.

Let's go back to the family again. 'Jerry' has been trying hard to get this objective that has been taken from him and it's near their home. By getting it he figures to slow the Allied advance. All his shelling has been in vain. It tended to be very annoying, but that's all. Next, he tries sending bombers over, although it seems to be suicide for them to come near because of Allied fighters and anti-aircraft guns. At last, one does break through, and with a great roar dives at the bridge. He misses it and the bomb lands close to this family's home. So close that the house next door and the one across the street fell in ruins. Their house is badly shaken and nearly all the windows are knocked out, due to the blast.

What is happening to the family inside the house, all this time? Well, when the anti - aircraft guns first open up, everyone looks up but there is no confusion. There isn't time to get to a shelter, so they do what they think best, get close under some solid part of the house. The mother has the tiny babe in her arms, feeding it when the guns open up. Now, let's look at the faces as the bomb comes screaming through the air. Everyone looks terribly worried and indeed, they should be; all except the baby and she looks so quiet and peaceful, not realizing that German hirelers are sowing death and destruction all around. The younger children cling close to their mother, trying to hide their faces. The two older ones are frightened, but don't show it so much. On the face of the eldest, their isn't fear as much as hatred for the Nazis. She is surprisingly calm. As Wellington once said: "With an army of such soldiers I could conquer the world." That can well be said in this case. If every soldier and every man in the free countries of the world had as much 'guts' as she has, 'Germany and most of all Nazism would be wiped from the face of the earth before now.

All this time, the father, who has been helping the paratroops, is also an air raid warden and is standing by with his steel helmet and overcoat on and looking very worried, mostly for his family. When the bomb finally does explode, there is a deafening roar as buildings collapse and the windows and doors of their home are blown clear. When it is over everyone breathes a sigh of relief and thanks God above that the home of this innocent family has not collapsed. Now, everything but bedding and prepare to move to an air-raid shelter for the night. When the father returns he reports that there were no casualties in the vicinity, but that's no thanks to Jerry. Everyone is now ready to go to the shelter so with mattresses and their arms and baby in the pram they start out. They must hurry because Jerry may return and intends to rain more death upon these innocent people.

The trip to the shelter is made without mishap. In fact it is nearly an hour before the 'human monster' returns. By this time they are in the shelter, which is very crowded with other poor people like themselves, whom the Germans have driven from their homes. We will leave them there for the night and return the next morning to see how they are and if anything is needed.

You ask them how they slept, and this, perhaps is the answer. "Not very well because we were so crowded, but we'll get along. That is about all they say, but you can see the dark lines under their eyes. They didn't get much sleep that is sure, but they don't kick about it. They live on in hopes that the other people of the world who know nothing about war and how some people are made to suffer will help them in their fight of need. Some of the help we have, but there are still thousands more. If there was ever a time when men wanted to put differences aside it is now.

I know a great deal is being done in Canada to help win this war and all the burden these courageous people have been carrying by themselves during these years, under Nazi rule. I'd like to tell every free man in Canada and the rest of the world to join active and help the boys finish the job. If I had had to give my life for this great cause we are fighting for I would have been only too proud to be in that house last night. My fate is off to this family and all others who have lived, and died so bravely under the Germans.

To me this is a personal war, in which everyone else finds it also personal. If everyone felt that way, and anyone who has been over here does the war would soon end.

If some of the 'Zombies' could read this letter, they would either crawl in their hole and stay there or else strike for Berlin, via active service.

This is the longest letter I have written to you and it is to YOU, but I'd like ALL Canada to read it.

Bye-bye for now and write soon.

With love,

EARL.

BATH

Bath, Nov. 4 — An impromptu supper was served in the Parish Hall, Bath, on Saturday night, November 4th, in honor of the rector, Rev. L. G. O. Walker, who was celebrating a birthday. About 90 or more members of his congregation and a few personal friends were present. The tables were laden with good things to eat, including a birthday cake, which was cut and served to each one present. Happy birthday was sung, after which all joined in saying Grace. At the close of supper an address was read by Mr. B. H. Morrow, the People's Warden, and a purse of $35.00 was presented to the rector. It so happened that Mr. H. D. Wemp had a birthday the same day, and good wishes and a birthday cake were passed on to him during the evening.

The No. 1 Co. of Bath Girl Guides attended St. John's Church on Sunday morning, and the United Church on Sunday evening. Miss Burns deserves much credit for organizing and maintaining this group.

A large number of friends and relatives gathered in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening to extend good wishes and spend a short time with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bermingham (nee Jennie Cooper). The presents were many and beautiful. The groom thanked everyone for their gifts and dancing followed for an hour or so.

The benedicts of the village are busy again, planning a big drive in aid of the War Workers' funds. Watch for the dates.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Nov. 6.—A very successful tea and sale, sponsored by the W. A. of the United Church, was held on Thursday afternoon. A goodly number were present and the sale was opened by Rev. W. G. Fletcher, of Yarker. The financial results were very gratifying, and a delicious tea was served by those in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hinch, of Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Hinch for a few days.

Mrs. P. Fraser, of Kingston, spent the week end with her friend, Mrs. F. Hanaghan.

A dinner party was held on Thursday evening for Mrs. E. Williams, who was celebrating her birthday.

Miss E. Yourex, of Toronto, spent the week end at her home here. On her return she was accompanied by her mother, who will spend the winter in Toronto.

Mrs. Annie Hinch has gone to Toronto to spend the winter with her children, Mrs. Bache and Arthur Hinch.

Mrs. Fred Lloyd is spending a few days in Toronto and Port Credit.

Gnr. Blake Rogers is visiting his sisters and brothers in Toronto for a few days.

O Canada, We Stand on Guard for Thee

More than words to us ... This has become the fighting spirit of all Canadians.

This has inspired us to sacrifices, to equal those of our Armed Forces.

Our Government now asks only that we loan from our savings an amount to carry on.

Our fighting forces have greater protection when fully equipped.

We cannot live on food consumed last year.

They cannot fight with ammunition fired last year.

We Must Go On Buying Victory Bonds!

We must plow to the end of the furrow.

We have not reached there yet!

VICTORY LOAN PRESENTATION HUGE SUCCESS

1400 People Pack Armouries for Outstanding Theatrical Presentation.

Massey-Harris Company, Limited, have done it again! For the third time since the outbreak of the war this Company has put a Revue on the road, especially designed for the Armed Forces. On each occasion the presentation has bettered its predecessor. This year's show "Combines of 1945" was played to a civilian audience of 1400 people in Napanee Armouries on Wednesday evening. This was one of a few performances on behalf of the Seventh Victory Loan that this troupe will play. It was entirely new, and was highlighted by a vivacious chorus of beauties. Their dance routines were something to behold. Precision was the keynote one would think that the chorus had worked together for countless performances by their actions, whereas this was the third time the new "Combines" have appeared. Much credit is due to Mr. Jack Lemen, Dance Director, who trained the chorus. The wardrobe scintillated with colors, which showed up particularly well under the colored spot-lights. These costumes were the creative art of Mrs. Nellie Sheppard. In the chorus in order of appearance were Misses June Huenergardt, Elsie Woodend, Marg. Munrle. Romona Hodgins, Shirley Alexander, Evelyn Harris, Wilda Coeburn, Norma Smith and Lillian Courage. Mr. Joe Murphy acted as Master of Ceremonies, and was comedian par excellent. His impersonations were a decided hit. Miss Dorothy Temperton gave a grand vocal rendition of "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Through the Years." Mr. Henry Klees favoured the audience with a well played selection on his piano accordion.

The Dance Team of Ronnie and Darlene Mitchell drew rounds of applause by both their serious ballroom and comedy styles. Their number "The Skaters' Waltz" was outstanding. Mr. Charles Austerbury, a basso with a real voice, helped the show along with his excellent singing.

Lillian Courage was a knockout with her song and dance routine. Her feature number was centered around the song hit "Arthur Murray Taught Me Dancing in a Hurry."

Mr. Cecil Irwin, one-armed concert pianist, was exceptional. If one closed one's eyes while listening to his music one would never realize but that he played with both hands.

The large crowd really showed enthusiasm in their reception of Miss Gwen Griffiths who played an xylophone. She was applauded over and over again and her encores were much appreciated.

The show was produced by Mr. F. N. Sheppard, and he deserves credit for a difficult job very well done.

The show was sponsored by the Lions' and Rotary Clubs of Napanee, and was presented on behalf of the Seventh Victory Loan in the County of Lennox and Addington. It was donated free of charge by the Massey-Harris Company, Limited. Tickets were sold at 25 cents each. Net profits are to be used by the Service Clubs in Napanee to further their good social work.

The "Combine Orchestra" played throughout the performance. They were very good. Ernie Goode was at the piano. Dick Ward played the saxaphone and Herb Bell, a former Napanee boy, at the drums.

Dr. D. R. Hall Chairman of the County National War Finance Committee, opened the proceedings with a brief message on the progress of the Victory Loan in Lennox and Addington.

FIVE MILLION DEAD

The Chinese Army suffered a total of 2,802,220 casualties during the seven-year period from July 7, 1937 to June 30, 1944 according to figures released by the Board of Military Operations of the National Military Council.

The heaviest toll was taken in 1938 when the Chinese forces suffered 735,417 casualties. This more than doubled the casualties for the first six months of the war from July 7 to December 31, 1937, which were given as 366,382. An abrupt drop to 341,543 was registered in 1939, followed by another increase to 673,386 in 1940. From there on, the grade showed a steadily downward trend: 282,169 in 1941, 246,390 in 1942 and 87,113 in 1943.

The number of casualties for the six-month period from January 1 to June 30, 1944, was estimated at 69,820. Casualties for the months of January, February and March when the China front was comparatively quiet were respectively 1,446, 1,210 and 1,127. With the Japanese invasion of central Honan in April and later that of Hupeh and Hunan, casualties for April, May and June rose to 26,706, 19,551 and 19,780 respectively.

No accurate statistics as to the number of civilian casualties are obtainable. Reports from the National Relief Commission give the number of air raid casualties as 181,977. Of this number, 179,955 casualties including 70,403 killed and 109,552 wounded were reported during the period from June 1938, to the end of 1941, and 2,022 casualties including 865 killed and 1,167 wounded were reported from July 1943 to March 1944. These casualties were limited to cases handled by the National Relief Commission which maintains emergency joint offices for air raid relief in various centres of Free China. The actual air raid casualties list must have been a much longer one.

The Japanese at the end of May, 1944, had incurred a total of 2,144,00 army casualties in the China front, besides 600,000 suffered by their garrisons, supply and transport units in the rear, according to the Board of Military Operations of the Chinese National Military Council. The estimated total does not include the enemy killed and wounded in the current Hunan campaign, during which the Japanese lost 27,000 men in the siege of Hengyang alone.

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

The weekly meeting of the First Napanee Troup was held Tuesday October 31st. While B. Troup had games, Troup Leader Werke Poole gave A Troup a talk on the first Scout Law. A troup then joined in games and B Troup discussed the first Scout Law. Then both Troups went to patrol corners.

-:-

The colour of the hockey sweaters was decided. A Troup sweaters are gold and green; B Troup sweaters are maroon and grey.

-:-

During the meeting an interesting ceremony took place in which Charles Schewman and Bob McCrear were invested into the Troup. Two second class badges and some proficiency badges were awarded.

-:-

The Honour Patrol was given to the Fox Patrol, after a very close race for the honour. The meeting closed by breaking the Flag and singing 'O Canada.'

CALLUPS SHORT OF QUOTAS FOR COMP. SERVICE

Ottawa, (CP.)—Callups for compulsory military service are lagging behind quotas set by the Defense Department, it was learned today.

While no official figures have been made public it is known that the quota of 5,000 men a month, set for the present fiscal year, is not being met. Some relief has been provided Clubs and Naturene to further their good social work.

The "Combine Orchestra" played throughout the performance. They were very good. Ernie Goode was at the piano. Dick Ward played the saxaphone and Herb Bell, a former Napanee boy, at the drums.

Dr. D. R. Hall Chairman of the County National War Finance Committee, opened the proceedings with a brief message on the progress of the Victory Loan in Lennox and Addington.

JAP TREATMENT OF WAR PRISONERS

BY PETER EDSON

The story of the 20,000 American soldiers and civilians held captive by the Japanese makes one of the blackest chapters in the history of the war.

There are still some 2,000 to 3,000 missing from the Bataan group. No Philipinos have ever been reported to this country. The Japs claiming that is none of our business. Since last March, the Japs have reported the names of only 62 captured Americans, but there have been propaganda broadcasts of messages to next of kin from 1,000 American soldiers, sailors and marines not yet reported as captured. Deaths have been reported two years after they occurred.

From most of the Japanese prison camps, the Americans may send home only one post card or one letter a year. From a few of the show camps the number may be three or four messages a year, but that is a maximum. Some of these messages have been two or three years on the way. The last batch of mail was received in August. It had been started on its way in February, coming overland across Siberia, Russia, Iran, Egypt and thence across the Mediterranean and Atlantic. In the whole three years of the war, there have been only three large prisoner mails from Japan.

Still worse than the mail situation however, is inability to get adequate medicines, clothing and food supplies to the inmates of the Jap camps. For two years the United States Department of State, the Red Cross and the Swiss government acting as the neutral protecting power in representing American interests, have tried to find some formula for shipping in relief supplies acceptable to the Japanese. But every proposal meets with the diplomatic stall and run-around.

The way matters stand now, 2,000 tons of relief supplies have been shipped overland across Siberia to Vladivostok. The Russians have agreed to transfer the supplies to a port south of Vladivostok, where the Japs tentatively have agreed to pick them up. But—they haven't done it yet! These negotiations have been going on since March, 1943. To proposals that medicines be sent in by air, the Japs made no answer whatever.

In the summer of 1942 the United States chartered a neutral vessel to carry in supplies for prisoners of war relief, but the Japs refused to give it safe conduct to move in Japanese waters and furthermore indicated they would not send one of their own ships to a neutral port. The Japs will permit the international Red Cross to administer relief only in Hong Kong and parts of Japan-occupied China, but not in Japan the Philippines, Malays or the Dutch East Indies.

In the face of this stalemate the only relief supplies which have been forced through Japanese red tape were shipments on the two voyages of the Gripsholm in 1942 and 1943 for the exchange of some 2500 civilian nationals. Assurances have been given that these supplies were distributed by the Japs to their prisoners but all efforts to arrange for further exchanges of personnel have met with Japanese refusals to even discuss the subject.

Japan's diplomatic out for all this bad behaviour is that her government did not ratify the Geneva convention of 1929, relative to the treatment of prisoners of war. At the outbreak of the war, however, the United States Government obtained assurances from the Japanese that they would apply the principles set forth in the convention to the treatment of its American captives and to American civilian internees. How well the Japs have lived up to these assurances are best shown by the record.

Representatives of the Swiss Government and the International Red Cross have been permitted to visit only a few of the camps at which Americans are held prisoner. Location of some eight or ten of the camps is not even known. The best reports on conditions in the camps have come from first hand accounts related by the repatriated civilians brought back on the two voyages of the Gripsholm.

BELGIAN RESISTANCE

The following article from the Swedish paper Nya Dagligt is of interest as showing the great resistance of the Belgians to the German invaders.

The German methods of keeping the occupied countries in check vary from one case to another. In certain countries Quisling Governments have been formed. This is the case in Norway and to a certain extent in Holland, Croatia, Serbia and Greece. In other countries, again, the Germans have tried to keep up the greatest possible illusion of legality in their activity in collaboration with the official Government, as they have done in France, Denmark and possibly Hungary as well. Special measures have been applied in Austria and Czechoslovakia, the first of which is considered as altogether German and the second as an integral part of Germany. In Poland the S.S. formations and the Gestapo have absolute power, in Northern Italy Mussolini, whose death seems to be near is living a shadowy life with his ex-fascists.

"In Belgium the Germans were ruling by means of a military Government under the direction of General von Falkenhausen. The higher administrative posts were generally entrusted to Germans or to Belgian collaborators but for the subordinate posts the Germans depended practically entirely on Belgian employees sympathetic with the Third Reich' may be described as 'very cool.'

"Except for Denmark and Poland, Belgium is the only occupied country in which the Germans have not been able to find a usable Quisling. Certainly there do exist in this country as in Poland, some collaborationists and sitters on the fence, but even the Germans, notorious for their lack of psychological insight, have not ventured to make use of the Rexist leader, Degrelle, who eight years ago caused such a stir in the country. This person of evil reputation is in Belgium presented as a friend with the insignificant Belgian Legion.

"The daily struggle carried on in Belgium presented three aspects; the struggle on the moral plane, the labor struggle and the struggle in the administration. The Germans began by trying to impress the Belgians with their invincibility. But the Belgians, who endured a German occupation for several years during the last war soon plucked up courage. They have compared the Battle of the Marne with the Battle of Britain ,the torpedoing of the Bismarck with that of von Spee's squadron near the Falkland Islands, and the victories in the Near East with Allenby's campaigns. And the ruses which they learned under the guidance of men like Burgomaster Max of Brussels, one of the almost legendary figures of the last German occupation, have been very useful to them.

"If at the beginning the German propaganda made a certain impression in Belgium, we can maintain that now it is the Belgian clandestine press which made a certain impression upon the German troops of occupation. These latter are guilty of rather bad quality and this is particularly true of the auxiliary Asiatic, Czechoslovak and the Polish troops.

"Up to October, 1942, about 550,000 Belgian workers had been sent to Germany, and the figure has gone up considerably since then. But it is impossible to give exact figures on the subject.

"In connection with the total mobilization in Germany, the German need of labour became enormously but the Belgian resistance stiffened in the same degree. According to a report from Charleroi, published on March 13th, 1944, out of 150 young people who had received their deportation order, only nine turned up at the meeting place. The workers who took to the woods caused great difficulties to the occupying authorities."

"They carried out acts of sabotage and terror, they stole ration books and identity cards. The power of the Gestapo is, after all, limited, and even if a large number of workmen were tortured or killed, the secret army grew day by day. The Quisling papers were full of notices of sabotage and acts of violence which showed clearly that the life of Quislings was at least as disagreeable in Belgium as in other countries, often more so.

"As regards the Administration, the patriots have good opportunities of hindering the German activity. It is true that the Germans have taken precautions. They suppressed certain communal bodies, and Quislings were appointed to keep watch on the patriots. But, as in other fields the shortage of labor thwarted the Germans and the Belgians themselves declare with pride that there is no other occupied country where the clique of Quislings was as small as it has been in Belgium."

LIVING ON WATER BEHIND ENEMY LINES

One of the most fantastic stories from the fantastic war in New Guinea is told by Flying-Officer Graetz, of the Royal Australian Air Force, who was shot down into the sea near Wewak.

Briefly here are his adventures:—

He was shot at in the water, but got ashore and hid in the jungle.

That night he raided a clothing dump and dressed himself in Japanese uniform, but could find no boots.

Next night he went to an airstrip littered with wrecked planes, tore the silk out of a parachute, rolled himself in it and lay down to sleep under the wing of a damaged plane. Two guards strolled past, but did not see him.

During the next few days he went to lorry parks and disabled several by damaging the distributors.

He saw an anti-aircraft gun temporarily unattended and poured sand down the barrel and over the breech mechanism.

He lay down to sleep under a tree only to find that two Japanese were sleeping on the other side of it.

Allied bombers strafed the area but he escaped injury.

Along the trails he met Japanese, but when they spoke to him he grunted and kept walking.

He stumbled on a party building a bridge. They called out to him, but he waved and kept walking.

Face to face with another party of the enemy on the trail as he held his head down, put his hand to his face as if in great pain and kept walking.

Aircabobras came over and he signalled to them. They waggled their wings and he made for the beach.

American patrol boats came and were fired on. Machine-guns silenced a Japanese patrol and then took him off.

During the eight days he was behind the Japanese lines he had no food. Water kept him going.

WILL DEMOBILIZE FIREFIGHTERS SERVING OVERSEAS

Ottawa, C.P.— National War Services Department announces plans to demobilize the civilian corps of Canadian Firefighters overseas.

Present strength of the corps is 1,500. The first group will leave the United Kingdom shortly and others will follow at brief intervals as stations are closed.

The announcement said conditions no longer made it necessary to maintain the corps as protection against enemy attacks and while some had volunteered for service with a special contingent to serve on the continent there was insufficient ground for them to remain overseas.

About two-thirds of the corps were firefighters in civilian life and it is expected their overseas experience will prove beneficial when they return to their communities. British authorities have arranged farewell ceremonies to express appreciation of the contribution the corps has made to the defense of the United Kingdom.

PLAN POST WAR BATHROOMS NOW

Now is the time for all householders who plan improvements and additions to their present plumbing or who plan to build new homes to get down on paper exactly what they propose to have in the way of plumbing facilities, suggests a bulletin of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

Apart from minor accessories the general construction of bathroom equipment is not expected to change to any appreciable degree, points out the Institute. Dreams of plastics and plywoods and glass as substitutes for traditional materials are far from realization because such new materials lack the year-in, year-out wearing qualities that home owners have a right to expect in their bathroom fixtures. Thus while the design of bathrooms may change architectually to fit the fashion of the day, the design of the fixtures and the materials used in them will remain fairly constant. The man or woman who plans the post war bathroom is safe to go ahead with such planning now, safe in the knowledge that no new gadget is going to outmode such plans.

And, because certain fixtures may be scarce for some time after the war, it is well to get the plans made now and even to get your orders in. But, first see your plumbing and heating contractor, suggests the Institute. He is following all trends in the plumbing field and is best able to guide you in making post war plumbing plans that will suit you then as well as now.

WELL ATTENDED SOCIAL EVENING TRINITY CHURCH

A well attended social evening for the members of the congregation of Trinity United Church was held last Friday evening in the church school room and recreation room.

The programme was under the direction of the Women's Association, of which Mrs. R. L. Miller is the President, and W. G. Cowle the Recording Steward of the Church, acted as chairman.

Mrs. Miller and Mr. Cowle both extended a welcome to those in attendance. Later in the evening Mr. D. B. Wilson expressed thanks to the Women's Association, and complimented the organization on its splendid achievements. Mr. Wilson referred to the illness of the minister, Rev. G. M. Chidley, and voiced the pleasure of the members of the congregation in the knowledge that Mr. Chidley is now showing steady improvement.

The programme included the following items: Vocal solo, Mrs. F. B. Elliott; readings, Mrs. Katherine Powell; vocal solos, Mrs. Bennie Switzer; piano solos, Miss Beatrice Baughan; vocal solos, R. L. Miller; duets, Miss Barbara Caldwell and Mrs. Rennie Switzer. Mrs. J. E. Madden was accompanist for the soloists.

Following the programme in the school room, adjournment was made to the recreation room, where games were played and refreshments were served.

LIVES DEPEND ON INCREASING PLASMA: DREW

Overoptimism about an early victory has dangerously hampered the work of the Red Cross, Premier Drew told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Red Cross national council recently.

"The lives of many of our soldiers hang upon the number of blood donors who volunteer within the next few weeks; it is as close as that," he said. "Thousands of our young men are alive today only because of the supply of blood plasma that was immediately available. Due to misapprehension in an early termination of the war, the number of blood donors in September was the lowest during the year while our casualties overseas were the highest.

"Five thousand donors a day are needed throughout Canada to have adequate supplies on hand for our wounded men throughout the coming months. The need for plasma is greater and more urgent than ever before. There is nothing that can be done here at home of more importance than to offer this gift of life-saving work of the Red Cross." The Toronto Globe, November 2nd, 1944.

How Egg Powder is Made For Britain

The drying of eggs in Canada for delivery to the British Ministry of Food in the form of powder is an outstanding example of the highly developed methods of sanitation and expert workmanship in every phase of production of Canada's food products. The work is carried on under the Special Products Board.

The success of Canadian egg powder really begins with the high quality of the shell eggs used, while the drying plants, of which there are nine at present working under the strict supervision of the Board, are models of sanitation. No detail is overlooked. The lids of all cases of the graded and inspected eggs arriving at the plants must be removed outside the breaking room, and the eggs transferred to sanitary buckets or other suitable containers. From the buckets the eggs are broken directly to the breaking table and broken by girls in white overalls. A stainless steel knife is used to break the eggs into a stainless steel cup on a tray, and as each egg is cracked and the white poured into the raise it about chin level, dropping the contents into the cup with a quick, expert turn. This removes the thin albumen which would otherwise stick to the shell.

When two or three eggs have been broken, they are again examined for off odours in order to avoid a possible undesirable egg contaminating the contents of the tank and consequently of the finale bucket. When the cup is full, the me'ange—liquid egg—is turned into a bucket and when the bucket is full it is emptied into a settling tank equipped with sieves, and from there it is pumped from a line filler to holding vats. From these vats, the melange can either be pumped to the drier or poured into moulds and put into a sharp freezer. The melange arrives at the vats low temperature around 35 to 40 degrees, and from the vats high pressure pumps force it directly to the drier.

When the melange comes from the nozzle it resembles a small cloud of mist which is immediately picked up by the inlet air and carried part of the way into the air current before it becomes dry and falls as a powder to the bottom of the chamber. The powder is continually removed by an auger and conveyed to the sifter. As the powder passes it is cooled to a temperature of at least 80 degrees F., the specified temperature at which powder must be packed. The packaging is a process which requires full supervision at all times, in connection with every phase of converting a shell egg into dried egg powder.

BURMA — Two of the six brain surgery teams at present serving Allied forces behind the battlefields are on the Burma front. At a base hospital in which one of these teams operates I have just seen Indian soldiers recovering from head injuries, writes an Indian Army Observer. In the past five months this unit has carried out nearly 300 brain operations on Indian and British troops wounded on the Burma front.

"There are whole worlds of facts waiting to be discovered by inference."

NAZIS WAX RICH IN BLACK MARKET

This is the story of an eminent journalist who lived four years of life in Paris under Nazi rule. He saw "Gay Paree" literally transformed into "Gray Paree" as hordes of Germans tightened their throttle-hold on resentful, suffering Parisians.

The black market, which for the four years of the occupation of Paris, starved and robbed the people of Paris, was a legal business, officially backed by the German Government.

Only when this fact is thoroughly understood can one begin to grasp the gigantic power which this economic tyrant assumed in Paris. At the very same time that the Germans were loudly calling for price-ceilings and upbraiding "weak French morality" for the existence of the black market, official Nazi agents were creating the greatest black market the world has ever known.

In order to be able to buy French materials to satisfy critical Nazi needs or critical caprices, a series of "buying offices" were established licenced by the German Government. They were German directed and dominated, although a few of them maintained some French agents on their staffs.

The capital of these buying offices was equivalent to the credit of the German Government, should that be needed. Usually, the billion francs which France was paying every three days as the cost of the occupation sufficed for the deals made by the buying offices.

The employes of these buying offices not only paid fantastic prices, but themselves often took a commission on the sale. In addition, these officers and civil employes of the German price control committee had to be cut in on the deal.

There was no need to fear legal retaliation. I frequently attended trials at the Paris Tribunal. The judges seemed to have no cases to deal with other than black market. But I never heard a single case in which agents of a German buying office were mentioned. The victims of "justice" were all small fry — a coffee shop owner who had sold his bar covering at an above-ceiling price; a workman who bought 20 pounds of meat in the country and sold it to his neighbours as a gift when he bought 200 grams of bread with a forged ration ticket.

In the case of the real black market, infringements of the law were "settled." Thivly preferred this to letting the gigantic scandal become known. And, anyway, it was profitable for the Vichy government to allow "settlements" — in which it took an illegal cut.

For example, in June, 1943, Food Minister Bonnafous published some statistics. In 1942 about 100,000 food black market cases were discovered. Of these only 12,451 were fined and 4,500 were jailed. The fines totalled only 108 million francs. But income from "settlements" with black marketeers totalled somewhere over a billion francs. It is interesting to note that for each "settlement" he arranged, the price control enforcement officer received 10 per cent of the amount involved.

Anything in which the Germans were interested came outside the law. Thus, by 1941 the Germans had already decreed that about half a dozen Paris restaurants and a dozen night clubs were "non-essential" — they need not submit to price control. Maxime's, Poiquet's, Rotisserie Perigourdine, etc., led the way in prices which jumped from about 1000 francs (currently $20) a head in 1942 to 10,000 a head in 1944.

At the same time, the Germans requisitioned 40 per cent of all food sent to Paris from the country. Beside this official requisition, about half of the remaining food was sold to the black market leaving about 30 per cent of the "official ration" available to the population through official channels. No wonder the people of Paris seldom saw meat, fats, milk or fruits.

To appreciate the hardships of the black market, look at these figures obtained by the Foundation of the Study of Human Problems, directed by Dr. Alexis Carrel, in the autumn of 1943. About 10,000 French workmen were surveyed.

The average daily income of a single Frenchman was 50 francs; of a single Frenchwoman, 33 francs. At this time a pound of potatoes cost 3 to 7 francs officially, and 15 to 20 francs on the black market. The official fat ration was only 150 to 200 grams per month, so that even the poorest had to go to the black market to obtain sufficient fats to live. Fat on the black market cost from 100 to 150 francs a pound.

The only alleviation of this starvation were free lunches given by Vichy to the Paris school children. In January 1943, Vichy also started some communal restaurants, where one could buy a meal for form 8 to 18 francs, depending on the size of one's income. The meals were edible at first but later became a scandal of unsanitary slop. One dish was a "pate de poisson", consisting of putrid fish waste pulverized into a paste.

Against this background, the German living in Paris had tickets which permitted him to buy monthly, at legal prices, 2½ pounds of butter (against less than half a pound of all fats for the French); three pounds of meat (against half a pound for the French); and additional rations of six pounds of bread, one of sugar, cheese and preserves.

Throughout the occupation German soldiers had milk in their coffee in Paris. Most of the time Paris children got none. The condensed milk sent from Switzerland for the children mysteriously vanished, reappearing, if at all, on the black market. By a strange coincidence quantities of empty milk boxes could be found near the airfields around Paris from time to time.

Without help from friends and relatives who sent food from the country, Paris would indeed have completely starved during the occupation.

PAINT CONTRIBUTES TO PREVENTION OF ACCIDENTS

The day may soon come when yellow-and-black traffic and warning signs will replace the traditional black-and-white markings on highways and in cities, color experts believe. Yellow and black has been found to be a color combination of much greater visibility under all conditions.

The idea seems to have been developed by the army during the war years, and most army warning signs now are done in yellow and black when the greatest possible all-around visibility is needed. Civilian trucks carrying explosives also carry yellow and black checkerboard warnings at the rear.

One of the most interesting example of the new trend in traffic marking can be found on the ramp leading from St. Catherine Street to the new Central Station of Canadian National Railways in Montreal. There yellow and black markings around a traffic island stand out in vivid contrast to the more orthodox surrounding signs in black and white.

The success of the new-style markings in increasing traffic safety has led color experts to believe that eventually level-crossing gates, city safety zones and highway traffic signs all will blossom out in yellow and black for increased visibility.

That color markings can do much to avert accidents has long been a recognized fact among safety men. As H. G. Foster, general manager of the Ontario Safety League, puts it: "Paint unquestionably contributes materially to the prevention of accidents."

Mr. Fester believes also that every car should have a dash of white paint at the back, and that luminous paint is necessary for markings on Canadian highways.

"I have always been of the opinion that every motor car and truck should have some white paint on the rear end," he says. "This would undoubtedly reduce the number of rear-end crashes, particularly at night when vehicles are sometimes required to park on highways when out of order."

A need on Canadian highways also, is luminous paint to give better direction at night to drivers possessed of doubtful eye-sight."

VOTERS' LIST, 1944

MUNICIPALITY OF TOWNSHIP OF RICHMOND, IN THE COUNTY OF LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

NOTICE is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Section 16 thereof of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered to the List, made pursuant to said Act of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for Members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections, and that the said List was first posted up at Selby, on the 8th day of November, 1944, and remains there for inspection.

Dated, November 8th, 1944.

A. C. TUMMON,
45ane Township Clerk.

STRATHCONA W. C. T. U.

Mrs. J. Wilson, Strathcona, opened her home to the Newburgh-Strathcona W. C. T. U. on October 31st.

The special feature of the meeting was the visit of Miss Duff, a Provincial Organizer and old friend.

The President, Mrs. G. Finlay, gave the visitor a warm welcome. In her address, Miss Duff gave an impressive survey of the world's work, which embraces some 47 countries. She stated that many outstanding temperance leaders in Europe were in concentration camps, where, doubtless, their avowed principles of peace purity and abstinence would subject them to additional hardship.

Continuing, the speaker told of the scope and variety of the work in Canada, as reviewed at the National Convention, held in Moncton, N.B., in June.

Tentative plans were made for the World's Convention to be held in Toronto in 1946 in the event of peace.

Miss Cameron expressed the appreciation of all present for Miss Duff's timely and informative address.

Mrs. Herrington gave the benediction.

Later, the members and visitors were entertained at tea by the Strathcona ladies.

SELBY W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the W. M. S. was in charge of Mrs. A. Wood on Thursday afternoon, November 2nd, and opened with a hymn and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The President, Mrs. Rose, took charge of the business. The Treasurer reported $120.00 sent to Presbytery and a balance of $68.35.

It was decided to have a Pot Luck dinner and quilting this month and to take up collection for the new library. We were all asked to sign the total abstinence pledge requested by the Dominion Board. The Watch Tower was called and responded to by Mrs. Merrick on China, Mrs. McConnell on India, Mrs. Frisken on Home Missions, Mrs. Wood, Secretary Christian Stewardship. Mrs. Merrick read a letter introducing Dr. J. R. Mont, speaker at the Conference, November 14th at Belleville. Two delegates, Mrs. M. Denison and Mrs. E. Robinson gave their reports of the W.M.S. Rally and were voted a vote of thanks by the members. Mrs. Wood gave the 3rd and 4th chapters of the study book assisted by three of the ladies. We were then favored with a solo by Mrs. A. Sexsmith. Mrs. M. Denison received the offering. Our theme was given "Consecration to the King's Com for their rakes", followed by prayer. Mrs. Frisken read a poem "Not Afraid". After a hymn, prayer was read by Mrs. Price. Mrs. Merrick gave a reading "You can find it wherever a child is scared or hungry." Mrs. Dudgeon led in prayer and after singing a hymn, Mrs. Wood closed with prayer.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities

This is the Fourth in a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get full details, save and read every advertisement.

For complete information, write for the booklet, "Back to Civil Life."

Home and Farm Ownership—
The Man Who Wants His Own Business

There are two ways in which Canada's service people can have homes of their own. One measure, the Veterans' Land Act, provides assistance in financing homes on small acreages of land outside the high taxation area, while the re-establishment credit may be used for purchase or building of a home in town or city. Low cost financing is available under the National Housing Act. Under the Veterans' Land Act, assistance is given in financing up to a maximum of $4800 for land and buildings. The veteran must be prepared to pay down 10 per cent of the cost of land and buildings and the property is then sold to him for this down payment plus two-thirds of the cost. This balance may be financed, if necessary, over 25 years, with interest at 3½ per cent. A further grant may be made for purchase of equipment.

The veteran is given title to the property, including the grant of 2½ per cent of the cost of land and buildings and the money for equipment, after he has lived up to his agreement for ten years.

If the re-establishment credit is used for a home, the veteran must be prepared to put up one dollar for every two dollars used from it. This type of assistance may be applied for at any time within 10 years of discharge.

FARMERS AND COMMERCIAL FISHERMEN

Veterans qualified for full time farming and for commercial fishing may receive assistance in purchasing a farm or home under the Veterans' Land Act in the same way as the veteran wanting a home on a small acreage, outside the high taxation area. In the case of full time farming, an additional grant of $1200 is available for purchase of stock and equipment, and in commercial fishing the commercial fishermen may receive up to $1200 to buy needed fishing equipment. To benefit under any of the three provisions of the Veterans' Land Act, the ex-service man or woman must have overseas service or at least 12 months' service in Canada.

TO ASSIST BUSINESSMEN

One purpose for which the re-establishment credit may be used is to buy a business or to provide working capital for a business. Here again application may be made at any time in the 10 years after discharge.

In addition to using the re-establishment credit in this way, people who start their own businesses, or farmers, may draw maintenance grants, during the period they are getting returns from the business or the farm. These grants may be paid in the first 18 months after discharge, for the period of service, and up to a maximum of one year.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

Issued under the authority of Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of

VETERANS' AFFAIRS

A LETTER FROM THE CHIEF

BILL: Boy, that's what I call a letter!

JOE: From your girl?

BILL: Nope—from the President of my company. He tells me there's a job waiting for me and all the rest of the 2,200 Bell employees who joined up. Not only that—he says it looks right now as though they'll have to take on still more staff if they're to handle their post-war program.

They're giving credit for war service, too, when it comes to position and pay when we get back.

JOE: Pretty good outfit to work for, eh, Bill?

BILL: They're O.K.! Looks as if they have lots of work lined up—and that I'll be really needed. . .Think I'll write Marj about it right now.

*Bill is referring to a paragraph in a recent letter from our President to 2,200 Bell employees on war service, which read:—

". . . I imagine you are more concerned with what conditions will be in the company when you return. Already we have done our best to look ahead and plan for the post-war period . . . Our present estimates indicate that we will need to retain all our employees now on the force; that there will be a job for you and all other Bell employees who return from active service, and that it will be necessary for us to hire a number of new employees."

Hello Homemakers! We've changed many homemaking methods by using satisfactory substitutes. Gradually a few precious articles are being manufactured to assist in our homemaking jobs. May we not be too possessive of things we can do without. Just try to "carry on" with those things that are readily available. Let's not be too anxious to obtain the things we can do without until the great day comes. Save wherever you can and purchase more Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates.

Mock Mince Meat

Six green tomatoes, six apples, half-pound seeded raisins, one tablespoon cinnamon, one-quarter cup fruit juice, one-quarter cup vinegar, half-cup citron, one orange-rind, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cloves, half-teaspoon all-spice, half - teaspoon ginger, one-quarter teaspoon grated nutmeg.

Chop tomatoes, apples and raisins. Add other ingredients in order given and cook until thick. This amount should make three pies.

Gingersnaps

Two cups enriched flour, half-cup sugar, half - teaspoon soda one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ginger, half-teaspoon cinnamon, two-thirds cup molasses, six tablespoons shortening.

Sift four, measure, add sugar, soda, salt and spices; sift again. Heat molasses to boiling, remove from heat; add shortening and dry ingredients, mix thoroughly. Chill. Roll thin on lightly floured board; cut into desired shapes. Bake on greased baking sheet in electric oven (350 degrees), about eight minutes. Makes five dozen cookies.

Applesauce Betty

Two and one-half cups unsweetened apple sauce two cups of cracked wheat cereal, three-quarters cup brown sugar, one-quarter cup melted butter, one and one-half teaspoon cinnamon

Mix cereal with sugar, butter and cinnamon. Arrange applesauce and cereal in alternate layers in a casserole or baking dish having a layer of cereal on top. Bake in an electric oven for twenty minutes. Serve with milk.

Steamed Apple Pudding

Four to six apples sliced, one-third cup sugar, dash of nutmeg, one cup flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, one-quarter-teaspoon salt, two tablespoons of butter, half-cup milk

Place apples in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and nut meg and steam until nearly tender Mix the remaining ingredients as a biscuit dough and pour over the apples. Cover and steam for thirty minutes. Serve with sugar and cream or pudding sauce.

TAKE A TIP

1 Apply some colourless nail polish to buttonholes on workclothes that become a little frayed or limp.

2 Cut two stiff pieces of cardboard to fit into the ends of ties for pressing. This prevents seam marks on the front of ties.

3 After washing your window curtains, put a rod in each end and fix it on to the clothes line with pieces of pliable wire at each end. If the line is low, double loop it up to be clamped on the second clothes wire. This prevents sagging corners and tittle ironing is required.

4 Black marks on linoleum floors made by wartime rubber heels may be removed with liquid wax, turpentine, or cleaning fluid. Wax should then be applied after cleaning.

5 If you can't buy a rubber suction sink stopper, use a self sealing jar lid instead. It works like a charm.

6 Sandwiches for lunches" should not be monotonous. For the small "luncher' tuck in a surprise—sensible or funny—every day or so. Here are a few:

a A cookie man, a tiny popcorn ball, strips of candied orange peel, a coloured hard-cooked pullet's egg.

b A weiner made into a houseplant with a few branches of carrot slivers and parsley stuck in.

c Write a riddle in a note, but give no answer till the 'luncher' gets home.

d Cut an unpeeled orange lengthwise into quarters.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. M. G. asks: What makes a stew in which the meat has been browned turn a grey colour?

Answer: Add measured boiling water. Too much water or cold water may be the cause. In cases where the stew is thickened with flour the starch may not be cooked enough.

Mrs. C. M. asks: Why did the enclosed procedure of making peach jam with commercial pectin produce a separate mixture?

Answer: The ingredients and methods are correct The important advice for perfect jam making is the use of standard measuring cup and a full rolling boil for the exact time We also decided that a metal spoon is best for scum-skimming.

Mrs. J. D. asks: The brine does not cover the shredded cabbage in the crock for kraut and it has begun to darken. How can this be prevented?

Answer: Remove darkened portion of food. Press down with potato masher. Add a small amount of water if juice does not cover cabbage Spoon off scum daily for about two weeks rinse plate and cloth in clear water.

Mrs. J. C. asks: How may we prevent sweet potatoes from turning dark?

Answer: Put into salted water as each potato is peeled Cook in enamel or flameware saucepan until tender. Overcooking tends to dissolve foods, too.

AN APPEAL TO THE WOMEN OF CANADA

WORKERS OF ALL KINDS ARE NEEDED

More comforts for the Services are required than ever before in our history. For the first time since the outbreak of war, we have a whole Canadian Army in the field, and the winter will be very long, very cold and very wet. . . . Our Navy grows constantly and needs more and more warm woolens if it is to accomplish its tremendous task. . . . Our Air Force flies at great heights where the cold is intense at all times of the year. Surely you who have always responded before so magnificently, will not fail our men in the Services in this their most critical winter. The hardships they will be called upon to endure are so great that we prefer, for our own sakes, not to think of them; but we MUST think of them. We must realize them fully, and then do everything in our power to lessen them.

More and still more civilian clothing is needed, too. The terrible flying bombs are still causing desolation in parts of England, and, in addition, we are now able to reach parts of liberated Europe for the first time. The first shipment of Canadian clothing went to France some time ago. Medicines, which is now in England, has arranged for a further large shipment to go to Yugoslavia. This is just the beginning. Can you — ANY OF YOU — whose children and grandchildren are safe, clear-eyed, warm and unafraid — CAN YOU FAIL to do everything you possibly can to help those little children of Europe? Winter is at hand.

This appeal is sent to you at this time, as the reports on the progress of quotas for nine months of this year are causing us, here at National Headquarters, very grave concern. It is evident that great numbers of our workers are still insisting on making the articles they most like to make. This is proved by the fact that helmets and sleeveless sweaters have been oversupplied, whereas, to quote just one instance: of the 55,000 long-sleeved khaki sweaters asked for, only about 13,000 have been shipped to-date.

We urge you to go to your nearest Red Cross Branch. Take whatever work is most needed, and do it as quickly as possible. It is your own personal responsibility — You Are the Red Cross. You are the only ones who can do it. The need is very real and very urgent. This is the home stretch, the last long mile . . . . What is remembered afterwards is not with what high enthusiasm we began the job, but how we finished it.

WE MUST NOT.
AND WE CANNOT FAIL.

(Signed) Roberta N. Mackenzie.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED BY MR. AND MRS. GEO. C JOYCE

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Joyce, of Deseronto, Ont., were at home to relatives and friends on Tuesday evening, October 31st in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Receiving with them were their two daughters and son-in-law, Miss Beatrice Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dunlop of Toronto. Their son George, who resides in Los Angles, California, was unable to be present. Their attendants of fifty years ago, Mrs. E. N. Chambers, Deseronto, and Mr. Ethan Unger of Picton, were present.

Guests from out-of-town were Mrs. Ethan Unger, Picton, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Unger, Elmbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Unger, Mrs. Ross Brown, Miss Doris Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oliver, Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Joyce, the latter formerly Addie Unger, were both born in the Township of Richmond, and after their marriage lived on a farm near Selby. About twenty-five years ago they took up residence in Deseronto.

PRESENTATION MADE TO MR., MRS. R. B MOORE OF GRETNA DISTRICT

Previous to their removal to Napanee last month, friends in the Gretna district, of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Moore, gathered at their home for a social evening and made a presentation to them of an electric table lamp. The following address was read when the presentation was made:

Gretna, Oct. 6, 1944.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Moore:

It was with much regret we heard of your intended departure from our midst and felt we would like to spend an evening with you before your leaving. We will miss you very much as you have always given a helping hand whenever needed, both in community and church activities. We trust, after a well-earned rest, you will both continue in good health for many years to come.

We ask you to accept this gift as a slight token of good wishes from your many friends and neighbours.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore thanked their many friends for their kindness and all joined in singing For They are Jolly Good Fellows.

(Signed) on behalf of the friends: Mr. and Mrs. P. Davey and Mr. and Mrs. E. Howell.

"To remain ignorant about T.B. is to endanger not only your own health, but that of your family and your community."
Minister of Pensions and National Health.
From a statement March 26, 1944

LET'S be quite frank.

When you read—as you probably did during the past few months—that more than 300,000 people in Canada have syphilis, what was your reaction? Did you say, "That's too bad; something should be done about it", and then turn to the comic page? Chances are you did.

But if that article had told you that Tommy Jones, the lad who used to mow your lawn after school, had syphilis—how would you have felt about it? Or that the young couple who built that cute house in the next block, had just lost a baby through syphilis . . . would that have made you stop and think?

Or, if you suddenly discovered that your Mar - - . . . No? That couldn't happen? But it can. And it does . . . to hundreds of Tommies and Marys every year, right here in Canada. Right in your community. You'll never read articles like that, of course, for these are the personal tragedies that people bear in silence.

So, when you pick up the paper sometime and read, " . . . , there were 5,000 new VENEREAL DISEASE cases reported in this province last year . . .", remember! These are not cold figures. They represent 5,000 heart-breaking . . . heart-aching situations.

Yes, VENEREAL DISEASE is a serious problem. It's a problem for parents; for taxpayers; for young people on the threshold of life; for everyone.

VENEREAL DISEASE need never strike if we all do our part. If we know the facts. If we use these facts to advantage. If we don't shrug our shoulders and say, "This couldn't happen to anyone in my family."

You have a duty to your family and the community.

MARLBANK

Marlbank, Nov. 6. — The monthly meeting of the Woman's Association of the United Church was held on Friday, October 27th, with a record attendance of over 50 members and visitors being present. The program was in charge of Rev. Mr. Baugh, who opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by prayer. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Baugh. The topic for this meeting was "A Truth I Learned at Home or School". The minutes of last meeting were read by the Secretary, Bessie Allen, and the roll call was answered by "A Truth I Learned". The business part of the meeting was then dealt with, and it was decided to hold a bazaar in December. The program was then enjoyed. It consisted of a hymn by five teen age girls; a reading by Mrs. C. Benn; a duet by Yvonne York and Madeline Young; several guitar selections were given by Mrs. Frank Scallen, of Tamworth. An interesting debate was given: "Resolved, that school has more influence on the life of a child than the home". The different parts were well prepared. The affirmative side was taken by Mrs. Bronk and Miss Price, and the negative side by Rev. Mr. Baugh and Mrs. W. G. Burt. After much deliberation the judges, Mrs. H. Purvis, Mrs. W. Booth and Mrs. V. McGregor, gave their decision in favor of the affirmative. The meeting closed with a song by the five girls, followed with the Mizpah benediction. Acting for the President, Mrs. W. O. Asselstine, Rev. Mr. Baugh expressed thanks to the hostess for the use of her home, and also to the visitors. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge. Lunch money, $7.00, was received. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. R. Young.

The Guild of St. Matthew's Church held a quilting and pot luck dinner, which was well attended, on Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Billy Williams. Two quilts were done, quite a number of the ladies of the W. A. attended.

VICTORIA W. I.

Victoria Women's Institute held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred McFarlane on the evening of October 20th. The meeting opened with the Ode, followed by the Creed. The roll call was well answered on the many uses of cotton bags. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the business part dealt with.

Mrs. D. Wese was convener for the evening. Current events were given by Mrs. Ivan McFarlane. Mrs. Eph Robinson gave a demonstration on the making of rugs, by using the Singercraft guide, also how to make bias binding. Miss Gladys Rikley of Kingston gave a very interesting and educational travelogue on her trip through the Maritimes, giving a full description of each place as she went, and also of the Province of Quebec.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Lunch was served by the hostess and helpers.

FCREST MILLS W. A.

The October meeting of the Woman's Association of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Fred McFarlane. Mrs. D. M. Sandford conducted the devotional exercises and was assisted by Rev. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis Fox. The president, Mrs. Bert Asselstine, had charge of the business. The roll-call, a Bible verse containing the word 'help' was responded to by sixteen members and 40 visitors. Mesdames Robert Cook, D. M. Sandford, A. C. Davison and Bert Asselstine were named as a committee to pack the Christmas boxes for the boys overseas. A sale of articles brought a tidy sum to the treasury.

The Ebenezer ladies, who were guests provided the following interesting programme under the leadership of Mrs. Murney Scott: Community singing, reading by Mrs. William Whiteman, solo by Mrs. Elwood Brown, reading by Mrs. Thomas McFarland, music, Mrs. George Sexsmith and Mrs Elwood Brown; vocal duet by Helen McTaggart and Jack Scott, a contest led by Mrs. Harold Mastin was won by Mrs. Elburn Cook. This was followed by a chorus by the members, a reading by Mrs. Harold Mastin, music by Mrs. Elwood Brown and Mrs. George Sexsmith and a reading by Mrs. Helen Brown. A solo by Jack Scott was followed by a contest under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Brown and was won by Mrs. A. C. Davison.

Rev. Mr. Lewis closed with prayer, and lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Davison.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The Thankoffering meeting of the Busy Bee Mission Band was held at the school on Wednesday afternoon, November 1st, and was led by the president, Paul Craig. The meeting was opened by singing the National Anthem and repeating the Lord's Prayer. Mary Vanalstyne read the minutes of the last meeting and the roll call was answered with part of the second Commandment. After the call to worship and response, a hymn was sung and the Bible lesson read by Beulah Craig. Comments on the Bible reading were given by Rosemary Moore, and a prayer hymn followed. The offering was received by Jack Spafford and Leonard Moore and dedicated in song. The subject of temperance was presented in the form of a dialogue called "A Package of Cigarettes." Peace was given in an action song and stewardship by an acrostic. A reading about the Mission Band colors was given by Miss Stafford, after which the children sang 'The Emblem of our Mission Band.'

The chapter from the Study Book was read by Mrs. Wales, after which another hymn was sung and the meeting closed with the closing prayer.

Following the meeting a Hallowe'en party was held when lunch was served to the members and their guests, and Hallowe'en treats were given to the children.

Autumn Meeting of Ruri-Decanal Chapter

The Autumn meeting of the Ruri-decanal Chapter of Lennox and Addington in conjunction with the Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in the Parish of St Mark, Deseronto, on Thursday, October 26th 1944.

There was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 10:30 a.m. in the Church. The Rev. L. G. Osborne-Walker, Rector of Bath, the special preacher, preached an excellent sermon. The celebrant was Archdeacon Dumbrille assisted by Canon Radcliffe, Canon Spencer of Camden East, Rural Dean Pringle, Tyendinaga, Rev. H. C. Secker, Adolphustown, Rev. F. O. Ware, Tamworth, and a visitor, Rev. C. P. Heaven, Shannonville.

The Holy Communion was beautifully rendered by the help of the Clergy and splendidly assisted by the organist and choir. The hymns were 'Hosanna, to Zion Haste,' 'And Now O Father mindful of the Love' 'Rejoice Ye Pure in Heart,' 'Love Divine' and 'Love Excelling.' The altar in festal array of beautiful flowers was greatly admired and it spoke for the warmest terms of the grand service they had taken part in.

The ladies had a splendid meeting at the White Hall.

At the clergy meeting at the Rectory, the Rev. S. C. Secker, read a good paper.

The officers on the Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary from Kingston and other towns were Mrs. Wright, president, Kingston; Mrs. Jamieson, Napanee; Mrs. Reid, of Brockville, and Mrs. Dowdell, Lansdowne. Mrs. Jamieson took the chair and everything moved smoothly and well.

Hearty votes of thanks closed a splendid anniversary meeting.

Q. Why is it stores no longer carry tobacco in glass jars?

A. At one time there was an acute shortage of glass containers due to the conservation of glass-manufacturing facilities for food products. However, there is now a better supply of glass and tobacco in glass jars may soon appear.

— REFUGEES — THE UNSOLVED PROBLEM

BY WAVERLEY ROOT

Estimates vary on the length of time it will require to finish the war in Europe, but little progress seems to have been made on a problem which will become suddenly acute almost with the instant of the German defeat. That is the matter of returning to their homes all those who have been displaced from them, as refugees, prisoners of war or forced laborers. The Inter-Governmental Committee on Refugees estimates their number at 20,000,000. Under ordinary peacetime circumstances, the moving of 20,000,000 people over the distances required for international travel would tax transportation facilities for many months. But in Europe, where communications are in a state of collapse and where roads, railroads and canals will be busy, even after the hostilities, handling troops and their supplies the problem seems an almost insuperable one.

Yet these millions will have to be moved and moved quickly. That will be true, not only because of the psychological pressure which will be created by the end of hostilities among the uprooted who will be impatient to start for home, but also because the end of the war will mean, for many of them, the end of the system which is at present supporting them, miserably enough. It is true, but at least giving them some means of livelihood.

Take, for instance, the 7,000,000 foreign workers in German war industry. With the end of the war, there will be an end also to the manufacture of munitions in Germany. There will be a collapse also of the organization which has been providing them with food. The foreign workers, faced with the prospect of starvation unless some relief comes to them quickly, will no doubt prefer to starve at home rather than in Germany, if starvation is their only prospect. For that matter, they will believe, whether it is true or not, that at home they will be able to find something to do, which will not be easy in an allen land whose economy will certainly have broken down.

Then there are the prisoners of war. There are estimated to be 1,200,000 French soldiers alone held in prison camps in Germany. Can they be kept confined to prison camps after their side has won the war? But if the problem of getting them back home is not solved, can they be released simply, left to their own devices, without a real prospect than the creation of chaotic condition in the areas where they have been living?

In regard to the prisoners, at least, (from which it may be wondered whether the same plans are not in existence for the workers as well), a period of time is mentioned after which their repatriation is expected. It has been suggested that the Allied military authorities will repatriate them within seven months after the armistice.

Seven months! Imagine yourself a prisoner of war or a forced laborer in Germany and ask yourself what you would do. If after the end of hostilities, you were informed that you might hope for repatriation in seven months!

Authorities may say that it is impossible to act any more quickly. The answer to that is that it is impossible to wait that long. In seven months, those populations will no longer be there. They will not wait, supinely, for the ponderous wheels of administration to start grinding during seven long months. It is perfectly possible to prepare against the likelihood of error, what is to be seen. The prisoners and workers in Germany will start back on foot to walk home. There will be a mass pass over the countryside of hordes of locusts, probably with a terrible effect of blight. There returning to their homes will likewise have the effect to produce famine. But they will be back, and in far less than seven months.

If this can be done in a disorganized fashion, simply by individual decision and action, it can certainly be better done through organization. It means of transportation are available to let the prisoners and workers go home, reserving trains and trucks for the children, the aged and the sick. But foresee means of feeding them on the way of sheltering them at night or in bad weather, and of receiving them on their arrival. The will of these individuals is there, which will be the strongest force at the disposal of the Allies for the organization of their return, can be utilized to effect it.

The one thing that is absolutely necessary is that those from them shall know that speedy return is being provided for them. That will make it possible to bring order, out of chaos, to provide food for the return of the workers most urgently needed to get home industries running again for the support of those who come after. You can prepare those less needed to wait in the fields if they know that turn will come in a week or two. It cannot be done if you tell them to be patient for seven months.

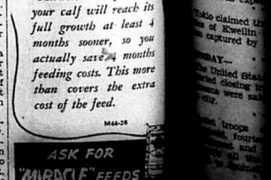
This is one of the most pressing of post-war problems. Nothing that has received minimum attention. It requires immediate solution. If it is bungled, the economic recovery of Europe, and, consequently, of the world may be delayed for years — perhaps for a generation.

Daylight Saving Time to Remain

Ottawa, (C.P.) — The Federal Cabinet has decided not to recommend to Order-in-Council that establishes year-around daylight saving time as a national scale, it was disclosed this week.

Hon. N. McClarty, State Secretary who earlier in the day said the matter still was to be dealt with by the Cabinet, stated later that the Cabinet had decided against the proposal.

In a new drive to conserve fuel, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced a report from Toronto that the city of Toronto had been ordered by letter of the cabinet's decision against resumption of standard time.



HERE'S THE ANSWER...
"Miracle" Calf Meal actually costs a little more because it is a top rate feed. With "Miracle" Calf Meal your calf will reach its full growth at least 4 months sooner, so you actually save 4 months feeding costs. This more than covers the extra cost of the feed.

Companies Help Victory Loan

Canadian Canners, Limited, Napanee, and Metcalfe Foods, Limited, Deseronto, have, in the interest of the Seventh Victory Loan, offered to make payment of canning cheques as of November 15th to all customers who wish to buy Victory Bonds with the proceeds.

The National War Finance Committee of the County of Lennox and Addington wishes to thank the principals of these firms for their patriotic offer. The Committee hopes that all farmers will add to their purchases of Victory Bonds by this method.

Soviet Armies Converge on Budapest

WEDNESDAY—

The enemy escape bridge south of Maas River in southwestern Holland was cleared by Allied armies and British troops continued action against the last Nazi pockets on Walcheren Island. A fierce battle was said to be raging as United States troops tried to regain ground lost southeast of Aachen.

• • •

The Russians continued to battle for Budapest with reinforced Nazi detachments.

• • •

Polish troops of the British Eighth Army in Italy, captured San Marino and Marzignano, southwest of Forli on the Adriatic coast.

• • •

The liberation of Leyte in the Philippines was said to be in its final stages. 191 Jap planes were destroyed and eight more ships were damaged in a raid on the Manila area.

• • •

THURSDAY—

Operations by the Allies in southwest Holland were said to be about complete.

• • •

On the Eastern Front there was a lull as the Soviet Armies were moving up into position for what may be the decisive offensive against the vital centres of Germany.

• • •

In Italy, the British Eighth Army continued to make good progress south of Forli.

• • •

United States carrier planes striking anew at the Manila area in the Philippines, in preparation for the next phase of the liberation of the Islands, raised their toll to thirty Japanese ships and 440 planes.

• • •

FRIDAY—

The United States Third Army advanced further north and south of Metz in an effort to outflank the city.

• • •

The battle for the southwest of Holland was said to have been ended when Polish troops smashed a German pocket at Moerdijke Bridge.

• • •

In a new drive toward Budapest, Soviet troops advanced seventeen miles after breaking the enemy's line within a mile of the Budapest-East Slovakia railroad.

• • •

British Eighth Army troops made a small gain in bitter-fighting, in Italy, along the Adriatic.

• • •

United States infantrymen were reported heavily engaged with Japanese troops in Northern Leyte Island.

• • •

SATURDAY—

The United States Third Army made gains on a 55-mile front north and south of Metz. Chateau Salins was captured and the Roselle River was crossed, northeast of Thionville.

• • •

The last German resistance on Walcheren Island was ended. Casualties in the Walcheren area were reported by Premier Churchill, to have been heavy.

• • •

The British Eighth Army captured Forli on the Rimini-Bologna Highway in Italy.

• • •

The Russians continued their advance on Budapest, smashing defences northeast of the Hungarian capital.

• • •

The Japs succeeded in landing strong reinforcements on Leyte Island in the Philippines and heavy fighting was expected.

• • •

Tokio claimed that the key Chinese cities of Kweilin and Luchow had been captured by the Japs.

• • •

MONDAY—

The United States Third Army was reported closing in on Metz and the Germans were said to be evacuating the city.

• • •

Soviet troops captured a Nazi stronghold, fourteen miles southeast of Budapest and were in possession of nearly all the railway from the capital to Szolnok.

• • •

United States troops made further slight advances in the campaign on Leyte Island. Four Jap transports with 8,000 Japs, were sunk off Leyte.

In Italy, Eighth Army troops pushed on and forced a crossing of the Naviso Canal, north of Forli.

Two Chinese columns were reported closing in on the great Japanese Burma Road bastion of Bhamo, the largest town between Myitgyina and Mandalay.

• • •

TUESDAY—

The United States Third Army captured three of the outer forts guarding Metz. At least fifteen towns in the vicinity were freed and the United States troops reached a point about thirteen miles from the German border.

• • •

The Russians were reported to have made further gains southeast and northeast of Budapest.

• • •

In Italy the British Eighth Army crossed the canal five miles south of Ravenna and slight gains were made northwest of Forli.

• • •

U. S. troops on Leyte Island made some gains in the advance on the stronghold of Ormoc.

• • •

The 41,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz capsized and sank in Thomso Fjord in Norway, after being hit by three six-ton bombs dropped by R. A. F. Lancasters, on Monday.

FORMER MARLBANK BOY KILLED IN ACTION

Quartermaster - Sergeant Francis Kelly, R.C.A.F. son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly, Tweed, who was born and lived for some years in Marlbank, has been killed in action, overseas.

NO FOUNDATION IN REPORT OF PRIVATE RAY PARKS' DEATH

After inquiry at the Records Department in Ottawa, it has been learned that Pte. Raymond A. Parks, who was reported in Napanee to have been killed, is not listed as a casualty.

The news that his death had occurred was received indirectly by members of his family in Napanee, who accepted it as a fact.

We are happy to announce that, up to date of receipt of the letter from Ottawa, Pte. Parks was still with his unit.

PTE. J. R. MACK REPORTED PRISONER

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mack, of Picton, formerly of Napanee, received word, last week, that their son, Pte. J. R. Mack, who was reported missing on active service August 2nd, has now been listed as a prisoner-of-war in Germany.

FLIGHT-LIEUTENANT P. D. CAMERON SPEAKS AT ROTARY

The regular meeting of the Napanee Rotary Club was held on Tuesday of this week with Flt.-Lieut. P. D. Cameron, who has just recently returned to Canada, after serving as Chaplain in the R.C.A.F. as guest speaker.

Mr. Cameron spoke on the rehabilitation of returned men after their return from overseas and pointed out that apart from what the Government is prepared to do, the home communities of the returned men could and should play a big part in their reestablishment in civilian life.

MARLBANK BOY BADLY WOUNDED SERVING OVERSEAS

Word has been received by Mr. David Turkington, Marlbank, that his nephew, Billy Tuprkington, a former Marlbank boy, had been serious'y wounded while in action with the Canadian Army overseas.

His wife and young son are living in Peterborough.

THE BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND

It has been decided by those in charge of The Beaver Santa Claus Fund, to again solicit contributions for the fund, this year. It is realized that there are not as many in need of the assistance at Christmas time which the fund provides as in some years in the past, but there are still some families in the town where Christmas would be a very bleak and unhappy time if some provision were not made for them by such an organization as The Beaver Santa Claus Fund.

Miss Josephine Leamy who, for many years has been in charge of administering the fund and preparing the baskets of gifts for distribution at Christmas, has consented to again act in the same capacity.

The Beaver Santa Claus Fund was originated many years ago by the late W. A. Templeton and was carried on by his son, the late William Templeton, who was killed in action in August, this year. It is believed it would be the wish of these two men that The Beaver Santa Claus Fund should continue to operate and so it has been decided to ask for contributions.

Money may be left at The Beaver Office or may be sent by mail. If cheques or money orders are sent, make them payable to "The Beaver Santa Claus Fund." A list of contributions will be published in the paper each week.

Returned Missionary From China Speaks At Grace United Church

Rev. J. F. Reid, a returned missionary from West China, who is on a speaking tour in aid of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of The United Church of Canada, will be in Napanee on Friday evening, November 17th, to give an address in Grace United Church, at 8:00 p.m.

Mr. Reid is a very fluent speaker and will give an interesting report on the mission work in China. All citizens of the town who are interested are invited to attend the meeting.

The Seventh Victory Loan in Canada has gone well over the objective of $1,300,000,000, and again fighting Canadian dollars are on their way to our fighting men.

Our County has gone over the top by $95,450, greatly exceeding its objective of $1,000,000, and giving us an average on two Loans of bettering our objectives, thus, holding our heads high — We March to Victory!

There is no doubt Canadian people are mobilized behind the national war effort, to back our Armies until Germany and Japan have surrendered unconditionally.

Investors, Salesmen, and Committeemen are gratified by the result. The untiring effort of workers and the well organized campaign, coupled with the understanding of the need by our Citizens, assured success.

Mr. Churchill, in the early dark days, said: "Give us the tools, and we will finish the job." — It can now be said: — "They are on the Way."

W. A. GRANGE, Honorary Chairman.
DUANE R. HALL, M.D., Chairman.

Rev. P. D. Cameron Engaged as Supply For Trinity Church

Rev. P. D. Cameron, a former Chaplain of the R.C.A.F., who served overseas for some years in the present war and was in the Air Force in the First Great War, preached two very interesting sermons to large congregations on Sunday last, at Trinity United Church. He also sang a solo at the morning service, but was unable to sing in the evening, because of a severe cold.

Following the evening service the Pu'pit Supply Committee of the Church, of which Mr. D. B. Wilson is chairman, met with Mr. Cameron and arranged with him to act as supply for an indefinite period during the convalescence of Rev. G. M. Chidley, who has been ill for nearly four months.

Mr. Cameron will assume his duties at Trinity Church on Sunday, November 26th. His wife and two daughters, who have been residing at Lindsay will remain there.

NAPANEE PUPILS SING OVER RADIO

As part of the programme for Education Week in Ontario, a group of pupils from the Napanee Public Schools, under the direction of Mrs. Stafford Shetler, sang several numbers over the radio from CKWS at Kingston, on Friday evening of last week. Mrs. W. K. Huston was accompanist.

Between the numbers, J. A. Hill, Acting Principal of the Napanee Public Schools, gave a short address on the value of music in education.

Mr. Ego, Deseronto, was in charge of the programme.

NEARLY 500 BAGS MILKWEED PODS DELIVERED IN NAP.

Nearly five hundred bags of Milkweed Pods were delivered to the Armouries on Saturday last by the school children of the County.

Another receiving day will be held next Saturday, November 18th, when it is expected that another five hundred bags will be brought in.

Other receiving stations are held at Tamworth School and at Denbigh School.

Altogether about fifteen hundred bags will be gathered by the school children of the county.

BERT BEAUBIEN, HYDRO EMPLOYEE, DIED SUNDAY

The death occurred at his residence Robert Street, early Sunday morning, November 12th, of C. A. (Bert) Beaubien, after an illness of several weeks. He had been a resident of Napanee for the past thirty-two years during which time he had been an employee of the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Mr. Beaubien was born at Amherst Island about 54 years ago. When he was seven years of age his parents moved to Deseronto, where he attended the public and high schools before he became employed by the Hydro, in Napanee. On about the first day of the First Great War, he with two other members of the Hydro staff, P. U. Laidlev and the late Ray Moore, enlisted and served throughout the whole of the war in the Canadian army, being slightly injured.

In the years following the war he was actively identified in the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League and was instrumental in helping many members of the Legion to secure pensions and benefits. He was a past president of the Napanee Branch of the Legion and had been secretary-treasurer for the past ten years.

He was an active member of the Masonic Order and was a Past-Master of Union Lodge No. 9, A.F. & A.M., and was First Principal of Mount Sinai Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. In religion he was a member of the Presbyterian Church, but had been an adherent of Grace United Curch for some years.

He was a valued and skilful member of the Hydro staff and made many contacts with the public in his business capacity and through the Legion and Masonic Order.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Dorothy Conger, one daughter Phyllis at home and three sons, William, with the R. C. A. F. overseas, Maurice and Dick, at home. He also leaves one brother, Stuart, in Syracuse, N.Y.

His funeral was conducted at the Masonic Temple on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. R. K. Earls, of the Presbyterian Church, Amherst Island, who was assisted by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace United Church. Interment followed at Riverside cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. A. E. Holmes, W. O. Coates, K. S. Ham, Fred Carter, Fred Stafford, C. E. Henricks.

RETURN HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Among Canadian Army personnel who arrived home from overseas during the past week were Pte. P. C. Clark, son of Mr. Arthur Clark, Deseronto, and Gnr. G. Thompson, Bath, Ont.

PREMIER KING SEEKS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE ON ARMY STAND

Parliament Called for Nov. 22nd

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has decided to call Parliament to meet on November 22nd, instead of the scheduled date of January 31, in order to ask for a vote of confidence on the Government's decision to continue the voluntary system of supplying reinforcements for Canada's overseas forces.

The question of reinforcements will likely result in a full-dress debate and will mean that the Government goes to the country immediately in a general election will depend on how united the Liberal Party is.

Following is the text of Mr. King's statement calling Parliament:

"When, on August 15th, the House of Commons adjourned, on completion of current business, it was adjourned until Wednesday, January 31st, 1945, with the proviso set forth in the resolution that "if it appears to the satisfaction of Mr. Speaker, after consultation with His Majesty's Government, that the public interest requires that the House should meet at an earlier time during the adjournment, the Speaker may give notice that he is so satisfied and thereupon the House shall meet at the time stated in such notice, and shall transact its business as if it had been duly adjourned at that time."

"I have, on behalf of the Government, communicated with His Honor the Speaker, who is satisfied that it is in the public interest that the House should meet at this time.

"The Speaker has informed me that he is notifying the members to meet on Wednesday, the 22nd instant, at 3:00 o'clock."

LIEUT. GORDON MACGREGOR AWARDED M. C.

Mrs. Gordon MacGregor received word on Monday, from her husband, Lieut. Gordon MacGregor, that he had been awarded the Military Cross, following action at Caen, in France, with the Canadian Army.

Lieut. MacGregor, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex A. MacGregor, went overseas two and a half years ago with the Canadian Artillery and has been in action on the Western Front since 'D' Day.

PROMOTIONS OVERSEAS

In an official list of promotions of men serving overseas, issued by the Public Relations Officer, M.D. 3, Kingston, Major Frank L. Shipp, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, whose wife, formerly Margaret Walkers, is now residing in Napanee, was included as having been promoted to the rank of Acting Lieutenant-Colonel.

• • •

The name of Lieut. Jack H. Grange, was also listed as being now Acting Captain.

COL. W. E. KIDD SPEAKS AT RED CROSS REMEMBRANCE DAY

Urges His Audience to Perpetuate Annual Service

Since the inauguration of a branch of the Red Cross Society in this town, Remembrance Day has been observed by a special service on the Saturday nearest the official date. This year with Remembrance Day falling on a Saturday, which is the regular Red Cross open meeting day, the service took on an even greater significance than usual in the hearts of all present.

Flight - Lieutenant Cromuller Chaplain at the Mohawk Airport, was introduced to the splendid gathering by the President, Miss Lenore Hetrington and took over the duties of chairman. The National Anthem was sung, followed by prayer led by Flight - Lieutenant Cromuller, who introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Colonel Kidd, of Kingston.

Colonel Kidd, who at the outbreak of World War I. was vicar of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Napanee has served overseas as Craplain through what he termed the first chapter of World War I. and also in this, the second chapter. He exhorted his listeners not to let any indifference dim the desire to see one day aside, each year as a Remembrance Day, showing how from earliest Biblical Days, memorials were erected by the admonition of the Lord as a Remembrance of some outstanding victory, achieved by human hands indeed, but only through the earnest prayers and intercessions for Divine help and guidance. Many are spurred to heroic deeds of valor, but these are but the outward adornment of the spirit engendered in such prayer. Remembrance Day is not only a day of commemoration for the dead in both chapters of this great World War, but a fresh remembrance of the Divine guidance and intervention which will bring us in humility to victory.

In closing, Colonel Kidd gave the following poem in honour of The Red Cross.

A Tribute To The Red Cross.
Through peaceful years—in times of war.
In foreign lands on native shore.
There Foots on high a Heavenly sign
A flag of red and white design
A solid cross of red, that's placed
Upon a field of white, and graced
By ministers of loving noble deeds,
Who heal and comfort suffering needs
Through conflicts fierce. They're first to go
With helping hand the friend of foe.
Made living aid, through blood and slime
To save a life they race with time
Through battle-shelled-swept seas and storm
Their ships of mercy ride the foam
Like ghostly saviours, abroad the main.
To rescue struggling seamen brave
Like Angels, stable are on high
They wing their way through the battled sky
Past anti-aircraft, up and higher
To bring aid and some wounded there
From fighting planes they safely speed
The wounded men in urgent need
Of special care to patients pleased
With all required for aid and rest
Through the war torn lands — midst destruction
And starving souls, they constitute
The balm to be relief from fear and hate
And feed and clothe the homeless of the earth
In many lands was they do restore
The joyful touch of home to prisoners of war
They are the messengers of courage and cheer
To cheer anxious hearts of loved ones dear
Where storm and flood and wreck cause devastation
And fire, disease and plague cause fear
Their formed unto the Red Cross spirit
In each land, both the helping hand
In every nation over the world.
Where ever their standard is unfurled
In every living soul in tribute stand
To honour and salute the noble Red Cross band

Flight - Lieutenant Cromuller called on the Rev. C. D. McClellan to lead in prayer after which Archdeacon Dudley expressed a vote of thanks to Colonel Kidd, before pronouncing the benediction.

At the conclusion of the service refreshments were served by Mrs. Albert Hill, Miss Sexsmith and Miss Wai.

Mrs. Sneath spoke on behalf of the work-room and urged the women to rally round for the sewing. All over the province there has been a falling off of workers in the past few months, and the situation is serious. The society is now sewing on quilts which were sent out last February, and Mrs. Sneath urged everyone who could give even an hour each week to do so. If unable to come to the rooms to work, sewing may be taken home and done there.

The war is not won yet. Much rehabilitation will have to be done when the war is over. There is something everyone can do, either at the rooms or at home. Rooms are open on Tuesday Thursday and Saturday afternoons, from two o'clock on. Come in and see if there isn't some way to help.

WALTER BROOKS REPORTED MISSING

Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks, Dorland, have received word that their second son (Walter) is reported missing in Belgium, since November 1st. Their eldest son (Norman), suffered the loss of a foot in Italy, a few months ago.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT CENOTAPH ON REMEMBRANCE DAY

A short impressive Remembrance Day service was held at the County of Lennox and Addington Cenotaph at the Court House in Napanee, on Saturday, November 11th, at 10:45 o'clock.

The service commenced with music by the Boys Band, after which the hymn "O God our Help in Ages Past" was sung and the scripture lesson was read by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace Church.

Immediately following the two minutes' silence, prayers were offered by Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrille, rector of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church. Memorial wreaths were placed at the base of the Cenotaph by the Province of Ontario, the Napanee Branch of the Red Cross Society, the Napanee Post of the Canadian Legion, the Lennox and Addington District W. I., the 47th Field Battery (R) and the Boy Scouts.

Following the sounding of the Last Post, the service was brought to a close by the singing of "Abide With Me."

A COUPLE OF BOGIES

An editor of an American weekly periodical, which has a somewhat restricted circulation in Canada, has a couple of bogies. It is said that every night he looks under the bed to see if Mr. Roosevelt or The British Empire is there. He is having a bit of a time these days, tor he was quite sure that the recent Presidential election would get rid of one of them. To all appearance these bogies will continue, for quite a while, to haunt his slumbers.

There were plenty of bogies trotted out before November 7th, by which it was hoped to scare the American public. Now that the election is over and these bogies have been laid to rest, it might be a good thing if people, say, in Canada, might learn a lesson from what happened in the United States and forget all about the bogies.

One of the bogies which it was hoped would scare the voters in the United States, to death, was our old friend the Communist. During the election campaign, the Communist was dug up from somewhere, clothed, horned and tailed and sent out to frighten the voters. The Communists were going to get control of the government, if Mr. Roosevelt was re-elected. They had everything in their hands and Mr. Roosevelt would have to go kow-tow to them all during his term of office. Well it was a rather scary picture that was drawn up by the campaign literature department, but really it did not work. It failed to frighten the people, as it was hoped. The voters took it for what it was—a bogey, and nothing more.

Then, too, there was the C. I. O. The aggressive wing of Labor functioning through a political action committee, was pictured as the greatest menace to the American democratic way of life. The C. I. O. was linked up with Mr. Roosevelt and his political enemies were quite sure that if he should be re-elected the C. I. O. would run the country. This they tried hard to have the whole nation believe. Once again, the voters refused to be scared. Now that the election is over, this, too, is heard of no more. The C. I. O. bogey is seen for what it was—a bogey, and nothing more.

The election in The States made it clear that the majority of the electors were not to be intimidated by bogies. They knew that Mr. Roosevelt was a great democrat, that he had rendered good service, and that in the present international crisis, they approved of his conduct of the war. They broke all precedents by electing Mr. Roosevelt to a fourth term, that he might finish the task to which he had set his hand.

CORRECTS WRONG IMPRESSION

Hon J. L. Ralston, until recently Minister of National Defence, in a genuine spirit of loyalty and patriotism, waited until the Victory Loan drive was over before making any reference to the issue which his resignation had precipitated. Mr. Ralston says that the Prime Minister's address might leave the impression that Mr. Ralston's report advocated reinforcements in the next few months. Mr. Ralston says that was not his report. He makes it clear that there is need of reinforcements now. He further points out that with hostilities continuing throughout the winter, the shortage will become increasingly acute. Mr. Ralston says that even if the men from the N.R.M.A. were sent over at once, it would be the first of January or the fifteenth of January before they could get into action. Mr. Ralston says he recommended that the men from the N.R.M.A. be sent over in two groups, 8,000 each, and that the remainder be given training that would fit them to go overseas later. When the Cabinet refused to accept his recommendation, there was nothing left for him to do but to hand in his resignation at the Prime Minister's request.

This letter clears up the subject somewhat. In as much as the Prime Minister has not seen fit to publish the correspondence between himself and Mr. Ralston, some such statement was due the public. The statement makes it perfectly clear that from a first-hand study of the situation overseas, Mr. Ralston came to the conclusion that reinforcements were needed at once, and so recommended.

In view of all the evidence that has been forthcoming as to the need of reinforcements, it seems almost incredible that the Prime Minister should still hesitate to use the power for which he specifically asked the people of Canada and which was granted by plebiscite, and send overseas the men now trained and available.

There is, of course, only one reason why Mr. King hesitates, and that is because of the attitude of Quebec. The traditional hostility of Quebec to the Empire is well known. As a minority, the people in that Province have some rights, but the people in the other eight Provinces have some rights, too. If we know anything of the war aims, surely one of them is that Democracy should be defended and supported. Our boys are told that they are fighting for democracy. They are told that by the Government of Canada, and yet the same Government which sends boys overseas to fight and die for democracy, is itself breaking the first law of democracy, that the majority must rule.

Canada is being ruled by a minority. By a Province which takes all the benefits which come as a result of partnership in the British Empire, but which evades all responsibility. Just how much longer the Canadian people will be satisfied with minority rule, is a question. Certainly we are becoming a bit tired of high-sounding phrases about democracy, when the actual principles of democracy are being violated by our government, every day we live.

The boys overseas need reinforcements; the men are here; the Prime Minister has the mandate to send them over — but he fails to act. The Liberal organization in this area should let the Prime Minister know that our boys around here are dying, and that their places need to be filled. If Liberal groups all across Canada let the Prime Minister know that they are dissatisfied with his delaying tactics, maybe the soldiers at the front will get the reinforcements they need.

OVER THE TOP

Lennox and Addington went over the top in the Seventh Victory Loan. The total to-date for the County is $1,123,450. This is $123,450 more than the objective. There was deep satisfaction among the Members of the Committee on Saturday night, when the returns showed that the County had exceeded its quota by a generous margin. In the previous Loan the County failed to reach its allocation. This failure was a source of great disappointment to those in charge of the campaign. This time they were determined to retrieve the reputation of the County — it has been done. The amount by which the recent Loan was oversubscribed was more than the amount by which the County failed of its objective in the Sixth Loan. Taking the two Loans together, Lennox and Addington has exceeded the objectives. This Old Loyalist Community which has never failed to do its part, has upheld its reputation. Somehow or other, during the Sixth Loan, the public got the impression during the campaign that the money was coming in satisfactorily and it was not necessary to worry much about reaching the goal. This was reflected in the results. The Committee benefitted by the experience, however. At no point during the campaign just closed, were there any illusions as to the necessity of everybody doing his full share. Persistently and diligently, the Committee and the Collectors kept at it until the last minute. The results more than justify the effort that was made. The Committee has done a good job, and the public has responded nobly.

THE WONDER DRUG

If the war has contributed one thing more to the arts of peace than another, it is the new wonder drug, Penicillin. Dr. Alan Brown, physician-in-chief of The Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, Ont., says that the deaths from meningitis may be cut to the vanishnig point. In a report published in The Toronto Daily Star on Monday, Dr. Brown, says: "With the old serum treatment, our death rate was about 33 per cent," he said. "Then came the sulfa drugs and the rate was lowered to between seven and eight per cent. Now with penicillin it is down to two per cent, or less." That is an amazing record. Thus, one of the most dreaded of all diseases, seems to be robbed of its dread effects.

Dr. F. R. Heilman and Dr. W. E. Herrell, of the Mayo Clinic, according to a report in The New York Times, have also found that the germs af anthrax yield to penicillin. These germs are so tough that they resist most killing chemicals. "Mice' at least,', says the report, "receive some protection when penicillin is used against 10,000 times the lethal dose of anthrax germs, even when the treatment is not started until sixteen hours after inoculation. If treatment is started within an hour of inoculation with fewer germs, protection is perfect."

Here, then, are two of the most dreaded diseases, yielding to treatment of the new wonder drug. Canada is now producing this drug in sufficient quantities that in addition to the needs of the Army, a certain amount is available for the civilian population, in cases of special need.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, NOVEMBER 19TH, 1944

Text: Mark 12: 13-17. Romans 12: 8-10. I Peter 2: 13-17
CHRISTIANITY AND DEMOCRACY

There were Quislings in Palestine, in Jesus' day. Palestine was a subject country, under the heel of Rome just as France was under the heel of Germany for the past four years. Just now in Paris the courts are trying the collaborationists—the Quislings—and sentencing them to death. There were, in Palestine in Jesus' day, plenty of collaborationists—men who for their own advancement or for a bit of money, would try to incriminate their fellow citizens. There were those who tried this out on Jesus. Time and again they tried to get Jesus to say something which they could report to headquarters as a mark of His disloyalty. In the instance of to-day's lesson these collaborationists asked Jesus whether it was lawful to pay taxes to Rome. Jesus asked one of them for a small coin and pointed out that they themselves were paying tribute to Caesar when they used the currency with the image of Caesar stamped on it. He then made the famous statement: "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

The point of this saying is that one loyalty need not necessarily exclude another. Serving God and serving one's country are not necessarily exclusive. One can do both, indeed one must do both. Of course, in time of war there is often a question in the minds of some as to whether or not one can serve both. The result is that there are always conscientious objectors. The law makes provision for these. The Church recognizes the validity of the right of private conscience. But, as a general rule the worship of God does not mean disloyalty to the State. Indeed, a man has many responsibilities, many loya'ties; he must be loyal to his family, his church his community, his group, as well as to his country and his God. They are not mutually exclusive. Different loyalties and responsibilities mean rendering a variety of services. This is something the Pharisees who tried to trap Jesus had not thought about.

In the next section of the lesson, which is taken from Paul's letter to the Romans, the basis of democracy is set forth: "Owe no man anything save to love one another; for he that loveth his neighbour hath fulfilled the law." And then what follows, as Paul elaborates, means nothing more or less than deep respect for human personality. This marks the difference between democracy and other forms of government. In a totalitarian state, personality does not matter. It is the state, the race that counts. The stories which have come to us of the wholesale murder of Jews and Russians and Poles, is the logical working out of that idea. Once we accept the view that human beings are of less importance than the state, and that some human beings are of less importance that others, the natural consequence is slavery to the superior group, or extermination of the weaker. That is exactly what we have seen attempted in our own day.

There are tendencies even in a democracy towards fascism, or lack of appreciation of the worth of human personality. We may not have a class system based on birth here; we may not have a caste system of an hereditary character; but there are not lacking those who would subordinate certain groups and races to themselves. The wave of anti-semitism that is sweeping this country, is a sinister evidence of this. Christian people must keep ever before them this close relationship between democracy andthe worth of human personality, and be prepared to protest against any movement that would underrate the value of human beings. Once accept the Christian way of life, racial antagonisms will go, economic slavery will be abolished, and mutual trust and respect between all peoples and classes be established. That this situation does not now exist, must be admitted. It is the duty of the citizen, therefore to oppose even the state itself when this becomes an issue. Of course, Christians, Jesus pointed out, must obey the law. But that does not mean quiet acquiescence with all that law makes us do. Constructive criticism, the freedom of expression, are the means whereby the individual may urge his right to the end that a just and enduring peace may be established on the earth.

In the final verse of the lesson we have it all summed up: "Honour all men" i.e. respect human personality; "love the brotherhood" loyalty to the group; "fear God" i.e. the supreme loyalty; "honour the King" loyalty to the secretary bodies.

Earl Of Strathmore, Father of Queen, Passes On

London — The Earl of Strathmore, 89, father of Queen Elizabeth, died at 6 a.m. on November 7th, at Glamis Castle, his home in Forfarshire Scotland.

Lord Strathmore had been ill for about a month. His condition took a serious turn last week-end, and he was reported dangerously ill the night before he died.

Although he had been in failing health for some time the critical turn in his condition came unexpectedly. News of his death was conveyed to the Queen immediately.

The Fourteenth Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne was of a retiring nature, and had preferred living amid the heather-clad Scottish hills to court life in London.

"We have never aspired to court circles," he said in 1923 when his daughter married the then Duke of York. He described the match as "a marriage of love" between "an angelic girl" and a fine fellow and a clean Englishman."

Sir Claude George Bowes-Lyon succeeded to the title of Lord Strathmore in 1904. He came of a family which long had played a major part in Scotland's history, tracing his descent from the Lady of Glamis, a daughter of Robert II of Scotland.

His ancestral home, Glamis Castle also had survived much stormy Scottish history. Although the present building dates largely from the Seventeenth Century, much of the medieval stronghold, where—it is related in the chronicles upon which Shakespeare based his play—Macbeth murdered Duncan and seized his throne, still stands.

Happy in Estate

The Earl was tall and thin, with a large, drooping moustache. He was said to have been happiest clad in rough, country tweeds, overseeing work on his 24,700-acre estate.

He had served for a time as a lieutenant in the 2nd Life Guards and afterwards as honorary colonel of the 4th and 5th Battalions (Territorial) of the Black Watch.

For 22 years he was Lord-Lieutenant of Angus, and held the order of Knight of the Thistle.

In 1893 he married Nina Cavendish a member of the family of the Duke of Portland. She predeceased him some years ago.

Lord Strathmore's death brought the second bereavement to the Royal family in less than a fortnight. The court was due Thursday to go out of mourning for the death of Princess Beatrice, great-aunt of King George and last surviving child of Queen Victoria.

JUST TODAY

Dream not of days that used to be,
Or sigh for blue that now are gray.
Those joys and troubles once we knew
Have vanished now, and passed away.

Another day is yet to come;
And those before, alas, have gone.
Why worry over something lost,
Or something we have never known.

There is no yesterday, my dear.
There's no tomorrow just today.
Let's snatch our share of joy and life
And happiness while yet we may.

1,650,000 Aussies Engaged in War Work

Toronto, (CP) — Prof. D. B. Copland, Australian Prices Controller, said last week that of the Commonwealth's total working population of about 3,400,000 1,650,000 were engaged in direct war activities, exclusive of those producing clothing and food for the armed forces.

Speaking on "Australian economy in War" at the University of Toronto he said rigid rationing had been imposed on most things, that all forms of clothing, boots and shoes and household linen, and that without it Australia would have found it impossible to divert manpower to urgent war needs.

23 Jap Ships Sunk In October

Chungking, (A.P.) — The United States 14th Air Force sank 23 Japanese ocean-going vessels totalling 32,000 tons during October, a statement said recently.

One Japanese cruiser, a 225-foot naval vessel and two destroyers were sunk, one destroyer was probably sunk and one destroyer was damaged.

Japanese pincers closing upon the Kwangsi province defence centre of Liuchow now are only about 80 miles apart, the Chinese High Command disclosed.

South of this active theatre, Japanese troops pushing westward from Kwehsien were about twenty miles from Pinyang.

HAYWIRE'S A HELP . . . BUT

Haywire is mighty handy for many an emergency or a pair around the farm. But it won't do well if farm machinery and other expensive equipment breaks down. It's then that repairs and replacements can run into real money.

Loans to take care of essential repairs or replacements are always available at any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada. Money spent for such purposes is money well invested, because a breakdown on the farm often leads to serious and costly trouble. When you need cash to repair or replace machinery, or for any productive purpose, call on the manager of our nearest branch.

Helps Check Colds Quickly

You can often check a cold quickly if you follow these instructions.

Just as soon as you feel the cold coming on and experience headache, pains in the back or limbs, soreness through the body, take a Paradol tablet, a good big drink of hot lemonade or ginger tea and go to bed.

The Paradol affords almost immediate relief from the pains and aches and helps you to get off to sleep. The dose may be repeated, if necessary, according to the directions. If there is soreness of the throat, gargle with two Paradol tablets dissolved in water. Just try Paradol the next time you have a cold and we believe that you will be well pleased. Paradol does not disappoint.

MARLBANK

Marlbank, Nov. 13 — The death occurred at her home here, Tuesday morning, Nov. 7, of Annie Melburn, beloved wife of Mr. Biddie Meeks, at the age of 60 years. After a lengthy illness of about a year, during which time she was never hear to complain, she passed away. Deceased was of a quiet nature but made many friends as was shown by the large number who attended the funeral, which was held from her late home on Thursday afternoon to the United Church where her pastor, Rev W. H. Baush delivered a comforting message, taking for his text the 23rd Psalm, a favourite of the deceased. The choir rendered "Does Jesus Care." After the service the cortege proceeded to Kimmitt's burying ground, where interment took place. The bearers were all neighbours, namely: Messrs. T. R. and Roy Young, Basil Vandusen, John Kimmett, Nelis Allen and Charles Mouck. Deceased is survived by her sorrowing husband and two brothers, Harvey and Thomas Melburn, of this place, to whom sympathy is extended in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cassidy spent a couple of days with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Killorin, Ingle, and on Sunday accompanied by them, visited friends at Read.

Mrs. Sylvester Donahue spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beckwith.

On Saturday evening, October 21, a very successful auction sale was held in the church hall in aid of the local Red Cross. A large number of articles were donated. They were auctioned off by W. C. Marlin in his usual pleasing manner. Mrs. M. Brown acted as clerk for the sale. Refreshments were served and assisted of hamburgers, sandwiches, tea and coffee, and cake. Proceeds from the lunch and sale were $25. The lucky ticket on the cord of wood, donated by Thomas B. Tyner, was drawn by Donnie Asselstine. The lucky winner was Mr. Fred Booth. The amount of money raised by selling tickets on the wood was $45.25.

At a recent Red Cross meeting it was voted to send $50.00 to the Napanee Red Cross headquarters.

The sympathy of the concregation of this United Church is extended to Rev. W. H. Bauch, in the death of his father, which occurred in England recently.

News has been received here by Mr. Dave Turkington, that his nephew, Billy Turkington, has been seriously wounded in action overseas. Billy is a Marlbank boy, having spent all his life here until a couple of years prior to his enlistment. He worked in Peterboro, where his wife and young son now reside.

Much sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly, of Tweed, in the loss of their son, Francis, who has been killed overseas. Francis was born here and attended Public School here until his parents moved to Tweed. While here Mr. Kelly was proprietor of the O.K. House. The deceased young man was a member of Mr. M. S. Mulrooney here and had attained the office of Quartermaster Sergeant, in the R.C.A.F.

Miss Price, teacher of the Junior Room is a patient in the General Hospital, Kingston. Mrs. Baush of Tamworth is teaching as supply teacher during Miss Price's absence.

Mrs. T. R. Young was tendered a surprise, recently, on the occasion of her birthday, by her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Windover and family, of Sillsville, and Mr and Mrs. Earl Alexander and family, of Moneymore. A very pleasant evening was spent. All departed to their homes wishing their mother many more happy birthdays.

A number from here attended the Red Cross euchre held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nicholson, Erinsville, on Monday evening, November 6th. The prizes were all won by Marlbank ladies: 1st, Mrs. Jas. Burd, 2nd, Mrs. P. Marshall and low prize by Mrs. Billy Williams.

Mrs. Charles Mouck and Mrs. Wm. Lucas were recent visitors with Toronto friends.

Mrs. H. Allison, Trenton, spent a few days with friends here.

Mr. Jim Smith has gone to his home near Stone, after being engaged as helper in the Cheese Factory here, for the summer.

Mrs. P. Marshall left on Friday to spend a week visiting her sister, Velda Badgley, in Toronto.

Sergt. and Mrs. Vinet, York, Peterboro, spent Saturday here with Sergt. York's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. York.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Burd visited their daughter, Lillian, in Kingston on Sunday last.

E. Badgley has completed wiring the dwelling and farm buildings for Hydro, of Mr. Dennis Fleming, near Stone.

Mr. Badgley is wiring for Hydro the new residence of Mr. Tom Cunningham, at Tamworth.

Messrs. Matt. and Jas. Jordan of Kingston spent the week end at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jordan.

The Guild of St. Matthew's Church held a very successful bazaar and afternoon tea, on Saturday afternoon. A splendid array of aprons and other articles, a fish pond, also homecooking, found ready buyers. Afternoon tea, of sandwiches, cookies, cake and tea was well patronized. The sum of $31 was realized.

The sum of $11 was raised at the Pot Luck dinner held recently at the home of Mrs. Billy Williams.

Mrs. W. C. Marlin returned home on Sunday, after spending a week in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Stout and Bobby, Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Stout's mother, Princess Somerville.

There was a large attendance at church service in the United Church on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Baugh delivered a very eloquent sermon, taken from John 13th chapter. Next Sunday, Nov. 19, the United Church pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Pell, lately returned from West China. Everyone is invited to this service. Rev. Baugh will show lantern slides on Tuesday evening, Nov. 21 in the United Church.

Mrs. James Harten and Donna spent over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Dafoe, Westplain.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Nov. 13 — Tamworth has again lost one of her most respected citizens, in the person of the late Charlie Baker. Deceased was past 68 years of age and was the last of a family of four sons born to the late Mr. W. J. Baker and his wife, Mary Ann McGuire. His three brothers, William, James and Robert predeceased him, the latter only two years ago. Strange to say, none of the four brothers ever married, but had many staunch friends in this community where they were born, and lived, most of their lives. About five years ago the two brothers Robert and Charlie, moved from the Baker homestead at Beaver Lake, to a small farm at the west end of this village, where both have passed away. Deceased had been in failing health for the past four years, but had been about the village up to a few days before he passed away. He was a member of the L. O. L. Funeral services were held at Christ's Church, of which he was a member, Rev. P. O. Ware, his pastor, preached the funeral sermon and he was laid to rest in the cemetery adjoining the church. The pall-bearers were R. F. Bell, J. S. Haggerty, Edward Close, James Stinson, Alex. Haggerty and J. W. Bradshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Richmond received word from Ottawa, recently, that their son, the late John Reginald Richmond, had been promoted to the rank of Flight-Sergeant, posthumously.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Association was held on Tuesday, at the home of the president, Mrs. J. E. Huffman. Twenty-five members were present. Mrs. C. Lochead took charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Robert Gilmour conducted the devotional and gave the topic. A pleasing solo was sung, by Mrs. E. Bradshaw. The collectors handed in money collected for the ball supper fund. Bills were presented and ordered paid. It was moved by Mrs. Millar and Mrs. Huffman, that the W. A. give the Board $100.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Abbott, Selby, were week end guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gilmour.

Mr. James Anderson has been confined to his bed through illness during the past week.

Mr. F. W. Fraste, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, here, is confined to his home through illness, and is showing some improvement in his condition.

The fine sum of $36 was realized on Saturday, the results of Poppy Day. Several young girls were very active and deserve a great deal of credit for their diligent work through the day and evening.

Stirfield went over the top with Tuner Victory Loan drive, the objective being $80,000 and the sum of $66,000 being raised.

Mrs. W. H. Baugh is supplying as teacher in the Marlbank School as one of the teachers is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Cephas Johnston, of Belleville, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw.

Mr. W. G. Richmond is improving his property by putting insulating board on his dwelling here.

Mrs. Donald Johnston and daughter Donna have been guests at the home of Mrs. William Johnston, Gananoque, for the past week.

Mrs. A. A. Cassidien and daughter, Beatrice, of Kingston were week-end guests at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. G. H. Richardson.

Miss Lillie Rutenic of Kingston spent the past week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Philip McKim.

V

FOURTH LINE

Fourth Line, Nov. 6 — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Reid and Reta, of Napanee, spent the week end at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robson, of Morven, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Denyes.

Mr. Tom. Parlane, Halifax spent a few days here with his wife.

MR. MRS. CHARLES BROOKS CELEBRATE THEIR DIAMOND ANNIVERSARY

On Sunday, October 29th, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks were at home to their children and friends on the occasion of their Diamond Wedding Anniversary. The home was beautifully decorated with white and yellow streamers, and white and gold bells over the tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks are the oldest couple in the Hayburn district, and although Mr. Brooks has had poor health for some time, still was very active and cheerful on the anniversary day and enjoyed visiting with everyone. Mrs. Brooks is still doing all her own household duties. They are Anglican in religion and staunch Conservatives in politics.

Of this union there are eleven children, all of whom were home for the occasion, as well as several grandchildren. At noon thirty-seven guests sat down to a bountiful dinner prepared by the daughters and daughters-in-law, the table being decorated with a huge wedding cake, made by a daughter, Mrs. Purse. The eldest son, Irvine, proposed the toast to which Mr. Brooks made a fitting reply.

Following the dinner the children presented their parents with occasional chairs, Miss Clara Lloyd, a grand-daughter, reading the address, and Norman Brooks, a grandson, recently returned from Italy, made the presentation. Mrs. Brooks received a lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums from Norman, as well. In the afternoon they were also visited by Rev. Secker of the Anglican Church at Adolphustown, who led in singing of 'Blest be the Tie that Binds,' and closed with prayer.

The children are Irvine and William, of Adolphustown; George of Sharp's Corners; Edward, Napanee; Percy, of Deseronto; Aubrey, of Demorestville; Arthur and Mrs. Purse (Flossie) of Hayburn; Mrs. Dudgeon (Ida), Selby; Mrs. Lloyd (Hazel), of Point Ann and Mrs. Wickett (Clara) of Belleville.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wickett of Foxboro.

They received many cards of congratulations and all join in wishing them many more years of health and happiness.

ENTERTAINED MEMBERS OF OF SILLSVILLE RED CROSS

On November 8th Mrs. P. Young entertained the members of Sillsville Red Cross. Mrs. Young had the quilt on the frames on our arrival and it was tied, as there is always a considerable amount of war work done at every meeting. Some very appreciative letters were the business part of the meeting. Mrs. Garnet Dupre gave a splendid report of the W. I. Convention, held in Kingston in October.

All joined in singing O Canada after which Mrs. F. Stafford gave a demonstration of inexpensive gift-suggestions. This was followed by a very interesting address on Home Economics by Mrs. A. Graham, president of Victoria Institute, which was greatly appreciated. A contest conducted by Mrs. Sexsmith, was won by Mrs. Dupre.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served.

William Craven, Bath, R.R. 1, for allowing a bull to be at large, was remanded until called upon after payment of costs of the court.

Norman Laraby, Yarker, for careless driving, paid $10.00 fine and costs of $5.60. Mr. Laraby also pleaded guilty to using other than graded gasoline in exchange for a valid coupon, and paid $15.00 and costs.

Newburgh Students Conduct Campaign

The students of Newburgh High School conducted a campaign in buying War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Bonds for the three weeks' period October 23rd to November 10th.

Three teams, including all the students were chosen under captains Betty McLeod, Newburgh; Francis Murphy, Enterprise, Maurice Salsbury, Camden East. Interest was very keen throughout the campaign, and the standings of the teams were very close until the last day, when the McLeod and Salsbury teams forged ahead:

The final standing was as follows:
Salsbury team	$ 960.50
McLeod Team	855.75
Murphy Team	305.00
Total for school	$2111.25

The members of the winning team were as follows: Maurice Salsbury, captain; Edward Evans, Jack Thompson, Marjorie Huffman, Ronald Wilson, Leafa Drew, Isobel Allen, Victor Keech, Glenn Young, Joan Boyce, Raymond Freeman, Noreen Whalen, Grace Cook, Margaret McKeown Gwen Brady, Ray Dens, Mary O'-Donoghue, Beth Greig, Fred Lochhead, Donald Murphy, Ruth Morgan, Erma Wagar, Jean Nugent, Pat. Hawkins, Norma Gerow, Helen Hannah, Vincent Joyce.

During the campaign the following purchased one or more certificates: Marjorie Huffman, Ronald Wilson, Donald Murphy, Jean Nugent, Betty McLeod, Eileen Hounslow, Ross Turner, Doris Ward, Vivian Craig, Francis Murphy, Colleen Moore, Norris Drew, Betti Allore, Arthur Jackson, Geneva Robinson, Lloyd Nugent.

The bond buyers were as follows: Maurice Salsbury, Edward Evans, Jack Robinson, Ronald Wilson, Leafa Drew, Isobel Allen, Victor Keech, Joan Boyce, Gwen Brady, Fred Lochhead, Betty McLeod, Ronalds Huffman, Eleanor Freeman, Helen Covert, Allan Lampkin, Norma Wartman, Betty Allore, Margaret McLeod, Irene Keech, Arthur Jackson.

The average purchase per student enrolled was $25.75.

The students are to be congratulated on their very fine showing, and the team captains on their handling of the campaign.

Hay Bay Jubilee Services

The 50th anniversary of the erection and dedication of Hay Bay United Church was fittingly celebrated on the week-end of November 5th. Sunday services were conducted by the minister, Rev. F. J. Armitage and special sermons were preached by a former pastor, Rev. S. L. Osborne, of Port Credit. Large congregations were present. Special music was rendered by the choir, and Mrs. W. McCabe presided at the organ.

The church has been beautifully renovated and other work done, and a new electric lighting system has been installed and donated by Mr. Wilfred McCabe, so that the church now presents a very attractive appearance.

On Tuesday evening the ladies served a most bountiful chicken supper, assisted by men servitors, to over four hundred patrons. A splendid concert followed in which the following took part: Mrs. Pringle, Miss Fay Sexsmith Messrs. Fred Stafford, Allen Aylesworth, Jack Caldwell and Walter Blakely. The proceeds were $310, and in every way the anniversary was a great success.

Congratulations are due to the people of Hay Bay on this fine effort to beautify and improve their church

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

BUTTER DECLINE IS NOW HALTED

For the first time in several months the report for October of the Creamery Instructors of Ontario, issued by C. E. Lackner, Director of the Dairy Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, indicates a trend towards an increase in butter production as compared with last year. The report states that while October production was down a little from 1943 towards the end of the month production trends for most sections of the Province indicate that the quality of cream being supplied to creameries shows a definite improvement over a year ago.

Considerable interest is being taken in local group meetings of the Ontario Creamry Association in the 48-hour week for creameries, Mr. Lackner reports.

Fewer Cranberries Now The Outlook

Because of reduced crops this year in both Canada and the United States there will be fewer fresh cranberries on the market this year, according to the Prices Board. Retail prices are, however, selling canned cranberry sauce at 12 fluid ounces for one pre serves coupon.

It Takes Minerals to Produce Milk!

It's a well-known fact that a large proportion of Ontario Dairy herds suffer from mineral deficiency, to some extent, during the Fall and Winter months.

Dairy cattle in heavy milk production need lots of minerals. If minerals are lacking or low in the feeds they get, they'll drop in production, lose health and vitality, and stop paying their way as an efficient income source.

By supplying your cows with SHUR-GAIN ESSENTIAL MINERALS for CATTLE, you insure adequate health, promote good milk flow, and keep deficiency disease in check. SHUR-GAIN CATTLE MINERAL is rich in calcium and phosphorus in the proper ration to assure strong bone formation, high milk production, and vigorous health. Iodine, Iron and Salt are also included for added efficiency.

SHUR-GAIN ESSENTIAL MINERALS for CATTLE are needed when grains alone make up the mash fed, or when grains plus purely protein supplements make up the mash.

PRESENTATION MADE TO THE MCFARLANE FAMILY

About fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan McFarlane, Forest Mills, to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Dorland McFarlane and family before their departure to their new home at Belleville. The following addresses were read:

Dear Dorland and Lizzie and Girls: We, your friends and neighbors have gathered here to-night to spend a pleasant evening with you, before your departure to your new home. We will miss you from the community and our wish for you is good luck, good health and prosperity among your new friends and neighbors.

Betty, Shirley and Marie will be truly missed from our Sunday school where they always so willingly did their part, in the work of the class. We wish for them health and continued success in their school work and Sunday school. We hope that you will ever remember your old neighbors at and around Forest Mills, and feel that at any time you will be welcome, should you at some future time, desire to renew your acquaintance here. As a token of our esteem we ask you to accept this gift and as you use it may it serve to remind you of your friends at Forest Mills.

(Signed on behalf of the Community of Forest Mills.)

Dear Lizzie:

As we have learned with deep regret, that you are going to leave our neighborhood, we could not let you go with showing our appreciation toward you and assuring you we feel the loss of your removal from our midst. We ask you to accept this gift as a slight remembrance of the friends you are leaving. We want to thank you for the help you have always been so willing to give whenever opportunity made it possible.

We most sincerely hope you may enjoy health and prosperity in your new home.

(Signed on behalf of the Forest Mills W. A.).

Mr. McFarlane thanked the neighbors and the W. A. on behalf of his wife and family for the lovely chest of silver from the community, also the pyrex flameware sauepan from the W. A. A cordial invitation was extended to all to visit them in their new home.

"For They are Jolly Good Fellows," was sung by all which brought a delightful evening to a close.

DR. A. S. ORTON WILL BE PREACHER AT TRINITY CHURCH

Rev. Arnot S. Orton, M.A., S.T.M., D.D., Professor of Homiletics, and Professor of Old Testament literature at Emmanuel College, Toronto, will be in charge of the services at Trinity United Church and will preache both morning and evening.

Dr. Orton, who is a close personal friend of Rev. G. M. and Mrs. Chidley will be remembered by the members of the congregation of Trinity Church and many citizens of the community who heard him when he was the anniversary preacher at Trinity church, four years ago. He is a preacher of outstanding ability and his services are in great demand throughout the province. Trinity Church is fortunate in having him again offer his services for next Sunday.

MEMORIAL SERVICE JACK THOMPSON AT GRACE CHURCH

On Sunday evening, November 12 an impressive memorial service was held in Grace Church, in memory of Ross Clifford (Jack) Thompson, who was reported killed in action October 13th, 1944, in Holland. The minister, Rev. C. D. McLellan conducted the service, and in his address made a strong appeal for an equal sacrifice from the living so that the sacrifice of the dead would not be in vain. He used as a text the 10th verse of the 48th chapter of Isaiah: "I purged you nothing came of it; testing you in the furnace, all in vain." The minister quoted some stanzas from Lawrence Binyon's poem 'To The Fallen' and read verses from Revelation.

The 47th Battery R. C. R. C. A. paraded to the service as Jack had been a member of the Battery before enlisting in the active army. Flowers in his honour were placed in the church by the 47th Battery, by the Gibbard Furniture Shops, where he worked prior to enlistment, by his wife, Mrs. Pearl Thompson, by his parents, Mr and Mrs. Archie Thompson, by his brothers and sisters, and by Mrs. Scilley.

A cornet solo "Faith of Our Fathers" was rendered by Major Luxton of The Salvation Army, and the choir number was "Hear My Prayer" with solo by Mrs. Harold Denison. Mrs. B. M. Black presided at the organ.

Following the service flowers were taken to the sick and shut-ins of the congregation, including two basket which had been placed in the church by the family of the late Mr. W. H. Rogers.

WEDDING BELLS

FRENCH - BROOKS

St. Alban's Church, Adolphustown was the setting for a quiet but well wedding on November 4th, at 10 o'clock p.m., when Janet Helen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Brooks became the bride of Raymond Arthur, second youngest son of Mrs. French and the late Mr. French, of Conway. Rev. H. C. Secker performed the ceremony.

The bride looked charming, attired in a blue tailored suit with black accessories, while her attendant, Miss Betty McEwen, cousin of the groom, was becoming attired in a brown tailored suit, and they both carried bouquets of gold coloured 'mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Evan Brooks, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony, the bridal party and a few of their most intimate friends partook of a luncheon at the bride's home before leaving on a motor trip to Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara and Galt.

On their return they will take up residence at Newburgh.

IF HEAD COLDS HANG ON..
DO THIS! To relieve discomforts, one of the best things you can do is put a good spoonful of home-tested Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water.
Then feel welcome relief come as you breathe in the steaming medicated vapors that penetrate to the cold-congested upper breathing passages! See how this soothes irritation, quiets coughing, and helps clear the head—bringing grand comfort.
FOR ADDED RELIEF... rub throat, chest and back with VapoRub at bedtime. Vicks VapoRub works for hours—2 ways at once—to bring relief from distress. Remember it's Vicks VapoRub you want! VICKS VAPORUB

NO TRAVEL TIME ON HOLIDAY LEAVES
Ottawa, (CP) — Personnel of the three armed forces in Canada will not be allowed any travelling time in addition to the five days leave they get either at Christmas or New Years, Defence Headquarters said this week.
Headquarters said this meant that personnel from Eastern Canada and stationed on the West Coast could not possibly get home during the holiday season. The same applied to Western-ers stationed in the East. However, some personnel would be taking their annual leave during the season and this would give them sufficient time to reach their homes and return to their bases.

Watertown and other United States points.

The Woman's Association of Hawley United Church, of which Mrs. Sam. Parks is president, held a bazaar and pie social in Sillsville Hall on Friday evening. There were a number of beautiful pieced quilts a quantity of fancy goods, towels, doylies, pillow slips and fancy articles; also some cunning hand-made toys that won the hearts of children present. Home-cooking, pickles, white elephant parcels and potted slips of plants completed the display. After nine o'clock a programme with the Rev. Mr. Robinson as chairman, was given. This consisted of several numbers by the Bath choir; two readings by Mr. Sam Baird, a trio by three girls, a reading by Mr. Robinson, vocal solos by Arthur Wright, a piano solo by Gwen Huyck and community singing. Following the program Mr. Sam Baird acted as auctioneer and sold the few remaining articles.

Then the ladies, with the gentlemen acting as waiters, served sandwiches, pie and coffee. About $125 was realized.

WILSON'S CROSSING

Wilson's Crossing, Nov. 13. — The late Fall has given the farmers ample opportunity to finish up their season's work.

Mr. Thomas Breen and children paid a visit on Mrs. T. Breen, Sr., at Wilkinson, recently.

Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved families of the late Mr. Ed. Dillon and the late Mrs. J. Dillon, both of whom are well known in this locality.

A number from here attended the concert sponsored by the United Church on Saturday night. A group of the R.C.A.F. and the R.A.F. of Kingston, put on the programme, which was much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. William Dowling has been ill with Dr. Horton in attendance. She is much improved at present.

Messrs. Everett Hearns and William Potter, our local deer hunters, returned home on Thursday night with a five-point buck.

Mrs. M. H. Switzer and Mrs. Russell Switzer called at the home of Mrs. William Potter, on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. John Finn entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Dillon, John Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Finn, Messrs. Pat. and Michael Finn. Mr. Joe Dillon, and Mrs. A. Moran and children, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Hopkins and Mr. and Mrs. W. Barrett, and Miss Betty Barrett, for Sunday dinner.

Mrs. R. Potter spent Wednesday last at the home of Mrs. Alfred Cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Potter were at the home of Mr. Bruce Weese, on Sunday.

HAWLEY

Hawley, Nov. 13. — Mrs. J. Chambers opened her home for the meeting of the Maple Leaf W. I. Thursday afternoon, Nov. 9th. The president, Mrs. Ackerman, presided, assisted by the secretary, Miss Hazel Cummings. There was a splendid attendance of members and visitors and the roll call was answered by the latest victory by the Allies. Communications were read and business dealt with. It was moved, and seconded that $5.00 be given each school for Junior Red Cross work and the annual donation be sent for the wreath at the Cenotaph on November 11th. Mrs. Fred Perry gave a very humorous reading. Mrs. Ackerman gave a very interesting report on the Kinaston Convention he'd in October, which was followed by a contest under the supervision of Mrs. Vernon Ackerman, which was won by Mrs. Bert Fretts. A vote of thanks was tendered those taking part in the programme, the hostess and the lunch committee. The meeting was closed with the National Anthem, and refreshments were served.

A number attended the bazaar and pie social at Sillsville Hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the Hawley W. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fretts of Napanee, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fretts.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fretts were in Ottawa last week visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Fretts were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fretts on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ackerman spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Parks.

DENBIGH

Denbigh, Nov. 13 — Many hunters are again enjoying their annual sport in this community but so far not all have been fortunate enough to secure their deer.

The Hunters' Ball on Friday night last was well attended by old friends and new.

Pte. K. Glaser, R.C.A.M.C., Kingston, spent the past week with his parents, here.

W.O. 1 Sam Rowe, McDonald, Man. arrived on Tuesday last to spend a few days with his wife and little son, at the home of his wife's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Glaser.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities

This is the Fifth in a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get full details, save and read every advertisement.

For complete information, write for the booklet, "Back to Civil Life."

Care for the Wounded and Ill —

CANADA'S TREATMENT AND PENSION LEGISLATION

Canada has assumed as a minimum obligation to members of the armed forces that, Before their return to civil life, the fullest possible measures shall be taken towards physical fitness, and that pension shall be provided for any permanent disability due to service. Full medical service is provided and veterans' hospitals have been established from coast to coast. Equipment for the most modern types of treatment has been installed, and leading specialists in all branches of medicine and surgery have willingly placed their services at the disposal of veterans.

There is free treatment with allowances to every discharged person for the first year after return to civil life and free treatment with allowances for pensioned conditions is available throughout the pensioner's life.

Those discharged from the forces unable to work and in need of continuing treatment may have their pay and allowances of rank continued for one year, if necessary, and for longer when treatment is still required for a pensionable condition.

PENSIONS

Pension is awardable under three simple and easily understood conditions:

1. When the veteran has served in a theatre of war, death or any permanent disability not due to misconduct is pensionable.
2. (a) When the veteran has served in Canada only, death or disability caused by service is pensionable.
   (b) Death or serious disability not due to service may be pensionable if hardship would otherwise result.

JOBS FOR DISABLED

A very wide program of education is being carried on continuously so that veterans who suffer a disability as a result of their war service may have a full and happy future. Many volunteer associations are assisting in this work, while specialized help is available from such organizations as the War Amputations of Canada, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and the Canadian Society for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing.

THE COMMUNITY'S RESPONSIBILITY

This series of advertisements has given, in brief form, an outline of the Canadian re-establishment program for ex-service men and women. The responsibility, however, is not entirely that of Parliament. It can provide legislation and funds but in the final analysis it must be the veterans themselves and the people of Canada who make the program work. The public support so far has been unstinted, but successful administration requires further public support. Understanding and effort by the whole people are needed.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES— Including Farmers

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possesses documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944 (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);

2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;

3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee now working for him, whose documents he has not checked before, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division at once on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;

4. Any male employee here referred to is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;

5. FOR THIS PURPOSE "EMPLOYER" INCLUDES ANY FARMER OPERATING A FARM, WHO HAS A MALE PERSON WORKING FOR HIM;

6. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada, including farmers, co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st, last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9, for reporting to the Registrar, and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Farmers not needed on the farm during the winter, who answer the urgent call for winter workers in other essential industries, will be given a continuance of postponement of military training while away from the farm.

COLEBROOK

Colebrook, Nov. 11. — A Hallowe'en supper under the auspices of the Woman's Association of the United Church, was held on Monday night, October 30th, in the Orange Hall. A concert followed, in the church. A large crowd attended the supper and concert. The concert was given by outside and local talent and was much enjoyed by those present. Those who assisted in the concert were the Love Quartette, Mrs. P. Galbraith and Miss Mary Purcell, and the soldiers from Kingston. A neat sum was realized from the bazaar, which was held in connection with the supper. The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, acted as chairman for the concert.

The pupils and teacher, Miss Mary Purcell, of the Public School, had a Hallowe'en party on October 31st, in the afternoon to which the young children of the section and their mothers, were invited. A programme was put on by the pupils, after which games and lunch were enjoyed by all present.

On Wednesday night, November 1, the members of the Woman's Association of the United Church, held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Alex. Curl, Camden East. There was a good attendance of members. After the worship service, which was led by Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. Love, president, presided for business. Following the business, Miss Duff, travelling secretary of the W.C.T.U. gave a short address, which was followed by lunch served by the hostess and committee. Miss Duff gave a splendid temperance talk to the pupils of the Public School on Thursday forenoon.

Yarker-Colebrook held their meeting at Mrs. Greenway's, Yarker, on Wednesday night at 8 p.m. Mrs. R. Freeman led in the worship service, the theme being For Their Sakes. After the worship service, Mr. Fletcher, pastor, took charge and conducted the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Hawley; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Galbraith; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Switzer; Secretary, Mrs. Purcell; Treasurer, Mrs. Galbraith; Corr. Secretary, Mrs. Wright; Temp. Secretary, Mrs. R. Freeman; Missionary and Maintenance Secretary, Miss Porter; Christian Stewardship, Mesdames S. LIEUT. TED SILLS WRITES OF EXPERIENCES BEFORE BEING WOUNDED

Now Convalescing in English Hospital

The Letters Were Received by Mrs. Lynn Crossman, from her Son, Lieutenant W. E Sills.

Belgium, Oct. 8.

Belgium is the nicest country we have seen yet including England. On one hand, it is a country that is ultra modern to the 'nth' degree and on the other, a country that has kept all its tradition and colour. King Leopold apparently believed in having the latest of everything. The highways he built are beautiful four-lane jobs, the best I've ever seen with great overhead bridges and crossings. The cities and towns have modern chromium front stores and the merchants are digging out their hidden stocks now and opening up shop. As for the people—well, for the most part they are perfectly grand. They would do anything for us. Where our position is, there are a number of homes nearby. The folks insist on the fellows off duty sleeping in their houses and they also invite them in for meals—some even bring things right out to the guns for the boys, to eat and drink. What a change it is for the boys to sleep in beds instead of in vehicles or in slit-trenches. My command post is right in a doctor's backyard. He studied in the States before the war, and speaks good English—so we have some fine talks.

Modern as Belgium is, it still has left its cobblestone roads and streets in the towns and villages; and the farmers still wear their wooden shoes.

I received with much appreciation Lareel No. 14. It was grand as they always are. It's funny how we lose track of time. We hardly know what day of the week it is—or the date—and we care less; except, as now, we know to-morrow is Sunday because church service has been arranged, and let me tell you we have plenty to thank God for! France was pretty grim!

October 16

Here we are waiting to push off again We have had a grand two-day rest getting ourselves all together again. Our area is in a summer resort in a lovely forest of evergreens, with winding paths, garden seats, pools, etc. The summer homes are beautiful very modern design and the fellows have almost life-size figures, beautifully carved and painted of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs in their front garden at the edge of the woods. It looks just like the movies with some of the Disney characters in rustic arched bridges and with Snow White standing beside the wishing well.

We've been having a pretty easy time lately, with a large town nearby which has fine stores, and most important, ice cream parlours.

• • •

No. 6 Can. Gen. Hospital
Belgium, November 1st.

I hope you get this letter before any of those official notifications. However, I've got a tiny piece of "Jerry" (me) in my forehead and I've been wearing it first above the knee cap for twenty-four hours. Now it is in my billfold! The story is as follows: I was out on a patrol, when the squadron of tanks, or, if tanks could not be used, with the leading infantry company. For the whole two weeks I was out I saw more excitement and fierce fighting than I could ever have imagined possible. We ran into everything—anti-tank guns, mortars, machine guns, snipers, bazookas and almost as much heavy shelling as we do ourselves.

Yesterday, I had to leave my tank and go up with an infantry company who were to take and hold a bridgehead over a blown bridge. We did it, but "Jerry" had it covered with snipers, machine guns and anti-tank guns. I had some grand targets for my regiment to hit. In the afternoon "Jerry" started mortaring and shelling and generally making a nuisance of himself. We sat at company headquarters in a house just beside the bridge and watched the house being gradually demolished; and watched while, one by one, our casualties were taken away. I was just making my dy to the door to get at the scout car to radio a target for my regiment, when something right in front of me another shell and a bit of pain in my right thigh. I started walking my way out of the house and back to my tank a mile behind and was followed half-way with mortar fire and anti-aircraft bursts; but I made it! Then I started down the lines of communication of the medical services which are superb. First, to the Regimental Aid Post of the Armoured Regiment to which I am attached, where the Medical Officer dressed the wound and told me to go to my regiment. So I got my tank and off I went another mile to the regiment, where our own M.O. had a look at the leg and thought there might be shrapnel in it. So he re-dressed it with sulphanilimyde and off I went miles back to an advanced dressing station. Here they verified the diagnosis and gave me four pills and filled out more papers which started accumulating from the first R. A. P. Then I went by a large ambulance, feeling perfectly O.K., back to the casualty clearing station, where I was given food—the first that day, and it was now 9:00 pm—and filled out more papers and was shipped back to this General Hospital. Here, after more questions had been answered, more papers made out, I was given a bed with sheets, and hot water for a bath—(you see, the five of us in the tank crew had had to sleep in the tank every night, which is definitely cramped and uncomfortable, and we never had our clothes off for two weeks and we hadn't been able to wash much oftener). So the whole thing seemed like heaven. It took about two coats of soap and water to get white again. By then, I was visited by three padres, who were making their rounds, and every three hours I had a needle of penicillin. Then this morning I was X-rayed and visited by a major doctor—then no dinner, and about two o'clock they wheeled me to the operating room, where I saw my Xrays. Then I was given a shot in the left arm, of pentolan which is a great anaesthetic. I went out like a light, almost immediately and when I came to, it was just the same as coming out of a deep sleep, no nausea, just drowsy—Aanyway, that's the story to-day. I am feeling fine and having a great rest.

No. 6 Can. Gen. Hospital.
Belgium, November 3.

Well, it looks as if my days of battle are over for a while, because to-morrow I'm being flown back to England to a hospital there. It is not that my wound is serious, because it is far from that, but it is going to take time to heal. What hurts more than anything is that I must leave for awhile, the best Artillery Regiment in the Army, which I've been with since it was mobilized over two years ago.

Sure wish this thing was over for good and we could all go home. War is so absurd—caused by so few and involving millions. When one sees the innocent people who are involved, the civilians here who have lived under terrible conditions and now they see their homes first made into strongholds and then demolished. To illustrate just one of the many incidents I have seen: We had just made an attack and I and my tank and another tank had bogged down. I walked to the farmhouse nearby, which we had shot up to clear out some "Jerries". Outside the house I heard guttural voices coming from a dug out. I yanked out my pistol and yelled "Komen sie auch! Hande Hoch! Come out! Hands up!" I expected a bag of prisoners but instead, out came three men and five women; old and young; all crying and all hysterical. When they recognized me, they shook my hand and burst into more tears and offered me some of their ersatz coffee. I noticed their house smoking and a few minutes later, it burned to the ground, with all their possessions.

War is certainly hell!

DEAN SEELEY TO BE SPEAKER AT YOUTH SERVICE

The second in the series of Youth Services in Napanee churches, during the winter, will be held next Sunday evening November 26th, at 7:00 o'clock, in St. Mary Magdalene's Church.

Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seeley, Dean of Ontario and Rector of the Cathedral of St. George, Kingston, will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Seeley, who has just recently been appointed Provost of Trinity College, Toronto, is described as a "forceful and energetic man, an intelligent and enlightened speaker." He undoubtedly will have a message of great interest to young people and his address will be of interest as well to adults and older people. Everyone is invited to attend the service.

Following the church service there will be a social hour in the church school room for young people.

English Bride Arrives at Napanee

Among a group of English warbrides who arrived in Canada last week, en route to their soldier husband's homes, was Mrs. Mary E. Galt, wife of Private W. Galt, and two children, Wilma three years, and John, two years.

Pte. Galt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Galt, of Stirlevile.

Mrs. Galt and her two young children arrived in Napanee Sunday and were met at the C. N. R. station by members of her husband's family and H. L. VanLuven, Mrs. E. J. Pollard and Mrs. William Burns, representing the Napanee Red Cross, who looked after the comfort of the children and welcomed the family to Canada.

Mrs. Galt expressed her great appreciation of the efforts of the Red Cross.

SCHOOL PUPILS COLLECT FUNDS FOR NAVY LEAGUE

Pupils of School Section No. 1, South Fredericksburgh, of which Mrs. Ross Lasher is the teacher, canvassed the whole neighborhood recently for donations for the Navy League and collected the sum of $20.40.

Last year the pupils collected $14.65 for the Navy League and this year set an objective of $18.00, which they succeeded in exceeding by $5.40

Chimney Fire at 'The Arcadian'

About 10:30 a.m., on Monday morning this week, the firemen were called to the Arcadian Restaurant, where the chimney serving both the Restaurant and Hogarth's Store was on fire.

The fire was confined to the chimney and no damage was done to the buildings on either side of it

PTE. R. A. PARKS OFFICIALLY LISTED KILLED IN ACTION

In last week's issue of The Beaver there appeared a short article stating that Pte. Raymond Arthur Parks, who was reported, in Napanee, to have been killed in action, was not listed officially as a casualty.

Since the article appeared in last week's paper, we have learned that the young soldier in question was killed in action on October 9, 1944.

We were prompted to print the item when Mr. Isaac Lasear following word received by the Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society from the Records Department in Ottawa, that Pte. Parks was not listed as a casualty.

News of his death was first given out in Napanee by Mrs. Reta Coulter, who had been so informed by the young man's mother, in Toronto. Since members of his family had not been directly informed of his death, Mr. Barrett, the C.A.S. Superintendent made inquiry from Ottawa on their behalf.

This week Mrs. Coulter received from Mrs. Parks in Toronto, the official telegram from the Director of Records, which read as follows:

Ottawa, October 19, 1944.

Mrs. Helen Parks
9 Napier Street, Toronto

Minister of National Defence deeply regrets to inform you that C 120939, Rifleman Raymond Arthur Parks has been officially reported killed in action. Ninth October, 1944. Any further information becomes available, it will be forwarded as soon as received.

Director of Records.

NAPANEE COUNCIL MAKES ARRANGEMENTS FOR POULTRY FAIR

Dates Set are Nov. 29-30 and December 14

At the meeting of the Town Council last Wednesday evening, Councillor Vanalstine reported that dates for the Napanee Fairs had been set for November 29th and 30th and December 14th. The usual buyers had been contacted and five at least had signified intention of attending the fair.

Charles McConnell, by letter and in person, asked for a rebate on his business tax, in view of the fact that the town was continuing in the wood business this winter in opposition to the dealers. Mr. McConnell stated that he considered the town's action unfair, in view of there being no national fuel emergency this winter. After consideration the Council decided against taking any action regarding Mr. McConnell's request for a rebate.

Mr. Clare Russell appeared before the Council and presented a bi'l for $21.86 for expenses incurred by him in replacing springs in his car which were broken on the road leading from Vine's Corners to his farm. Several Councillors stated they had been over the road in question and found it to be in a very bad state of repair. Councillor Luffman, Chairman of Streets, said some attempt had been made to repair the road, but owing to scarcity of help the necessary work could not be completed. The question of payment of Mr. Russell's account was left in the hands of the Finance Committee to report.

P. J. Vanalstine, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Department, reported that following the dismissal of D. Chambers, driver of the fire truck, Cecil McGregor had been appointed to fill the position on probation for three months, beginning October 16th, at $18.00 per week, with free apartment, water heat and light.

If Mr. McGregor's services are found to be satisfactory, he will be engaged permanently.

A by-law fixing February 15th as the last date, each year on which the Board of Education must submit its estimates for requisition of funds from the municipality was given its several readings and was passed.

A by-law fixing the polling places and naming the deputy-returning officers and poll clerks for the municipal election on Monday, December 4th, was passed.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Reeve Stratton, chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the Treasurer's statement of receipts and expenditures from January 1st to——

Among the items in the receipts were: Taxes, $95,713.44; Penalties on tax arrears, $678.61; licenses $606.00; rents, $225.00; fines and fees, $459.67; relief refunds, $299.93; relief grants, $1,112.34; Liquor Control Board, authority fees $1,196; County of Lennox and Addington, road grant, $2,388.55; streets, health and sanitation, $494.31; sundry, $359.38.

Among the items in the expenditures were: Printing, $465.98; insurance $1,075.20; town property $115,569; sundry $2,478.70; fire and water, $2,260.65; police $2,911.79; street lighting $3,127.00; streets, $6 183.93; garbage collection, $1,968.11; health and sanitation, $1,215.69; charity and welfare, $2,151.75; direct relief, $2,188.80; parks, $235.01; education, $25,000.00; county rate, $16,577.50.

The report of the social welfare department was presented and only 13 were listed as on relief in the town. The total expenditure by the Council for the month of October was $117.69.

The report of the Police Department for the month of October, 1944, was prepared by Chief T. S. Moore, and was as follows: Complaints received and investigated 10, accidents investigated 5, doors found unfastened 8, gas pumps found unlocked 3, arrests 7.

During the month of October the following convictions were secured for the town: three charges under the criminal code; three charges under the Highway Traffic Act; two charges under the Liquor Control Act.

F.-O. HERB. BUTCHER TELLS OF EXPERIENCES IN 3 YEARS OVERSEAS

Many Interesting Places Visited in Africa

BY DON. 'RED' MILLER

One evening last week it was my privilege of listening to an interview with Flying-Officer Herbert Butcher, who has just recently returned from overseas, where he has completed over theree adventure-packed years with the R. C. A. F. in many parts of Africa and the Mediterranean areas.

Flying-Officer Butcher, who is 28 years of age, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Butcher, Napanee, received his education at the Napanee Public School and Collegiate Institute. After completing his studies he was employed with Mr. W. V. Webster, Napanee. Getting the urge to travel, he went to Creighton Mines in Northern Ontario, where he was employed by International Nickel, up until his enlistment in the Royal Canadian Air Force. He was married at Creighton Mines to Miss Ann Celestine Creighton Mines, of which union a daughter was born shortly after Herb's arrival overseas.

After his enlistment at Sudbury, in April 1940 he was sent to Manning Pool, Toronto and while taking training was posted at Montreal Wireless School and Mountain View. At the latter station he received his Wireless Air Gunner badge and wing and attained the rank of Sergeant.

Following a short leave he went overseas and arrived in England in August, 1941. While in England he was posted to an advanced Wireless and Gunnery Training School, from which station he was posted to Egypt and was placed on loan with the South African Air Force and remained with the Force until his operational leave. He was commissioned as Pilot Officer in August, 1943 and in February, 1944, was promoted to the rank of Flying Officer.

MANY EXPERIENCES

Flying-Officer Butcher can relate many interesting experiences that go to make up the life in the Forces. In speaking of the 'Saafs' as 'Butch' put it, he said there certainly was no lack of nerve and courage when it came to taking part in the real 'thing.' He was full of praise for the squadron of which he was a member, and Canadians were part. Of the seven Canadian members, only three remain and, at the time of writing, they, also, were on operational leave.

While in Egypt, he was stationed in the shadow of the Pyramids close to Cairo, and his unit was active in pushing Rommel out of North Africa. He spoke of the climate as being terrible at times and mentioned the cracked lips and faces of the members of the famous Eighth Army as they went on a much-deserved leave. Clothing, he said was something to look at not wear. Regular issue shorts was the usual dress—no boots or sox and orders were to stay in the 'tent' or shade at all times.

Of Cairo he had very little to say. When questioned about Alexandria, he spoke of the inflated price of wearing apparel and the methods used by the Egyptians in bartering and selling their wares. The prices were most unreasonable and the merchants expected to be 'fleeced' down. It was called to quibble over the price asked. he was considered a very poor business man.

He referred to the beautiful flowers and parks in the City of Alexandria and of the splendid buildings in many parts of the city.

East Africa was the next stop on the itinerary. During his sojourn there F/O Butcher was stationed in Kenya Province and for four months he and another Canadian acted as instructors. Two points of interest in the Province were Nakuru and Nanyuki. Nakuru is a beautiful place situated near Mt. Kenya. Herb spoke of the vast resources of the country. The farm lands were of the richest quality, each producing an growing its own particular product. Some were sheep ranches, other cattle, while farmers and coffee plantations grew some of the best coffee in the world. A little wheat and oats are also grown. Kenya is said to be loved to it as a hunter's paradise.

EXCITING ACTION

Posted back to Egypt Butch ran in to more operational flights. It was on one of these trips over the Mediterranean that the plane in which he was part of the crew, ran into a enemy formation and during the melee which followed his aircraft lost the larger part of its rudder and tail surface and was forced down in the sea. In the crash landing Herb received a scalp wound and another member of the crew was seriously injured. The plane did not sink as inflated and all were hauled to safety in less than a minute the ship sank! Herb and the crew floated on the sea for thirty long hours they drifted with the wind and tide until rescued by the Air - Sea Rescue launch. The launch then landed in Alexandria where they received temporary treatment and were then taken to a base hospital. Herb was there for three weeks and the other injured member was confined to hospital for seven weeks.

At the completion of his sick leave Herb was posted to South Africa where he was attached to an advanced training school at East London.

Speaking of Bulawayo, Rhodesia he claimed it was the prettiest city he had ever visited. It was situated in the gold mining district. Beautiful modern buildings, flowers in profusion, and wide streets characterize Bulawayo, he said, they call South Africa's 'Little New York.'

On a visit to Durban in South Africa he visited Johannesburg, the Kimberly Diamond Mines, and the lovely town of Pretoria, capital of the Transvaal. The latter is situated in what might be termed a semi-desert. Grain farms which spread for 25 square miles are fertile enough to produce practically anything the farmer wishes. Great herds of Holstein cattle and flocks of sheep roam the green pastures. Oranges and other fruits are grown in abundance. The climate in this particular part of the globe enables the farmer to take off five crops of alfalfa each year.

BLIGHTY AND HOME

After the completion of his instructional duties, Herb was notified that he was to sail for England and then home. The leave was granted after having completed 56 operational trips over enemy territory.

On arrival in England he was given 21 days' leave and immediately entrained for London to visit friends and relatives. He remained in London during their stay, early in the war. During this time the buzz-bombs were being hurled at London at regular intervals, and sleep and rest were impossible. The group decided to visit other friends and were subjected to more bombs. Finally, it was decided to go into the country and the group went to Gloucestershire and revisited with the crops and farm chores, until they were recalled for the home trip.

Flight-Officer and Mrs. Butcher leave this week for Creighton Mines to spend a few days before Herb. has to report again.

When questioned as to his going back over, "Butch" said: "There is a job yet to be finished and I would like to be in on the grand finale."

Magistrate's Court

On Thursday, Magistrate J. L. Lloyd presided in Police Court in Napanee. Richard Morgan, Kingston, charged with obtaining food from the Superior Restaurant without making payment, pleaded guilty, and was placed on suspended sentence after paying $12.25 costs. Gordon Collins, also charged with a similar offence as Richard Morgan was dismissed as no evidence was offered.

A MEMORIAL DAY

The service on Remembrance Day, this year, was not very well attended, nor was there the support and enthusiasm shown which such an event demanded. There are probably two reasons for that. In the first place, as we get further and further away from the First Armistice Day, there is the natural human tendency to forget. We may say that it ought not to be so, but there it is. Forgetting is one of the human frailties. As the years pass and a new generation comes on the scene, a good deal of persistent and graphic education is necessary to keep green and fresh the memory of those who have made the supreme sacrifice.

Then, too, in the present circumstances, while the nation is at war there is, of necessity, the immediate sorrow and suffering, which takes precedence in our hearts and blots out all else. Many remained away from the service because the emotional strain contingent upon absence from loved ones was too great to be borne.

The question of the way in which the dead, both in this War and in the First Great War are to be remembered, becomes complex. We will, of course, never forget the Eleventh of November. But there will be other days. There will be the day when World War Two ends— God grant that it may be soon.— Shall we as a nation observe one and not the other,if so, which one shall it be?

The solution to the difficulty — and it is a real one — seems to lie in the appointment by the Government, of a Memorial Day. The date is not so important. What is important is that one day be set apart as a memorial to our blessed dead. The day should not be passed over in a perfunctory fashion. The schools should, for some time previous to it, drill the children in its meaning, should read the names to the scholars of those who gave their lives. A community service should be held, brief, but well prepared, and every effort made to have the whole community in attendance.

GETTING ON

Now that the great winter offensive on the Western Front has opened, and the full might of the United Nations is seen in mechanized operation, hope rises that Germany may crack wide open and the war be over by Christmas. Strange how our moods fluctuate with the tide of battle. A few months ago we were sure the war was about over. Then when the United Armies were held at the West Wall, while redistribution and reorganization took place, we were sure it could not end this year. Now, our men are on the march and a wave of optimism is sweeping the country. It is well to hope and work for the best while preparing for the worst. With the Armies of the Allies relentlessly pushing the Germans back, there is a feeling even in quarters usually pretty conservative, that the Germans must be near the breaking point. They are a clever, relentless foe, however, and will not give up until the very last. But there is a point beyond which flesh and blood cannot go. Even Himmler, with his brutal methods, may not be able much longer to keep the national unity, so essential to the prosecution of war. We may be sure that when that time comes, the Armies of General Eisenhower will be ready to take full advantage of it.

V

A POPULAR AWARD

When word was received, last week, that Lieutenant Gordon MacGregor has been awarded the Military Cross, the whole community rejoiced. We know nothing naturally of the circumstances under which Lieutenant MacGregor was accorded the coveted honour, and we will never get it out of Gordon. He will laugh it off if questioned, with that infectious disarming smile of his. The award is a popular one with Napanee people, for Gordon is a genial friend, beloved by all. In his work at school, in the band, at Rotary and in the Church, he was a general favourite. We are sure that in the Army he would be no less popular than he was at home. He ever showed signs of leadership which matured and developed in the military organization.

The whole community is proud of Lieutenant MacGregor. We congratulate him on the achievement which brought honour to himself, his family and his home town.

CANADIAN IN THE LIMELIGHT IN 'TIRPITZ' SINKING

BY ALLAN NICKLESON

London, (C.P.– — A young Canadian bombardier F.-O. Walter Daniel of Rivers, Man., who flew in the leading R.A.F. Lancaster in Sunday's attack that sank the German battleship Tirpitz, in Norway's Tromso fjord, may have been the first to smash the onetime pride of the German Navy.

Daniel who, as a member of the raid leader's crew pressed the button that released a 12,000-pound earthquake bomb on the Tirpitz, told a crowded press conference his Lancaster was in the first wave of five bombers and that crews following observed two direct hits and two near misses.

The 24-year-old Daniel was the only Canadian among six members of the participating crews who were flown to London for the interviews. It was believed, however that at least a dozen Canadians participated in the attack, another one being Flt.-Lt. Johnny Loftus of Toronto, who flew as a movie cameraman.

Daniel said 29 of the Lancasters participating in the raid each dropped one 'earthquake' bomb, a total bomb tonnage of approximately 350 tons — from a height of 13,000 feet and the morning was bright and clear.

"We couldn't see much for smoke when we circled to watch after dropping our bombs,' Daniel said. 'That smoke wasn't from a smoke-screen because the Germans didn't send one up, but it was from the effect of our bombs."

Daniel said the Tirpitz was lying 200 to 300 yards from shore and they first saw her from a distance of 29 to 30 miles on the way in.

The stocky, smiling westerner, who participated in the last three air-attacks against the Germans' "unsinkable" ship, said the final attempt didn't come as a surprise to the Germans because the Tirpitz's guns, and shore batteries and her ships opened fire when "we were still some miles away." He said the fire, although heavy, was not very accurate.

"I didn't see the bombs from our wave hit but the crews behind told us about it later," he added. "One of the direct hits was amidships and two near misses were on the port side."

Daniel said he could see no sign of survivors from the Tirpitz, believed to carry a crew of 1,500 because of the smoke and flashes of flame from her.

The two squadrons which participated took off from and returned to a Northern Scotland base.

Daniel's skipper was Wing Cmdr. J. B. Tait, 28-year old Englishman who holds the D.F.C. a triple D.S.O. and commanded one of the crack squadrons participating.

Daniel, on this as on all operations, wore a Russian red star button on his tunic. The Canadian explained that he exchanged it for some canned goods with a Russian officer shortly before taking off on the first raid which started from a Russian base.

Daniel was taking a science course at the University of Manitoba when he enlisted in the R. C. A. F. in March, 1942. He came overseas a year ago last September and all his operations have been in Lancasters.

CLEARING THE AIR

There can be no mistaking the fact that Canada is facing a crisis. That is the only interpretation which can be placed on the Prime Minister's action in calling a special meeting of Parliament for to-day. From all quarters comes a demand for reinforcements for our troops. The demand comes from organizations of returned men, from men overseas and from thousands of individuals, particularly those who have relatives in the front line.

It is to be hoped that the debate in Parliament will be open enough to enable the public to make a reasoned judgment. Up to the present time, nobody seems to have all the facts. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Defense Minister McNaughton maintain that it is possible to get enough reinforcements by the voluntary system. The former Defense Minister Ralston does not think this is possible. The question that Canadians must have an answer for is— how much is enough? How many reinforcements are needed and where can they be secured. So far we have not received that information We are informed by the Press, that the Canadian Army is made up of battalions of several nations. Is this because there were not enough men in our own reserve bank to meet the need? If this is true then what of the future? These are questions that must be answered. The country will not be satisfied with less. Frankness at this particular crisis is an absolute necessity. Only when all the questions are answered frankly is it possible for the public to make a judgment. Certainly, at this stage of the war, no comfort would be given to the enemy by disclosing all the facts.

If the debate shows that reinforcements are needed, then every effort must be made to secure them. If not in one way then in another. The Government has a comfortable majority and by cracking the whip might easily enough get endorsation for its policy. But that would be doing a disservice to the country and to the boys overseas. This is not a time for cracking the whip. It is a time for great searchings of heart. Every member, whether of the Government Party or any other Party, must be permitted to vote as his conscience directs.

V

LOOKING AHEAD

Several times since the people of The United States elected President Roosevelt for a fourth term, dispatches from Washington have hinted that the complexion of the Senate and Congress is such that work on the long projected St. Lawrence Waterway would not be delayed over long. It has not been easy, through the years, to get all the interests concerned agreeing at the same time, to proceed with the waterway plan. In Canada, Quebec and Ontario have to be in agreement as well as the Dominion Government, while in the States, New York State is directly concerned, as well as the Federal Government. So that it has not been an easy matter to get these various bodies committed to the plan. We, in Canada, are on record as ready to proceed and if the States are now ready, something may happen.

Perhaps this was one of the projects which the President had in mind when in his campaign speech in Chicago, he said he would see that there would be sixty million jobs ready for men after the war. We have done a lot of things under the stress of war which would under other conditions have seemed impossible. It may be that working together as we on this North American Continent have done, we have learned to trust each other. It may be that we have learned that anything which benefits one nation will benefit another. If we have learned these things it ought not to be difficult to get the St. Lawrence Waterway Plan started as soon as the war is over.

There will be need for jobs. Men will return many having been away five years. They will need work. The seaway plan will provide work for all types of labor, and for executives and business leaders.

This, however, is not the only consideration. There will be need of power in the post-war world. Only a few, comparatively, of our farms use electricity as generously as they should. When the wide extension of electrical distribution gets under way, there will be a great scurrying around for new sources of power. The St. Lawrence is the natural potential storehouse of such electricity.

Then, too, the water transportation will be a great consideration. In spite of the phenomenal growth of aviation, there is no expectation that the air can ever become the medium for heavy transport. Water will still be the most economical and satisfactory medium for the transportation of grain, ore, and other heavy cargoes.

We, in this eastern end of Ontario, have a particular stake in the future development of the St. Lawrence Waterway. We are near the scene of action and the results would undoubtedly be reflected in our whole business and social life. We hope it may be undertaken as soon as the war ceases.

MONTHS OF WAR AHEAD NOT WEEKS

ALEXANDER CLIFFORD — IN The Transatlantic Edition of The London Daily Mail

When the Germans fled out of the flaming horror that was the Falaise gap we said: "Hitler's army in the West has been decisively defeated."

How, then, is the enemy managing to spin out a war that seemed on the point of ending?

To get the answer you have to stand back from it all and assess in small but thick slice of past history.

You must take the German Army as it was on D-day and watch what has happened to it. And you must frankly face the facts as they are today.

At the beginning of this summer the Germans had, in Western Europe, an apparatus which they believed could resist an invasion. But fortunately for us two opposing plans got mixed.

The Rundstedt plan of letting us ashore in a semi-mangled condition and then defeating us was overtaken by the Rommel plan of not letting us get ashore at all.

So we landed with surprising ease. The Rommel plan wasn't finished, so we did get ashore. The Rundstedt plan was in a pigeon-hole and it could not be dusted off and refurbished in time to be strayed ashore.

We established ourselves in Normandy though we did not get Caen on D-day, as we were supposed to do.

The Germans revealed that they had decided to defend Europe on a short front in good defensive country despite their long and terribly vulnerable supply lines. We began to build up our strength.

That was a dark and secret period. Nothing decisive seemed to happen. Montgomery was criticised for slowness and caution.

In point of fact, things were going extraordinarily accurately according to plan. But there were a dozen vitally important factors that no one could mention. It all had to be stealthily secretive.

We could not reveal how much our build-up had been hindered by the weather—how the storms had impeded construction of our synthetic ports.

We could not hint that the enemy forces (in view of the fact that they were on the defensive) were very evenly balanced with our own.

We dare not announce that our pursuit army was not yet ready to go into action, and that it was useless to make a breakthrough before we could exploit it.

We dare not disclose our hope of encircling the Germans and preventing them from slipping away eastwards through the Paris-Orleans gap so that was a fencing match, as Montgomery intended it should be. We thrust and thrust and the enemy parried and parried. It was a question of manoeuvring him off balance.

The plan which had been made in England months before was unfolding day by day.

We were behindhand on the construction of our miraculous ersatz harbors.

On the other hand, they were having a greater tonnage come by stage than had been anticipated.

Cherbourgh was seized in good time but it was badly mined. With the aid of colossal new experiments in tactical bombing we made up lost ground in getting Caen.

Our threat of further landings kept German divisions pinned down far from the battle. And almost exactly on schedule the Americans broke out into Brittany.

The plan now was working like a clock. The wheels started in reverse —a straight left to the jaw at Caen by the British and Canadians, and a terrific right-hook by General Patton.

The British Empire troops were locked in a gigantic slow-moving battle on the left and the Americans began racing round France in the swiftest and most brilliant exploitation in history.

The German strategy had begun to go to pieces. And, in an effort to save themselves, they gave us the decisive battle that we had hardly dared to hope for.

Their armored counter-attack they made due west, to Avranches was pure text-books strategy. It was aimed at cutting the Americans in half. And I think history will probably approve it as the only alternative to the negative policy of flight.

The great armored drive had a more than reasonable hope of success.

This, of course, was the crisis. The Germans were virtually trapped, and they deliberately chose the positive solution of breaking the trap instead of escaping from it. If they failed they were done.

They failed. They failed because the rocket-firing Typhoon suddenly appeared as the most devastating of all tank-destroying weapons. The drive to Avranches was broken before it ever got under way.

You know the rest of the story. There was chaos in the Falaise pocket. Von Kluge came from Paris, spent two days dodging from ditch to ditch trying to sort the thing out, returned to Paris to find he had been replaced, and died of exhaustion in the train back to Germany.

If he had got back to Berlin alive he would have been able to tell Hitler the truth—that the German army fighting in the West was broken, and that there was no possibility of its becoming more than a rearguard force.

What happened at Falaise was this. The Germans lost so many tanks that their factories could never again catch up with our tank forces. Our superiority in numbers was now unchallengeable.

They lost so many guns that they could never match our artillery. They lost so much transport that their armies could never again be called mobile.

They lost so many prisoners from all units that their manpower became a kind of melting-pot. They lost each complete administrative control of their troops that no orders could be given and transmitted.

They lost more motor equipment than could be replaced within half a year.

The lack of direction from the top and the blatant muddle meant a sharp and disastrous drop in morale.

It was no longer a fighting army. It was a fleeting rabble held together only by the remnants of an iron discipline and a good training. And our day-to-day schedule went haywire.

We got to the Seine more or less on time but we got across it much too soon.

We pushed the Somme and the Belgian frontier weeks before we were due for it. Paris fell and the Americans raced prematurely ahead towards Germany. We flashed across Belgium in a couple of dazzling days.

But the beaten German Army ahead of us was entering on a process of improvement. It was still losing tanks and guns and vehicles as fast as the German factories could replace them.

But its men were getting sorted out. Its communications were shortening. Its morale was rising as the Berlin Command got a grip on things.

It was receiving a new spiritual strength from the necessity of defending the actual soil of the Fatherland.

It still mark you wasn't an army that could ever win a battle. It was still decisively enough defeated. But it was pulling itself together as a brake an impediment. It could still buy time.

Bits of it were shorn off to hold the Channel ports. That again was an excellent policy—if it worked. If the ports could be denied us till winter there was no knowing what might happen to us. We might be military starved.

But it did not work. Pragmatically —judged by results—the policy of turning the Channel ports into Torbruks has failed. Too many men have been lost. Too little time has been gained.

But as a gamble it was a reasonable idea—it was worth trying from Hitler's point of view because there was no alternative.

Then we tried our great gamble. We tried to stampede the war to a finish by jumping all the Rhine bridges and swooping into the plain of Germany. And, as all the world knows, we failed at the last ditch and lost Arnheim in a blaze of glory.

We lost for reasons of our own the weather mainly — but also because of this recuperative force in the crippled German Army.

There was now enough control, enough vigour enough morale, and enough arms there for a picked force to be able to gain a local success.

Of course, it has prolonged the war. It has made it a question of months instead of weeks.

The Germans have got their rearguard technique going again. They know how to make the most economical use of a few dugouts, guns and guns and a charge of dynamite and a dozen mines.

They have the added incentive of immediately defending their native soil. And, for the first time — in Germany itself — "they have a civil population which is hostile to us and not to them.

So it is not surprising that the men at the front, with uncanny instinct, are talking of a winter campaign.

They recognize the ability of the Germans to go on fighting rearguard action for a good deal further. The fact that it is military suicide is beside the point. Germany almost as much as Japan is liable to hara-kiri.

Of course, on any normal, reasonable basis Germany and Hitler have she is beaten and make peace. But the hope of a completely successful V - something - or - other still lurks around the corner.

We have against us the broken remnants of a fine army. And though these remnants can not longer be used as a striking weapon, they can be piled up and used as a barricade.

So it does look as though it will take a little longer to finish it off than many of us suppose.

THE BOASTS — OF — MADMAN HITLER

BY J. C. JOHNSTONE

(FROM THE RECORD)

If Hitler and his leading accomplices like Goering, Goebbels and Ribbentrop should fall alive into the hands of the Allies there could be no more fitting prelude to whatever ultimate punishment is decreed than to regale them in their cell with full-length recordings of their utterances in this Sunday of their vainglory.

How they would be searched by the mockery of their own grandiloquent voices echoing back to them from the past! little, indeed, when they thought, they were bestriding the world, had these latter-day dynasts suspected the unseen presence of the Spirit Ironic promoting them to oracular pronouncements of their own doom.

Listen for example, to Hitler telling the Reichstag on the morning of the invasion of Poland:

I am from now on the First Soldier of the Reich. I have put on that coat which is the most sacred and dear to me, and I will not take it off till victory is secured — or I will not survive the outcome.

So far was he from questioning his survival of the outcome that at his next appearance before the Reichstag, on the morrow of his Polish victory, he declared:

Mr. Churchill may be convinced that Great Britain will stay, but I do not hesitate for a second to say that Germany will win. Fate will decide who is right.

In the same strain he told his Munich beer-cellar audience on November 8th, 1940:

I am resolved to fight it out to the last. I will show them (the British) who it is that will be destroyed.

His New Year message of 1941 included two of these double-edged predictions:

This war will be waged to the end — that is, until the responsible criminals have been eliminated.

Let them talk of a "turn in the fortune of war." They must realise, however, that in this war it is not fortune but right that will be victorious.

He followed on March 16th with:

Eternal Providence does not let those be victorious who are ready to shed the blood of men merely for the attainment of their own ends.

Or, again at Munich beer-cellar in November, five years:

Destiny will give victory to him who most deserves it.

Possibly, however, the palm should be awarded to Ribbentrop for the following on September 27, 1942, in the early days of the battle for Stalingrad:

Perhaps this battle will become in later years the symbol of Europe's fight for freedom.

Exultant confidence was the keynote of all their speeches in that vanished era of victories without end. This was Goebbels on January 19th 1940:

Never was there a time when Germany had such splendid prospects of winning a dominating position in the world. The whole German people is waiting with faithful patience for the decisive hour, and they know that this hour will strike.

On May 10, 1940, the day of the invasion of Holland and Belgium, the hour, they thought, had struck. Ribbentrop then boasted:

The German army will speak to Great Britain and France in the only language their rulers seem to understand and will settle with them once and for all.

Hitler echoed:

The fight which begins today will determine Germany's future for the next 1,000 years.

After Dunkirk they were at the top of their form. Victory was just round the corner. On September 4th, 1940, Hitler recalled someone's remark that the war would last three years, and went on:

At that time I said to Reichsmarshal Goering: "Prepare everything for five years." That was not because I thought the war would last five years.

Great Britain, (our only remaining opponent) would be broken. "Her allies" said Hitler, apparently referring to America, apropos of the destroyer deal, "will not be able to help her whatever they plan."

Later in the month Ribbentrop sent a message to Chino rejoicing in what he had had with him just at this phase when Britain is being overpowered, and spoke of his master-stroke, the Three-Power Pact, as designed "to give back peace to the world as soon as possible."

Hitler, in his Munich beer-cellar speech in November 1940, "felt sorry" for the British, who "will have to thank Mr. Churchill for all they will suffer." Mr. Churchill had "committed the greatest folly of all time," in daring to attack Germany with the weakest of all his weapons," the R. A. F. — and as for the war at sea:

I can assure you that one of these days there will be no Mr. Churchill, but there will still be U-boats.

Goebbels, meanwhile, little knowing what was in store for Germany, declared that:

When the war is over, crowned with complete victory we shall remember with pleasure and pride the duties and hardships which it imposed on us.

These effects culminated in Hitler's often-quoted remark in his New Year's message of 1941 that:

The year 1941 will bring the completest the greatest victory in our history.

Hitler continually boasted of his powers of leadership and claimed the special favour and protection of Providence. He was "a magnet which, by passing over Germany, extracts the steel from her" (Feb. 24, 1940, "I am the guardian of the future life of the German nation" (Dec. 10, 1940) "I believe in my success and that unconditionally" (Nov. 8, 1940), "I did not need this war to make my name eternal" (Oct. 3, 1941).

On February 24th, 1940, he avowed that:

I personally experienced a few months ago the intervention of Providence in its most significant significance. Providence has blessed our struggle and cannot allow our nation to be ruined.

A year later he expressed gratitude to Providence that:

this struggle is being fought out in my lifetime and at a time when I am still fresh and vigorous. Just now, in fact I feel so fit. Spring is coming, which is my all welcome.

Later, when things began to look black, he carried conceit to the point of suggesting that if the war were lost it would not be his fault:

I am a profoundly religious man. I believe that Providence, when she has destined a man for great purposes, does not break that man before he has achieved his aim. If the German people should break under the present test I should not shed a tear for them, for then they would deserve their fate.

Others were even more lyrical than himself. Goebbels, for example on Hitler's birthday in 1941:

We are experiencing the greatest miracle in history. A genius is creating a new world.

"Could destiny give us Hitler then destroy us?" asked Goering on May 25, 1942 "though it is possible to suspect that he must have had his tongue in his cheek when he further asked, on January 31, 1943:

What would our position have been if the Fuehrer, with his political genius, had not recognized the Russian danger?

Above all, there was the anonymous, but official, announcement of December 20, 1941, that:

The realization of an inward call and his own will to take upon himself responsibility weighed with the statesman Adolf Hitler when he resolved to be his own generalissimo.

Contrasted with Hitler's genius was the crass imbecility imputed to his opponents, especially Mr. Churchill, one of whose speeches, he said on May 4, 1941), "could only be explained by paralytic disease or the ravings of a drunkard." In a similar strain he had said, on February 24, 1940:

When I picture the statesmen of the democracies and regard their life work I must say that I have always been unfortunate enough to have to fight against nonentities. These mummies are talking again of European reconstruction. The reconstruction of Germany was achieved without them, and the reconstruction of Europe will be achieved without them.

Between Dunkirk and D-Day the idea that Britain would ever again set foot on the Continent was dismissed with ineffable scorn. On December 19, 1940, Hitler proclaimed:

Where a German soldier stands no other soldier will ever set his feet. No power in the world will be able to dislodge us from this territory against our will.

On January 30th, 1941, he added decisively:

The British have been driven from the Continent once and for all. If they really intend to undertake an offensive against the Continent let them notify me in time and I will see that a suitable district is evacuated and will then speak to them in the language they understand.

On October 3rd he announced that the large sections of our production we have been able to stop manufacturing. The simple reason is that we know that there is no enemy left whom we would not be able to defeat with the quantities of ammunition available. . . . We have driven the Continent in the service of our State.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ does not lay down specific rules to cover every situation. Jesus' day there was no such thing as large scale production. There was no heavy industry. What industry there was consisted of simple handicraft work done in the home or in a workshop of small dimensions, where two or three members of the family or close relatives worked together. To find what Jesus would do in a given situation to-day it is necessary to discover His principles and then apply them.

In the parable which forms the basis of to-day's lesson, a king goes away leaving his affairs in the hands of his servants. To each he gave a pound. On his return when he asked for a report on how they had made ten pounds out of his one, another that he had made five and another that he had simply saved the one he had. The king, therefore, took the pound away from the one who had not used it and gave it to the one who had made ten pounds.

There are many technical difficulties here. Indeed, it would not be hard to pick flaws in the parable. Things, however, stand out clear. The first is that God intends us to use the talents we have; the second is that unused talents are lost. Not all have the same capacities or endowments, but all have the ability to use the ones they possess. And we shall be judged by the use we make of God's gifts. It is a law of nature that whatever is not used, dies. This is true of our personal endowments. Once we neglect them they lose their ability to grow. The one who wrapped his talent in a napkin, by that very act made it impossible for his talent to develop. Should a singer neglect his singing, his voice degenerates into a squeak., and any other talent left unused, shares a similar fate.

In the next section Paul makes the famous statement: "If any will not work neither let him eat." Clear command is that there should be no premium on laziness. That is we'd enough. There is no place in life for a lazy man. But there must be work or men will become lazy in spite of themselves. If men do not have the opportunity to use their talents their hands or their brains, they will atrophy and die.

We are passing through a transitional stage in industry. Science has now made it possible for man to produce all he needs. But so long as industry is run for profits rather than for the good of the community, there will be times when men and women will be denied work. We saw how that operated during the depression. There was a need for goods, there were men to produce them. To bring someone or other the need and the ability to meet the need got asunder and men were left without the necessities of life.

The war has given an impetus to organized labour. War has provided work for all. Men are learning that it is quite possible to do the seemingly impossible, once the right spirit prevails. In the future this will not be forgotten. The spirit of co-operation and goodwill in industry is essential to its success.

The spirit of Jesus, the spirit of brotherhood, once operative in industry will solve many of the problems from which the world has suffered in the past. To be sure that may mean that more people will earn more and fewer people will earn less. But there is gain in that. A wider distribution of the gains of industry will undoubtedly make for prosperity and happiness.

There is no solution for any social problem save a Christian solution.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, NOVEMBER 26TH, 1944

THE CHRISTIAN VIEW OF INDUSTRY

Lesson Text: Luke 19: 15-26. II Thessolonians 3: 10-12

On April 26th, 1942, he declared that "the great commanding officer of Britain and the United States" and added on September 30th:

Had I in front of me a person opposing me I could retire where the Second Front would come. But with these indescribable men who never know whether they will attack. The whole enterprise may be launched at—this is the only decisive thing — one never knows when or next when faced with countries and armies.

Apart from their mutual jealousies the Allies' military equipment such "junk" that "you would not put in the hands of Germans."

Ribbentrop was equally scornful and contemptuous. He declared in November 26th, 1941:

because in our era armoured cars and U-boats are no longer possible.

Then on September 27th, 1942:

The time will come when the dead finally with the aircraft-carrier off Europe.

Or, again, on December 11th, 1941:

If Europe can only be conquered by weapons the enemies would long ago have reached the Rhine. The High Command is completely unmoved by any material bubbling.

Goebbels, likewise, on April 20th, 1943 was "firmly convinced that man Command will maintain its supremacy in Southeastern Europe."

The situation was finally mastered in southeastern Europe not by the German Command's "genius" but by the withdrawal many from ruin not from extinction. In his final speech he boasted of the steps he had taken in the Soviet Union, asserting that "the Nazi regime has no better argument than that we believe in force" (Oct. 19th 1939).

The KIDS ARE CERTAINLY TOUGH ON SHOES!

1,300,000 MORE PAIRS

OF CHILDREN'S SHOES LAST YEAR

In the last twelve months Canadian manufacturers made for Canadian children almost 25% more shoes than in 1939—a fine job—done by the organization and direction of production by this Board's Footwear Administration and the co-operation of manufacturers. And this was accomplished while they were making more essential type shoes for war workers, who wear out their shoes faster than they do in their normal employment.

THE DISAPPEARING ACT OF RUBBER-SOLE SHOES

In normal times most young Canadians got at least one pair of rubber soled canvas-top shoes a year. But natural rubber supplies fell into enemy hands, and the manufacture of rubber footwear was drastically curtailed. We're now using reclaimed and synthetic rubber in these shoes—there have been more of them this year and there will be more next year. Leather-soled shoes have had to be used in place of this rubber-soled footwear but shoes made of leather need more care than running shoes. When they don't get it they wear out more quickly; when they get wet they must be dried slowly, away from direct heat—and they should be greased also. It's not always a case of poor quality; it's poor care.

Through its Standards and its Supply Divisions, the Board watches the production of civilian goods to ensure that everything possible is done to provide the necessary quantities and to maintain the quality. The limitations imposed by the shortage of labour and materials, however, mean that you can't get all you want in wartime.

Chairman, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

LEATHER GOES TO WAR

You've got to have good strong leather for children's shoes, but the soldiers are taking most of ours for their boots. For these leathers, a substantial portion of the hides came from South American and other countries. War cut down these imports and there have been difficulties in getting enough of these and our own hides tanned into leather due to shortage of workers. The production of high grade leather shoes has, however, been maintained at the highest level consistent with the labour and materials available. While shoe factories have been working overtime, factory capacity for civilian shoes cannot be expanded in wartime and it is not possible to change plants from the manufacture of one type of shoe to another,—for instance, from women's to children's. The processes, the machines and the lasts are different.

TURNING HIDES INTO SHOES

There are very large war uses of leather —for instance, in footwear. A soldier requires four pairs of shoes in the first year of his service and about three pairs per year thereafter. But, what is more important, he needs to have his shoes re-soled four or five times a year. His shoes are of the highest quality leathers obtainable, leaving the other grades of leather for civilian use. Airmen need leather for jackets and mitts. War factories need leather for belting and farmers need leather for harness. Leather —the best leathers—has gone to war.

SENT GIFT TO PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S WIFE

Miss Kathleen Sinclair, who is a sister of "Bob" Sinclair, of Selrite Store, Napanee, is the subject of the following interesting article which appeared in a recent issue of The Toronto Evening Telegram, under the caption "Between You and Me" by Margaret Aikten.

"Kathleen Sinclair is an enterprising Torontonian who has turned a hobby into a business—and a lucrative business.

"About a year ago Miss Sinclair, a dress designer by trade, read about making earrings out of old corks. As she likes working with her hands, no sooner read than done. She decided to make some earrings for herself—for her friends—for her friends' friends. And so the business grew. Like a snowball, until now Miss Sinclair is no longer a dress designer but rather a one-woman manufacturer of lovely hand-painted earrings.

"But what brings this story to light is Mrs. Winston Churchill. Yes, the wife of Britain's Prime Minister possesses a set of three earrings, sent to her in Quebec by the molder of same.

"Miss Sinclair despatched a set of flowered earrings to Mrs. Churchill and in return received a note expressing much appreciation for your kind thought in sending Mrs. Churchill its earrings, which she is delighted to receive."

SEVEN DIVORCES GRANTED AT ASSIZE COURT

In the Supreme Court at Napanee last week, at which Mr. Justice Plaxton presided, seven decrees nisi were granted in the divorce actions heard by his Lordship.

Six decrees absolute in the divorce actions by the following, were granted by his Lordship; Freeland vs. Freeland; Orme vs. Orme; Schoales vs. Schoales; Saunders vs. Saunders; Milsap vs. Milsap; Bebee vs. Bebee.

Three People Fined For Infractions of W.P.T.B. Regulations

On Monday three citizens of the County of Lennox and Addington were convicted in the Napanee Magistrate's Court by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd, of infractions of Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations, and were fined. One other case was dismissed.

Robert Wood, of Ernestown, was fined $10.00 and costs for obtaining whey butter from a cheese factory with coupons not from the books issued to his family. F. J. McAvoy investigator for the W.P.T.B., produced a statement in which Mr. Wood admitted that the butter coupons in question had been given his wife by a neighbor. J. A. Regan appeared for Mr. Wood.

Mrs. Muriel Grey also paid a fine of $10.00 and costs for obtaining butter with coupons not from her own book.

Frank J. York, of Tamworth, was fined $25.00 and $6.50 costs for failing to stamp beef according to the W.P.T.B. order, and also for failing to remove the fat and kidneys from a beef carcass. The facts were admitted by Mr. York, who was represented in court by J. M. Simpson, K. C., and in explanation Mr. York said that the beef was killed during a very hot spell in August, when he considered the stamp would not show up on the carcass until it could be cooled. He said he placed the beef in cases in his refrigerator and before he could stamp it and take out the fat and kidneys the investigators from the W.P.T.B. called and laid the complaint.

Bruce F. Mitchell, owner and manager of the Farmer's Friend Cheese Factory, who was charged with supplying butter without coupons, pleaded not guilty to the charge, and, after hearing the evidence the Magistrate dismissed the charge. Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., appeared for Mr. Mitchell.

The W.P.T.B. investigator, Mr. McAvoy, produced a statement from Mr. Mitchell, in which he said he authorized his milk drawers to deliver whey butter to his milk patrons and bring back loose coupons after making the delivery. The investigator claimed the coupons should have been given direct to Mr. Mitchell but Mr. Herrington pointed out the regulations allowed him to authorize his paid workers to accept them in his stead. The Magistrate upheld Mr. Herrington's argument, which was also concurred in by G. F. Smith, who acted for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in this case and the others heard the same day.

ROBBERS BUSY IN NAPANEE LAST WEEK

During Tuesday night, November 14, thieves broke into the Napanee Creamery and made way with 300 pounds of butter packed in six boxes. Entry was made to the factory by pushing up a window.

The same night the four wheels and tires were removed from a car in Robt. McFarland's garage at his home on the Desoronto Road, near Napanee. Entry was made to the garage by prying open a back door of the garage.

The two robberies are under investigation by the police and further developments may be looked for soon.

Local Breeders Buy Holsteins, Picton Sale

Several Lennox breeders bought animals at the annual sale held by the Prince Edward County Holstein Breeders' Club at Picton on November 16th.

B. H. Morrow & Son, Adolphustown, bought a two-year-old heifer for $180.00; Wilfred McCabe Napanee, a ten-months-old bull calf for $150.00; E. B. Cooper, Bath, an eight-months-old bull calf for $140.00; L. H. McCaul, Napanee, a yearling bull for $125.00, and F. McKnight, Selby, a yearling bull for $100.00. The McCabe bull stood second in the Bull Show held previous to the sale and was the second highest price bull sold. Bruce Cummings, Napanee, secured a bred heifer at $160.00, and a heifer calf at $65.00.

The 43 head sold realized $17,817.50, with 32 females averaging $207.00. Top price was $360.00 received by Jas. Broad, Belleville, for a four-year-old heifer.

ROTARY ENTERTAIN FROLIC ASSISTANTS AT DINNER MEETING

The members of the Napanee Rotary Club were hosts on Tuesday night at a dinner in the Superior Restaurant for those who assisted the Club in its recent Hallowe'en Frolic. About 90 were seated at the tables in the banquet hall, and President Bill Huston extended a welcome and expressed the appreciation of the Club members for the assistance given by the guests.

Miss Violet Terrill, Toronto, mezzo soprano soloist, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Booth, was introduced by Mr. Booth, and sang four numbers, including classical and semi-classical selections, and a popular hymn. Mrs. W. K. Huston accompanied the soloist and Alex. MacGregor expressed the appreciation of the Club members and guests to Miss Terrill.

Mr. Tate, a technical engineer specializing in welding, a member of the staff of the Canadian General Electric Company, Montreal, was introduced by Wallace Roy, and in a short address spoke of the part played by welding in war-work. He also showed several films illustrating the proper methods of welding and the various types of welding used to-day. His last film showed the assembly of aircraft parts in a large plant, which was very interesting.

The speaker was thanked for his splendid address by Bill Wiggins.

Winter Vegetables In New Dress

Many people having reaped the harvest of their Wartime Gardens, it is hard to settle down to the prosaic task of trying to make carrots, cabbage and turnips seem new and different. However the Home Economists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Consumer Section, offer some helpful suggestions for using vegetables in main dishes and in addition come up with what will be a brand new vegetable to many people . . . namely canned pumpkin.

VEGETABLE PUMPKIN

Three and one-half cups pumpkin (1 can); two tablespoons of butter; three-quarters teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Drain the pumpkin in a sieve for about fifteen minutes. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the pumpkin, salt and pepper. Mix and heat thoroughly. Six servings.

NOTE: The drained liquid may be used in soup.

CARROT SOUFFLE

Three tablespoons mild-flavoured fat; four tablespoons flour; one cup milk; three cups diced carrots; three eggs; one teaspoon of salt; one-quarter teaspoon pepper; one-quarter teaspoon onion salt.

Melt fat in top of double boiler. Blend in flour. Gradually add milk, stir over direct heat until thickened. Finish cooking over hot water. Cook carrots until tender in salted, boiling water in lower section of double boiler. Drain, mash and add to cream sauce. Slowly stir this hot mixture into the beaten egg yolks. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, turn into greased baking dish and cover lightly with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F. for fifty to sixty minutes. Six servings.

VEGETABLE AND NOODLE PLATE

One package (8 oz.) noodles, two tablespoons mild flavoured fat; one cup fine dry bread crumbs; one-quarter cup mild-flavoured fat; one-third cup flour; two and one-half cups milk; one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper; two eggs; one-quarter cup mild vinegar; one teaspoon mustard; 6 whole carrots (cooked); one small head cabbage (cooked in six wedges).

Cook noodles in rapidly boiling salted water and drain. Melt the two tablespoons of fat in top of double boiler, add bread crumbs and brown. Add noodles and mix well. Keep hot. Melt remaining fat in top of double boiler, blend in flour, add milk and cook over low direct heat, stirring constantly until it thickens. Mix beaten eggs, vinegar and mustard with some of the hot mixture. Return to the double boiler. Cook over hot water three minutes. Arrange vegetables around noodles on serving dish. Pour sauce on noodles. Six to eight servings.

FRIED CABBAGE

Three tablespoons mild-flavoured fat; six cups shredded cabbage; salt and pepper to taste; two tablespoons vinegar.

Melt fat in pan, add cabbage and cook slowly ten minutes. Add salt, pepper and vinegar. Serve immediately. Six servings.

Sickness and Poverty

The greatest single cause of poverty is sickness and the problems arising from poverty will never be solved until the problems of sickness are solved, Dr. Gordon Bates said in an address in Toronto.

Dr. Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, was addressing a meeting on behalf of Toronto's United Welfare Chest campaign and he emphasized the importance of voluntary effort in the health field in getting things done.

People must have a clear understanding of their national, provincial and local health problems and the relationship of health to social progress. With such a background of understanding they could influence their governments to push ahead modern health and social programs.

He said that in attempting to solve the problems of disease, human beings are embarrassed by a tradition to do nothing about sickness until it happens and when it does happen they haven't enough organization even to meet that problem.

"We must be organized to the end that every individual must have medical, nursing and hospital care whether such care can be paid for or not," Dr. Bates said. "Public health machinery must be the best possible."

In the health field it must be recognized that the position of voluntary agencies is an essential part of disease preventive machinery. Without voluntary agencies there would be no progress. Such agencies provided the energetic assistance of people devoted to a cause. This was the kind of assistance which all progress governments should welcome.

It Takes Minerals to Produce Milk!

It's a well-known fact that a large proportion of Ontario Dairy herds suffer from mineral deficiency, to some extent, during the Fall and Winter months.

Dairy cattle in heavy milk protuction need lots of minerals. If minerals are lacking or low in the foods they eat, they'll drop in production, lose health and vitality, and stop paying their way as an efficient income source.

By supplying your cows with SHUR-GAIN ESSENTIAL MINERALS for CATTLE, you insure adequate health, promote good milk flow, and keep deficiency disease in check. SHUR-GAIN CATTLE MINERAL is rich in calcium and phosphorus in the proper ration to assure strong bone formation, high milk production, and vigorous health. Iodine, Iron and Salt are also included for added efficiency.

SHUR-GAIN ESSENTIAL MINERALS for CATTLE are needed when grains alone make up the mash fed, or when grains plus purely protein supplements make up the mash.

HOW TO COMBAT Rheumatic Pains
Rheumatic pains are often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Treat rheumatic pains by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take regularly Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite kidney remedy. 109

More Stockings in Shops are Predicted

According to Byrne Sanders, director of the Consumer Branch, people who like to distribute stockings as Christmas gifts will find more of them in the shops this year. They won't by nylon stockings, of course, but there will be larger quantities of rayon hose made from acetate. Miss Sanders contends that stockings made from acetate are just as serviceable as those made from viscose yarns—now needed for the production of synthetic tires — provided they receive the same care. She warns that washing after every wearing and drying away from direct heat for at least 36 hours are two 'musts' in making any rayon stocking last.

In Loving Memory

LEWIS — In loving memory of a dear brother Roy, who departed from us November 24th, 1942.
As angels keep their watch up there
Please God just let him know
That we, down here do not forget—
We love and miss him so.
Lovingly remembered by Sister,
JESSIE, and Brother-in-law
47ap ALBERT SMITH.

LASHER — In loving memory of my dear husband, Wilfred Lasher, who passed away November 21, 1942.
I seem to see in the soft light
A face I loved the best
I think of it when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far off West.
I miss you more as the time goes on,
Than I did on the day of your going,
For absence can never close my heart
The lamp of my love still glowing.
Your heart was the kindest in the world—
Your love the best to recall—
For no one could ever fill your place,
You are still treasured of all.
Sadly missed by
47ap HIS WIFE.

Jack: So your father objected at first because he didn't want to lose you.

Ethel: Yes, but I won his consent; I told him that he need not lose me, we would live with him, and so he would not only have me but a son-in-law to boot.

Jack: Hm! I don't like that expression "to boot."

OBITUARIES

THE LATE MICHAEL RIELLY

A highly respected resident of Wiseton, Saskatchewan, passed peacefully away on Friday, November 3rd, in the person of Michael Rielly. He was exceptionally well known in the Enniskillen district, and his many friends and relatives were shocked to hear of his death.

Deceased was born sixty-five years ago, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Rielly, of Hungerford. He spent his early life in the Erinsville community until forty-one years ago when he went West where he had resided ever since. During the summer he spent some time renewing acquaintances here.

The late Mr. Rielly leaves to mourn his sorrowing widow, who was Mary Ann Watters, one daughter, Mrs. Mary Rielly, formerly of Ottawa, one sister, Mrs. Dunie Quinn, of Erinsville, and one brother, William Rielly, also of Erinsville.

Interment took place in Saskatoon cemetery, on Monday, November 6th.

MISS EFFIE MAY ALLISON

Miss Effie May Allison, a former resident of Napanee and Deseronto, died on Wednesday, November 8th at Napinka, Manitoba.

Deceased was born at Deseronto, the late Mr. and Mrs. David Allison. She was born near Ennes Hill, in 1886.

She resided in Napanee many years and was a dressmaker. From Napanee she went to Brooklyn, N.Y. and came to Deseronto in 1923 to take care of her sister, Mrs. William Allan, who was in ill health. After her death she took care of another sister, Mrs. Robert Geddes and following her death remained with Mr. Allan until his death and then she went to Toronto to reside with her sister, Mrs. William Hatch. She went to Napinka about two years ago to be with her sister, Mrs. Ross, who had not been in good health for the past few months.

The remains were brought east and arrived in Napanee on Sunday, November 12th and the service took place on Sunday from the Presbyterian Church which she attended and of which she had been a member for many years. Services were conducted by Rev. K. V. Matthews, assisted by Rev. A. W. McIntosh, a nephew by marriage of Miss Allison. He paid a beautiful tribute to her for the unselfish life which she had led, giving up all to look after those she loved.

Three sisters survive, Mrs. William Hatch, Toronto; Mrs. Emma Ross, Napinka, and Mrs. Sarah Breese, of Seattle.

The late Mrs. James Douglas, of Napanee was a niece.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRANK JACKSON

Enterprise — Mrs. Frank Jackson, Enterprise passed away at the Kingston General Hospital on Thursday afternoon, October 26th, 1944, after an illness of nine days. The late Mrs. Jackson was Lillian May Wood, eldest daughter of Elizabeth And Parish and Levi Wagar. She was born near Fenelon Falls, Ont. She spent her younger years there. With the exception of two years which she spent in Toronto. In 1904 she married Frank Jackson, and has lived since then, in Enterprise. She was a member of the United Church where she served in the W. A., the Sunday school and W. M. S., being a life member of the latter. She was a member of the Order of Enterprise for twenty years, where she was contralto soloist. She was a member of the County Chapter of the O.E.S.C. and the local Red Cross unit. Mrs. Jackson also took her place in any community work.

The high esteem in which she was held was evidenced by the large assembly of friends present at the funeral service, which was held in Enterprise United Church on Monday afternoon, October 30th, Rev. H. E. Fear conducted the service using hymns chosen by the deceased.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband; two sons, Stanley and Orval, of Enterprise; five granddaughters and two brothers, John C. Wagar, Fenelon Falls, and William Wagar, Midland, Ont. A sister, Charlotte Elizabeth (Mrs. Oren Miller), Penetanguishene, predeceased her about twenty years ago.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. George Fingland, Charles Graham, Fred Brown, Gerald Walker, Allan Burgess and Andrew Burgess. Interment was made in Centreville cemetery.

The Late Myrtle Amelia Hart

Much sympathy was felt in the community for relatives of the late Miss Myrtle Amelia Hart, whose death occurred on November 8th, at Farmindale, Long Island, New York.

Deceased, who was in her 42nd year, was born at Napanee Ont. the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart, now living at Reblin. She received her education at the local schools, after which she became a nurse-in-training at Ontario Hospital in Kingston, completing at Western Hospital in Toronto and graduated in the year 1928. In 1929 she left for Long Island, N.Y. where she joined the staff at Nassau Hospital, Mineola, where she remained until the time of her death.

Miss Hart was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was a very active member in many of the organizations, and several societies.

Besides her sorrowing parents, she leaves to mourn her loss, five sisters, Mrs. E. M. O'Connor, Napanee, Mrs. Fred Webster, Smith's Falls, Mrs. C. H. Harrington, Napanee, Miss Mildred, Miss Christine, Orchard and Maysel, at home. Four brothers also survive, Manley, of Napanee, Morvel on Enterprise, Merle, at Bath, and Milford residing in Napanee.

The remains rested at the funeral home of Fairchild's & Sons, Garden City, Long Island, N.Y., where a funeral service was held on Friday November 10th, with Rev. Dr. Dunbee officiating. Nurses from the hospital in which the late Miss Hart was a member, attended in full dress uniform.

The cortege arrived at Napanee at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 11, and rested at the home of her parents at Reblin. Funeral service was held Sunday, November 12th at Rose Hill United Church at 2:00 p.m. Rev. W. E. Lewis officiating. During the service Mr. and Mrs. George Beadle and Gertrude sang "Do Jesus Call." Interment was made in Riverside Cemetery in Napanee.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Charles and Jimmy Kimmett, Percy and Fred McConnell, Melville Mickle and Fred Mickle.

The many beautiful floral tributes from her friends in New York and locally were a mute expression of the high esteem in which the late Myrtle Hart was held. Flower-bearers were Messrs. Myrle Fred Wilbert James and Gordon Hart and Michael Donoghue.

FRIENDS PRESENT MRS. MRS. W. PERRY WITH PURSE MONEY

About 150 friends and neighbours Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry gathered at the N.O.F. Parish picnic and Hall on Friday evening, and presented them with a purse of $100. Mr. and Mrs. Perry had the misfortune to lose their home and contents by fire. The Maple Leaf Institute presented Mrs. Perry with a set of dishes at a table-cloth and a sugar tea-towel. They also received furniture bedding and dishes.

The following address was read by Mrs. J. R. Alderman:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry,

On behalf of the Maple Leaf Women's Institute we wish to express our sympathy in your loss by fire. We hope in the near future to replace some of the articles destroyed on household effects. We wish you every success in your future.

Signed on behalf of the Institute,
Mrs. Hazel Cummings, Secretary.
Mrs. J. R. Alderman, President.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry made appropriate replies, thanking all for their kindness.

2,044,090 Nazi Casualties Listed In Past Six Months

New York, (A.P.) — Germany has suffered at least 2,044,000 casualties in the last half year, official statements from the Eastern, Western and Southern Fronts disclosed. Actual enemy losses may be a great deal higher.

Official Allied sources listed these German casualties between May and November:

Russia	790,000
Western Front	1,050,090
Italy	194,000
Total	2,044,090

Premier Stalin announced last week that 790,000 Germans were killed or captured in the summer offensive in White Russia and in "the battle of the south." He made no estimate of German wounded and it was not clear whether the 790,000 included all sectors of the 1,800 mile Russian front.

In September, the Soviet information bureau announced that 1,185,476 enemy troops had been killed or captured between June 23 and August 31, and ten weeks of severe fighting have elapsed since then.

Marshal Stalin said in an address last night that 120 German divisions had been smashed during the summer, and indicated enemy loss of 1,200 000 men.

Official but incomplete figures of various armies in France, the Low Countries and Western Germany listed 660,090 prisoners last week. Prime Minister Churchill said on September 28th that 400,000 more Germans had been killed or wounded, and six weeks of fighting have taken place since that last authoritative report.

Gen. Alexander, ground commander in Italy, said last week that the Germans suffered 194,000 casualties in Italy since May 11, including 34,000 dead, 56,000 prisoners and 104,000 wounded.

LESSON I. OCTOBER 29TH

EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL
ON THE HOME
BY C. S. FARMER

It was the first Friday in October and Bob and Mary Wallace were just rushing into the house after the first football game of the season. Bob was a fourth year student in collegiate but Mary was just entering her first year. Bob's first impulse on entering the house was to visit the refrigerator and finish the piece of pie which he had to leave at lunch time. Mary's first concern was to find her mother and tell her all about the game.

Bob was not a rugby played himself. His specialty was track in summer and basketball in winter, but he cheered on his chums in the rugby team and he never missed a game. Mary had heard rugby talked so much at home that she was as excited as any of the boys — and as delighted when Bob's special chum, Bill Cowan carried the ball over for a try to win the game during the last three minutes of play.

George Wallace, Bob and Mary's father, had a surprise for the family that evening at dinner. Mr. Wallace was a detective on the city police force and he often brought home tales of adventure. Sometimes his story was just a plain boast for his own family warning them against mistakes he had seen other people make. That autumn evening he brought Detective McDonald in for dinner, and after dinner the two detectives sat with the family around the fireplace spinning yarns. Bob and Mary sat with rapt attention as the men told how they had traced and captured law breakers and how they had so often felt extremely sorry for the wives and children of the men who had to be sent to prison.

After some time Bob interrupted with a question directed to Mr. MacDonald:

"Here we are living in a very clean and wholesome part of the city. There is seldom any crime heard of in this neighborhood. Why are all your stories of crime taken from other sections of the city?"

The detective thought for a minute before replying: "Bob the main reason I can think of is that there is not a single beer parlour nor liquor store in this end of the city. How far is it from your home to the nearest place where liquor may be legally purchased?"

"It would be at least two miles away— over in the East Ward."

Mary spoke up. "I am glad that no person in our house takes liquor. Our daddy earns good money and he does not waste any of it on drink. But we do not know what it is like to have people around who do drink. Could you tell us?"

"Why yes! I have run across a great many sad cases where homes and family life have been ruined by drink. Just last week I invited a friend of mine from out of town to have dinner with me down at the Commander Hotel. We were to meet there in the lobby at a quarter to seven, but I was down at the hotel early and sat down to read the paper about six o'clock. Presently, a small poorly clad boy about six years of age came in and shyly looked around. Then he went over and pushed open the door of the women's beverage room and called out 'Mamma, Mamma.' Soon he came back crying piteously. When he came over near my chair I pulled out a chocolate bar from my coat pocket and held it up for him to see it. His tears dried up as I gave him the candy. He ate it up so fast that it made me think that he must have been starving. Half an hour later he was back. This time a young woman, rather well dressed partly intoxicated, followed the lad from the beverage room. She took a nickel to buy a sandwich and told him she would be home to give him his supper at eight o'clock. What a home that must be for a six-year-old boy!"

Mr. Wallace mentioned a case where a woman was suing for divorce and he was sent around to interview her. "The home was respectable enough on the outside and the district was one of good homes, but inside, I found that the furniture was broken and some pieces actually broken. The floor and walls were fairly clean. The woman's story was that she and her husband had been married twenty years and that they had four children.—the three older ones attending high school. For the first twelve years their married life had been very happy. He had worked steadily, brought home his wages, and they had bought and paid for their furniture and had kept the rent paid regularly. Then he started to drink and often there was little money left in the pay envelope by the time he came home. Besides, drink made him cruel and the children often knew what it was like for their father to beat either them or their mother. He seemed to lose all sense of what he was doing. One pay day a neighbour arranged to drive him home directly from work before he could get drunk.

"So," said the mother, "I had a very special dinner prepared for the whole family. But he slipped away. Just a few minutes and came in late for dinner. He raved because the meal was not on the table, then grabbed a table leg and sent dishes, tablecloth and everything crashing to the floor. It was some relief to me when he deserted his family about three months ago. I understand he has a job in another city, but the children and I never want to see him again."

Bob spoke up, — "I have seen liquor advertising in some of the magazines in the library. Some of them show a group of people in a living room having a family party — each of the adults having a glass of beer or ale. Everybody appears brighter and very happy. Does not moderate drinking make some homes brighter and happier?"

"Liquor advertising is very deceiving," said Mr. MacDonald. "It never gives a true picture of its effects upon the family life of the drinker. Alcohol, even in small quantities, attacks the brain and central nervous system. It deadens the 'clever forebrain' which enables a man to decide clearly between right and wrong. A man who is a kind husband and father when he is sober is sometimes brutal after he has had a few drinks.

"I know that you and Mary and every other right thinking boy and girl look forward to the day when you may have a home of your own. You think of that home as a happy Christian home where husband and wife understand one another and are unselfish toward one another. Children deserve a home like that — just like that one where you are being brought up.

"Even the young man or the young woman — who careless accepts a social glass at a party never expects to allow drink to do him any harm. He cannot see how his present home life or the success of the home he expects to have after he is married will be affected by a moderate amount of social drinking. But alcohol is a habit-forming drug and no man can say that he will not become a slave to the drink habit it he once permits himself to accept the first glass.

"My advice to you is to refuse firmly but politely to touch any drink containing alcohol, even in small quantities. Your friends will soon learn where your stand and they will admire you for it. But at first you may have to be like Daniel in ancient Babylon. Even the king's order to supply him and his friends with wine were met by this boy's firm determination that 'he would not defile himself'."

QUESTIONS

1 Drinking parents, broken homes and delinquent children frequently go together. Why?

2 Why is drinking at parties dangerous for young people?

Check-up Under Nat. Selective Service Mobilization Reg.'s

Out of 41,344 doubtful cases reported by employers in the last eight months, a total of 8,343 men not in good standing under Mobilization Regulations have been located, A. MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, announced today.

By an Order issued early this year under Mobilization Regulations, by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, employers were required to check on the documents of all male employees, and report on those apparently not in good standing under Mobilization Regulations. By a subsequent order of August 15th last the checking proceeds, which had originally carried only to May 1st, was made continuous. It is now necessary for an employer to report — within seven days of engagement — any new male employee who fails to furnish documents proving that he has complied with Mobilization Regulations.

These reports are sent to the Registrars of the 13 Mobilization Divisions across Canada. The 41,344 reports received by the Registrars to date cover the period from the first of March, when the first order of the Minister of Labour became effective, to November 4th, 1944.

Mobilization officials take immediate steps to follow up on the cases of men who are reported upon and found not to be in good standing under the Regulations.

New Regulations Regarding Employees For Christmas Rush

The hiring of extra workers by retail stores and the Post Office Department for the Christmas rush season has been simplified by a special Order signed by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, under National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, it was announced today by A. MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service.

From December 12th to January 5 1945, retail businesses may engage without first securing National Selective Service permission—students and teachers on Christmas vacation, any woman, and any man who has passed his fifty-ninth birthday.

The Post Office Department may employ persons in the same categories without permit, from December 1st, 1944 to January 10th, 1945.

If the employer — either a retail business or the Post Office Department — wishes to retain a temporary employee beyond the permit exemption period, it will be necessary to secure a Selective Service permit.

Mr. MacNamara pointed out that in relaxing the regulations to ease the Christmas rush, it is necessary to still maintain employment controls in general for the protection of essential industries.

V

WAR GRATUITY APPLICATIONS LAGGING

Ottawa, (C.P.— Fewer than 41,000 applications for war service gratuities have been received by the Navy, Army and Air Force here since it was announced a month ago that application forms were available, a survey by The Canadian Press showed.

Approximately 185,000 in the three services were discharged or became casualties prior to October 1st, and of the number only 40,700 have applied for the gratuities, provided under legislation passed at the last session of Parliament.

Spokesmen for the services said it was the backlog of 155,000 who have not yet applied that was causing worry and it was hoped they or their dependents would file applications promptly. Personnel discharged after that date automatically filled out their gratuity application forms before leaving the service, forms before leaving the service.

Forms Available

Application forms are available at all naval, military and air force establishments in Canada and at all district and sub-district offices of the former Pensions Department, now the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Dependents of men killed on active service need not fill out forms, but need only make application in a letter giving the man's name, rank and regimental number, and the extent to which they were dependent upon him.

Dependents were eligible for gratuities only if they were eligible for dependents' allowances at the date of the members' death, or if not eligible for dependents' allowances, providing they were dependent upon the member at the time and in receipt of assigned pay from him.

The discharged personnel themselves, however, must fill in all the details required in the application forms. Addresses to which letters of application should be mailed are:

For naval personnel or their dependents:

The Secretary, Naval Board,
Naval Service Headquarters,
Ottawa, Ontario.

For army personnel or their dependents:

The Secretary,
Department of National Defence
for Army,
Ottawa, Ontario.
Attention: Paymaster General.

For air force personnel or their dependents:

The Secretary,
Department of National Defence
For Air,
Ottawa, Ontario
Attention: Records Officer.

Applications should be forwarded in one copy only and are free of postal charges.

Under the gratuity legislation active service personnel will receive $7.50 for every 30 days service in the Western Hemisphere, which includes Canada, the West Indies, Newfoundland and South America; $15 for every 30 days service overseas, including the Aleutians, Iceland and Greenland; seven days' pay and allowances for each six months' service overseas, and a re-establishment credit.

Members of the Home Defence Army who served in Kiska are entitled to gratuities covering the period of their service there. Other home defence troops, however, receive no benefits under the legislation.

– ANTWERP – Incredible Metropolis

Antwerp — the incredible metropolis — a city of fluent Flemish and relentless rain. A city of cosmopolitan department stories and sad looking financiers. A city of well-stocked fruit stores and long-haired violin virtuosos playing left tired Canadian officers. A city where you can buy the best perfumes of Paris and blinding, mamma-squealing dolls while the people are clamoring for more meat and butter.

Few Anversois speak French but the majority know—or claim to know — English. Flemish is the main language but servicemen do not have to look for a white star in lapels— as in Brussels—to find an English-speaking citizen to help with current problems.

I went into the town's largest department store to buy a comb and while at it enjoyed a fruit sundae sold by a c'erk who spoke only Flemish. I was the only customer on the floor. Dapper salesmen were refilling their nails waiting for their missing clientelle.

One girl in the toy department— where hundreds of mama-chirping dolls were waiting for juvenile mothers — told me the store had been well patronized until the ministry of finance clamped down on all the big bills thus causing many an ill-acquired fortune to vanish from circulation.

Under the shadow of Antwerp's cathedral is the street market where black marketeers walk about with impunity. Only the look of War, street noises and the lack of meat make it seem like 1939.

Only one civilian restaurant is open in Antwerp — but the food is a good meal is served to 50 francs (about $1.25 Belgian). Other restaurants are Vacant tables. Impoverished Belgians could not afford even the almost mentioned price and eat at home or at their jobs.

There is one good eating place for officers, the Excelsior Hotel, where a Belgian chef does miracles with ordinary army rations. Unfortunately the hotel is reserved for officers and their guests as dinner. No army rank. I know a sergeant who has a suite of rooms there, but he would gladly forsake all those feasts if he could stow away a mail-sized steak from time to time.

The Anversois is a voracious reader and the bookshops are doing a good business. Newsboys sell their paper, the Volksgazette — a pink newspaper printed in Flemish and last time I looked standing in front of his salon one orchestra playing a ballet symphony. Masseuse for an enthralled audience of civilians and officers.

A laughing couple, dodging showers of rice . . . bride . . . groom . . . shabby babies . . .

These are scenes we know and like, because they're part of our lives . . . because they spell happiness . . . contentment.

But we know that these things don't just happen. They have to be worked for, lived for. Protected, too, because of ever-present dangers which may spoil them.

Venereal Disease is a spoiler. In a cold, relentless way it can kill infants, rob the home of its breadwinner, cripple, destroy. These are not mere possibilities. THEY HAPPEN . . . RIGHT HERE IN CANADA!

But, these things should never happen. They can be prevented.

Young men and women can safeguard their future happiness together by making sure before marriage that V.D. will not blight their plans. A medical examination, including a blood test for syphilis, is a protection no couple can afford to pass up.

The expectant mother, too, must be sure that her baby will be all she dreams it. Syphilis in the expectant mother commonly shows outward signs, and it is to protect persons. An early check up by her doctor, including a blood test, is a most essential, yet simple, first step in protecting her baby's health.

Nor must the breadwinner neglect his part. The security of the home depends upon his ability to work regularly and efficiently. Unsuspected syphilis, striking in middle life, may make the head of the home unable to provide for his family. It is up to HIM TO FOR SURE in time. Industrial medical examinations should include a routine syphilis blood test.

A blood test should not be looked upon as something unusual. It should be regarded for what it is . . . a normal safeguard of health, security and happiness.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Nov. 17. — A large number of members and visitors attended the meeting of the Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw. A talk and lantern pictures were given by Mr. Russell Hunter, chairman of the Blood Donor Clinic, Napanee. Mr. Hunter spoke briefly about the danger of the people failing down in their support just when the last efforts were badly needed, as is the case in blood donors, as the numbers have decreased just when the need is greatest. The boys in the last battles will need blood plasma as much as those in the first battles. The Convener of Home Economics, Mrs. Fred Milligan, introduced Miss Henry, of Kingston, who works with the Local Council of Women. Miss Henry spoke of Inflation, and explained several things in connection with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. She mentioned a slogan they have: "Why buy two when one will do?" She took up the question of sugar and butter rationing, and also gave a summary of questions and answers by Mrs. Consumer regarding made-over clothing going overseas to different countries. She urged that we keep informed in regard to inferior goods, and to be sure of quality. She closed with these words: "We want freedom from fear, freedom from want, and freedom of speech". A discussion in regard to filling ditty bags followed. Ten bags were filled at a cost of $2.85 each, and sent to the Navy League in Toronto. As Mrs. W. W. Redden, one of the W. I. members, was leaving the village, she was asked to stand, and Mrs. W. G. Richmond read a suitable address to her, and Mrs. Earl Bracisher presented her with a beautiful piece of pyrex on behalf of the Women's Institute members. Mrs. Redden made a suitable reply. Lunch was served.

A large number of friends gathered at the R. E. Building to bid adieu to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redden, who, after having resided in this village for the past 35 years, have disposed of their property and are moving to Portsmouth to reside with the former's brother, Mr. Fred Redden. After a short program was presented, Mr. and Mrs. Redden were asked to stand, while Mr. E. M. Harlton proceeded to read to them a suitable address, and Mrs. E. J. Huffman, President of the Women's Association of the United Church, presented them with a purse. As this was the date of their 37th wedding anniversary, a beautiful bouquet of "mums was presented to the bride of long ago; also a three-storey bride's cake was made by Mrs. W. G. Richmond and presented on this occasion. Both Mr. and Mrs. Redden were surprised at the continued gifts, and, on behalf of both herself and her husband, Mrs. Redden made suitable reply. All joined hands and sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows". Lunch was served, including the bride's cake, and a social time enjoyed by all.

At his home in Port Colborne, John Culver Pringle succumbed to a heart attack at the age of 59. Deceased was the eldest son of Mrs. Willett Pringle and the late Willett Pringle, of West Plain. Going to Port Colborne 36 years ago he secured employment helping to build the Maple Leaf Flour Mills, and was among the first to start work in the mill upon its completion. For a number of years he had been foreman in the bag department, where he made many friends. About 34 years ago he married Estella Leslie, of Port Colborne. Seven children were born to them, all of whom were at the funeral service, which was held in the Baptist Church, of which he was an active member. There remain to mourn his loss his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Percy Major, Mrs. Bruce Gravel, Mrs. Sidney Turvey, Miss Hazel Mae Pringle; three sons, Reginald Pringle and twin boys, Douglas and Donald, all of Port Colborne except the latter, who is in the R.C.N.V.R. and stationed at headquarters in Nova Scotia. His mother, Mrs. Willett Pringle, of West Plain, and four sisters, Mrs. W. G. Richmond, Tamworth; Mrs. George McTaggart, Napanee; Mrs. Webster McTaggart, Marysville, and Mrs. Delbert Meeks, Belleville, also one brother, Bernice Pringle, West Plain. His father and one sister, Mrs. Stephen Yates, Marlbank, also one brother, Alva, of Los Angeles, predeceased him.

Mr. Robb, Inspector of High Schools, paid a visit recently to the Continuation School here.

Miss Jessie Dott is on holidays and is spending two weeks with friends and relatives in Toronto.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Richmond were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon and two daughters, Ethel and Eva, of Napanee; Mrs. D. Lamont and daughter, Lynda, of Toronto; also Mrs. E. M. Pringle and son, Bernice, of Roblin.

Mr. Roy Fenwick, Music Supervisor for Ontario Schools, also Mr. Hallman, Inspector of Public Schools, paid recent visits to the Public School here.

On Tuesday morning the students of the Continuation School listened to a broadcast on Vocational Guidance, by Mr. Beattie, Inspector of Vocational Schools, from the Department of Education, Toronto.

NAPANEE W. I.

The monthly meeting of the Napanee Women's Institute was held in the agricultural room on Tuesday afternoon of last week with the president, Mrs. Jaffee Haggerty, presiding. The meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, the Prayer for Peace and the Salute to the Flag. It was decided to ask for the legislative grant. It was announced that Miss Jean Scott, in charge of the Girls, has been moved to another district, and her successor, Miss Thompson, was present and was introduced.

Mrs. Douglas Alkenbrack is to be the leader of the Girls' Work in connection with the local branch. It was decided to hold a progressive euchre on Friday afternoon December 1st and the conveners will be Mrs. Jaffee Haggerty and Mrs. Robert Milsap. The prizes will be donated by Mrs. C. E. Jamieson and Mrs. Alma Alkenbrack and Mrs. Katherine Powell.

It was with considerable pleasure that the branch has filled ten district and Mrs. Marshall Hudson, who was the delegate from the local branch to the area convention held in Kingston, gave a very interesting report.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. Marshall Hudson, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Mrs. James Magee and Mrs. Robert Milsap. Mrs. Powell spoke of her recent trip to the Maritimes, and referred to her visit to the Women's Institute convention in Fredericton, N.B. to which she took greetings from the local branch.

Mrs. W. S. Exley and Mrs. Frances Nicholson were the conveners for the programme with the former presiding. It consisted of a vocal solo by Mrs. J. E. Robbins, an interesting and informative talk by F.-Officer Herbert Butcher, who is home on leave, after serving overseas since 1941. He particularly stressed the matter of boxes sent to the boys and how much these boxes meant to them. Mrs. Powell gave a reading entitled 'To Canada.'

A vote of thanks was tendered all who took part in the program, and was moved by Mrs. C. E. Jamieson and Mrs. Menzo Grooms. The roll call was 'The Name of a Prominent Leader in the Present War.'

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

CENTREVILLE W. A.

The November meeting of Centreville Woman's Association of the United Church, was held at the parsonage on November 16th, 1944. The devotional programme was in charge of Mrs. Dupre and was opened by Rev. Frair with prayer. Mrs. C. Hanbah read the scripture, which was followed by a hymn. The theme of the meeting was Prayer. Mrs. Robert Brown read a poem 'Steal Away' and readings were given, on prayer, by Mrs. M. Clancy, Mrs. McKeown and Mrs. Flieler. Mrs. Frair favored with a solo. A hymn closed this part of the meeting.

Mrs. Weese took charge of the business part. The roll call was answered by seventeen members and one visitor, with verses supplied by Mrs. Dupre. The bill for painting in the church was presented and a motion made that it be carried. Mrs. Weese asked Mrs. B. Wannamaker to come forward and Mrs. Ronald Brown read an address and Mrs. Weese and Mrs. Wazar presented Mrs. Wannamaker with a set of pyrex as a remembrance from friends in Centreville. W. A. Mrs. Wannamaker expressed her thanks to all.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and the benediction. Mrs. Frair served lunch and all enjoyed the social hour. Mrs. Weese thanked Mrs. Frair for the use of her home.

REIDVILLE W. I.

The regular meeting of Reidville Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Reid, with a good attendance of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. Fenwick, was in charge. Roll call was answered by naming a Canadian city and what it is important for. The meeting being near Hallowe'en, the school children were in costume. Mr. Hunter, Napanee, and Mrs. Arthurs acted as judges. There was no fancy costume. The prizes were awarded as follows: Girls' Comic, Betty Hannah; Helene Hannah; Boys' comic, Gerald Wilson, Glen Hannah. Mr. Hunter then addressed the meeting on the Victory Loan drive and showed a film in connection with the National War Finance Committee.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Hunter for his splendid address. It was decided to apply for the legislative grant. Mrs. Penwick gave an interesting report of the area convention held in Kingston. The officers and members of this branch are joining with the Tamworth W.I. for the rally to be held at Tamworth. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem, and the hostess and committee served a dainty lunch and a social hour was spent.

STRATHCONA THANK-OFFERING

A successful autumn thank-offering service was held in Strathcona Church on Friday evening. Mrs. Geo. Finlay, president of the W.M.S. presided. Mrs. James Wilson led in the worship service. A chorus was sung by the Mission Band. The Junior Band members gave an exercise 'Little Lights, and the senior members presented a playlet 'Uncle Lijah's Thank-offering'. William Finlay played a trombone solo and a vocal duet was given by Mrs. Bruce Finlay and Mr. Towne.

The new study book, West of the Date Line, was introduced by Mrs. George Finlay in an interesting manner. Rev. Ronald Wilson and Hazel Finlay received the thank-offering which amounted to $84. The offering was dedicated in song.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

V. O. N. BOARD MEETING

The November meeting of the Napanee V.O.N. Order Nurses was held Tuesday evening, November 14th, at the home of Mrs. E. A. Lewis. Mrs. T. Hunt, the president, opened the meeting with the V.O.N. prayer. Mrs. W. S. Phippen, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. A. B. Medd the treasurer gave her report.

Mrs. Glen Reed has been sent to Napanee from Central Office in Ottawa, to take the place of Miss Mary Morrison, who has been granted leave of absence for six months.

Mrs. Reed read the nursing report for October. Miss W. Dyer-Smith, Supervisor from the Central Office of the V. O. N. in Ottawa, was present and addressed the Board. Congratulations were extended to Mrs. A. A. MacGregor, whose son, Lieut. Gordon MacGregor has just been awarded the Military Cross.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Lewis after the meeting had been adjourned. At this time an informal discussion of the annual bridge marathon took place. Mrs. George Paul, convener of finances would like the question of having the Bridge Marathon this year brought before the Board at the December meeting.

Following is the V. O. N. Nursing Report for the month of October:

October has not been as busy as September with regard to nursing care. There were 33 cases carried and a total of 121 visits made. 97 were nursing care while the remaining 24 were educational.

There were five Well Baby Conferences held in the Armouries, with a total of 64 babies attending.

35 Hours were spent in the two public schools, and a total of 17 visits made during the month.

Health inspection of all students was done, and the general health of all seemed good.

Nine children were excluded with skin infections, and were referred to their own doctor. The infection proved to be impetigo.

Special Meetings For Sunday School Workers and Adults

A series of "Missions to Christian Teachers" is being held during the coming week in all parts of Lennox and Addington County. Red Cross To Appeal For 50,000 New Blood Donors In Ontario

Toronto, November 21. — Upon the number of volunteers at blood donor clinics within the next few weeks may hang the lives of many men in the services overseas. The need for this life - giving serum is today greater than ever, with increased drives on the far fronts. The Ontario Division of Red Cross is making a province-wide appeal for 50,000 new donors, the campaign to begin on November 20th.

"Ontario's quota is 12,000 donors per week," states Russell T. Kelley, Chairman Blood Donor Service in Ontario. "In the last three months blood donations have reached that figure only three times. Clinics have been taking donors too often in an effort to keep up the number of donations. Recruiting of new donors, 50,000 at least, is the answer."

Mr. Ian R. Dowie, whose sales force has organized the National campaign for funds in Red Cross branches, is again giving the services of these men. They will contact Red Cross branches, organize local blood donor drives.

FIRST AID FOR PUZZLED SANTAS—an EATON MERCHANDISE CERTIFICATE Solves the Gift Problem

How many times have you said, "It's a puzzle to know just what to give this Christmas?" Well, here's the answer —EATON MERCHANDISE CERTIFICATES. Convenient, easy-to obtain, and a positive boon in these wartime days, when size, colour or style choice is unknown—or quantities are rigidly restricted, due to present conditions. Simply enclose an EATON Merchandise Certificate with your Christmas Greeting Card and forget everything but the thanks you'll receive.

The recipient brings the Merchandise Certificate to any EATON store and purchases whatever they wish up to the face value of the Merchandise Certificate. These certificates should be popular with busy executives and prize committees for their practical good sense. EATON Merchandise Certificates are obtainable at the C.D.S. in denominations of 25c, $1.00, $2.00, $5.00 and $10.00.

THIS YEAR GIVE EATON MERCHANDISE CERTIFICATES.

HAWLEY

Hawley, Nov. 20. — On Friday evening, at North Fredericksburgh Hall, the Maple Leaf W. I. presented Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry, who recently lost their home by fire, with a set of dishes, table cloth, and a dozen silver spoons.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Butcher and baby, of Napanee, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. E. O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ackerman spent Thursday in Picton.

Mrs. V. Boston returned home from Toronto last week, where she had been spencing a few days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith spent Friday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Howell, of Gretna, were callers at the Ackerman home on Sunday afternoon.

The Maple Leaf W. I. and Hawley W. A. Red Cross Unit are meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Myers on Wednesday afternoon for quilting and work, and the members will enjoy a social evening.

Mr. Leonard Selby has returned to the home of Mr. J. L. Smith, after spending three months in the west.

BATH

Bath, Nov. 18. — The residents of the village and district were glad to welcome Our George Thompson home on Wednesday. He is the youngest son of Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, and one of the first boys from Bath to enlist in 1939. He went overseas very early after signing up. He married while in England. His wife and baby son, came to Canada a year ago. George is enjoying a 30 day furlough at his home here.

The gentlemen of the village sponsored and managed a very successful euchre in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening. The prizes were won as follows: Ladies, 1st, Mrs. O. Barker; 2nd., Mrs. Chas. Hudson; lone hand, Mrs. A. Young. Gents, 1st, Chas. Harvey; 2nd, Gladwin Clement; lone hand, Chas. Young, Sr. The lucky ticket on the quilt was held by Mrs. Jerry Metcalfe. The proceeds were given to the fund for overseas parcels.

The Continuation Classes are preparing a splendid program for the annual commencement. Watch for the date. This is always an interesting feature in the school year.

A number from here attended the "open house" at the Nylon Plant, in Kingston, on Friday night. This is a very enjoyable trip and worth the effort spent. We are very fortunate to have such enterprising concerns operating in our midst.

The ladies of the United Church held their annual bazaar, tea, and concert in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday night. A splendid turnout and a very enjoyable evening was had by all.

AGNES McPHAIL, M.P.P. OUTLINES C.C.F. POLICIES AT NAPANEE MEETING

Candidate Don East, also Speaks

Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., and Flt.-Sergt. Don. East, Bloomfield, C.C.F. candidate for the Federal House, for Prince Edward-Lennox, addressed a meeting in the Napanee Town Hall in the interest of the C. C. F. Party, last Thursday evening. The meeting was quite well attended by citizens of the town and county, but an effort to form a C. C. F. Club in the Lennox part of the riding, did not meet with success.

Colin Campbell, chairman of the C. C. F. Club in Picton, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the speakers.

The candidate Flt.-Sergt. Don East, in a short address, outlined the aims of the C. C. F. Party, which he summarized as a movement to gain for all people of the Dominion a proper scale of life. The Liberal and Conservative parties, he stated, were in the hands of the big interests and were completely divorced from the interests of the common people. The C. C. F. Party, he said, is the only party in Canada with a programme of economic abundance. Both old parties peddled are in stinking ships and want to go back to private enterprise. The C. C. F. Party is democratically organized and is not made up of politicians. It is essentially a farmer-labor party and is doing a good job in getting the two groups together. Today there is a C.C.F. Club in every English-speaking constituency in Canada and good progress is being made across Canada.

Miss McPHAIL

Miss Agnes McPhail in starting her address said that the greatest job for the C. C. F. is pushing all the old parties on to do things they had never done before. The programme of the C. C. F. is based on a desire to raise the purchasing power of all the people. It wants the farmer to get prices for his products that will enable him to get all the things he requires. Likewise, that workers will have all the food and commodities they require.

The C. C. F. wants a price floor for farmers equal at least to the full cost of production, including wages of the farmer and labor. The economic prices for farm products have been due to the price on the world market which never should be, Miss McPhail said.

The C. C. F believes in a mixed economy. It advocates at least, one-third social ownership and an increase in co-operatives. It believes there should be a real effort by the Government of Ontario, to give farm boys a chance to go on farms and the Government should be willing to loan up to 75 per cent. for the purchase of machinery, at a rate of interest not over 2 per cent., to farmers of good character and ability.

Miss McPhail said she favored the family bonus plan, but would go farther by establishing some sort of universal pension scheme of substantial proportion, which would serve as a retirement allowance at 60 or 65 for all citizens of the country.

All the social services the Government should undertake will cost a lot of money, she said, more than can be raised by taxes. They would create too great a tax burden and another way to finance them must be found. In order to raise the necessary money she advocated the socialization of the most powerful and wealthiest monopolies in the country, among which she named the banks, the insurance companies and the packing plants. These should be taken over by the government and their profits used for the benefit of all the citizens of Canada.

The C. C. F., Miss McPhail said, will do these things when it gets into power. The party is not tied down by the big interests, she said, and does not and will not accept any support from them.

Following Miss McPhail's address, a number of questions were asked. One question concerned the C. C. F. Party's stand on conscription and in reply, Miss McPhail said the Party had always favored conscription of manpower when there was conscription of wealth.

SANTA CLAUS FUND

As announced in a recent issue of this paper The Beaver Santa Claus Fund is to operate again this year and is open for contributions.

Already letters are coming into the office of the Napanee Beaver from parents in the district asking that their children be not forgotten at Christmas.

Those who are in charge of the fund investigate whenever a request is sent in for assistance and make sure there is a real need before help is given. The money contributed is carefully spent and no one in connection with the administration of the fund receives remuneration.

So far only one cheque has been received this year. The first contributor was A. E. Holmes, whose cheque for $5.00 is acknowledged with thanks.

If making contributions by cheque or money order send them to the—"Beaver Santa Claus Fund."

DEAN OF ONTARIO SPECIAL SPEAKER YOUTH SERVICE

Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seely, Dean of Ontario and rector of St. George's Anglican Cathedral in Kingston, was the speaker last Sunday evening at the second of a series of Youth services held in St. Mary Magdalene's Church. The first in the series was held at Trinity Church a month ago, and another will be held in Grace Church after the New Year.

The service on Sunday evening was well attended by a large number of young people and adults. The lessons were read by Jack Boyle and John Simpson, Jr., and the solo part in the anthem was sung by Master Bob Ayre. Following the service a social hour was held in the Church School room where refreshments were served.

Dr. Seeley preached an appropriate sermon of practical value to every member of the congregation. He based his remarks on two verses from the Old Testament, "What hast thou in thy hand" and "What hast thou in the house." The two stories from which the texts were taken. Dr. Seeley said, were illustrations of what can be done if people only knew what material resources and abilities they have and trust in God.

Most people are prone to discontent and envy and waste time and energy in speculating on what they could do if they had more to work with and more talents. If an honest inventory were taken of what there is to work with and an honest effort made, it would be surprising what could be accomplished. The present war effort is an amazing example of this truth.

Dr. Seeley added that there never was such a gigantic task as faces humanity the foundation of future society if every ounce of talent in the church members is used and every resource is employed. If the Church is bold enough the next few years can be days of glory. The days of miracles are not past and this fact will be well proven when the history of the accomplishments in the present war is written.

ALAN FITZJOHN ADDRESSES ROTARY

Alan Fitzjohn, Eastern representative of Rubberset Brushes, of the Kemptville Rotary Club, spoke at the Tuesday luncheon of the Napanee Rotary Club. His subject was Plastics. He gave his listeners an idea of the vast uses of these new materials and showed how plastics will add to the comforts of mankind. Plastics would create innumerable improvements ranging from plastic houses to plastic boots and shoes.

The speaker was introduced by E. J. Pollard and was thanked by E. C. Hogarth. He is a very fluent speaker and had a wonderful story to tell.

FINAL SESSION OF COUNTY COUNCIL FOR YEAR 1944

County and Town Reach Agreement About Swing Bridge

FIRST DAY

County Council met in regular session in the Council Chamber in the Court House, on Tuesday afternoon, Warden Bryden presiding.

Rev. F. J. Armitage, minister of the Bay Circuit of The United Church, opened the session with a short service and an address.

Mr. Russell Hunter was heard in reference to the Blood Donors clinics, expressing his thanks through the County Council, to all those who have contributed to this worthy and much needed cause. He also invited the County Council to visit the special clinic on Thursday of this week.

A motion was passed accepting the invitation to attend the clinic.

A letter from the Town of Napanee notifying County Council of the appointment of Messrs. Stratton and Robson as members of the County Council, was read. Mr. Robson, who called upon, briefly addressed the Council.

Mr. Bryden tendered his resignation as chairman and member of committees which was adopted on motion of Messrs. Breault and Ham. A same motion appointed Dep-Reeve Robson to the committees.

Several notices regarding children committed to the care of the Children's Aid Society at the charge of this County. A report from the Children's Aid Society in reference to the children, was also read—Referred to the Finance Committee.

A notice from the Ontario Training School, re Doris Brown and E. McTaggart; was fyled.

A number of petitions from the Agricultural Council, and from other Counties, were referred to the Committee on Resolutions and the Agricultural Committee.

A letter from the District Ministerial Association, in reference to a "V" Day, and a letter from International Rotary in reference to celebrating the close of hostilities, were referred to the Patriotic Committee with power to act.

Accounts as presented were referred to the committees concerned, or ordered paid.

Council adjourned.

SECOND DAY

The committee appointed to consider the matter of establishing a Public School Health Service, reported recommending that a senior and an assistant nurses be appointed and that the office of the senior nurse be in the County Buildings. The Committee had invited Miss Moore of the Provincial Health Service to address Council and explain to the members many of the benefits to be derived from the service as already established by some Ontario counties. On motion of Messrs. Ham and Drew, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Moore for her instructive address.

The report of the Committee was adopted. Mr. Ham asked for the yeas and nays on the adoption of the report, resulting: Yeas, Messrs. Ham, Breault, Drew, Ward, Stratton, Bryden, Robson, Scott, Milligan—9. Nays, Messrs. McLeod, Creighton, Brandon, Johnston, Perry—5. Two absent.

Council adjourned.

THIRD DAY

Reeve Thompson notified the Clerk that he would be unable to attend the November session.—Filed.

The Finance Committee reported recommending that all county employees be covered by an insurance policy for accidents.

That the County had secured $5,000.00 from the Department of Defence for the Airport Road and that same had been invested in Victory Bonds.

That the report of the Warden and Treasurer of orders issued on the treasurer, be adopted.

That certain accounts referred to the committee, be paid.

The report was adopted.

LARGE QUANTITY OF POULTRY ON FIRST FAIR DAY

By ten o'clock on Wednesday morning, the first day of the annual Poultry Fair, there was a large quantity of poultry displayed on the market in Napanee. It was mostly chicken and fowl, with turkeys and other poultry conspicuous by their absence.

Ceiling prices on chicken were set at 30½c on fowl, 26½c, and on Turkey 35½c.

Prices being paid up to 10 a.m. on Wednesday were up to 29c for chicken, and up to 22c for fowl.

V

Magistrate's Court

In the Magistrate's Court Thursday, Pte. F. H. Buckstein, Kingston, was found guilty by Magistrate Garvin of careless driving and a fine of $5.00 and costs of $3.00 was imposed. The charge was laid following an accident on No. 2 Highway, five miles west of Odessa, in which the army truck Buckstein was driving, collided with a civilian truck. The army truck was one of a convoy of military trucks being driven east on a practice drive. Buckstein had only a week's experience and had taken over the truck a few minutes before the accident occurred. The former driver told Buckstein the brakes were not operating properly and Buckstein looked down at the brake pedal with the result that his truck veered across the road and collided with the oncoming civilian truck, driven by W. Peters, 606 Montreal St., Kingston.

The charge against Mrs. Rhoda Thurston, Bath, of knowingly supplying liquor to persons under 21 years of age was dismissed by Magistrate Garvin. Constable Smith stated he entered Mrs. Thurston's refreshment room in Bath where he found three boys at a table, two of them with partly filled beer bottles in their hands. Mrs. Thurston, in her evidence, stated the evening in question was Hallowe'en and that while she was out of the room the boys came in and took the bottles. The bottles were on the table and drank from them without her knowledge.

ELEVEN SEEK OFFICES IN NAPANEE COUNCIL FOR YEAR 1945

D. R. Hall, Mayor, and C. M. Stratton, Reeve by Acclamation

There will be an election in the Town of Napanee on Monday, December 4th, for the positions of Deputy-Reeve, which is being contested by the present Deputy-Reeve, George D Robson and by John A. Regan, barrister, and to fill the positions of six Councillors.

Dr. D. R. Hall was re-elected mayor by acclamation as were also Reeve C. M. Stratton, Public Utilities Commissioner W. T. Mackenzie, and the three following school trustees, C. N. Loucks, East Ward; J. M. Simpson, West Ward, and H. L. VanLuven for Centre Ward.

The men who are seeking the offices of Councillors are the following members of the 1944 Council: M. B. Luffman, A. S. Kimmerly, George S. Chalk, P. J. VanAlstyne and Anthony E. Holmes, and five new aspirants, George H. Switzer, Arnold H. Rogers, Septimus Booth and Harry W. Vine.

The following is the list of nominees for the various positions:

FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION:
C. N. Loucks, East Ward
P. U. Laidley, East Ward
J. M. Simpson, West Ward
H. L. VanLuven, Centre Ward

Following the closing of nominations several of the officers of last year spoke on the work of their departments:—

BOARD OF EDUCATION CHAIRMAN SPEAKS

Mr. P. U. Laidley, chairman of the Board of Education gave a brief review of matters pertaining to the schools in Napanee. He commended the work being done by the teachers and said that in view of the scarcity of teachers in the province the Napanee schools were fortunate in being so capably staffed.

Mr. Laidley announced that a new course in practical agriculture would be started in the Napanee Collegiate and Vocational Institute, with a qualified teacher, Mr. Drury, in charge. The direct cost of the course in agriculture will be small to the ratepayers because the Department of Education pays a large grant. The Board expects soon to open a domestic science department for girls and a practical shop work course for boys, in the N.C.V.I.

In view of the emphasis being placed on proper nutrition, the Board has decided, Mr. Laidley stated, to provide hot soup free of charge for all pupils who take their lunches to school in the Collegiate. There is a possibility also, he said, that a cafeteria may be opened in the Collegiate, at a later date.

Mr. Laidley, in closing his address, said the Board of Education expected to have a surplus of about $8,500 this year which will help to reduce the taxes in the town about 4 to 5 mills next year.

HYDRO - ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT

Mr. W. T. Mackenzie, one of the Public Utilities Commissioners, presented the following report for the Hydro:

We are pleased to again report an increasingly satisfactory operation of the Electric System covering the nine months operation to September 30th, 1944.

In making our report last November we estimated that our surplus for 1943 would be approximately $5,000, and we are glad to say that it was actually $5,041.10 after providing for depreciation of $2,500, thus bringing our Reserves for Depreciation to the end of 1943 to $17,186.20.

Of the above surplus $2,500 was set aside in a State Stabilization Fund, established to assist in maintaining existing rates during the lean years which may be expected immediately after the close of the war.

We have already contributed in our payments for power supply during the past few years about $23,000.00 to a similar fund set up by the H.E.P. Commission for the stabilization of our power costs.

The revenue for the period to September 30th, amounted to $45,785.00 an increase of $52.00 over that of 1943 while our expenses were $.37,106. or $1,555 less than in 1943. Thus our surplus for the nine months is $8,169, which, when depreciation charges are taken into account will be about $6,000.00.

It is very reasonable to expect therefore, that we will close the year with a surplus of at least $7,000.00.

A further contribution to the Special Rate Stabilization Fund will be made of 50 Per Cent. of whatever the surplus may be. The establishment of this fund we are confident, is a most wise precaution.

Our revenue shows a very satisfactory increase of about $6,000.00 over the corresponding period in 1939 at the commencement of the war. This is particularly significant when one realizes the reduced off peak consumption of energy brought about by the restrictions placed on the use of electricity for certain purposes, such as window lighting, etc., reduced street lightings and the continued Daylight Saving and early closing of stores. These restrictions have been removed on October 1st, 1944 and the resultant effect will no doubt be very clearly apparent in the increase in K.W. hours consumption during the remaining three months of the year.

Then again on May 1st of this year we put into effect, reductions in the rates for Domestic lighting and for flat rate waterheaters representing a reduced revenue from these classes of servife for the five month period of approximately $1,200.00.

We had the heaviest demand for power since taking over the plant in 1940, on September 14th, 1944 when the load reached 1,561 H.P. This would have been increased 65 H.P. had we not installed the control equipment for this service in 1940.

The transformers at the Sub-station have been carrying a very heavy overload for some time but this situation has been remedied this month when additional capacity of 1500 h.p. was installed.

Work has been carried on gradually throughout the year preparing for the removal of poles and wires in 1939 Dundas Street from Robert to Adelphi Street and the probable installation of improved street lighting equipment, as a post war project.

In May we invested $9,000.00 in Victory Loan Bonds.

The very great demand for service in the Rural District has kept our organization very busy throughout the year, and it would appear that the demand will continue for some time to come. At present in addition to the operation of our own local system we are operating the rural system comprising over 300 miles of line with over 1,900 customers, together with the system in the Village of Newburgh, with about 100 customers.

We greatly deplore our loss in the death of Mr. Bert Beaubien, a faithful employee in the electric department for 32 years, and of Mr. Geo. Lewis who served us faithfully for many years in the Waterworks Department.

Details re Average Costs in 1943

Domestic Consumers	889
Average monthly bill	$2 60
Average cost per k.w. hour	$1 47
Commercial Consumers	201
Average Monthly Bill	$6 89
Average cost per k.w. hour	$2 09
Power Customers	23
Av. cost per h.p. per year	$17 60

In view of the favourable outlook for this year's operation a further reduction in our rates by the Hydro Electric Power Commission will, in all probability be authorized, during the coming year.

WATERWORKS DEPARTMENT

The following report was presented by J. H. Moffat, one of the Public Utilities Commissioners:

We have as yet no detailed report of the Waterworks Department but we can arrive at a fairly close estimate of final figures for the year in checking the receipts and expenditures as of this date. Last year we estimated our operating surplus at $7,600.00 and the actual figure at the end of the year was $7,625.00 This year our operating surplus should be about $7,400.00 Debenture payments amount to $6,367.00 leaving a net operating surplus of about $1,100.00.

Our gross revenue to date is $21,000.00, about $700.00 more than at this time last year. We expect further collections to increase this figure by at least, $21,800.00 which would be a record again as last year's figure of $21,353.00 was the highest of any year to date. This increase is accounted for mostly by increased consumption of water at the plants of the Canadian Canners and Acme Farmers' Dairy.

Our gross expenditures of $18,500 are about $1,000.00 higher than at this time last year. This is mostly accounted for by the purchase of power from the Hydro and an increase in the purchases of chemical supplies. Outstanding arrears as of November 1st were $870.00, somewhat below the year's report of $500.00.

During this year we purchased Victory Bonds to the amount of $1,500 and our bank balance should be over $2,000.00 at the end of the year.

Practically no capital expenditures were made and very few repairs unless absolutely necessary. The lack of extra labour stops outside repairs.

CAMDEN TOWNSHIP DOES A GRAND WAR JOB

The Reeve of Camden, Edgar Drew, the Councilmen, and citizens, becoming fully aware of the need for blood donors, arranged to have a special day set aside for them, and last Thursday 123 joined the ranks of Canadians who are taking time out of a busy life to give life to thousands of our boys who, without it, would have died, and who, without it, will die.

One hundred and twenty-three more people who, when our boys come marching home, can say: "I wonder which of them is alive to-day by my blood?"

Following is a list of donors:

Annual Event Well Attended

On Monday evening last, the Napanee Lions Club were hosts to their rural friends at the regular "Farmers' Night dinner. Over 100 members and guests were present to enjoy one of the most interesting and successful dinner meetings of the season.

During the dinner President Harry Skitch called upon Vice-President Bill Barrett who welcomed the guests on behalf of the Club.

The musical part of an interesting program was given by Mr. Allan Aylsworth, baritone, of Napanee, who rendered several numbers which were greatly appreciated.

Among the guests were Mayor D. R. Hall, of Napanee, C. W. Buchanan, Agricultural Representative of the County, and the Potato Club teams who were winners of the Eastern Ontario and runners-up in the Ontario three man Potato Judging competition. W. K. Huston, President of the Napanee Rotary Club and Reeves and Deputy-Reeves of the various municipalities were also in attendance.

Mayor Hall in addressing the gathering, spoke of the splendid work of the Service Clubs of the County and of the benefits of the joint meeting of the members and their rural friends, and hoped that these gatherings would have a tendency to create a clearer view of the value of knowing your neighbour.

Chas. Buchanan was called upon next to introduce his Potato Club team and in a short talk explained the activities of the Club and the honour the team had brought to the County. Following his address the two boys were presented with War Savings Certificates by Lion Lloyd Cooke, on behalf of the Club.

The team was then introduced by Lion Lloyd Cooke, chairman of the programme committee, who introduced the guest speaker, Professor Knox, of the Ontario Agricultural College staff, of Guelph. Mr. Knox is head of the Animal Husbandry Division of the College. He is a native of Peterborough County and saw overseas service during the last war, and was a member of the Soldiers' Settlement Board prior to joining the O. A. C. staff.

Prof. Knox, in his address spoke very highly of the pleasant associations derived from Farmers' Night and the "getting to know your neighbour better" policy of the members. He chose as the subject of his address "Agriculture in Great Britain During War Time." The speaker had the opportunity of getting first hand information on his subject while on a business trip to the British Isles for three months in the last winter, and to a very attentive audience spoke of the food situation and how the British Ministry took steps to increase food production and, at the same time, not hinder the tremendous war effort by subjecting the people to a strict wartime diet. He gave figures and instances to substantiate his statements in regard to the health of the nation, which he claimed was better in 1943 than in 1938.

Prof. Knox also enlightened his audience with facts obtained during his visit on the increased acreage of farm lands, the raising of farm animals for food, the labor situation, and many other phases of interest to the average farmer.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the Club by Lion Russell Hunter.

ALLIED ARMIES MAKING PROGRESS ON WESTERN FRONT

Fighting on German Soil is Reported

WEDNESDAY—

The Germans appeared to be in full flight along the 12-mile Franco-American front in Eastern France.

The French advanced northward to gain the Rhine after their breakthrough at Belfort and the United States Seventh Army captured Saarebourg. Allied forces in the Aachen area advanced against heavy German resistance.

• • •

A new Russian offensive was reported to have been opened up in Czechoslovakia and northeast Hungary.

• • •

In Italy the Allied Fifth Army pushed German rails below Bologna and the British Eighth Army drove nearer to Ravenna on the Adriatic Coast.

• • •

Superfortresses bombed industrial targets on the Jap homeland Island of Kyushu.

• • •

The Japs forced the British to withdraw slightly along the Myitkyina-Mandalay railroad.

• • •

THURSDAY—

Important gains were made by the Allies on Wednesday on the Western Front. Mulhouse on the Rhine was captured by the First French Army. The British Second Army took Deventer, a fortified German town on the Roer River. The United States First Army seized Eschweiler on the Cologne plain north of Aachen.

• • •

Advances were made in Italy by both the British Eighth Army and the Allied Fifth Army.

• • •

The Russians took six more Hungarian villages, twenty forts and sixty miles northeast of Budapest.

• • •

FRIDAY—

The First French Army broke into the German city of Strasbourg after an eighteen-mile advance, cutting off the retreat of 20,000 Germans in the Vosges Mountains.

• • •

In the Northern section of the Western front the German forces began to be withdrawing from territory west of the Maas River. The British advanced to within two miles of Venlo.

• • •

The Russian Army smashed into ends of the German line, 100 miles from Budapest. The Russians also were said to have opened up the final phase of the battle to annihilate the remnants of the thirty divisions pocketed on the Latvian coast.

• • •

The United States 32nd Division made considerable gains in the Leyte area of the Philippines.

• • •

The British Eighth Army captures Forli and Faenza in the area south of the Bologna-Rimini Highway.

• • •

SATURDAY—

First United States patrols reach objective Gruenthal, across German border near Rhine River invasion corridor east of Strasbourg. Units of the United States Third Army advanced to within thirteen miles of Saarbrucken.

• • •

The Jap drives were checked on the Sagaing Saundaung front south of Kyaukse, and they were said to be within sixty-six miles of Budapest.

• • •

The British Eighth Army in Italy crossed the Conna River and was expanding its bridgehead in preparation for the attack on Faenza.

• • •

United States superfortresses flew over Tokyo and smashed the huge Musashino Aircraft Factory.

• • •

The Allied advance in Northern and Western Burma has been so rapid that the Ledo end of the Burma Road was said to be almost in sight.

• • •

MONDAY—

The six Allied Armies on the Western Front were reported making a steady progress against the Germans. All Holland, west of the Maas River has been cleared of Germans. The United States Third Army drove deeper into the Saar Valley and reached the Maginot Line within four miles of the German frontier.

• • •

The Russians advanced eighteen miles into Czecho-Slovakia and were within five miles of the city limits of Budapest. A fifth of all the German divisions on the Eastern Front were sealed off by the Russians in Latvia.

• • •

The Japs claimed to have captured Nanning, former capital of Kwangsi Province.

• • •

Sixteen Jap ships, including a heavy cruiser and 72 planes, were destroyed in a new air-sea battle off Luzon, in the Philippines.

• • •

TUESDAY—

The United States Ninth Army pushed the enemy back to the west bank of the Roer River, south of Julich. Infantry of the First Army fought into the centre of Langermoke, fourteen miles inside of Germany, and the last big road junction west of the Roer.

• • •

In Italy the British Eighth Army was reported to be closing in on Faenza, thirty miles southeast of Bologna.

• • •

United States Superfortresses struck again at Tokyo, bombing the industrial waterfront.

• • •

In one of the biggest air battles of the war 500 United States planes brought down 98 German machines, bringing the total war planes destroyed in 24 hours to 212.

W. C. Snider, Ernesttown Clerk Breaks Arm

Mr. Walter C. Snider, Odessa, Clerk of the Township of Ernesttown suffered a painful accident last week when he broke his right arm in two places, while doing chores around the barn.

He was taken to Kingston General Hospital for X-Ray and the arm was placed in a cast. He was able to return to his home on Saturday.

GNR. WM. J. BEATTIE INJURED OVERSEAS

Mrs. Margaret Beattie Napanee received word last week that her son Gnr. William J. Beattie who has been with the R. C. A. in Holland had been seriously wounded and admitted to a hospital in England.

Mrs. Beattie received word in the form of a letter from her son Bill in which he gives a description of how he was injured. Some time ago, I was in the Vino Ridge area and had just come out of the line for a rest when I received my injuries. I was on the motorcycle at the time and was thrown off and hurt my head. I was unconscious for a few minutes and when I came to I was in the Regimental Aid Post. I was very lucky as I only received a few cuts and bruises. The doctor said that I would be back with the unit in a few days. I am now in a hospital in England and am getting along fine. I am getting plenty to eat and smokes and am in bed. I will write again soon."

Gnr. Beattie has been overseas for the past two years. Before joining the army he was employed at the Napanee Beaver.

"OF THINGS TO COME"

In Belgium trouble has broken out as soon as the heavy hand of Germany has been removed. The situation is not altogether clear, but dispatches are of a disquieting character. There are charges and counter-charges. It seems that a crowd of demonstrators and police came into conflict. The police contend they were attacked by the demonstrators who then threw hand grenades to quell the disturbance. The demonstrators were branded by the Government as Communists, who were hoping to seize power. The others claim that the Government has failed to mete out justice to those who collaborated with the Nazis during the occupation.

There we have it; the picture in brief as revealed in Press dispatches. We are not much impressed by the cry of Communists levelled against the demonstrators. That trick of name-calling is a familiar one. It has been practised with good results by a lot of propigandists. It did not accomplish all that was hoped by those who used it in connection with the recent election in the United States. All the same, it is quite a strong instrument. To call those with whom a certain group disagree Bolshevik or Communist, is sure to win support in some sections of the community, for those doing the name-calling.

Nor is it to be supposed that the Government had punished all whom the populace think should be punished. It is a hard job for a court, in a short time, to sort out all the evidence and determine just who collaborated with the invaders and who did not. The probability is that clash is an evidence of the struggle which lies at the basis of the present world clash of arms. It is a struggle to determine who is to govern, whether the common people or the ruling groups are to hold power. This is the real issue that has yet to be settled.

In Italy the same struggle is taking place. There the Government has resigned. The Government in Italy—in that part which has been freed by the United Nations — has been made up of a combination of a number of progressive parties. It now seems as though the pressure is such that the Government finds it impossible to carry on. Dispatches tell that in any new grouping the Monarchists will have representation. Here again we have the struggle between the old regime and those who represent the modern liberated peoples in operation. The Monarchy in Italy has proved itself quite unworthy to rule a new and forward-looking Italy. But the old order will not pass without those who have benefitted by it, making all the trouble they can, and fighting to the last ditch to retain their positions of prestige and privilege.

When the war is over, the struggle for power within Europe will by no means be ended.

SERVICE IN PEACETIME

Just now the Neighbours to the South of us are discussing in the Public Press: "The Wadsworth-Gurney Bill," which was introduced in Congress almost two years ago, and which provides for compulsory military training of young men during peace-time. Opinion seems one-sided, if we are to judge from the editorial expressions on the subject. The Buffalo Evening News puts the case for compulsory training in a way which represents the views of all who support the Bill, in its issue of November 25th. It says:

"The benefits our young men will acquire both mentally and physically by a year's service in the Army or Navy should be obvious to all who have seen the effect upon the condition and character of our soldiers, sailors and marines after one year's service in this war.

"This is not an issue that can be postponed for future consideration. The effects of war are vividly before us now and the present is the time to act. Although minor changes may be made in the Wadsworth-Gurney bill it should be passed substantially as drafted. There should be no quibbling or evading the issue; the act provides for our national security and defense. It is a military measure and all other features are incidental. As such it should become a national institution.

"With such a bill made law we shall remain what we have become during the war, the world's greatest military power and we need not fear attack by any aggressor. Since we have no designs for national aggrandizement we would be one of the greatest factors for insuring world peace. Our influence at the Peace Conference would be immensely strengthened as it will be also in any league of nations organized after the war."

This, of course, is an issue the people of the United States will have to settle for themselves, but the present mood shows the effect of the war on the mentality of a people. The nation which always prided itself on being the greatest peace-loving people in the world may become as The News says, "The greatest military nation in the world."

STEADY DOES IT

This is no time to make party capital out of a complex and difficult situation. We confess that sometimes, of late, we have had a sinking feeling bordering on despair as we have observed those who would exploit the present admittedly difficult situation for their own ends. The political situation in Canada must give deep concern to all who have the interests of Canada at heart. We believe that a firmer attitude on the part of the Government at Ottawa early in the war, would have prevented the present sharp cleavage of opinion. But that was not taken; there is no place for recriminations; no time for denouncing the Government for sins of omission. We are faced with the present complex problem which must be solved. The whole country, all parties, must sink their personal feelings in the matter, and help to solve it.

The men at the front need reinforcements. They must have reinforcements. As a people, we would be untrue to those who have given their lives, and to those who are, today, giving their lives, if we did not see to it that ample reinforcements are provided. Men were trained, as well trained as those who landed in Normandy on 'D' Day. There are men in this country who can be used for these reinforcements. They must be sent. The question of raising reinforcements to form a pool is one on which men in authority differ. Defense Minister MacNaughton thinks they can be secured by voluntary methods; the former Minister of Defense, Mr. Ralston, does not think so. A compromise has been reached. Some 16,000 men from the Home Defense Army will be sent Overseas whether volunteer or not. Meantime, a vigorous campaign of enlistment will be carried out.

Behind all this is the sharp cleavage of opinion between French Quebec and the rest of Canada. Quebec being definitely opposed to any form of compulsion for military service outside Canada. The Dominion Government represents Quebec as well as the English-speaking Provinces. The voice of Quebec must be heard in any legislation which the Federal Government enacts. This is the situation which makes it difficult to get united action in Ottawa on an issue where there is such a clear-cut division of opinion. Mr. King has survived the present crisis, so far. He has done so by making a compromise which a month ago he could not have made. If this compromise fails to provide the necessary number of reinforcements, then further action will have to be taken. The Government is moving slowly, too slowly some think. But even those of us who deplore the delay and the vacillating action of the Government, cannot help but feel that the Prime Minister is in a difficult position. He may, to a large extent, be responsible for the position he is in, all the same this is not the time for bickering and backbiting. We must get on with the job of winning the war and seeing to it that we do so as unitedly and whole-heartedly as possible.

The Government will win back much of the confidence it has lost, if in the administration of the present compromise law, no racial or provincial partiality is shown, and that the 16,000 who are to go Overseas comprise men of all races, classes and creeds. In the meantime we must keep steady and do nothing that would add to the complexity of the situation.

DON'T FORGET

In spite of the wartime prosperity and the wide circulation of money, there are some who do not share in this. There are those who for one reason or another do not seem able to get very far ahead; it may be because of an accident of birth, they are not so strong or well equipped for the battle of life, as some others. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that there is poverty in certain areas of our community life, which is hard to eradicate. The burden of such a condition falls always on those least responsible for the situation. Little children are the innocent sufferers of others' incompetency or misfortune. A wealthy and generous community cannot allow these children to suffer unduly. Especially at Christmas the hearts and purses of men and women of good will, should be opened towards children—especially the underprivileged. We have some in Napanee and The Beaver Santa Claus Fund is designed to give those who desire to share their Christmas cheer with others an opportunity of doing so.

A contribution to The Beaver Santa Claus Fund will aid in bringing a visit from St. Nicholas to many children who, but for this fund would have a rather blank and bleak time on Christmas morning.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, DECEMBER 3RD, 1944

Lesson Text: John 17: 18-23. I Corinthians 12: 4-7, 12, 13
WORLD-WIDE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

At first the disciples of Christ looked upon themselves as bearers of a message to their own people, the Jewish people. Only slowly did it dawn on them that the religion of Jesus was not confined to any one race or group, but that it was for the whole world. In the prayer of the Master, which forms the first section of today's lesson, Jesus prays that all to whom He was sent, might be one. Our Saviour looked forward and saw all races and classes brought under allegiance to the God He revealed. He believed that as the son of God, He Himself possessed the secret of a united, contented and happy people.

It is one of the tragedies of Christianity which set out to unite men and women in loyalty to a common Lord and Master that it should have so soon experienced within its followers bitter disunion nor was that spirit of disunion and contention easily eradicated. All through the subsequent ages men and women have differed on some detail of Jesus' teaching. Strange it is, that these divisions that have so often rent the Church, that have been accompanied by bitterness, fanaticism and often persecution and bloodshed, have been based, not on essentials, but on the interpretations of this or that passage of scripture, or on this or that bit of theology. Instead of being united against a common enemy, the followers of Jesus have used up time and ability and energy, fighting one another. The tragedy of it is the situation is still one which reflects much of that spirit. Into a town such as our own where there has been some semblance of united religious effort for years, there come others professing that they themselves alone have the real gospel, denouncing those who differ from them, as not really Christian. How on earth it is ever to be possible to get unity of action in world politics, when people who hold allegiance to a common Lord take that view, is hard to comprehend.

In Canada, some progress towards Christian unity has been made. The United Church of Canada was the first organic union of different denominations. It set the pace. The men and women who pioneered in that movement built better than they knew. Recently the Canadian Council of Churches has been organized. This is not organic union; it is a federation of all Protestant bodies, organized for common action. There is a Federal Council of Churches in the United States; there is a British Council of Churches, and had it not been for the war, the World Council of Churches would now be in operation. These are signs of the times. They reflect a growing desire on the part of Christian people to work together in co-operative action.

In spite of all this, however, there is much prejudice, much bigotry, much selfishness, much class and religious isolation. There have been, in the past, many attempts to discredit Christianity. But never before has there been such a widespread organized effort to destroy belief not only in Christianity, but in God, the God whom Christ revealed and on whom the Christian Church is founded. In the face of this threat to all our faith and ideals the church more than ever, needs to be united. There are serious days ahead for the Church. The time has come when men and women must lift their eyes beyond the immediate petty concerns of their own brand of theology and see the struggle in the wider setting.

In the church at Corinth a dispute had arisen as to who were the most valuable people in the church—whose work was most important. Paul, in this section, makes it clear that no one person or group is of any more importance than another. There are diversities of gifts. Allegiance to the Church and to Christ does not mean that all individuality among its members is to be washed out, on the contrary every gift, every endowment of heart and life, adds to the strength of our religion. The newer churches—the younger churches as we ca'l them—those from China and Japan, and India and Africa have something to contribute to our religion which is born out of their own history, their own inheritance, their own personality. We will all to our sorrow, as a church of all nations, if we seek to press them into one mould. Allegiance to Christ is all that is necessary, then only will diversity of gifts, will come a richer and deeper faith.

NOTE REGARDING SPECIAL ADJUSTMENT OF TAXES IN RESPECT OF THE YEAR ENDED 30th OCTOBER, 1943

The Minister of Finance has expressed the opinion that the transfers made in 1943 to Contingent Reserve Fund from the earnings of this Bank were in excess of the reasonable requirements of the Bank.

The management and the auditors of the Bank do not agree with the Minister in this matter but having been advised of the Minister's views and of his purpose to act in accordance therewith, we have estimated that approximately $2,200,000 of such transfers must be added to income of that year for tax purposes. As a result the Bank will be called upon to pay additional taxes for the year 1943 of a like amount under the Income & Excess Profits Tax Acts. Provision has been made from Contingent Reserve Fund for this tax liability, of which twenty per cent, or $440,000, will be refundable under the provisions of the Excess Profits Tax Act.

GEORGE W. SPINNEY, President — B. C. GARDNER, General Manager

ODESSA

The Woman's Association of the United Church met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Roy Bobgeon. There was a good attendance, and the President, Mrs. Mary Vandewater, presided. The devotional and program was in charge of Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Joe Vrooman.

A very successful dance was held on Friday evening, sponsored by St. Mary's Church.

The banquet and social evening for husbands, held by the Women's Institute, was a very delightful event. There were about 100 in attendance. Each member was asked to invite her husband, or friend, and two others. The roll call, "The All Round Man", proved quite humorous. The President, Mrs. Walter Snider, opened the meeting with the members singing "How Do You Do, Everybody", and a welcome song, with Mrs. Gilbert at the piano. The President gave a very suitable address. Supper was served, consisting of chicken pie, scalloped potatoes, salads, and pies. A short program followed, consisting of the motto, "It's good to have money and the things that money can buy, but it's good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure that you have not lost the things money can't buy". Excellent thoughts were given on this by Mrs. Robt. Cairns. A well prepared paper on "A Home" was given by Mrs. Franklin Parrott. After the program, a few games of progressive euchre were enjoyed. Those receiving prizes were: Ladies, first, Mrs. Robert Fisher; second, Mrs. Harvey Smith. Gents, first, Mr. Ross Jones; second, Mr. Elgin Parrott. The draw for the quilt was made by Dale Boyce, with Mr. Morley Parrett, of Morven, holding the lucky number. The guest book was in charge of Mrs. Fred Vrooman, with Mrs. Ida Montgomery assisting with the admission fee.

Mr. W. C. Snider broke his right arm in the socket and another bone near it, while doing his work at the barn. He was removed to the Kingston General Hospital, where the injured arm was placed in a cast. He was able to return to his home on Saturday.

Mr. Daniel McConnell is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

Mrs. William Henry is confined to her bed, having suffered a light stroke.

Miss Ethel Vandewater spent the week end in Belleville with her cousin, Mrs. Ray Vickers, and Mr. Vickers, and attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Vickers' daughter, Audrey. The ceremony was performed in St. Thomas' Church.

Mrs. Fred Vrooman spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Jas. Robson, and Mr. Robson, Kingston.

SELBY

Selby, Nov. 27 — There was a good attendance at the quilting and pot luck dinner held in the Sunday School room of the United Church on Wednesday. The proceeds were very gratifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McKnight and son, Harold, spent a couple of days with relatives at Orono and Bowmanville during the past week.

Rev. Mr. Merrick and Mrs. Merrick and Mr. and Mrs. Derland McCutcheon were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Empey Hill, on Thursday evening.

Mr. J. A. Gordanier, of Buffalo, N.Y., and Mrs. Donald Cameron, of Port Watts, spent Thursday with their sister, Mrs. Arthur McKnight, and Mr. McKnight.

Mrs. Arthur McKnight, Edra and Almon were guests of Mrs. Irwin Sexsmith, Belleville, on Friday.

Mr. Will Denison, of Ottawa, was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Denison and family.

Betty and Margaret McLeod, of Newburgh, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McLeod.

The regular meeting of the Young People's Union will be held on Friday evening. An interesting program is in charge of Miss Norma Wood. All young people are invited to attend.

MELROSE

Melrose, Nov. 20. — Many attended the Pascoe-Reid wedding at Melrose United Church on Thursday, November 16th, at 2:00 p.m. The church was decorated with mums for the happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McCabe and Donald, of Napanee, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Badgley.

A large number from here attended the anniversary and re-opening services at Shannonville United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Badgley were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McLaren, Salem.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Launcelotte Dawson was held at Melrose United Church on Monday afternoon. Much sympathy is extended from friends here to the bereaved.

The Victory Supper and Bazaar, an annual event of the Melrose Women's Institute, which was held on Friday evening at the hall, was a splendid success. Over $60.00 was realized from the proceeds.

Miss Ferne Snider, of Napanee, spent the week end with Miss Marion English.

Miss Keitha Weese, of Bellville, is ill at the home of her parents, Her friend's wish her a speedy recovery.

A number from here attended the O. R. E. convention at the Front Road Church on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

SILLSVILLE

Sillsville, Nov. 25. — The Sillsville W. A. spent a very pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold Hough on Tuesday, November 21st, with an attendance of seven members. Five toques were made and several members are bringing goods for quilts to work at at our next meeting. With the President, Mrs. McLean, at the piano, the meeting opened with a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted, and the roll was called. After making plans as to our war work through the winter months, the meeting closed. Grace was sung and a very dainty lunch was served. Lunch, $2.80.

MARYSVILLE

Marysville, Nov. 24. — Mrs. Thos. Reilly and Jimmie spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McAlpine.

Pte. Charlie McAlpine spent a few days at his home here.

Mrs. Minnie Donovan returned to Napanee, after spending some time with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cosgrove and family are visiting Mrs. Cosgrove's mother, Mrs. M. McGurn.

Misses Dorothy and Mary Donovan spent Sunday at J. V. Walsh's.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Leo. McAlpine on the arrival of a son.

MARLBANK

MARLBANK W. A.

Marlbank, Nov. 27 — The November meeting of the Women's Association was held on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. T. R. Young, with an attendance of 38 members and visitors present. The President, Mrs. McCutcheon, presided, and opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Baugh. The scripture lesson was read by Bessie Allen, the topic for the meeting being "Missions". The roll call was responded to by a nice donation of $7.00 for Missions. Mrs. Baugh gave a splendid talk on missionary work in foreign fields, which was very instructive to all present. A duet was sung by Mrs. J. F. York and Rev. Mr. Baugh, "Does Jesus Care?" A reading was given by Mrs. Wesley Pringle. It was decided to hold a quilting on Friday next. A "get well" card was signed by all present and sent to a member, Mrs. Alf. Meeks, who is ill at her home. Another hymn was sung. Lunch money, $2.56, and birthday money, 50c., was received. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and committee. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Young for the use of her home.

Mr. R. W. Asselstine has donated to the United Church a handsome oak communion table, suitably engraved, in remembrance of his deceased wife, Cora Asselstine.

A large congregation attended the church service in the United Church on Sunday last to hear Rev. Mr. Reid, returned from West China, speak. A very generous offering was received for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

Mr. Clare Benn returned home on Monday, after spending some time near Meadow Lake, Sask.

Mr. Ted Turkington, of Belleville, spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Turkington.

Mrs. P. J. Marshall returned home on Monday, after spending a week in Toronto with her sister, Velda.

The hunters returned last week from the north country with their deer.

The many friends of Mr. Fred Booth are sorry to hear that he has been confined to his bed for some weeks. All hope for his speedy recovery.

Mrs. W. C. Marlin returned home on Friday from Kingston, where she was with her little granddaughter, Marlene McGregor, who was taking treatments at the General Hospital for a week. Mrs. Victor McGregor spent Friday and Saturday at the hospital with her little daughter, and returned home on Sunday with Marlene, whose condition is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Marshall have moved their household effects to their home here from Tamworth, where Mr. Marshall has been engaged as cheesemaker for the past season, and they will return to Tamworth in the spring. Mr. Marshall being re-engaged for the coming season.

The United Church and Holiness Movement are preparing Christmas concerts for the children of the village.

This is a sketch of the attractive badge seen to be worn with civilian dress by all recent and future aircrew graduates of the Royal Canadian Air Force who are being released from active service and transferred to the R.C.A.F. Reserve subject to recall. This follows the recent announcement by Hon. C. G. Power, Minister for Air, regarding termination of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. The buttons will be the approximate size of a ten-cent piece, finished in red, white and blue enamel.

TOWN COUNCIL

However, after the war we are planning to make several changes which will improve the operation of the plant.

Our supply of water for power was not as good as last year which resulted in our being forced to purchase electric power during the months of July, August, September and again this month. The outlook at present is not good and unless we have, at least, two days of rain, we may have a difficult time during the winter.

At the present time yours, Superintendent, along with other directors of the Napanee River Improvement Company, is in touch with the Provincial Government regarding the placing of dams on two of the several lakes in Prontenac County that supply the Napanee River. Although they tried to get this consent several years ago the prospects are better now than ever before. Mr. Dafoe had a letter recently from the Department of Planning and Development, a new government department, stating they were sending their chief conservation engineer here to discuss the power situation on the River and make a survey of proposed dam sites. If these lakes could again be used as reservoirs it would be a great help to Napanee. Not only would it improve our water power, but, with the dumps not being completely drained off in the summer, it would give us a much better quality of water.

As you all know, we lost a faithful employee this year in the death of George Lewis. He was a permanent employee of the Waterworks Department for about eighteen years. However, his part time employment would date back at least fifty years as he helped to lay all main extensions since 1895.

REEVE STRATTON REVIEWS TOWN'S FINANCES

Reeve Dr. C. M. Stratton in a short address, reviewed the town's finances and gave the following information:

The total Tax Roll for the year 1944 amounted to $104,235.00 and of this amount $99,736.00 has been collected. The total tax collections for the current year represent 95.70 per cent of the total roll, leaving a balance of the current year roll uncollected of $4,501.00.

The total tax arrears at the first of January 1944 were $12,971.00 and of this amount $7,133.00 has been collected to this date leaving arrears prior to the year 1944 outstanding of $5,537.00.

The total of tax arrears outstanding at this date is $10,038 as compared with $12,971.00 at the beginning of the year and this amount will be further improved by the 31st of December.

As to the current year's situation, as viewed from this date it would appear that revenues and expenditures will be very close to the estimate as prepared at the beginning of the year. The expenditures for streets will be somewhat larger than estimated and this is occasioned by chrouic an unusually heavy expenditure in connection with repairing the town pavements. I advise the citizens generally will notice that very valuable work has been done on these pavements by the Streets Committee under the direction of Councillor Luffman.

A detailed statement of receipts and expenditures from January 1st, 1944 to November 15th, 1944 will be published in next week's local press.

Dr. C. M. Stratton,
Chairman Finance Committee.

OTHER SPEAKERS

F. W. Vandervoort, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee in the Town Council, reviewed the work of the Fire Department and its organization. He stated that the fire loss this year had been unusually heavy for Napanee and so far had amounted to $35,000. The Fire Department had answered 68 calls up to date. Mr. VanAlstine commended the Fire Department for its efficiency and said that the equipment was satisfactory and adequate for a town of the size of Napanee.

Geo. D. Robson, George Chalk and M. B. Luffman, members of the Council, also spoke briefly.

J. A. Regan, who was nominated for the position of Reeve and Deputy-Reeve stated that he would be pleased to serve the both if the ratepayers elected him.

WILTON WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. Bernard Davey entertained Wilton Women's Institute for the November meeting. There was an attendance of 26. The president, Mrs. Snider being absent, the first vice-president, Mrs. Bruce Burt, presided. The meeting opened as usual, and after reading of minutes, the secretary gave a detailed report of Christmas boxes sent to boys in the services overseas. It was decided that each of the three war groups would pack two of the six boxes, for those in Canada. Mrs. Delbert Simmons gave a very fine current events.

The programme had been prepared by Mr. Fred McPherson, as follows: Readings by Mrs. D. Simmons, Mrs. Burt, Jack Davey; Miss D. McDonald and Mrs. Don. Burt, Barbara Knight favored with a vocal solo, and Jack Davey contributed a guitar selection. The address of the evening, entitled The Four Freedoms, was given by Fred McPherson and was very educational. Mrs. Burt extended appreciation to Mr. McPherson and to all who assisted.

The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close, after which a contest was conducted by Mrs. Archie Simmons and the prize went to Jack Davey. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee, and a social half-hour brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

After Sunday morning service a woman stayed to chat with a friend, leaving her purse on the seat.

When she returned for her purse it was gone, but she quickly found it in the possession of the clergyman himself.

'I thought I had better hold it,' he said. 'You must remember that there are some in the congregation, so simple that they might consider it an answer to prayer.'

Farmers May Truck Own Christmas Trees

Although no special permits will be granted to motor truck operators this year for the transport of Christmas trees and commercial trucks will not be issued permits permitting them to move them for a greater distance than 35 miles, from their registered addresses, farm trucks are exempted from this regulation, provided the Christmas trees in question are cut on the farmer's own property. Farmers are, however, reminded that the onus to prove the trees are cut on their own farms rests with them.

POEM PAYS TRIBUTE TO THIRD DIVISION CANADIAN ARMY

The following poem, a tribute to the Canadian Third Division, was written by a Canadian soldier from Cobourg. It was sent to Mrs. Marguerite Richmond, Tamworth, by her son, James Richmond, who is serving with the Third Division, In Italy.

STRANGE HARVEST

Dip gently your scythe good reaper
Over the fields of Calvados,
Tread softly Normandy's furrowed earth
From Epron to the coast,
For the harvest is not all the yield of the soil.
Nor the furrows the mark of the plough.
But the earth's rich red is the blood of the dead.
The dead who are sleeping now.
They came from the sea, like you and me,
But they beached a steel-rimmed coast.
They carved their way through the Hun at bay.
And blunted the tyrant's boast
That no might could breach the wave-locked shore,
No Allied foot gain hold:
The sea would be red with the blood of the dead,
The dead who had been too bold.

On their left and right were Britain's men,
And from south of the forty-nine
Came the western flanks of the Allied ranks
Through mortar, shell and mine.
The wall was stormed, the beaches won
As skies grew sullen and wild
Till the strength of the mighty men of the sea
Seemed less than the strength of a child.
Three precious weeks they fought each yard
From their hand-dug holes in the clay,
Through the treacherous grain up the rising plain
To Malon and La Folie.
Who will forget the Falaise gap?
Or Pincon, west of the Orne?
But at Auchle, and Gruchy, and Franqueville
Were these later victories born.

Great cities and countries have fallen now
To the hosts this vanguard led,
Let us not forget the debt we owe
To the oft unhonoured dead.
I have seen the hell where a hundred fell
At Rots and Grey Le Vey,
Midst the reeking corn all mortar torn
From Gazelle to Carpiquet.
Les Buissons is the resting place
Of men who cannot die,
Glengarrians, Novas, Camerons,
Hussars and H. L. I.
They learned to fight midst the fetid stench
At Buron and Periers.
They pitted their youth 'gainst the war-learned craft
Of the Panzer Grenadiers.

So honour the men of the Western Plains,
Black Devils, Reginas, too;
The Queens, North Shores and Chaudieres,
And Scots from the Western Blue.
Victoria, Winnipeg, Ottawa
Sent sons for the treacherous trail,
Who must feed the guns and the tanks, and the men,
The men who dare not fail.
There were gunners and sappers from homes which range
From the East to the setting sun,
And many lie where the ripening rye,
Danced to the devil's fun.
They do not ask a golden casque,
Or a tower of graven stone,
But that men may live in a world set free
From guilt by their blood atoned.

Dip gently your scythe, good reaper now
O'er the fields of the hallowed dead,
For young men fought and young men died
Near the sea, where the earth is red.

TRIBUTE TO THE RED CROSS

BY LIEUTENANT W. E. SILLS

No. 24 Can. General Hospital, England.

Here I am back in dear Old England and I can't say that I'm sorry. It was so windy at the Belgian airport that I didn't think they would attempt the flight, but they did and boy, was it rough. The big hospital transport plane bounced around like a piece of paper in a gale. I thought I would be air sick, but I held my own.

We landed at an R. A. F. airport where we were given food—chicken, too; sat around and read the papers and listened to the radio, then were loaded into another plane and flown to a town near this hospital. So, I was in a hospital in Belgium in the morning and that evening I was in a hospital in England.

I was hit in Holland, just a few miles from our objective, Steenbergen, which fell a few days later.

While in Belgium I had the opportunity to visit Antwerp. It is, a beautiful city—again very modern— with beautiful buildings; some old style but many are very streamline. The city is full of dance cabarets; really high class places. The most beautiful hotel I've ever seen was in Antwerp. It was used as the official Officers' Club of the German Luftwaffe. Now it is an Officers' Club for all the Allied Forces. I couldn't begin to describe its splendor and modernity, with its gorgeous gilt halls and furniture, great thick rugs and the very latest indirect lighting. Lots of mirrors and French doors all about and the basement much like the Chateau Laurier, only much larger and all marble. There is a cinema right in the hotel. On the same street as this hotel, there are numerous cinemas, all richly and ornately decorated like the one in Syracuse. Antwerp also has its parks and boulevards. I saw the famous Albert Memorial, etc., and you should see the fruit the vendors sell, huge grapes, pears and apples.

Since being in hospital, I've had a first-hand opportunity to see the remarkable work of the Red Cross, both here in England and in Europe.

In the hospital in Belgium, the Red Cross girl visited us each day with her goods and good cheer. Most of the boys, when they are wounded, are taken back so fast that there is little opportunity for them to pick up their belongings; such as their toilet kits, writing kits and so on. The Red Cross Girl always filled the wants. She also had books galore with which to fill in the long, empty hours. Many of the boys are unable to write due to the nature of their wounds, and these girls write their letters for them. Also each day the cigarette supply is replenished by them.

I remember one big tough sergeant with a bad wound in the arm on the occasion of the daily visit of the Red Cross Girl; he had just come in the night before so it was his first visit from her. After they had talked for a few minutes, I swear there were tears in his eyes as he said: "That's the first time I've heard a Canadian girl's voice since I left Canada" and after she had fixed him up with the things he needed, he said: "I've never been so happy in my life!"

The Red Cross also has many things for the boys to make—such as needlecraft of all kinds.

Note: Lieut. Sills' letter was written on Red Cross paper and mailed in a Red Cross envelope, as his own kit had been left in Holland when he was wounded.

TOMATO GROWERS PETITION FOR GRADING SYSTEM

The annual meeting of the Tomato Growers was held in the Agricultural Board Rooms on Thursday evening, November 23rd The district delegates, Mr. Clifford Peck, Demorestville, and Mr. A. T Sirett of Brighton, and also Mr. W. A. Walker, of Dunnville, were present.

Mr. Walker was the principal speaker and outlined many things that could be done which would be advantageous to the growing and processing of tomatoes. He referred to the situation in Indiana where the grading system has been in operation with success for the last sixteen years. He emphasized that the processor could not make a good product with an inferior quality of tomatoes, and in order that we hold a place in marketing, quality will count. Mr. Walker also stated that there was a feeling among the best growers' that the present limitations of deliveries per acre were not satisfactory and were being dealt with by the Board. Quantity and quality go together, and there is a feeling that the processors could take all tomatoes grown by the farmer if they are sold on a grade basis.

In the discussion that followed the meeting it was stated that in Western Ontario the processors furnished the crates or hampers for handling tomatoes and the grower receives the same price as is paid in Eastern Ontario.

Two resolutions were forwarded to the central office. One was:

That this Association endorse a grading system of toamtoes and that payment be made under this system and that competent government graders be made available for this work.

And— That the processors of tomatoes supply crates or hampers or give an extra price as rental where the growers furnish their own containers.

The following officers were elected: President— H. Oliver.
Vice-President—M. J. Breault.
Sec.-Treasurer—C. W. Buchanan.
Auditor— Ecoit Rose.
Directors— J. H. McCaul, F. Vanalstyne, H. Creighton, Wilfred Miller.

Mr. L. H. McCaul and President A. H. Oliver were named delegates to attend the district meeting in Belleville on December 9th.

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

On Tuesday, November 21, at the weekly meeting of the Boy Scouts, the members were very much handicapped because of the absence of Scout Master Werke Poole, due to illness. The Troupe, under orders of the Troupe Leaders and Patrol Leaders, carried on as best as possible.

While A Troupe were enjoying games, Patrol Leader Bill Roblin gave B Troupe an interesting talk on Health Rules, and while B Troupe had games the Troupe Leader gave A Troupe an interesting talk on the same subject.

The Patrols then adjourned to patrol corners, where tests were passed.

The highlight of the evening was when Mr. W. S. Wilson gave a talk on Italy. This talk was of great interest.

The meeting closed with the singing of 'O Canada' under leadership of Jack Blakely and the repeating of the Scout Promise.

The Father and Son banquet has been postponed to December 14th. The banquet will be held at the Superior Restaurant.

FRED. A. HENDERSON HEADS MILK ASS'N

Fred A. Henderson, R.R. 6, Napanee, was elected President of the Lennox and Addington Milk Producers' Association at the annual meeting and banquet on Friday.

Other officers elected were: Vice-President, P. S. VanVlack; Secretary-Treasurer, L. H. McCaul; Board of Directors, Ivan Cowle, Walter Lemmon and Karl Sexsmith; Auditor, R. D. Martin.

The Association made a grant of $25.00 to the local Branch of the Federation, to assist in sending delegates to the annual meeting. It was also recommended that the County set up an Agricultural Committee.

Earl Kitchen, of Toronto, Secretary of the Milk Producers' Association, congratulated the members on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the formation of the local Association. He stated that more milk was being produced than ever in the history with less male help.

Mr. Kitchen said a large market had been developed for whole milk powder, to supply the prisoners of war and lumber and mining camps. This market would likely continue for some time to come.

MR. MRS. J. S. GALBRAITH, VERNON, BRITISH COLUMBIA MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Fifty years ago, on November 7th, 1894, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Seymour Galbraith, of Vernon, B.C., were married in Tates Hill, Lennox and Addington County, Ontario.

On Tuesday, November 7th, they observed their golden wedding anniversary. Celebrating it with them were their four children, Capt. H. W. Galbraith, Alderman Fred S. Galbraith, G. Harold Galbraith and their only daughter, Mrs. George T. Jackson, of Otiawa, who flew to Western Canada with her three-months old infant to be with her parents when they marked half a century of life together. Two daughters-in-law and three grandchildren, Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Galbraith; George Frederick, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Galbraith, and Cheryl, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, completed the family group.

Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith were 'at home' both afternoon and evening on Tuesday with friends, prominent citizens, representatives of the City of Vernon, service clubs and others, numbering over 200 all told, called to tender their congratulations. Numerous telegrams, letters, cards, gifts and masses of flowers, testified as to the affection and esteem in which the honorees are held in both this city and other parts of Canada.

The highlight of the evening for the bride and groom was a long distance telephone call from the bride's only brother, Joseph Tate, and her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tate Bell, from Napanee, Ont.

Of Old Country parentage, both Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith were born in Ontario. The latter was Miss Mary Frances Tate, and they were married at the bride's home by Rev. Robert McCulloch. Their four children were born at Bethel Street, Camden East.

The family went to Vernon, B.C., in 1911, and has resided there since.

RED CROSS NEWS

Flight Lieutenant P. D. Cameron was the speaker at the regular Saturday afternoon tea at the Red Cross Rooms on November 25th. Through his ministry in Trinity Church pulpit, Mr. Cameron has already won many friends, and there was a splendid attendance of both workers and visitors.

Introduced by the President, Miss Lenore Herrington, the speaker was welcomed as one able to bring us first hand news of activities overseas. It was a double pleasure to find that Mr. Cameron had acted as "Comforts Officer" in the distribution of Red Cross garments sent to his squadron, and the detailed information he was able to give us was most encouraging. The Chaplains, he said, were, as a rule, delegated to act as Comforts Officer, with the assistance of a clerk. Records were kept of each man's name and the garments received. In this way no abuse could be made of these free gifts. He assured us that through the efforts of the Red Cross all our services were the best dressed, and, as an instance told us that his entire squadron was outfitted with warm pyjamas, while the R.A.F., with which they worked, had none. This condition was remedied as soon as possible, with other Red Cross garments.

As Chaplain, he was able to tell us that there are no atheists in either operational crews or the commandos. These boys turned out one hundred per cent. for divine service and for communion. Their Chaplain was the last person they wanted to see when they left the ground, and the first when they returned. Mr. Cameron gave his audience a deep insight into the great strain under which a Chaplain in the Air Force overseas works. There were always some who did not return, and in one night it was his sad task to assemble 42 kit bags of men with whom he had been intimate and who turned up missing. In this connection, Mr. Cameron told of sitting at his desk on Easter morning going over his message to his boys at divine service, when his telephone rang. It was a call from London, and was from a flying officer, missing four months, presumed dead, who had managed to find his way back to England by devious ways. It indeed made it a real Easter morning for both the Chaplain and that boy's pals.

Mr. Cameron paid a high tribute to the doctors and the nurses, who, through their devotion and christian spirit of service, are bringing back to normal those wounded, both physically and mentally.

In closing, Mr. Cameron gave the following Red Cross tribute:

THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross, high over the world to-day, is blood red and dripping with the sacrificial heart blood of millions of people devoted emotionally to the liberation and emancipation of those suffering by reason of the black crooked cross of Germany. A crumbling cross that is now casting a long shadow because of the dying glory of the setting sun of Japan.

No tribute transcends the tremendous task of the Red Cross throughout the world, in peace or war.

The Red Cross is the superlative service of the sacrificially minded.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cameron's talk, Mrs. Ralph Ham moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Cameron.

Tea was served by Mrs. George Miller and Mrs. Lorne Miller.

There has been a substantial increase in workers at the rooms in the past weeks, but there is still plenty to do. A new quota is being sent for, and many workers are needed. Even a few hours each week is a great help. Do what you can.

Harry Scott, of Norwich, Provincial President, spoke on "selling price and subsidy", and stated that farmers, next to the boys who are fighting overseas, had made the greatest contribution to the war effort. He said the weakness of the agricultural industry lies in the fact that the farmers lack organization. He stressed the need of organization to meet post-war problems and floor prices.

LESSON II. NOVEMBER 5TH.

EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL ON FRIENDSHIP
BY C. S. FARMER

The Wallace family have often spoken about the evening they had spent with Detective MacDonald around their living-room fireplace.

One day Mr. Wallace said to Bob and Mary, "You will soon be called upon to decide whether you will take alcoholic drinks or not. You both have many friends and you will be invited to more and more parties as you grow older. Some day you will find that beer or hard cider or some other drink containing a rather small percentage of alcohol is being served at the party. Your hostess may describe the drink as a cocktail and tell you that it will do you no harm."

"Why!" said Mary, "I hate the thought of the stuff."

"So do I," said Bob.

"So far," continued their father, "you have lived in a home where liquor is not served and you have been warned about the evils of drinking. But many people are fond of liquor and think it is smart to drink it. And the brewer and distillers have made many people think that they cannot entertain their friends properly without it. The large sums of money spent on liquor advertising have blinded some people to the real effects of drink. If the same amount of magazine space and radio time were devoted to telling the public about the homes blighted and the friendships spoiled by drink, most of our young people would refuse to take the first glass."

x x x

Early in November the rugby season closed with the local collegiate winning the county title. Mrs. Simpleton, whose daughter Irmo simply adored the rugby players invited the team and their girl friends over to a party to celebrate the victory. Bob's friend, Bill Cowan, invited Mary Wallace to go with him. The evening was spent in the usual round of games and entertainment, but when the time came to serve refreshments, Mrs. Simpleton brought the crowd into a nicely furnished basement room with a table in the centre laden with crackers, cheese, olives, pickles and other delicacies. In one corner of the room was a serving shelf with a man dressed in white behind it. Mrs. Simpleton proudly pointed to this corner and said that was her 'Bar'.

She invited her guests to step up to the bar for something good to drink. Bill Cowan and Mary went over with the others. Bill accepted the glass which the butler gave him, but Mary asked him what he was serving. When he said it was a cocktail she declined it and asked for a glass of water or ginger ale.

Mary noticed that the party soon began to grow much more noisy and even rowdy. Boys and girls who had been enjoying a real good round of games up to now became rough and talked in loud boastful tones. One boy, who was about the weakest player on the team and who had never scored a point all season, was standing in the centre of one group boasting to them about all the touchdowns he had made. Mary thought he was a pathetic figure. Another boy thought it would be a good idea to turn the clock back, but in his awkwardness he broke the minute hand off. Another group of boys and girls joined in a dance around the serving table when suddenly there was a crash and a beautiful lamp fell to the floor, breaking the shade into a dozen pieces.

Bill Cowan was acting strangely like the others, and Mary wondered if she should let him see her home. Fortunately she had noticed where the 'phone was in the hall so she slipped out and called her father, asking him to come for her.

A few days later Bob Wallace met Bill Cowan on the way to school and Bill said, 'I suppose you heard what a fool I made of myself at the party the other night?'

Bob had to admit that Mary had mentioned it at the house.

'Whatever it was in those cocktails Mrs. Simpleton gave us, it surely made us all act silly. Can you tell me why we lost control of ourselves so completely?'

'Why yes! I can tell you something about it. Mary and I were just reading a book about alcohol and it tells why people go silly when they drink it. You see alcohol is one of the ingredients of these cocktails even though it may form a rather small percentage of the drink. But the alcohol is quickly taken and absorbed by the digestive organs and sent into the blood stream. The blood, as you know, is pumped by the heart to all parts of the body. But if there is alcohol in the blood it will be absorbed by the brain and nervous system more than by any other part of the body.

'Now a person's brain is made up of three parts. The lower areas control the involuntary muscles which stimulate the heart and other organs which work as well when we sleep as when we are awake. We do not need to give them any conscious thought to keep them working for us. The middle areas are the seat of our control of actions which are developed into habits like speaking, reading, writing and doing other things which we have learned to do that we can do them now almost without thinking. But the highest areas of the brain are the seat of our ideals and highest emotions. If this part of our brain is in good working order we can solve our problems. More important, this part of the brain helps us to distinguish right from wrong. In other words the upper part of the brain which makes man superior to the animals.

'Alcohol makes its first attack upon this clever upper part of the brain and puts it to sleep. This explains why a drinker loses his power to distinguish right from wrong. He may do the most foolish things and think they are sensible. What is worse—he will do the craziest things without knowing he is causing danger to himself and to others. Worse still, he may do wrong to himself and to others and spend the rest of his life regretting what he did when his power of reason was taken away from him.'

'Bill Cowan warmly thanked Bob Wallace for his explanation and declared that he would never again fall for the idea that it is smart to drink.

At school that morning, Bill and Bob were talking to Pete Grog, who was also one of the rugby players at Mrs. Simpleton's party. Pete had been drinking at the party and Bill asked Bob to tell him why it was unwise for a boy to form the drink habit. Bob proceeded to tell Pete the same story as he had just told Bill.

Unfortunately Pete was not much impressed.

'Why,' he demanded, 'should any person be afraid to drink what is sold by our own government under the control of special stores which have the coat of arms of our own province on the door? My own father drinks with his friends when he wants to and so shall I.'

'But your father advise you to become a drinker?' said Bill.

'He certainly does not,' replied Pete. 'He told me just the other day that if he had the money back which he spent on drink we could have had our house paid for. But I am not going to spend a lot of money on drink the way my dad did. I just want to take a glass once in a while when I am at a party or when my friends drop in for a call. I never intend to drink very much.'

'You are playing with dynamite when you talk that way,' said Bob 'very few people approve of getting drunk, but many people cannot resist the temptation to drink more when they have had a little and before they realize it, they are drunk.'

'Even if a man can remain a very moderate drinker it still takes a heavy toll on his purse. It has been estimated that one glass of beer a day costs a man over one thousand dollars in thirty years. Few stop at one glass.'

Bill Cowan broke into the conversation. 'It looks to me as if a boy has to choose his friends very carefully. For me, I'm not going to kid around with any gang that looks for a drink at parties. I have been caught once and now I know how easy it is to drift into a bad habit. From now on I am going to keep away from places where people think it is smart to drink.'

QUESTIONS:

1. Why is it that a young person who has been drinking does not act sensibly?
2. Why do young people need to be very careful in choosing their friends?

In Loving Memory

GIBSON — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Wellington Gibson, who passed away at her home in Napanee, on December 4th, 1943.

Although one year has passed and gone
Since last we saw your face,
The memory of it still holds dear,
For none can take its place.
Lovingly remembered by
48ap HUSBAND and SON.

WOOD — In loving memory of a dear sister, Miss Alma Wood, who departed this life November 30, 1943.

One year ago brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest.
She will always be remembered
By those who loved her best.
Though her smile has gone forever
And her hand we cannot touch.
We shall never lose the memory
Of one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by her Sister
48ap LILLIE and FAMILY

BABCOCK — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Cecil Babcock, who passed away August 4th, 1944.

In early evening all was still,
She closed her eyes: it was God's will.
Now she's free from worry and pain
We would not wake her to suffer again.
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why
The best are always first to die.
Sadly missed by
48ap HUSBAND and CHILDREN.

NEW HIGH TOTAL RESOURCES MARK BANK OF MONTREAL YEAR

Assets in Excess One and One-half Billion Dollars — Public Deposits Over $1,400,000,000 — Strong Position Shown

PROFITS DECREASE WITH LOWER INTEREST EARNINGS AND HIGHER OPERATING COSTS

Showing total resources at a figure higher than in any previous year, the annual statement of the Bank of Montreal, which appears today, is an outstanding illustration of the prosperity prevailing throughout the country, as reflected in the business of the hundreds of offices of the bank which are located in all districts across Canada.

The annual statement, which is the 127th in the history of the bank, shows total assets of $1,526,734,000 an increase of $213,669,000 over the previous year.

Deposits on Record

Deposits, which last year stood at $1,085,764,000, the highest figure to that date increased by $214,937,000 to a total of $1,420,811,000, notwithstanding heavy withdrawals in both the commercial and savings departments by subscribers for investment in Victory Loans.

Strong Position

Cash holdings and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada stand at $184,473,000, an increase of $62,196,000, while holdings of bonds and debentures, the greater portion consisting of Dominion Government and high-grade Provincial and Municipal securities which mature at early dates, have risen by $156,075,000 to the impressive total of $855,538,000. These, with notes of and cheques on other banks and money on deposit with other banks of $87,662,000 with call loans of $51,165,000 which latter increased in the year by $23,000,000, place the quickly available resources of the bank at $1,279,000,000, equal to 88.30 per cent. of all liabilities to the public.

Commercial Loans

Commercial and other loans to manufacturers, farmers, merchants and others total $203,104,000 — down from $236,399,000—the decrease indicating a continuance of the trend of recent years in which many businesses engaged on Government war work have found less requirement for banking accommodation. All liabilities to the public total $1,448,768,783, to meet which the bank has resources of $1,526,734,201, leaving an excess of resources over liabilities to the public, representing the shareholders' interest of capital reserve fund and profit and loss account of $77,965,464.

Profits

Profits for the year which ended October 31, after deduction of taxes payable to the Dominion Government, amounted to $3,194,300.19, a figure less by $108,534 than in the previous year. The decrease in profits is, no doubt, a reflection of the generally lower interest return which is being received by banks upon loans and in investment account, as well as substantially higher operating costs combined with an increased total of interest payable to depositors upon a substantially higher volume of deposits in the savings department. The profit represents a return of 4.10% on the shareholders' equity, which compares with 4.30% a year ago and 4.31% in 1942. Dominion Government Income and Excess Profits taxes estimated for the year have been provided for in an amount of $3,725,000, this comparing with an adjusted amount in the previous year of $5,113,194.

From the net profits of the year ended October 31 last of $3,194,300.19, there was distributed to shareholders in dividends $2,160,000 and a sum of $300,000 is written off bank premises, these amounts being the same as in the previous year After these deductions is left a balance of $534,300.19, which, added to the previous balance in profit and loss account of $1,879,521.13, makes an amount to be carried forward in this account of $2,413,821.32.

FINAL SESSION COUNTY COUNCIL FOR THE YEAR 1944

The County Property Committee reported that tenders for coal for the County Buildings, from the Napanee Fuel and Supply Company, had been awarded.

That the accounts, as referred to the committee, be paid.

That the chairman be authorized to sign accounts for payment until the end of the year.

The report was adopted.

The Special Committee on Tuberculosis reported recommending support for the sale of Christmas seals for the support of tuberculosis work.

The report was adopted.

The Special Committee on Patriotic grants reported recommending that the secretary communicate with the Ministerial Association with reference to the celebration of 'V' Day.

The Agricultural Committee reported recommending that the resolution re Daylight Saving be endorsed and the balance of the resolutions be filed. The report was adopted.

Reeve McLeod reported in reference to the meeting in Kingston, of the municipalities in the district in reference to Children's Aid Societies and the problems arising in financing the cost. A resolution covering the findings of the meeting will be prepared and presented to the County later. — Report adopted.

Committee services were authorized for the delegates.

A motion was passed authorizing the payment of committee services to the Old Age and Mothers' Allowance Committees, be paid. An order of the Warden and Clerk following the last meeting of the year.

On motion, Warden Bryden and Miss Gandier were appointed members of the 1945 Old Age Pension and Mothers' Allowance Committee.

The Roads Committee reported that tenders for snow plowing had been awarded.

That the County assume the Centre Street bridge in the Town of Napanee. Repairs and a new bridge to be paid under an agreement between the Town of Napanee, the Highways Department and the County, dividing the cost, 75 per cent. by the Highways Department, 12½ per cent. by the County and 12½ per cent. by the Town of Napanee.

That three miles of hard top road be built in Ernestown Township.

That $15,000.00 be borrowed for road purposes.

That a car load of snow fencing be purchased pending the passing of the money by-law.

That a by-law be passed re-appointing H. L. Schermerhorn as the County Road Engineer.

That Miss Tummon's resignation be accepted and that Miss M. F. Gee be appointed.

The report of the committee was adopted after deleting the clause which provided that three miles of hard-top road be built in Ernestown Township.

Council adjourned.

FOURTH DAY

During a discussion on adopting the minutes of the Thursday session a motion to adopt the minutes was carried, but on a yea and nay vote being asked for, some members of Council refused to vote until the matter of the McFarland stone crushing contract had been clarified.

A by-law declaring that all bridges twenty feet long or under not on county roads, shall be vested in the local municipalities, was given its several readings and finally passed.

A by-law repealing the by-law appointing a County Road Engineer was given its several readings and finally passed.

The by-law appointing Miss Tummon as Clerk in the Road Superintendent's office, was repealed.

A by-law appointing Miss M. F. Gee as clerk-stenographer, was given its several readings, and passed.

A By-law repealing all by-laws relating to the appointment of H. L. Schermerhorn as county road engineer, was passed, and a new by-law re-appointing Mr. Schermerhorn, was passed.

A statement of committee services since last session was presented and ordered paid.

County Solicitor Smith was heard in reference to the adoption of the minutes of Thursday. Mr. Smith produced the correspondence in reference to the McFarland contract and explained the contents. It was moved by Mr. Brandon and seconded by Mr. McLeod, that Messrs. McFarland and Cobb be asked to appear before Council, together with the County Solicitor, as soon as can be arranged. Council adjourned.

FIFTH DAY

Mr. Cobb was invited to address Council.

Messrs Cobb and McFarland each addressed Council regarding the McFarland contract.

A vote of thanks was tendered both gentlemen for their prompt attendance.

The County Solicitor was then heard behind closed doors and Mr. Smith was heard.

A by-law to amend a County road by-law and add the Centre Street bridge to the County Road System was given its several readings, and finally passed.

The Finance Committee reported that the County had sufficient funds without borrowing the sum requested by the Roads Committee. — Report adopted.

County Solicitor Smith again reported to Council on his interview with Mr. McFarland in reference to the stone contract.

Afternoon Session

Moved by Mr. Ham seconded by Mr. Milligan, that the McFarland Co. be not allowed to crush any stone for the County until and unless approved by Council at the January Session, but that they be allowed to crush for any municipality in the County at the County quarry, the contractor to pay the County Five Cents per Ton for the stone, also recommend that they be allowed to crush 10,000 tons, as per agreement next year.

The minutes of November 23rd were adopted after deleting Clause II of the Road Committee report dealing with borrowing money for road purposes.

A vote of thanks was tendered Warden Bryden for his careful attention given County business during his term of office.

The Members all congratulated the Warden on the successful termination of his term of office and the Warden expressed his thanks for having had the opportunity of serving the County as Warden.

MR. MRS. M. O. FRASER MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall O. Fraser of 123 Weiser Court, Syracuse, N.Y., celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary recently at a family dinner in the Hotel Onondaga, Syracuse.

Home for the celebration was a grandson, Pte. Graham Curtis, who has served three years in the Pacific area. He was wounded on Saipan on July 7 and is now a patient at an Army hospital in the U. S.

Among those attending the dinner were their eldest son, Graham Fraser, a veteran of the first World War. He and his wife came from Watertown. A daughter, Mrs. Mildred Anderson, of Toronto, was also present. Other members of the family attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curtis, Miss Diana Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyer, the Misses Louise and Shirley Boyer, Kenenth Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fraser, the Misses Jean and Nancy Fraser and David Fraser, all of Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser were formerly of Napanee, Ontario and have lived in Syracuse twenty-five years.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR HELD AT MOSCOW IN AID OF THE RED CROSS SOCIETY

A very successful bazaar was held in the Orange Hall, Moscow, on Saturday, November 25th, in aid of the Red Cross Society. Prize winners were: Door prize, Mrs. Arthur Baker; for correct Guess on Travelling Apron, Mrs. Sanford Keech. The lucky ticket on the $10 War Saving Certificate was held by Mrs. George Reid.

A splendid programme was enjoyed after which the articles not sold were auctioned off by the chairman, Mr. Edgar Drew. Mrs. Leslie won the fancy quilt. The proceeds were very gratifying, amounting to $132.91, which money will be used by the Society, for war work.

One dozen folding chairs were presented to the hall committee in appreciation for the use of the hall for the work meetings.

The president, Miss Ella Evans, wishes to thank all who helped to make the bazaar a success.

These dimes work their heads off

No doubt you've seen dimes worn so thin that you can't see the heads on them.

That's what happens when money is really passed around.

That's what happens every year to at least two and a half billion dimes that are put into circulation through the life insurance companies. These dimes really go to work.

They come in the form of premium payments from four million policyholders and if you prefer figuring in folding money, they amount to 250 million dollars.

In peacetime these dimes are not idle. They are kept busy through investment in a great variety of local and national undertakings. For the past five years they have been busy in a strictly military sense—backing up our fighting men with more than a billion dollars' worth of Victory Bonds.

These busy dimes are helping to buy security for you and yours—both in the present and in the future—both at home and abroad.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Nov. 27. — Mrs. A. Brady spent last week end in Kingston, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hinch.

Mrs. M. Smith, of Roblin, has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Shane for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold King, of Newburgh, and Mr. C. Smith, of Roblin, spent Tuesday evening with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Shane.

Mrs. Guy and Miss Mary Guy were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mackay on Friday evening.

Mrs. Irvine Russell spent a few days with her brother, Mr. Bert Scott, Bicknell's Corners.

Mrs. Ross Hart, of Havelock, visited her father, R. W. Saul, for a few days.

Quite a few enjoyed the euchre in the Memorial Hall, under the auspices of St. Luke's. Men's first prize was won by Lucien Jeffrey; second, by Mrs. J. Lewis (playing as man); Ladies' first, Mrs. Clifford Huff; second, Mrs. B. Martin. Tickets were sold on a cake, with Charlie Eyre holding the lucky ticket. The proceeds were very satisfactory.

Several young folk from here attended the High School dance at Newburgh on Friday night.

COLEBROOK

Colebrook, Nov. 25. — Several citizens attended the pot luck supper in the United Church Hall, Yarker, under the auspices of the Circuit Ladies' Aid, on November 17th. A good supper and concert were enjoyed by those who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. George Price and children, Howard and Evelyn, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Purcell on Sunday.

L/A/C Alvin Wartman, of Toronto, was a week end guest of Mrs. Wartman and daughter, Sandra.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Love and daughter, Marian, of Wilton, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Love on Sunday.

Mr. Athol Cowdy, of Murvale, was a recent guest of his daughter, Mrs. Alex. Riddle, and Mr. Riddle.

We extend sympathy to Mrs. Everett Shangraw in the loss of a loving husband. The late Mr. Shangraw passed away on Sunday evening, after a lengthy illness. His funeral was held in the United Church on Wednesday afternoon, and was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher. There was a large attendance at the funeral. Many friends and neighbors came to pay their last respects to one who was a real friend and neighbor to them. Many floral tributes were sent by friends and lodges, of which deceased was a member. The members of the Masonic Order conducted the service at the grave.

Mr. Chas. Way, of Des Moines, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. David Little, of Birmingham, Mich.; L A C Nelson Garrison, of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison, of Tamworth, and Mrs. Luella Wartman, of Napanee, came to the home of Mrs. Shangraw to attend the funeral of the late Everett Shangraw.

On Thursday afternoon the funeral of the late John Garrison, Niagara Falls, U.S.A., was held in the United Church and was conducted by Rev. W. G. Fletcher. The late Mr. Garrison died at Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, on Sunday night, and his remains were brought to the home of his mother, Mrs. Reuben Garrison, on Tuesday. Mrs. John Garrison, daughter Amey and son John, accompanied the remains to Colebrook. Mr. Garrison was a veteran of the first Great War. Many flowers, as well as the Union Jack, decorated the casket. We extend sympathy to his mother, Mrs. Reuben Garrison, and daughter, Mrs. Erwell Brown, and other relatives in this sad bereavement.

Service will be held in the United Church on Sunday, December 3rd, at 11:00 a.m., preceded by Sunday School at 10:15 a.m. All are cordially invited.

STELLA

Stella, Nov. 27. — We are enjoying lovely weather for this time of the year. We have had very little cold weather yet.

There have been two weddings here lately. On November 11th Mr. Jack Instant, only son of Mrs. Reginald Instant and the late Reginald Instant, and Miss Helen McGuin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGuin, were married in St. Andrew's Church, Kingston, by the Rev. R. K. Earls. The happy couple left for Montreal and points east, and on their return will reside in Stella.

On Saturday, November 18th, Mr. Charles Howard, only son of Mr. Percy Howard and the late Mrs. Howard, and Miss Thelma Glenn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Glenn, were married in St. Paul's Church by the Rev. R. K. Earls. Mr. Henry Hitchins was best man and Miss Lucille Henderson was bridesmaid. The happy couple left on the evening boat for their honeymoon. On their return they will reside at Emerald.

Miss Betty Haight was the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Haight.

FLINTON

Flinton, Nov. 25 — Further evidence that winter is on the way was indicated this week by the lovely blanket of snow we had.

The Soldier Comfort Club met at the home of Mrs. Cadwell on Wednesday evening. A goodly number of members were present. After the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Out-of-town guests over the week end were Mr. Jack Freeburn, of Kingston, at his parents'; Pte Gerald Lessard with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colbert Lessard, also Pte. Bernard Lessard, Pte. Alfred Lessard and sister, Isobel, of Kingston, were the guests of their grandmother, Mrs. B. Sedore.

The dance, sponsored by the Flinton members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, on Saturday night, was a grand success.

All our local hunters have returned from their expeditions, perfectly satisfied.

It is evident that buck fever and plank beds are a real cure for stiff joints. For instance, one of our leading merchants, in the person of Mr. Joe Demore, moves around very slowly, but when hunting season rolled around, away went Joe, returning with a beautiful deer.

Mr. Stewart Huskinson was home from Allston for the hunt and his usual deer.

Mr. Cecil Casey spent Sunday with his family here.

Mr. J. J. Vogan, Victory Loan canvasser in North Frontenac, was particularly pleased with the response from Flinton area. The people of Flinton section cug down deep. The other districts excelled themselves, but Flinton topped everything.

ROBLIN

Roblin, Nov. 27. — The W. A. of the United Church recently held a successful tea and bazaar at the parsonage. Forest Mills W. A. furnished an interesting program, which was enjoyed by all. The sale of donated articles was then held, after which lunch was served by Roblin ladies. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $50.00.

Rev. J. Woodland, Will and Mary, also Mr. and Mrs. Fred McConnell, spent the week end in Toronto.

Mr. John Kimmett spent Tuesday in Toronto, where he attended the directors' meeting of the Crop Improvement Association at the Parliament buildings.

Mrs. Jane Doidge has returned home from visiting friends in Kingston.

Mrs. Naomi Schamerhorn is very ill at time of writing. Mrs. W. G. Wright is also confined to her bed. The many friends of both hope for their recovery soon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmett, also Franklin and Gordon, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McFarlane, Forest Mills, on Friday evening.

On account of Poultry Days, Roblin W. A. meeting, which will be held at Mrs. James Richmond's, is postponed until December 9th.

Let's see ... what dessert is both tasty and nourishing?
"Why Borden's Ice Cream, of course!" recalls Elsie, the Borden Cow.

"Imagine me forgetting for a moment that delicious, creamy-smooth Borden's Ice Cream is just teeming with proteins, minerals and vitamins! That it's a great energy food!"

"That's why such large quantities of it are supplied regularly to our armed forces and war workers.

"Why not give your family this irresistible food treat whenever you can? Take home Borden's brick or Mel-O-red Ice Cream tonight. Slip it into the refrigerator to keep firm till dessert time."

SAAR VALLEY INVADED BY ALLIED ARMIES ON WESTERN FRONT

Air Forces Very Active

WEDNESDAY—

The United States Third Army advanced to within eight miles of Saarbrucken and the United States First and Ninth Armies made further progress on the plains before Cologne.

• • •

Russian troops opened a new offensive in Hungary, 98 miles south of Budapest.

• • •

Further progress was made by the British Army in its drive on Faenza in Italy.

• • •

The Japanese were reported to have been pushed back in their push toward Kweiyang's Burma Road capital of Kweichow.

• • •

THURSDAY—

Some progress was reported on the Western Front, but nothing of any sensational nature took place.

• • •

The Russian Army in its new offensive in Hungary crossed the Danube on a front of 93 miles and advanced 25 miles.

• • •

The Japs made dangerous advances toward Kweiyang, capital of Kweichow but in Burma it was considered likely that the Japs were preparing to quit the country.

• • •

Tokio was bombed again for the third time in a week

• • •

FRIDAY—

The United States Ninth Army advanced through more German towns and reached the Roer River on a 20-mile wide front. On other parts of the Western Front there was no spectacular action.

• • •

The Russian Army made spectacular gains in Slovakia and Hungary.

• • •

The Allies lost some ground to the Nazis in Italy, where heavy counter-attacks were launched against the Allied Fifth Army.

• • •

86 out of 1,300 United States heavy bombers were missing following a big attack on Nazi oil refineries.

• • •

SATURDAY—

The United States Third Army advanced to the Saar River and was reported holding positions on the west bank for a distance of nine miles. The battle of the Cologne plain continued with unabated fury. On the British front only three small pockets of Germans remained to be liquidated before the Maas River is solidly held.

• • •

The biggest gain on the West Front on Friday was made by the United States Seventh Army, which advanced fifteen miles north of Strasbourg.

• • •

The Russians took sixty more villages in Hungary.

• • •

Some slight gains were made by Allied Armies in Italy.

• • •

The Chinese admitted that the Japs were making gains in their campaign in Kweichow province.

• • •

MONDAY—

The United States Ninth Army crossed the Saar River, thereby threatening the whole Saar industrial valley.

• • •

The Russians captured three more important centres in Hungary and were at a point only 72 miles from the Austrian border.

• • •

Forces of the Eighth Army in Italy crashed through enemy defences in the Po Valley and were reported to be close to Russia. The Nazis' withdrawal resulted in their losing their last foothold on the west bank of the Montoni River.

• • •

United States Superfortresses bombed an aircraft engine factory in Tokio, on Sunday.

• • •

TUESDAY—

The United States Third Army advanced to within six and one-half miles of Saarbrucken after extending the brideshead in face of havey German counter-attacks.

• • •

The British Second Army wiped out the German bridgehead at Venlo and the United States First Army reached a point 22 miles from Cologne.

• • •

The Russian Army was reported to have reached the shores of Lake Balaton, 40 miles from Budapest. The Nazis appeared to be facing disaster in Hungary.

• • •

Heavy fighting was said to be in progress in the Po Valley, in Italy.

• • •

A great blow was struck by the Allied air forces when 4,000 planes dropped 12,000 tons of bombs on German's railroad system in half-a-dozen centres, in the Rhine area.

• • •

The United States Navy sank two more Jap ships.

Ministerial Association Discourages Holding Sunday Funerals

The Napanee and District Ministerial Association held their regular meeting on Monday morning, December 4th, in the Salvation Army Citadel, Napanee.

The following members were present: Rev. C. D. Maclellan, Rev. P. D. Cameron, Capt. N. McBride, Lieut. E. Peacocke, all of Napanee; Rev. H. A. Bunt and Rev. W. H. Clarke, of Desoronto, Rev. James Robinson and Mrs. D. F. Aylsworth, of Bath.; Rev. Kenneth Crawford of Adolphustown; Rev. W. R. Merrick, of Selby. Rev. W. G. Fletcher, of Yarker, and Rev. J. P. Dingman, of Napanee.

The meeting was opened by the President with the reading of a passage of Scripture and prayer led by Rev. W. H. Clarke.

The minutes were read and adopted. Favourable reports were received from the committee appointed at the October meeting, to secure co-operation from Undertakers and Cemetery Officials re our action on Sunday funerals. The following resolution was moved, seconded and unanimously carried:

"Whereas Sunday Funerals interfere with the regular Services of Worship especially in the rural areas and prevent the Undertakers and Cemetery Workers having their regular day of rest and worship, and having secured the co-operation of Undertakers and Cemetery Officials, we, the members of this Napanee and District Ministerial Association, put ourselves on record as agreed that Sunday Funerals should be discontinued."

A similar motion had been unanimously passed at the October meeting when a number more of the members of the Association had been present.

A letter from County Council was read re observance of V-E Day and it was moved, seconded and carried that the President, Secretary, and the Ministers of Napanee be a committee to arrange with the co-operation of the County Council, a County Service on V-E Day.

Rev. Kenneth Crawford gave us a very fine paper on the prophet 'Amos,' which was followed by a lively discussion and the thanks of the Association were tendered to the speaker.

The President closed the meeting with the Benediction, after which several books were exchanged.

STOCKYARDS COST ONTARIO $1,200,000

Toronto, (C.P.) — Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture announced that the Union Stockyards in Toronto now have been taken over by the Ontario Government and are being operated by the Ontario Stockyards Board as a public enterprise. Arbitration proceedings were held recently to determine the purchase price and $1,200,000 was the amount agreed on, he added. Details will be announced shortly.

Temporary chairman of the board, established under legislation passed by the Ontario Legislature at its last session when Government acquisition of the yards was approved, is W. R. Reek, deputy minister of agriculture.

Archdeacon Coleman Retires at Kingston

Kingston, (C.P.) — Archdeacon J. H. H. Coleman, secretary of the Anglican diocese of Ontario for the last eleven years and a minister of the church for more than fifty years, retired last Thursday.

He will be succeeded by Cannon L. E. Davis, rector of St. Paul's church at Brockville, Ont., for the last 32 years.

SECOND POULTRY FAIR TO BE HELD

The Beaver has been informed that some unscrupulous buyers have been going through the County and, to induce farmers to part with their poultry, have circulated the report that there would be no "TURKEY DAY" IN DECEMBER. . . . The usual notices have been sent to the regular buyers, many of whom have, in former years, depended upon the Napanee Market for their supply. The local demand is likely to be greater than usual. The regular December "Turkey Day" will be held as usual on

ONTARIO JUNIORS CLOTHE CHILDREN BRITISH NURSERIES

Toronto, Dec. 5. — Ontario Juniors have clothed with rummer and winter outfits the children in the three British nurseries maintained by the Ontario Junior Red Cross, Dr. V. K. Greer reported at the recent meeting of the Executive Committee, Ontario Divisin of Red Cross, he'd recently at Toronto. There are 7,266 branches with more than 210,000 members of the Junior Red Cross in this province.

The Ontario Division of Red Cross through its Nutrition Department may assist in launching a school lunch program in the near future, according to Mrs. James Coulter, chairman Nutrition Committee. She reported that although more than 202,000 pounds of jam have been shipped overseas to date, only 1.06 per cent. had to be rejected. Latter Jam would not be wasted—it was only unfit for overseas shipment. Jam for latter purpose has to be of thicker consistency than that for domestic consumption.

WOMEN RESPOND TO RED CROSS APPEAL

Toronto, Dec. 2— Expressing gratitude for the manner in which the women of Ontario have responded to her recent appeal, Mrs. J. C. Fraser, chairman, Ontario Women's War Work, Ontario Division of Red Cross, said, "Quotas on civilian garments, hospital supplies have been well taken up, and although there has been a good response in knitting for services and civilians in Britain, it is not nearly enough. The National Committee has promised to keep the wool coming and branches are urged to have further quotas for knitted goods." Quantities of knitted comforts for civilians, of long sleeved sweaters and gloves for servicemen, as well as knickers, sweaters and gloves for the women's division of the services are needed.

Although finished articles received in Red Cross warehouse in Toronto this year total over 3,221,000, a summary of results since the appeal shows that more than 157,000 items of knitted comforts for the forces and 168,000 articles of civilian garments remain to be made and shipped to complete the 1944 quotas.

NEWS FROM ITALY ABOUT LIEUT. J.D. GRAHAM

The following news item concerning Lieut. J. Douglas Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham, Napanee, was included in material sent to The Beaver from Military District No 3, concerning men from this district who are serving with the Canadian Army in Italy.

"During the recent Gothic line battle in Italy, a small party of engineers was ordered to remove mines and reconnoitre a crossing of the Conca river. Lieut. J. D. Graham of Napanee, Ont., Sergt. S. Mansbridge of Alix, Alta., and Spr. E. F. Cowan, Edmonton, Alberta comprised the engineer party from the Tenth Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers.

"Advancing into No Man's Land, the party first showed signs of being an interesting one when two German motorcyclists passed without noticing the Canadians. Next a company of Germans marched by close enough for the engineers to touch. But this they carefully refrained from doing while they held their breath. Fortunately the company of enemy once again failed to discover the Canadians. Finally their behavior they were spotted by a sharp eyed enemy sentry who ordered them to halt. At this stage the Canadians ran back, successfully escaping the Germans and returning to the Division which they were staying. They were able to report on the possible crossings and on the ground around the river very definitely was held by the enemy. As if in revenge the Germans then shelled the houses, but once again the luck of the Canadians held. The shelling inflicted no casualties."

FIVE NEW MEMBERS ELECTED ON MONDAY TO NAPANEE COUNCIL

Geo. Robson Defeated J. A. Regan for Deputy Reeve

Geo. D. Robson was the successful candidate in the contest with J. A. Regan for the Deputy Reeveship of the Town of Napanee in the Municipal Election held in Napanee on Monday. The candidates who were elected as Councillors were: H. W. Vine, A. E. Holmes, George Chalk, G. H. Switzer, Sept. Booth, and Arnold Rogers.

D. R. Hall was elected Mayor by acclamation, and C. M. Stratton was also acclaimed as Reeve.

The first six Councillors were elected.

Warned To Ignore News Of Returning Soldiers Which Is Not Official

Kingston, Dec. 4. — Major W. K. MacGregor, acting A.A. and Q.M.G., Military District No. 3, warned next-of-kin to rely only on official advice and to ignore all unauthorized information regarding the return to Canada of soldiers serving overseas.

Referring to the hoax played on an Ottawa resident recently, which resulted in a Kingston family rushing to the Capitol to greet a homecoming soldier, only to learn that the information given was false, Major MacGregor stated that next-of-kin actually should have no difficulty in ascertaining the authenticity of such information. He described the hoax as "outrageous."

He said that soldiers are returned to Canada either by hospital ship or by troopship. In the case of hospital ships the safe passage of which is guaranteed by all warring powers, security regulations are not so stringent, but in the case of troopships, which are subject to enemy action, the strongest possible security measures are laid down.

"When a soldier is returning in a hospital ship the relative officially listed as the next-of-kin is advised first by letter by the Director of Records, Department of National Defence, Ottawa, about a week or ten days in advance of soldiers arrival in Canada," he said. "Immediately upon on arrival at the port of disembarkation, the soldier is permitted to send a wire, at government expense, to his wife, parents or relative announcing that he has landed in Canada and indicating the date on which he expects to reach the army depot through which he enlisted.

"A list of returning personnel is also given in advance to all newspapers and radio stations by the district Public Relations Officer." Major MacGregor pointed out. "This list is also available to heads of reception committees in all communities, who receive advice of subsequent changes."

Major MacGregor said that immediately following necessary documentation at District Depot No. 3 at Ottawa, or District Depot No. 3-A at Kingston, the soldier is permitted to send another free wire announcing the expected arrival at his home. Army authorities, in turn, send an additional wire to mayors or reeves giving similar information so that reception committees will be able to be on hand at the time of the soldier's return, if so desired.

Unless advised by the Director of Records, next-of-kin do not receive information regarding personnel returning on troopship until the ship has docked safely at a Canadian port, it was pointed out. At that time the soldier is permitted to wire his family, announcing his disembarkation and expected time of arrival home. Normally, this would be the first indication received by next-of-kin of the soldier's return to Canada.

It is not intended that any soldier will return to Canada unannounced, Major MacGregor added, but he warned all next-of-kin to be sure to advise the Director of Records at Ottawa of any changes in address to avoid unnecessary delay in receiving information.

He said that relatives wishing to verify reports of returning soldiers can do so by calling the Public Relations Officer, headquarters, Kingston, or Area Command Headquarters, at Ottawa, telephone Government local 4218.

PRIVATE R. MACK WAR PRISONER

Pte. Roy Mack is a prisoner of war in Germany, according to a letter received from their son by Mr and Mrs. Arthur Mack, Picton, former residents of Napanee. He stated that he was in good health and was being well treated. He had not been wounded and said there was no reason to worry over him.

Pte. Mack was serving with the Lincoln and Welland Regiment and had been overseas since July 1943. He suggested that his parents get in touch with the Red Cross for information concerning the sending of parcels and letters.

His address is:

J. R. Mack,
Prisoner of War Post

ARTHUR BURNETT STRUCK BY CAR INSTANTLY KILLED

Arthur Burnett, 47, was killed instantly about six o'clock Thursday night, November 30th, on Highway No. 2, at the foot of Nigger Hill, four miles east of Odessa. He was attempting to warn oncoming traffic of a stalled car on the highway when a car driven by Christie Brown Co. Ltd. truck, driven by Randall B. Card, 107 Hill Street, Kingston, formerly of Napanee, is alleged to have struck him.

Deceased was driving from Kingston in a car owned and driven by Private Amey of Switzerville. It is understood Mr Amey had been having trouble with his car since it left the city and near the Evergreen Lodge, it stalled. Mr. Amey secured a ride into Odessa to get help. He left his car on the side of the road with his wife and daughter, Mrs. Gladys McGuire of Camden East and Mr. Burnett as passengers. During Mr. Amey's absence, Mr. Burnett was successful in starting the car and drove it as far as Nigger Hill when it stalled again.

Mr. Burnett got out of the car to warn approaching traffic. The Christie truck was travelling east on the highway and the driver evidently did not see Mr. Burnett standing in front of the stalled car as there was a terrific snow storm at the time.

The truck hit Burnett, then struck the car and careened off into the ditch.

Deceased had been employed at the Kingston plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada for the past two years but prior to that he operated a grist mill in Odessa. He is survived by his wife, formerly Laura Woodcock, Napanee; one son, Harold; one daughter, Elinor; one brother, George of Odessa; one sister, Nellie of Toronto.

THOS. C. THOMPSON FOUND GUILTY TWO CHARGES

Thomas C. Thompson, Vennachar, appeared before Magistrate Garvin in Napanee on Monday afternoon, charged with dangerous driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Thompson pleaded guilty to the latter charge and not guilty to the charge of dangerous driving, but the Magistrate found him guilty after taking the evidence and imposed a fine and costs totalling $51.55.

The charges were laid by Provincial Constable Morden following a collision between Thompson's truck and a milk truck owned and driven by Ross Dudgeon, Selby, about 2½ miles north of Napanee on Highway 41, early in November.

According to statements made by the constable and witnesses of the accident, Thompson's truck was being driven in a zig-zag manner on the highway and nearly put a car in the ditch before it struck Dudgeon's truck. Mr. Dudgeon and two witnesses of the accident, Delmar Beale and his son, gave chase to Thompson and later caught up with him.

Thompson in his evidence stated that Dudgeon's truck did not carry any clearance lights and that he was driving his own truck well over on its own side of the road. He said he knew his truck had struck Dudgeon's truck but there was so small a jar that he did not consider any damage had been done.

The Provincial Constable said that Thompson had apparently been drinking previous to the accident. Constable Morden, when informed of the accident, located Thompson at the home of his brother, south of Napanee, where Thompson was found hiding under his truck.

Damage to Dudgeon's truck was estimated at from $115 to $125 and to Thompson's truck about $2.00 or $3.00.

Large Quantity Liquor Stolen at Deseronto

Deseronto and Provincial police from Montreal to Toronto are searching for thieves who stole a 1939 sedan from a Belleville garage and robbers who broke into Deseronto liquor store last week-end and took 25 cases of Scotch and rye whiskies, valued at $1,600.

Police, noting that the rear seat of the car stolen here was thrown away, believe that the car thieves also entered the liquor store by forcing a rear door.

The car was recovered in Toronto, on Monday.

PREMIER DREW ANNOUNCES PLAN FOR POST-WAR ROADS

Ontario to Spend $250,000,00 on Roads in Five Years

Two five-year plans for postwar highway construction and improvement, now being worked out by the Ontario Government, will make commercial and private trucking possible on a scale never known before, George Drew declared last Thursday in an address before the Ontario Automotive Transport Association at the Royal York Hotel. More than 700 members and guests heard the Premier outline the postwar plans of his Government with regard to highways.

An expenditure of approximately $250,000,000 over five years is contemplated by the Ontario Highways Department, the Premier said. The second plan for road development calls for joint action by the municipalities and the department, and will include the replacement of county and township bridges which have become obsolete.

"With these changes there will be a tremendous improvement in the farm-to-market roads which connect the farming communities with the Provincial highway system," Mr. Drew declared. "I believe that the plans already made by the Highways Department for postwar construction will lay the foundation for a vast postwar development in agriculture, in industry, in tourist traffic, in mining, and in the use of our great forest resources.

"This is something which is of direct concern to every one in this Province," continued the Premier. "Many cities and towns are entirely or almost entirely dependent on trucks for their milk supplies. More than half of our live stock is moved by motor transport. Nearly half of our fresh fruits and vegetables are carried in that way. Furthermore, most of us use the highways personally in one way or another.

"I think it is no overstatement to say that to a very great degree the whole structure of our present way of living is based upon highways and the vehicles moving over them, and that the speed of our postwar development in this Province will depend very largely upon our highways and the way we use them."

ABOUT 60 TONS POU SOLD IN NAPANEE AT FIRST FAIR

Quantity and Prices About Same as Last Year

About 60 tons of poultry were sold in Napanee last Wednesday and Thursday, the first Poultry Fair days for Napanee this year. The quantity was about the same as last year. About 95% of the poultry bought last week was chicken and fowl. Only a very few producers marketed turkeys.

Top price paid for chicken was 30c per lb. for select grade, and prices ranged, for the most part, from 24c. to 30c. Fowl sold at from 15c. to 23c., according to quality.

There were only three outside buyers in town: The T. Eaton Co., of Montreal; Canada Packers, and Quality Poultry, but several local buyers purchased quite a large quantity.

It has been rumored that the second fair, scheduled for Thursday, December 14th, would not be held, but town officials wish to assure the poultry producers that the fair will be held as planned. At least two outside buyers have promised to be on hand and many citizens of the town will also be looking for their Christmas poultry on that date.

I. O. D. E. NEWS

The regular monthly meeting of the I.O.D.E. Chapter of the I.O.D.E. took place on Monday afternoon in the I.O.D.E. rooms.

Mrs. Alpine Woods, 1st Vice Regent, presided in the absence of Mrs. Hall, the Regent.

Donations were voted upon to be sent to the following special funds: The Sailors and Minesweepers Fund, The British Children Clothing Fund, The Prisoner of War Fund. The Wool Blanket Fund and the Polish Relief Fund.

The annual Christmas Box and Books will be sent during the next week to the Chapter's adopted school at Germania.

The U.E.L. Chapter shared with the Alice Hawshaw Chapter in assembling a bridal outfit to be sent to England. The outfit consisted of a bridal dress, slip, veil, hose and a pair of shoes.

Donations were made by Mrs. Geo. Paul, Roblin's Shoe Store and Lipson's.

Mrs. Lewis, War Work Convenor, gave the following report of work done by the Chapter and sent to the Provincial Headquarters at Hamilton:

336 pairs socks, 26 sweaters, 31 scarves, 5 turtle-neck tuck-ins, 15 pairs sleeves, 2 caps.

For Polish Relief: 1 quilt and 2 caps.

British Clothing: 38 quilts, 4 Afghans, 1 wool blanket, 6 baby sets, 2 pairs socks, 1 jacket, 4 nighties, 5 aprons, 1 dress, 20 diapers, 1 set wool dress, 12 filled nursery bags, 11 filled civilian bags, 10 filled service bags.

KILLED OVERSEAS

Mrs. Hugh Hicks, 266 French St., Oshawa, a former resident of Napanee, received word recently that her brother, Pte. Eugene Bovin, well known in sports circles in Oshawa, where he lived for some years, had been killed in action in Holland on November 2nd.

Home and School Asso Hear Criticism of School Sanitation

The regular monthly meeting of the Home and School Association of Napanee was held in the West Ward School on Wednesday, November 29 After the business of the meeting was over, the large assembly of members was addressed by Dr. T. M. Galbraith on "Prevention of Illness in School Children."

He said, at one time the three "R's" had been considered the most important assets for a school child but today it is realized that health com's first.

History tells us that the main considerations in child health are nutrition, sanitation and child labor. To-day, child labor is no longer the problem it once was, but sanitation is a very real one in Napanee. The children of the town are encouraged to bathe in the reservoir and all through the water supply is tested and found pure water tests are made quate for drinking purposes. Th sanitary conveniences at Napanee Collegiate are the same as installe sixty years ago and have long since been outmoded.

Dr. Galbraith likened the health o the children to a building which has proper foundation under only two sides—the medical health officer and the Victorian Order Nurse. In order to be adequate the foundation must also consist of sanitation, good nutrition health education and immunization. Bad housing, inadequate clothing and poor nutrition were to blame for 45 per cent. of the rejections on physical grounds in the armed services.

Mr. A. J. Hill, Public School Principal, outlined the aims and purpose of the kindergarten primary class. H said kindergarten is definitely not a place for small children to go to play. There is a definite work programme and the child plays while learning. It teaches a child how to get along with others, gives him habits of work and provides a good foundation for his later school years.

Refreshments were served at the opening of the meeting.

HELP THE BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND

With Christmas less than three weeks away there is very little time left to make contributions to "The Beaver Santa Claus Fund".

The committee in charge of preparing the baskets for distribution at Christmas is going ahead with the buying, feeling sure that sufficient money will be subscribed to pay the bills. The Beaver Santa Claus Fund has been in operation for many years and without its help many unfortunate citizens of the town would not find Christmas a very happy home.

If you intend to make a contribution, please send it in soon. Make cheques or money orders payable to "The Beaver Santa Claus Fund."

Dedicate Gift in Memory of Nursing Sister Edith Allison

"So long as this room survives Nursing Sister Edith May Allison will live in tangible form. In her lifetime she well earned this very practical monument to her memory," said Magistrate I. F. Fitch, K.C., at a ceremony Thursday night, November 30th, in which the United Empire Loyalists presented complete furnishings for Room 2, Ward D of the Col. Belcher hospital, Calgary, Alberta.

The deed of gift prepared by L. F. Clarry, K.C., was presented to Dr. A. W. Park, district administrator of the hospital, and Miss Alma K. Welch, matron, by the U. E. Lpresident, M. W. Brock. With the gift of furnishings a plaque in memory of Nursing Sister Allison, was also placed.

Nursing Sister Allison, who was a sister of Miss Pearle Allison, secretary of the Loyalists, served overseas in the First Great War and from 1919 to 1932 was matron of the Col. Belcher Hospital.

Miss Allison was born on the Allison homestead, 2nd Concession, Tyendinaga, and lived there until she moved to Calgary in 1912.

OF NO USE

My, what beautiful hands you've got! Tell me, after you've cut your nails, do you file them? asked a chorus girl.

Oh, no, replied her typist friend, I throw them away.

THE REAL WAR

What many people have predicted would be the real war, has already begun — the real war being the war to determine who is to rule the liberated countries. In Brussels there have been riots and the Government has had a hard time to maintain order, in spite of the imposition of martial law. In Italy the struggle grows more intense and more complicated. In Greece, the liberated peoples are at war with themselves. In France the de Gaulle Government has had to take cognizance of the pressure from the Left, in order to keep order. In Roumania King Micheal has ordered a new government to replace that of ex-Premier Sanatescu.

This condition is not to be wondered at. In the liberated countries millions of men and women have felt the heel of the invader. For five years they have known the meaning of Fascism in their own experiences. They have seen their families broken up, their friends and relatives spirited away to concentration camps; they have known at first hand the truth about torture chambers. They have fought in the undergrounds. They have risked their lives. They have paid the price and are determined to have a hand in running the country.

Meanwhile, Governments in Exile have carried on in London. They are patriotic and conscientious leaders. They have been invaluable in creating and sustaining contacts between London and the Occupied Countries. But they have been five years away from home. They do not know many who, through the stress of the times, have risen to the top in their own country. They have, at best, been directing affairs from afar. Naturally, these Governments in Exile hope to get back home and assume power, but those who have remained are not so sure that these, who have been away so long, are the right ones to take control. At best, it is held that these Governments in Exile only know the few people of wealth in their own countries, and do not know public opinion as expressed in the lives of the little people who form the great bulk of the population.

This, then, is one point around which there is bound to be friction in the days ahead, indeed in the days that are immediately upon us.

Then, too, the place of Royalty will raise differences of opinion. In Italy, Royalty is discredited and yet, Great Britain has refused to permit Count Sforza to sit in the Cabinet, presumably because having promised not to raise the question of Royalty, he has changed his mind when he sensed Italian public opinion. In Roumania, the young Micheal is on the job and taking sides. In Greece, the King has said he would leave the decision with respect to his return, entirely with the people. Royalty is involved in these issues.

There is one thing that the people of Europe will not forget. They believe—and have had it drilled into them ever since the war started—that the war is being fought to preserve the rights of the individual, to give the people a chance to run their own affairs. They are not now going to sit back and allow the right they have won, to be wrested from them without a struggle. This is a war of freedom; a war for four freedoms, perhaps even more. The people in Europe are in no mood to have their liberties further jeopardized. The real war, after the military struggle is over, is between the parties of privilege and the underdog. It may last a long time. In the long run, the will of the majority must prevail — though many lives may be lost, and much blood spilt before that happens. What is taking place in Belgium, Greece, Italy, Roumania, may well be the forerunner of a real revolutionary movement throughout all Europe.

WHERE ELSE?

Where else could it happen that a Cayor of a great metropolitan city could be interned for opposing the war effort, serve four years, be released, and seek re-election to the position he held, and while the war is still being waged? This record would be hard to match.

That it could happen in Canada speaks volumes for the spirit of justice and tolerance prevailing among our people. Mayor Camillien Houde was Mayor of Montreal. In 1940 he urged the people not to sign the National Registration cards. He was promptly arrested and put in a concentration camp, where he remained until a short time ago. Now he is out to win back his position as Mayor of Montreal. He made his initial speech in the present campaign on Sunday. He spent a good deal of time defending his action. His appeal, as gleaned from the brief Press reports available, was void of any anti-war sentiments. Indeed, he urged the necessity of the war. True to the Quebec tradition, he opposed conscription, taking a good deal of credit to himself for the fact that conscription had been postponed so long. He said, "that if conscription had not been enforced before this time, it is because you had at Petewawa, Ont., and at Fredericton, N.B. (internment camps) a lightning rod in my person.' The initial mistake of the Government, he said, had been to declare war in 1939—now we are in it, we must win it."

We are not interested in whether Mr. Houde gets elected or not, but we are profoundly grateful that in our own country, there is such a spirit of fairness, that he can be allowed to make the try.

THE TREND AT OTTAWA

When former Defence Minister J. L. Ralston, after giving the Prime Minister a rather bad time of it, declared that he would vote to retain the present Government in power, the crisis in Ottawa was about over. Other speakers have taken a more partisan attitude. It is always a bit risky to predict what will happen in a vote, but from present indications it would appear that the Government will survive the want of confidence vote. This, under the circumstances, seems a reasonable deduction to make from the opinions expressed in the House.

It has been a complicated and bitter situation, precipitated by the demand for reinforcements. In view of all the facts, and particularly in view of the war situation, it is probably better that the present Government be continued. We were desperately concerned in Canada, a few weeks ago, lest there should be a change in the administration. Looking at the international situation, most people in this country were of the opinion that changing leaders in war time was a rather dangerous experiment. The same argument holds good here. Granted the present Government has made mistakes, yet it is no time, now, to hold an enquiry into them. A day of reckoning will come, and when it comes, the people of Canada will have ample opportunity to express their judgment on those who have been responsible for Canada's share in the conduct of the war. In the meantime, the Government represents all the people, and must be accorded every support, particularly in the war effort.

One thing that the present crisis has accomplished has been to make the Government aware that public opinion in Canada will not tolerate any let-down in our support of the men overseas. The Government knows that now; the Government has reacted to the public opinion which demanded reinforcements, even if it meant conscription. The Government has agreed to partial conscription, and should the situation become again such that the present number of men is insufficient to meet the needs of the Army, the Government will, in all probability not wait until another crisis forces action. In resigning from his position, as Defence Minister Ralston accomplished what he could not have done by remaining in the Cabinet. He received for the men Overseas, the 16,000 reinforcements he said were necessary. He has rendered the nation a unique service, both in his office and in his resignation from the Cabinet.

CHILDREN AND WAR

During the First World War and for a while after it ceased, we heard a great deal about the "wild children" of Russia. Vivid stories told of bands of homeless, parentless children running in packs almost like wild animals. As soon as order was restored in Russia, and the new government was established, this problem was tackled in earnest. The children were rounded up, properly housed, trained, educated and prepared for citizenship in the Union.

What happened in Russia is now happening in a dozen countries. Bands of children are roaming at will. Many of these have secured rifles and ammunition and are a menace to organized life.

In Toronto, on Sunday, Robert St. John, United States War Correspondent, in an address given at Convocation Hall, told of these children. Speaking of them, he said:

"They are the people of Europe of to-morrow and they are a tremendous challenge to us. They not only are diseased in body, but they are diseased in mind, from never having known freedom from sirens, from bombs ,from suffering, from hunger, which has brought tuberculosis to as many as 75 per cent. of a country's population. Unless we now can save the children of Europe, God help our own chil'dren," Mr. St. John said.

"In some countries every single one is a potential Hitler," he declared. "It is as though we were fighting a dragon and when we cut off one head 20 more appear in its place. We will have a million in every country of Europe unless we are careful. Even now, we see youngsters refusing to give up their guns to reconstituted authority.

"Even in England" the speaker said, "which had not been invaded, the children had been subjected to 'an air of constant uncertainty.' This atmosphere of fear could not help but have an effect on the mind of a child."

It will be a long time before the people of Europe will be well enough organized to meet this menace. On The United Nations will rest a heavy responsibility, not only to feed Europe but to train back into civilian life those thousands of children who have been trained to live by their wits, to pillage, shoot and steal, and to regard these as a normal experience.

A SOLDIER'S MAIL

I remember the time when a letter to me
Meant no more than the pebbles that lie by the sea.
The familiar tread of the postman each day
Meant nothing to me as he went on his way.
Now, those days are all gone, and I eagerly wait
For the letters from home that always seem late.

We kick and we grumble; we shout and we cuss
When we get too much hard-tack or lumpy old mush.
And if we are kept too long on parade,
We kick and we grumble; we rant and we rave.
But how eager and quietly we gather about
When the mail truck arrives and the names are called out.

"I should get one to-day," you'll hear someone say,
Or, "I've had none for weeks. May be one's here today."
We know that we can't get one every day.
But when there's no letter, we turn sadly away.
The sun can be shining, the sky clear and blue,
But it's still dull and cloudy if there's no mail for you.

HAS HITLER GONE INTO HIDING?

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The mystery of what has happened to Hitler continues to challenge world speculation not only because it's one of the most intriguing dramas of our day but because his fate is of vast import to all nations.

Hitler alive and in his normal health must remain a menace to mankind, as long as he has his freedom. His death or incapacitation would be a Godsend which would, I believe, greatly shorten the war and help the establishment of peace.

No wonder there are many rumors and guesses on the riddle of Berchtesgaden. Reports that the Fuehrer is gravely ill that his abnormal brain finally has snapped and he is mad that he is dead—all these are received with eager hope outside Germany. Few give a tinker's damn which of these disasters has overtaken him, but want to be sure of it.

I've heard it suggested that the Nazis are feverishly preparing fortifications in the Bavarian Alps for a final stand, and that Adolf is bossing the job. Louis Lochner, long Associated Press Chief of Bureau in Germany, throws out the novel suggestion that the dictator may use plastic surgery to change his features in preparation for a flight to a neutral country.

Now comes another new and startling thought from Dudley Hilton Taylor, managing editor of the Kentucky New Era of Hopkinsville Ky. He asks in an editorial if it isn't possible the Germans are thinking in terms of a third great war and are preparing the master hoax of all time—the hiding of Hitler, or the build-up of his supposed death while he is whisked away to a safe hiding place, where he may act as the inspiration of a German underground movement in preparation for another attempt at world conquest.

Mr. Taylor was in a field hospital in France when the First Great War ended. He remembers how the Germans even then were plotting the present conflagration while outwardly they gave the impression of being whipped. In commenting on the possibility of a hoax he says Hitler preached for years that if you tell a lie big enough, and repeat it a sufficient number of times, the world will believe it.

"Let's hope," adds Mr. Taylor, "that a repeated German lie may not be accepted as the truth while the Nazi propagandists laugh at us as they did while we remained divided—nationally and internationally — as the Germans conquered nation after nation.

"The press of the Allied world has a duty in this case — a duty we believe it will discharge. That duty is to keep the closest tab possible on the source of the stories regarding Hitler especially all that appears to be German inspired.

"That's something to conjure with. One of the chief Allied aims is to smash Nazism, which represents everything that's evil. Hit'er is the heart of this ism which he himself created, and until he is put out of commission it is likely to attract followers.

Whatever may be the solution of the Hitlerian mystery, there's no doubt that the Germans already are looking ahead to another attempt at conquest. Some of them, more arrogant than discreet admit their intentions. They're figuring on fresh aggression a quarter of a century hence. Reliable information from the Orient makes it clear that the Japanese, recognizing their impending defeat, also are preparing for another war against the Western powers a generation from now.

The Nazi Dictator's fate is indeed a momentous matter.

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Down North — MacDonald.

Reading 'Down North' is like travelling through strange and fascinating lands with an eminently interesting companion. Malcolm MacDonald had unique opportunities to see the great Northwest Territories, now the subject of so much lively discussion and speculation — Whitehorse, Dawson City, Fort Yukon, etc. The very names suggest romance, adventure and the high hopes for Canada's future greatness.

Journey Among Warriors — Curie.

In the wastes of Libya, Eve Curie talked just behind the battle lines to men of the United Nations' Command. There, as on other fronts of freedom throughout the vast battleground of this war, she learned to know the soldiers and civilians who are in the forefront of the fight. Her report to America on her far-flung journey among warriors is one of the greatest and most inspiring of all books on our tortured world.

Alone Across The Top of The World.

The authorized story of the Arctic journey of David Irwin, as told to Jack O'Brien.

The tale of David Irwin's 3600-mile trek across the top of the world from Nome, Alaska, to Churchill, on Hudson Bay, his suffering and hardships, is one of the most dramatic stories to come out of the North. O'Brien has never been so inspired as when he wrote the book and it is for everyone who loves the tang of adventure.

when he wrote the book and it is for everyone who loves the tang of adventure.

How Never To Be Tired — Ray.

"The vast majority of mankind are prospects for this book, for most of us could use additional energy—and additional success. It is for people with an inferiority complex, people who lack confidence in themselves, people who are always tired, people who worry, people who don't feel they have the job in life they are capable of doing—in other words, to almost everybody."

Quebec: Historic Seaport — de la Roche.

One of Canada's best-known novelists tells the story of the oldest and most picturesque seaport on the American Continent.

Ten Escape From Tojo — McCoy and Melnik.

The first full story of Japanese cruelty. — The epic of the heroes of Bataan and Corregidor, told by two of the survivors and released with permission of the joint Chiefs of Staff.

Fathems Deep — Dawson.

An attempt to convey some idea of the work being carried out in this war by the British submarines. The incidents told did not actually happen, but similar ones may be fought now and they may be fought in the future, as the British submarine plays its part in maintaining Britain's sea supremacy.

Simone — Feuchtwanger

Feuchtwanger has switched, in this novel, a tale that is seemingly simple and naive. But behind the story of Simone there is the far greater story of France, and, though the author never stated it, no reader will miss the heart-lifting parallel. The story of Simone, of Joan of Arc, is everlasting and ever true.

Yankee Stranger — Thane.

The historical novels of Elswyth Thane have an individuality and a charm which bring her a wider and more devoted audience with each successive book. Here is action, heroism, romance, and here is a banished world re-created.

Alibi For Isabel — Rinehart.

In this latest collection of short fiction by Mary Roberts Rinehart, there are stories of all kinds for all kinds of people — adventure stories, mystery stories and love stories — written with that rare combination of humor, drama excitement, and deep humanity which constitute the genius of the author.

Some of My Best Friends Are Soldiers — Halsey.

Miss Halsey calls it "a kind of novel". The publishers believe that it is one of the gayest, most moving and at the same time, most important novels they have ever been privileged to present to the reading public.

Mrs. Applegate's Affair—VandeWater

"Mrs. Applegate's Affair' is surely one of the most diverting novels to be published in many a day. Frederic VandeWater has that unfailing lightness of touch that makes her characters—and the dialogue—a joy.

Listening Valley — Stevenson.

D. E. Stevenson writes with magical insight, her perception of feelings, of sorrow, of love, of daydreams felt, and of hopes as images, becomes their own experience for her readers. Many of these have urged her to devote her special talent to the people of to-day and their problems, and the achievement will greatly impress her readers, for she has produced her finest novel.

Leave Her To Heaven—Williams.

This is the story of a woman who cheated earthly justice at every turn. She knew how to escape earth's usual personalities. Never was there a woman whose appearance so belied her heart. The perfection of her proportions without concealed a fierce unbalance within. Against this is set the strength of a man's inward honesty. Here is a struggle between two natures irreconcilably opposed, drawn together by the fatal attraction of equal forces.

Bermuda Calling — Garth.

Here is David Garth at his best, in a swiftly paced novel of adventure, intrigue and romance, set against the background of the new Bermuda, the great American and English naval base.

Lost Island — Hall.

In this novel whose prose is memorable for its purity and poignancy, James Norman Hall has shown us the human impact of the war as it strikes home, even in Polynesia.

Presidential Agent — Sinclair.

Lanny Budd, born to wealth and education in the centrals of the mighty, assumes his most perilous international role amid the turmoil and intrigue of the last fatigue months of peace.

The Labyrinth — Roberts.

The scene of this story open in Tunis and moves to Crete before and during the German invasion. It is drama, personal as well as international, with its background of the terrific struggle by air, sea and land, and comes to a tense finale played out against the wild beauty of the Cretan mountains. It is a story of quenchless heroism that unites fiction and history.

Come Soon, Tomorrow! — Swarthout.

The story of a young singer, Gladys Swarthout, lovely star of opera, concert and screen and radio, writes with the assurance of one on familiar ground and with a keen artistic sympathy for this eager young singer.

More Than Conqueror—G. L. Hill.

To Have To Keep—Jane Abbott.

Buy War Savings Stamps and Certificates Regularly

Ever since the turn of the Century there has been a noticeable change in the home life of our people. The modern, high speed, mechanized mode of living has had its effect on the home life of our country. In the cities particularly, the whole family rarely get together. The various members go to work at different times, they take their noon-day lunch with them or eat "downtown". In the evening, each has his or her own interest to claim the leisure time. About the only occasion when all might be together is the evening meal. Consequently, family worship which was the back bone of the home life in an earlier generation is now observed in only a small percent. of the homes even of church people.

There has been, as a result of this, an increasing growing-apart of various members; this is reflected in the phenomenal rise in the number of divorces in the nation. There have been an unprecedented number of marriages during the war—wartime marriages — many of these hasty marriages consumated under the tense emotional strain of war conditions. What the result of this will be, is hard to estimate. It may be taken for granted, however, that, if the home established was a Christian home, the chances for it being a happy and permanent condition, is greatly enhanced.

In the first passage in today's lesson, Jesus makes this abundantly clear. The creation of man and woman was a Divine act, a religious act. The consummation of marriage too—Jesus insists—is a religious act. Accepted and entered into only on grounds of biological necessity, the marriage cannot possibly have the strength and the motive to make it successful.

The next section lets us take a peep into an Oriental home. Jesus was visiting it. Martha was busy getting a meal ready for the honored Guest Mary was sitting listening to the words that fell from the lips of the Master. Martha got "hot and bothered" about it. Thinking that Mary had the best of the deal, she protested and Jesus said to her: 'Martha, thou art troubled about many things, but one thing is needful; for Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her.' Probably all Jesus meant was that too much business is much emphasis on material things is needed ready when there were more important matters to talk about. He did not make for a home-body, but he was hard to sympathize with Martha when she wanted everything nice for the Master. But her anxiety over the dinner was quite out of proportion to the real situation. It is doubtful that Jesus was deciding as between the part played by Martha and that by Mary. What He did was simply to rebuke Martha gently for her misdirected remarks. No! Home business is to be secured only when each member of it does his or her share, bears his or her share of responsibility.

In the next section which comes to us from a letter written by Paul to his youthful friend, Timothy, the power of a good home in developing strong character is underscored. Paul speaks in the letter of the 'unfeigned faith" of Timothy's grandmother, and of his mother, and now of Timothy himself. It would have been difficult for Timothy to have gone far astray with a background like that. When grandparents and parents are sincere out because of their faith. It would not be hard to guess the kind of man the grandson would be. For there certainly such a thing as religious and Christian heredity. Given a good Christian home, nine chances to one the children of that home will be a credit to the Christian community. In spite of all the jokes that are written about ministers' sons, the truth is that more of their children go into the ministry than those from any other calling or profession.

It is not to be wondered at that the decline in the sanctity of marriage and the home life, runs parallel with a decline in religious interest. Once again establish the home as a Christian institution, and our problems of the spiritual and moral degeneracy of our times, will soon melt away.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, Nov. 26 — The Tamworth Continuation School Annual Commencement has grown to be a full two-evening performance.

On Thursday night a splendid program was presented, that consisted of full choruses, group choruses, guitar selections, piano duet, valedictory, poem by Miss Breda Ware, a puppet show "Our Store", and other appropriate readings by Mrs. Scott Gilmore in memory of three local boys who have paid the supreme sacrifice in the present war, shadowgraphs of Jack and the Bean Stalk, and others. A number of boys who are in the services were presented with war savings certificates. Mr. H. J. Millar, Principal of the School, introduced the officers of the Literary Society, of which Miss Betty Tucker is President, who acted as chairman for the evening. The presentation of the Girls' Cresta was made by Mrs. Scott Gilmore, and that of the Boys' Cresta was made by Mr. Millar. The presentation of the diplomas was made by the chairman of the School Board, Mr. S. Sydore. Miss Margaret Mitchell acted as pianist throughout the program. The play "Now that April's Here" was well presented, and the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

On Friday night a part of the same program was repeated, with some additions. About 10:00 o'clock dancing started, which was enjoyed by all, and lunch was served by the committee in charge. A full house was present on both evenings. Both the staff and the pupils spoken to efforts in making this annual entertainment one to be remembered, as well as one to be looked forward to each year.

Rev. W. H. Baugh has organized a Trail Rangers Group in connection with the United Church. The officers are: Chief Ranger, John Haggerty; Second Chief Ranger, Gerald Brown; Valley, Robert Clarke; Cache, George Marshall. There is a membership of nine boys at present. Weekly meetings are held on Wednesday night. They will start badge work in the near future.

The first of a series of lantern slides was shown at the Young People's Union on Monday night in the Religious Educational Building. This group of slides was entitled "The Church Goes Travelling", and proved to be most interesting.

Rev. J. F. Reid, of West China, presented a number of lantern slides and an address on mission work, at the United Church on Sunday evening. Mr. Reid has spent 24 years in China, and will soon return to China, hoping to present conditions of war he will leave his wife and family in Canada.

Rev. W. H. Baugh received the sad news that his father, Mr. J. R. Baugh, had passed away at Normanton, Yorkshire, England. Mr. Baugh had been ailing for some time, and had undergone an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stinson have moved their home for the winter and have gone west on a visit to Vancouver, B.C., where they will visit Mr. Stinson's brother, Mr. Ed. Stinson, and Mrs. Stinson, also his sister, Mrs. Posten. They will stop over at Gladstone Man., where they will visit friends for a week.

BATH

Bath Nov. 25. — A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride on Saturday, November 25th, at 2:00 p.m., when Rev. L. G. O. Walker united Edith Alberta, elder daughter of Mrs. S. J. Davy, and the late Albert P. Davy, and Edward Raymond Mitchell, of Kingston, in bonds of holy matrimony. The bride entered the livingroom on the arm of her brother, Charles A. Davy, who gave her away. She was attired in a coral shade ankle-length dress and coat under an arch tastefully arranged in the room. The couple were unattended. Later, a delicious luncheon was served to the members of the immediate families. Amid showers of good wishes and confetti the bride and groom left on a short trip to Ottawa. On their return they will reside at the groom's home in Kingston. The bride is well known in this community, and a host of good wishes are extended to her.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Tompkins on the birth of a son in the Kingston General Hospital.

Friends and relatives held a shower for George Thompson and his English bride and baby son, in the hall on Wednesday night. George has just arrived home from overseas and is taking up life where he left off in Canada five years ago. He was one of the first to go and one of the first to come home. We are hoping for the safe return of all our boys, and soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Milligan and Mr. Gordon Milligan, of Kingston, were the Sunday guests of Miss A. Milligan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Warman, of Kingston, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Vandervoort.

The High School dance in the Municipal Hall was well attended on Friday evening. Proceeds over $125.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hughes spent the week end in Watertown N.Y.

Mrs. Peter Storey is spending a few days with Mrs. Chester Pero.

The November meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. J. Wartman. Money was voted for prizes to be given to the Sunday School pupils writing on the National Temperance Contest. Mrs. Herrington addressed the meeting on the subject of "Evangelism", which she said was so vitally important in all christian work, and emphasized the essential need for prayer, especially in all our woman's organizations. Following her thoughtful remarks the meeting was closed by a service of prayer.

The Daisy Mission Band met in the basement of the church on Saturday afternoon, with 43 children present. After playing games, Spin the Cover, Here I Sit a-Sewing, and Musical Chairs, adjournment was made to the Primary Room for the meeting. In the absence of the President, the Vice President, Merty Jean Pero, took charge. The meeting was opened by singing children's hymns, and prayers were offered by several of the children in thankfulness to God for many things. Roll call was answered by "Something we are thankful for". Next month will be election of officers. Mrs. Herrington took charge of the worship service the theme being "We Worship Together". The Members' Purpose Pledge was repeated. The thankoffering envelopes were brought in and a dedication hymn was sung. A temperance reading was given by Margaret Ramsay entitled, "Check Your Brains". Readings were given by Dorothy Perry and Mrs. H. Ramsay. Mrs. Herrington gave a short talk on "Peace". Mrs. Ramsay gave the Junior chapter of the Study Book, "Tommy Two-Wheels", which the children always enjoy. The meeting was closed by repeating the Lords prayer, "Jesus, Friend of Little Children".

Ralph Wightman, R.C.A.F., Yarmouth, N.S., husband of Lucille F. Wightman, Newburgh, was recently was transferred from Yarmouth to take up duties in another part of Canada, was enjoyed by the pastor of Temple Church, and was presented with a book in remembrance of his untiring services to the church during the past 19 months.

A very successful annual Christmas bazaar was held on Thursday evening, November 30th, by the Woman's Association of the United Church, Newburgh. The basement was very colorful with Christmas colors predominating. A cafeteria supper preceded the sale of bazaar items, under the convenership of the President Mrs. H. B. Herrington and the three Group Leaders, Mrs. James MacLeod, Mrs. Wilfred Gannon and Miss Emma Sherrey. Adults ate their supper at quartette tea tables, which were placed in the centre of the basement. The tables were flanked on either side by small evergreen trees. Softly played phonograph music was heard during the supper hour. Mr. and E. Hounslow and Miss E. Shorey were cashiers for the supper. At 8:00 o'clock the bazaar was officially opened. Conveners for the various tables were as follows:

Country Store: Mrs. Percy Gerow and Mrs. Wm. Wasar.

Knitted Goods: Mrs. Ralph Wightman and Mrs. Dorland Wood.

Novelty Table: Mrs. Ed. Lachhea and Mrs. S. Shier.

Touch and Take Table: Mrs. Hugh Ramsay and Miss Lulu Fluke.

Fish Pond: Miss Alice Milligan.

Despite the inclement weather, many attended, and well over $100.00 was realized.

HAWLEY

Hawley, Dec. 4. — A number were in Napanee on Wednesday and Thursday for Poultry Days. The prices were disappointing, considering the cost of feed and labor.

The Maple Leaf W. I. and Hawley W. A. Red Cross Unit met at the home of Mrs. M. Myers on Wednesday afternoon for quilting and other work. A pot luck supper was enjoyed at 7:30 p.m., and progressive euchre followed. Mrs. E. O'Connor and Mr. Clayton Frects were the prize winners, while Mrs. Clarence Parks won the travelling prize, and Mr. Leonard Selby the consolation. The proceeds amounted to $17.00.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wood and children, of Napanee, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. V. Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Parks.

John Bell has returned to his home in the village, after spending several months with his daughter, Mrs. Herman French, and Mr. French, in Penn, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brown, of Moscow, were Sunday guests of his mother, Mrs. Alfred Brown.

ADOLPHUSTOWN

Adolphustown, Dec. 4. — The community euchre, which was held in the Municipal Hall on Tuesday last, was a decided success. There were 14 tables in play, and the proceeds were for the buying of chairs for the hall. The prize winners were Mrs. Sandford Simmons, Mr. Harold Grooms, and Mr. Fred Gallagher.

Mr. Marshall Malloy has returned to his home from Deseronto, and is much improved in health.

Mrs. Hazen Box has been a visitor in the village for the past week.

On Thursday morning last, St. Andrew's Dec. Corporate Communion for the members of the Women's Auxiliary for the Parish of Sandhurst and Adolphustown was held in St. Alban's Church. After the service a business was served at the rectory by the Rev. H. C. and Mrs. Seeker.

Mrs. Ross Allison is home in the General Hospital, Kingston, for the past week where she has been taking treatment.

The shower which was to have been held in the hall last Fri. ay evening for Mr. and Mrs. Daly Baldwin had to be postponed on account of the storm.

Mrs. George Rutan is visiting relatives a few days with her niece, Mrs. Jack Duffett, before leaving for Napanee to spend the winter.

ODESSA

Odessa Dec 4 — Residents of the village were shocked on Thursday evening when the terrible news reached the village that Mr. Arthur Burnett had been killed instantly. Mr. Burnett was returning from his work at Kingston in a car with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Amey and daughter Thelma, when a car behind them attempted to pass. Owing to the condition of the road it was necessary to call a garageman from Odessa. Mr. Burnett was in the act of signalling cars to avoid collision with the Amey car when he was struck by a Christie truck. The storm was very heavy at the time, making visibility very poor. The body was removed to the Ross A. Jones Funeral Home. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from the home of the deceased to the Free Methodist Church, of which the late Mr. Burnett was a faithful attendant and member. Rev. N. Perry, the pastor, was assisted by Rev. B. E. Stevenson of Kingston. Left to mourn are his wife, a daughter Eleanor, and a son Harold, also a brother, George, of Odessa, and a sister, Mrs. Johnston (Nellie), of Toronto. The pallbearers were I. H. Burley, Chas. Lake, Robt. Hamm, Robt. Wright, Ray Barclay, and R. McAvoy. The remains were interred in Riverside cemetery.

Anniversary services were held in the United Church on Sunday, when Prof. W. Gilmour, of Queen's University, delivering very impressive sermons at both morning and evening services. Special music was given by the choir.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Johnston, of Tor-onto, spent a few days with relatives, and attended the funeral of Mrs. Johnston's brother, the late Arthur Burnett.

Mr. Lloyd Montgomery, of Port Huron, visited his brother, Mr. Morford Montgomery, after an absence of 11 years.

SELBY

Selby, Dec. 4. — The farmers have been very busy during the past week preparing poultry for market.

Rev. Mr. Merrick and Mrs. Merrick spent Thursday in Kingston.

The heavy fall of snow on Wednesday night and all day Thursday made a new record for this time of year. Snow plows are still busy at time of writing clearing the roads for motor traffic.

Pte Norman Jackson, of Toronto, is home on two weeks' furlough.

Pte. Keith Gourlie, of Hamilton, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gourlie.

The Sunday School room of the United Church is being re-decorated. The work is in charge of the Bradshaw Bros.

Mrs. Dee Weese had charge of the missionary program for the Sunday School on Sunday morning, when Mrs. B. F. Denison gave a very intimate sketch of the Life and Work of Dr. and Mrs. Ashley Lindsay, of West China Mission, who are personal friends. Dr. Lindsay has been Dean of Dentistry in the West China Union University for 36 years. In all his work Dr. Lindsay has been ably assisted by his wife. Not only is their home famous for its hospitality and the gracious charm of the hostess, but Mrs. Lindsay has taken an active share in University affairs. She has taught English in the University, and, for many years, was head librarian of the University Library. At present Dr. and Mrs. Lindsay who are home on furlough, are guests of friends in Montreal. Frances Robinson and Doreen McCutcheon contributed a vocal duet to the program. Following the Sunday School session, Norma Wood presented the concluding temperance lesson of the National Study Course. The pupils are reminded to hand in their papers at an early date.

Rev. Mr. Merrick delivered a very earnest message on Sunday evening.

Events of the week include:

The regular meeting of the W. M. S. on Thursday afternoon. The program is in charge of the President, Mrs. Jim Ross, and will take the form of a candle lighting service. Election of officers will also be held. All the ladies are urged to attend.

The program for the Young People's Union on Friday evening is in charge of Nina and Burton Hudgins.

Conway - Sandhurst

Conway-Sandhurst Dec. 4 — Miss Grace Morton is home visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Morton.

Mr. Bill Moon has returned home to Toronto, to help his father on the farm.

Mrs. Harry Babcock had the misfortune to fall and injure her ankle, and will be laid up for some time.

Mrs. Robert Russell is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hogeboom.

Miss Gertrude Gray spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Batte.

Miss Jean Young spent Sunday with Miss Kate Benjamin.

The Young People's Society meeting which was to have been held last Friday night at Mr. John Dickinson's was postponed due to the storm, and will be held this Friday night.

BETHEL

Bethel Dec. 4 — The wildest thunder gale everyone can remember, and a surprise when the snow storm of Thursday last left a blanket of snow on the level. Traffic was ceased for cars on Friday, but with the prompt action of the Township snow plows the roads have been cleared and cars are again in use on them.

Mr. Percy Allen has had his left arm broke in four weeks ago, is still unable to use his arm.

Mr. Lloyd Hall has returned home to this neighborhood after the Poultry Fair in Napanee on Wednesday and were quite satisfied with prices received.

Miss Orpha Babcock of R.3 Bevlie, who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for several weeks past having undergone a heavy operation there, is convalescing at the home of her sister, Mrs. Evans Gallagher. She was brought down by ambulance on Saturday last. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Leonard Gasser of Godfrey, has been engaged as teacher of the Junior room of the Public School at Yarker in place of Miss Myrtle Wright, and will take over her new duties to-day. She with her little daughter will board and make their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. McKnight, during the teaching days of each week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jarvis spent Saturday in Kingston.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER HELD RECENTLY AT VIOLET FOR MISS JEAN MARTIN

The spacious home of Mr and Mrs Walter Lemmon, Violet, was the scene of a happy event Friday afternoon, November 24th, when relatives and friends numbering about forty, gathered to present Miss Jean Martin (niece of hostess) with a miscellaneous shower and the warm wishes of her host of friends.

The living room was gaily bedecked with streamers of pink and white caught to the fireplace, and draped to the dainty seat for the guest of honour. At a given signal the bride-to-be was escorted to the special seat while the wedding march was softly played and a shower of confetti fell upon her curly head.

Confronting the special guest was a huge, mysterious four-tiered wedding cake, within the layers of which many gifts were hidden, while a gaily decked basket overflow gifts was carried in by two cousins, Mrs. Lester Hogle and Pouline Lemmon. They also helped unwrap the parcels. The bride-to-be, looking lovely in a soft blue silk jersey dress with blue flowers in her hair, made a speech, thanking her friends for the beautiful gifts and all who had assisted in any way to make it such a gala function. All the guests sang "For she's a jolly good Fellow."

A musical romance contest was conducted at this point. Mrs. E. A. Wright presiding at the piano. The prize was won by Mrs. F. Scouten.

The tearoom was decorated with pink and white streamers caught to the beautiful lace cloth, and a silver basket of sweet peas and tall white tapers completed the pretty picture. The bride-to-be's mother, Mrs. Stewart Martin and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Reginald Plaxelle, presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Ross Hogle, Mrs. Arthur Stevens, Mrs. Lester Hogle, Mrs. A. McDonald and Mrs. E. A. Wright and by the Misses Pauline Lemmon, Audrey Smith, Helen Stevens and Ila Kellar.

The departing guests tendered their warmest wishes to Jean for future happiness, and thanked their hostess, Mrs. Lemmon, for a delightful afternoon.

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

BY GERALD CREIGHTON

On Tuesday, November 28, the Troupe fell into patrols at 7 o'clock, under the order of Troupe Leader Gary Smith. Attendance was marked by Troupe Scribe Patrol Leader John Simpson. Inspection of uniforms and combed hair followed and roll call. Points were given to each patrol for neatness.

The Troupe then carried on with their games. Assoc. Scoutmaster Gordon McLellan gave A Troupe a very interesting talk.

Patrols then retired to patrol corners The Eagle Patrol was very comfortable in its new patrol corner. Each patrol is responsible for its corner.

The excitement of the evening came when the score board was called to find which patrol was leading in points. The Beaver Patrol was awarded the Honour Patrol pennant for the month of December. The duty patrol was assigned to the Wolf Patrol for December. The duty patrol cleans the Scout rooms and gets there early before the meeting to build fires.

The meeting closed with Breaking of the Flag and singing 'O Canada,' under leadership of Patrol Leader Gerald Creighton. The singing was followed by the playing of Taps by Patrol Leader J. Simpson, on his clarinet

In the Court of Honour, following the meeting, which only P. L.'s and Troupe Leaders and other Scout officials are allowed to attend, it was decided to postpone the Patrol Leaders' monthly meeting from Wednesday, Dec. 6, to Monday, Dec. 11 because of N.C.V.I. examinations. The meeting is to be held at the home of Patrol Leader Gerald Creighton.

The Court of Honour also discussed "Problem Scouts" and some changes were made in patrols.

The P. L.'s magazine called "Junior Leader" was given out to P. L.'s and so the Scouts dismissed for another week.

1ST NAPANEE WOLF CUB PACK

With a new type of introduction the regular meeting soon got under way. Immediately following inspection a quick game was played and an institution period finished the first part of the evening.

A repeat trial of Skin the Snake was tried with a great deal of success. The main event of the evening was the Kangaroo Hop and the whole game was very close throughout.

"Akela's Five Minutes" consisted of a talk on personal hygiene. This was in conjunction with the first star tests.

At red flower the Honour Six Pennant was won for the month of November by the Green Six under Sixer Laidley.

With Cub Silence, Lord's Prayer, retiring of the colours and Cub Promise, the meeting came to a close.

The Cubs were reminded that the last Cub meeting will be December 20th and the opening date January 17th, 1945.

Jam For Britain Shipped By Red Cross

Toronto, November 14. — Thanks to the splendid support of co-operating organizations and Red Cross branches, the Canadian Red Cross Women's Jam for Britain project for 1944 is forging ahead, Mr. Stafford Roberts stated today. All signs point to an over-the-top finish soon Already half of the quarter million pounds which is Ontario's share of jam and honey has been sent to overseas shippings ports from the Ontario Division's Jam warehouse in Toronto. Two more carloads are awaiting shipment.

Many branches and Institutes outside the fruit growing area find it not practical to make jam — send in cash to purchase factory-made products. This fund has reached close to $6,000. Energetic members of Women's Institutes conveniently located to fruit growing areas of the province with Red Cross units have generously made up the balance of the shipments with fine quality home-made jams and pellies. In spite of the short honey crop honey contributions this year have far exceeded last year's supply and an adequate supply of this delightful confection will soon be received in Britain.

That the jams, jellies and honey are gratefully received is amply borne out by the constant stream of acknowledgements which reach Ontario Red Cross headquarters. Tiny tots in the nurseries, soldiers in hospitals and the aged in institutions all receive a share of this great treat.

From a Scottish nursery comes an amusing thank-you from four babies, three and four years old. These little ones have pasted in red letters two inches high on cardboard "THANK YOU FOR THE JAM." Other small children laboriously compose in round childish scrawls notes such as: "I am Isobel Black—I love jam on my bread and poured over my pudding. I am just four and can only write when teacher guides my hand."

The matron of the Kintore Way Nursery School in Kent says, "We are warmly appreciative of what is being done for the children of England."

IN BURMA

BY DARRELL BERRIGAN

British, American and Chinese troops have opened a drive which may lead eventually to the reoccupation of all of Burma.

The campaign is under the overall command of Lord Louis Mountbatten and the initial objective is the clearing of a road to China. Opening of the drive which coincided with the return of dry weather after the monsoon season, was announced recently by Mountbatten's headquarters in Kandy.

Some India observers believe the campaign may develop into a major attempt to regain the whole of the Burma colony.

The Allied push southward toward Katha, on the west side of the Irriwaddy river, and Bhamo on the east side, will, if successful, drive the Japanese far to the south. This would permit a further offensive eastward to meet Chinese troops now moving down the old Burma road from the Salween.

The push also may continue farther southward to connect up with British troops clearing the Japanese out of the Central Indo-Burma mountains. Military observers in India believe that such a development is in the cards for this dry season and predict that an Allied army will be operating on the Central Burma plain before the monsoon rains slow military operations next May.

Connected with the operations along the Irriwaddy river are the activities of the Chinese Salween forces, who are forcing a slow way southward along the old Burma road.

The combination of the Salween Chinese, the British - American - Chinese south of Myitkyina, and the British in the Imperial area has already spread the Japanese forces thinly over a perimeter more than 500 miles long.

London statements that powerful Royal Navy formations are in the Far East increased an already strong belief that naval action in the Bay of Bengal may be forthcoming.

Although naval bases in India are limited, it is believed Indian ports could supply enough vessels to carry out landings on the coast of Southern Burma in support of land action in the north. Last month Royal Navy forces shelled the Nicobar Islands. They saw no sign of life on those Jap-occupied islands and encountered no return fire from shore. Only desultory fire has been met with by British naval units shelling the south Burma coast.

Although any South-Burma landings will undoubtedly be opposed, the area where possible landings may be made is so great that observers believe strong opposition would not develop until too late.

Allied air power in India and China both in supply transports and fighters and bombers, is so great the Japanese airforces virtually has been driven from Burma airfields. When the Allies move by sea and land against Burma they will be almost continually under a protective umbrella of R. A. F., Dominion and American planes and land and sea supply will be greately supplemented from the air.

The monsoon may very possibly break next May on an Allied army well on its way toward the re-occupation of Burma and the re-opening of the old Burma Road from Rangoon.

THE CHANNEL TO ANTWERP

That Antwerp should have fallen into British hands intact is one of the great miracles, and so far almost one of the great mysteries, of the war. The speed of the British advance had, of course, something to do with it: the Belgian underground may have plenty of tales to tell on the matter when the time comes.

But even so, it is almost fantastic that the Germans should not have been able at least to demolish the Kruisschans lock gates through which much of the total water traffic of Antwerp has to pass. But they did not do so — and one of the world's greatest ports fell into Allied hands.

Antwerp is almost ideally placed for feeding a huge stretch of the Western front. It can accommodate ships of 30,000 gross register tons and, before the war, it cleared 10,000 sea-going vessels a year. Its facilities include 12 dry docks and a harbor of 24 docks (six of them big ones) with 25 miles of frontage. There are also three and a half miles of quays on the river front where vessels up to 27,000 GRT may be berthed. There are 500 oil tanks and many acres of warehousing space. The port's 500 miles of double track rail siding enables cargoes to be unloaded directly on to the rail transport. These facilities are largely intact.

Yet it is important to realize that the clearance of the Scheldt's bank, of all Germans need not imply that within a few days, or even weeks, majestic Allied armadas will be steaming up the Scheldt to Antwerp.

There are 35 miles of tortuous deep-water channel, which require constant dredging, between the port and the sea to keep it from silting up. Thanks to the Royal Navy, the Germans have been able to make but little use of port or river during the four and a half years of the occupation. They have had little reason, therefore, to waste man and machine power for dredging. So much will probably have to be done in this direction before Antwerp can be used by big ships again.

Moreover, the river will also have to be cleared of mines and other obstructions. It is quite possible that the Germans have had neither the men, nor the material, nor the time, to make a really good job of blocking the channel since the fall of Antwerp; but something of the kind they must almost certainly have attempted, and it would be well to be ready for possible disappointments where the early use of the great Belgian port is concerned.

NAZI MORALE SINKING

BY JOSEPH DRISCOLL

Special Cable to The Montreal Star and The New York Herald Tribune.

With American Third Army—Faced with disaster even worse than in the closing days of the first World War, the average Nazi soldier has been plunged into the deepest gloom. An insight into the German mood is afforded by the following unposted letter found on a German who to his great relief was captured by the Americans:

"My dear Lilly and Siegfried:

"Well, I'm still alive and I thank God for it. There are maybe ten men left of my whole company if there are that many— and there aren't more left of other companies.

"Conditions are indescribable and I have never seen anything like this since I have been a soldier.

"The situation is simply hopeless and hardly anybody has any hope that he will ever get home again. To put it plainly, every one of us wants to get out of this or be captured. We have been encircled for quite some time.

"Dear Lilly it would take a miracle to bring me home safely. My only hope is to save my life is to get captured and this will probably be our fate anyway. I'm near Nancy at the Moselle River.

"Dear Lilly I was right when I left you last time, saying it would be a hard fight.

"It is very bad because of the planes, but the artillery is absolutely hell.

"Well, how are you, and how are Kurt and Siegfried? My dear Lilly you have to be prepared for the worst, either I get captured or God means well with me. . . .

"What does it look like Inside Germany? Now Tommy is even there already and I can forsee a bad end.

"All I can do is to rely on God and to hope that He leads me back.

"Give my greetings to everybody and please don't forget me, once I shouldn't be any more.

"Goodbye and maybe au revoir."

How The Nazis Aided the British

German bombers supplied part of their own country's undoing when they converted British buildings to rubble.

Vast quantities of blitz hardcore rubble from the bombed areas of London and other cities were used in the construction of the great prefabricated harbors for the invasion of Normandy.

In the last three months of 1943, when work on the ports began, one-quarter million cubic yards (about 225,000 tons) were delivered to the riverside sites where the harbors were being constructed. The demands of this gigantic project strained to the utmost the resources and manpower of the debris clearance organisation which, in the preceding 12 months, had supplied over one million cubic yards for the construction of airfields for the USAAF in Britain. Thus, the bulk of the new supply had to come from fresh demolitions, and labor was very short.

The entire labor force worked a seven-day week, and every kind of mechanical plant was used. Despite these difficulties and the pressing needs of the War Office and the Air Ministry for hard core, London supplied from the very beginning some 30,000 cubic yards weekly for the prefabricated harbors.

In Loving Memory

ASSELSTINE — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Sidney Asselstine, who departed this life December 6th, 1927.

She suffered patiently and long,
Her hope was bright, her faith was strong;
The peace of Jesus filled her breast,
And in His arms she sank to rest.
I loved her, yes, no tongue can tell
How deep, how dearly and how well;
Christ loved her too, and thought it best
To take her home with Him, to rest.
In Heaven, dear mother, I'll find you
When God's great will is done—
I'll stand once more beside you
When He calls for me to come.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter, LANORA. 49ap

RED CROSS NEWS

The regular monthly business meeting was held in the rooms on Saturday, at 2:15, with the president in the chair, and a fair attendance.
Due to the increase of workers in the last few weeks, a new quota has been accepted. This consists of 210 gauze diapers, 50 boys' windbreakers, 50 boys' jackets, and 100 girls' bloomers.

Mrs Burns, from the knitting department has a new quota, calling for 10 turtle neck sweaters, 20 pairs gloves, 50 scarves, 40 infants' leggings, 30 pairs infants' soakers. These last two items may be knitted or crocheted. 40 pairs girls' socks, two to four year sizes; 40 pairs boys' socks, sox to eight year sizes.
A generous donation of honey, 194 pounds, has been received from Miss Bessie Allen, of Marlbank, and sent overseas.
The following cash donations have been received: Personal donations $27; Ladies of Desmond $10; I Go-You Go Club $25; Desmond Young People $7.50; Tamworth Red Cross Unit $50; Desmond Red Cross Unit $10; Conway Red Cross Unit $100.
Mrs. Sneath again urged the ladies to come for a few hours' sewing each week, and bring another worker with them. The new quota will need plenty of workers.
Mrs. Harry Vine and Mrs. Wm. Barrett were tea hostesses. Tea is served every Saturday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms, and everyone is cordially invited.

SCHOOL NEWS FROM TAMWORTH

The amount collected for the Navy League in the Continuation School at Tamworth during Navy Week, was $5.77

Several weeks ago Mr. Roy Fenwick, Music Supervisor for Ontario, paid a visit to the Consolidated School. At the opening exercises the Continuation School pupils sang the song 'My Pledge to Canada' which he composed a few years ago. On hearing the song, Mr. Fenwick and Mr. Halman came up to the Continuation School. They both addressed the school. Mr. Fenwick very graciously complimented the students on their singing and both teachers and pupils gave him an enthusiastic welcome. Last year the Continuation School presented Mr. Fenwick's pageant 'Cavalcade of Canada', a play written for the Victory Loan. It was a thrilling moment for those who had presented it to have the author greet them.
The awards given in War Saving Certificates at the Commencement exercises were valued at $115. This represents the war effort of the School.

OBITUARIES

MR. TRUMAN YATES
(Contributed)

Mr. Truman Yates, Marlbank passed away at the Hotel Dieu Hospital Kingston, on November 16 after an illness of over a year. He was in his 89th year. Mr Yates was the eldest son of John Yates and Phebe Deline. He was born near Marlbank and when twenty years old married Olive Dishane and lived on the farm four miles west of Marlbank where he spent all his life until about fifteen years ago when he moved to Marlbank. Nine years ago his wife died and he went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Wesley Prince with whom he lived, until the time of his death. In July of last year he had an accident and had not fully gained his usual strength when in September he suffered a slight stroke. In December 'flu and pneumonia set in and it seemed there was no hope for recovery on account of his great age. But he again became able to sit up but gradually became weaker and in August was removed to the hospital where in spite of every attention he slept peacefully away on Friday evening, November 10th. Mr. Wartman undertaker at Napanee, brought the remains to his daughter's residence at Marlbank, on Saturday morning.
The high esteem in which deceased was held was very evident by the flowers and large assembly of friends and neighbours at the funeral service held at Marlbank United Church on Monday afternoon, November 13th. Rev. Mr. Baugh preached a very impressive sermon and the choir sang an old favourite hymn of deceased. He leaves to mourn his passing, four sons and one daughter. Oscar and John of Niagara-on-the-Lake, William of Bunnell, Florida, Stephen and Rebecca, Mrs. Wesley Prince, of Marlbank. He also leaves fifteen grandchildren and thirteen great-grandchildren. One sister, Rebecca died in her early twenties and another sister, Adeline (Mrs. Bone), eight years ago; a brother, William of Deseronto, three years ago, also a brother, Harel, of Marlbank, two years ago. Mr. Yates was the last of the family of five.
The pall-bearers were Messrs. Robert Asselstine, Bruce Bush, W. G. Bird, Nelson Allen, Thomas Young, Albert Whiteman. Interment was made in Bunker Hill cemetery, in the family plot.

Remember

Christmas of all good days the best.
This year will bring us little rest
From a tortured World of sin and crime
Brought on by Hitler and his horrid kind.

We had hoped our boys who are over there,
Would spend this Day with those who care,
But the hardest fighting is yet to be done
With unconditional surrender, the fate of the Hun.

We want no repeat of this world conquest by hate,
By Nazi or Fascist which would surely be our fate.
If we allowed sympathy to rule our intention
Or slacken our pace in this high intervention.

So, when Christmas comes with its good cheer,
Let us remember all our boys who are over there,
And let us remember those for whom they care,
Who are here in our midst and have sad hearts to bear.

GRACE CHURCH W. A.

Mrs. Wilfred Smith, president of the Woman's Association of Grace United Church, presided for the regular meeting, held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon last. Owing to the snowstorm the attendance was curtailed. The theme of the worship service was "Ambassadors of the R.C.A.F. 'Per Ardua Ad Astra' and those taking part were Mrs. J. Jaynes and Mrs. A. Rogers. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs J. F. Dingman and a reading was given by Mrs. C. D McLellan. The treasurer, Mrs. H. W Vine presented the report which showed a substantial balance on hand. It was decided to give the Women's Missionary Society the sum of $25 for a life membership. The nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. F. Bissell, Mrs. John Fraken and Mrs. W. C Vine will bring in their report at the December meeting. Mrs. F. B Elliott contributed a vocal solo and the meeting closed with prayer.

TRINITY EVENING AUXILIARY — The regular supper meeting of Trinity Women's Evening Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. R. Sexsmith, on Tuesday evening with fourteen members present. After the supper hour the president, Miss Shorey opened the meeting with short reading and singing of hymn. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved and business meeting was closed with a hymn followed by prayer by Miss Shorey.

Mrs. Sexsmith was in charge of the program, using as her theme "Consecration to the Kingdom For Their Sakes," thus bringing us the thought of November and Armistice Day. Mrs. D. Turnbull gave a most interesting reading and Mrs. Walker gave a chapter from the Study Book which was much enjoyed.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Sexsmith and Mrs. Carscallen and the meeting was closed with a hymn and the Mizpah benediction. The Christmas meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Mills on December 12th, instead of the regular date.

VICTORIA W. I.

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. W. McCracken on the evening of November 16, with a good attendance of members and visitors. The meeting opened in the usual way with the Ode, followed by the Creed. The roll call was answered by everyone with My favourite Radio Programme. After the business part of the meeting Mrs H. Edgar had charge of the program which consisted of currents events by Mrs. D. Wesse, a report of the Kingston area convention by the delegate, Mrs. H. Edgar, Ralph Weese then favoured with a song and Mrs. A. Graham read a paper on publicity. Mrs. Fred McFarlane gave a humorous reading, after which sides were chosen for an impromptu debate, Marriage or Career. The leaders were Mrs. Arthur McLeod and Miss Helen Armstrong. H. Edgar was a contestant, the prize being won by Mrs. A. Graham.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem, a very dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

NEWBURGH W. I.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Card on Thursday, November 23rd, with fifteen members and one visitor present. The president, Mrs. Dean Vandervoort, gave a reading on the roll call. The members responded to the roll call with a few added remarks on the post-war world. The war work convener, Mrs. Geo. Walker, reported for October and November: 8 seamen's sweaters, 1 pair seaman's stockings, 36 pairs short socks 10 helmets, 4 ladies sweaters, and 8 quilts. Plans were made for a euchre to be held in January. After community singing Mrs. Kerr, convener of peace and international relationship, gave a very enlightening paper on world security and the new Security Council, stressing the duty of the individual, the good neighbour policy, and paid tribute to the contribution of school teachers. This was followed by a reading for war time "Don'ts" and after the war." A duet by Norma and Lorna Gerow was much appreciated.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF W. M. S.

The Wesley Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada met at the church on Friday evening, November 17th, to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary. The president, Mrs. Percy Yeomans, occupied the chair and Mrs. Ronald Baker presided at the organ. There was an attendance of ninety.

The meeting opened with quiet music, the call to worship and a hymn. Mrs George Wartman, a charter member and vice-president, was welcomed and at this time offered prayer. Mrs. Walter Clancy read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Roy McGill gave the commentary on the scripture lesson. Mrs. Hubert Wesse recited a devotional poem, a hymn was sung and the worship service closed with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Mrs. Yeomans welcomed Mrs. Finlay, the guest speaker, and the visitors from Newburgh. Stratton and Centreville auxiliaries, together with the members of the Mission Circles, Mission Band and other visitors of the Wesley congregation. Mrs. Herrington and Mrs. W. Wightman gave a very pleasing vocal duet. Mrs. Ross Hanna read a paper which she had prepared, which revealed that our auxiliary was organized by Miss Mc-Henry in 1894 with ten members, four of whom are still living, Mrs. George Wartman of Newburgh, Mrs. Lillie Baker Price of Toronto, Miss Amanda Wartman of California and Mrs. F. Tait Galbraith, of British Columbia. She told the story of the plans, the work, the growth, the organization of the Circle and the Band, the sales of clothing, the quiltings, the givings and the officers.

At this time, Rev. H. B. Herrington read the dedication service for the collection plates presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clancy, in memory of their mothers, Charlotte Wartman Clancy and Louise Sexsmith Baker. The offering was taken and dedicated using for the first time, the new plates.

Mrs. George Finlay, past-president of the Napanee North District, spoke of her interest in the Story of the Years and of her attendance with Wesley Church She told of the work of Rev. Dr. John R. Mott, a great missionary statesman, and closed with the plea for more missionary preparedness. A hymn was sung, and nine members of the Mission Band of Newburgh, under the direction of Mrs. Herrington, presented a playlet, "The Pansy Bed" depicting the brotherhood of all races and colours.

The president conveyed to Mrs. Finlay, Mrs. Herrington and Mrs. Wightman, the members of the Newburgh Mission Band and to Mrs. Hanna thanks for their kindly and instructive assistance.

Mrs. Dan Rogers, immediate past-president, closed the meeting with prayer and the benediction. Following the singing of the National Anthem, a social half-hour was enjoyed.

NOTICE!

TO ADOLPHUSTOWN TAXPAYERS

In the Township of Adolphustown Municipal Taxes levied upon the ratepayers in the year 1944 were 24 mills upon the assessed valuation, which amounted to $328,143.00.

Had the notice from the Department of Municipal Affairs given us one mill extra for educational purposes been received before the rate was levied, a reduction of one mill would have been effective.

The Municipal Council has decided that instead of remitting each taxpayer his one mill, they will carry a balance of $328.14 into 1945 and reduce the mill rate one extra mill when the 1945 mill rate is levied.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! The taste for apples is enthused by their mild aroma and the satisfaction of good munching. However, the various ways in which apples can be used are numerous and can be served often if you watch the proportions of sugar.

Nowadays we don't buy apples by the barrel — at least most of us don't. Our recent purchase of a basket of Duchess apples and our quota of one pound of sugar has been used as an experiment to find out what could be done with them. It was found that a family of six could have five different desserts which used every apple and one pound of sugar. Of course, there could be no guesswork allowed in the sugar measurements; yet we agreed the foods were sweet enough.

Applesauce was made from six apples cut up and cooked in one cup of water, then put through a sieve to remove skins and cores. Three tablespoons of sugar were then added. We believe that all stewed fruits, fresh or dried, should be flavoured with sugar after being cooked, but while hot!

Apple pie could not be forgotten among the favourite ways to use them. It took nine apples and two-thirds cup of sugar. By the way, we grated a little cheese over the apples before we put on the top crust.

Apple dumplings are on a par with pie as to popularity. Six apples were peeled and cored. These cavities were filled with sugar—it took four tablespoons. A square of plain biscuit dough was then folded around each dampening the edges to seal in the juices. They were steamed over boiling water for 30 minutes and served with a diluted honey syrup.

Apple crisp is a super delicious dessert, although it requires a little more sugar. Eight apples were sliced into a buttered casserole and covered with the following ingredients that were crumb'ed together: three-quarters cup white sugar, three-quarters cup flour, three tablespoons melted butter half-teaspoon mace and half a teaspoon of cloves. A half cup of water should be poured down the side and the pudding should be baked in an electric oven at 350 degrees for thirty minutes.

There were then two apples and two tablespoons of sugar left and these were used to make a Dutch apple cake. The method used for the cake was: Measure and mix two cups of flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, half-teaspoon salt. Cut in one-quarter cup butter, stir in two-thirds cup milk and a beaten egg. Spread the mixture in a shallow greased pan. Peel, slice apples and place in rows on dough. Sprinkle top with two tablespoons sugar and one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon. Bake in electric oven at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Serve with milk.

We are also publishing other recipes which will help to consume the Canadian fall apples which are not suitable for storage for the winter varieties are Duchess, Alexander, Wolf River, St. Lawrence and Wealthy.

Applesauce Orange Compote

Pour and cover half cup applesauce and one cup orange sections, add half-cup brown sugar and few grains nutmeg. Chill in electric refrigerator and pour into serving dish; garnish with one cup orange sections and 'apple' made of two green and six slivered red maraschino cherries.

Applesauce Gingerbread

Six tablespoons shortening, one-third cup sugar, one egg, half-cup molasses, one and three-quarters cups flour, one teaspoon of baking soda, one teaspoon of cinnamon half-teaspoon ginger, half-teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup strained thick applesauce

Cream together shortening and sugar. Beat egg, add; add molasses, mix well. Sift together three times, flour, soda, cinnamon, ginger, salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with applesauce. Bake in greased pan 8 ins. by 8 ins. by 2 ins. in electric oven (350 deg.) 45 minutes. Cool slightly (if desired, top with softened cream cheese and decorate with candied cherries and citron.

TAKE A TIP:

1 Enquire from the friends of the boy or girl in uniform in Canada when they are sending their Christmas parcel to him, then mail it on another date in order that those many parcels do not arrive at about the same time. Label it 'Christmas parcel. Write name on the package having wrapped it in strong brown paper — do not use small gummed seals to write on.

2 Bind the frayed edge of the chenille bath rugs with bright coloured prints. Matching the backs for curtains add a cheerful note.

3 Do's and dont's for shaping and frying doughnuts are:—

Use only two-third of dough at one time Put it on a lightly floured board, knead slightly, pat and roll out one-quarter inch.

Use two-thirds lard and one-third of beef suet dripping for fat or vegetable fat.

Use a fat thermometer or drop an inch cube of bread into hot fat; if it is golden brown in 40 seconds, fat is about 390 degrees, and if in 60 seconds, at about 370 degrees.

Put a small number in at a time to prevent lowering temperature.

Doughnuts should come quickly to top of fat brown on one side, then be turned to brown on other. Avoid turning more than once (except your milk doughnuts).

Keep electric element on high or medium, whichever holds constant temperature. If too hot, the doughnuts will brown before sufficiently risen. If too cold, doughnuts will absorb fat.

THE QUESTION BOX:

Mrs. R. J. asks: How can I make boiled lima beans more tasty?

Answer: A tasty, satisfying dish is lima beans with mustard butter sauce made by simmering 4 tablespoons melted butter, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon mustard, two teaspoons vinegar, salt and pepper together for a few minutes. Pour over hot lima beans.

Miss L. B. asks: Should grade B eggs be poached?

Answer: They may be poached in steaming hot water to which a teaspoon of vinegar is added. This sets the whites more quickly.

Mrs. B. T. asks: Recipe for Scotch fruit bars.

Answer: One and one-quarter cups flour, one cup fine rolled oats, three-quarter cup brown sugar, half-teaspoon salt, half cup of shortening, one and one-half cups mincemeat. Sift and measure flour; add rolled oats, sugar and salt. Mix together and cut in shortening. Spread half the mixture in shallow greased pan. Cover with mincemeat and add remaining crumbs. Press down lightly. Bake in electric oven at 400 degrees for thirty minutes.

Mrs. J. C. asks: How to store cheese to prevent hardening?

Answer: Wrap it in a cheesecloth that has been wrung out of vinegar. Put in a waxed box and store in a cool place. Wet the cloth with vinegar occasionally.

Mrs. A. asks: Is there any way to overcome the sulphur flavour of fruit stored with a preservative tablet?

Answer: Pour off the liquid and boil it rapidly for ten minutes. Add the fruit and cook it until tender. Vitamins C and B are almost destroyed, but the flavour is better.

LESSON III. NOVEMBER 12TH

ALCOHOL AND HEALTH

BY C. S. FARMER

Bob Wallace had a good standing on his Easter report and was planning to do farm work, beginning on the 24th of May. He had been offered a job on a general dairy farm. His sister Mary remained at school until the final closing in June. There were few farm jobs for first form girls, but Mary went out to help her Uncle Fred, who had a five-acre fruit farm about fifty miles from her home. She felt very proud to be doing her part in the war effort as she helped to pick strawberries, cherries, black currants and raspberries. What pleased her most was to receive a large round farm service corps crest with words "We lend a hand" printed in bold letters.

Mr. Wallace was very busy that summer on the detective force and decided not to take his usual two weeks' vacation but, instead, to take occasional days off for fishing with his friends.

One day early in July, Mr. Wallace called up the family physician.

"Dr. Sprague," he said, "you are very much like myself. We are both working too hard and a day or two off would do us both good. Could you arrange to spend a couple of days with me back at my cabin on Beaver Lake?"

"Grand," said the genial doctor, "but I should like to take my sixteen-year-old son somewhere for a few days' holiday. He has been working hard. May he come along?"

This pleased Mr Wallce very much and he thought how his own son, Bob, would appreciate a short rest from the heavy work on the farm. The Beaver Lake Cabin was about twelve miles beyond the farm, so the party were soon there.

The boys had been good friends at school but this was the first time they had been together on a camping trip. That evening the boys gathered a pile of pine knots and built a camp-fire. As the fire burned up with its cheery blaze, Bob turned to the doctor.

"Dr. Sprague," he said, "the boys around school have been discussing the problem of drinking. I should like to know what the doctors say about it. Does it really do a person any harm to drink alcoholic beverages?"

"I am glad you asked me that question, Bob," replied the doctor, "because both you and Bert should be well informed about the facts on this question of drinking. Both of you will soon be out of school taking your place in the world's work and your decision on this drink question can make you either a success or a failure.

"Your body is the most wonderful of all God's creations, made in God's own image, as the Bible tells us. I could spend a whole night telling you of the complicated systems of nerves, blood vessels and digestive system which work so well together in a healthy human being. But you have already learned quite a bit about these in school. This complicated system is nourished and repaired by the wholesome food and water which we take into our stomachs and by the pure air taken into our lungs."

"But Dad," interrupted Bert, "I saw a liquor ad in a magazine which pictured a group of fine strong, healthy looking men around a campfire like ours, each man holding a glass of liquor. Does not that suggest that strong drink promotes good health?"

"Liquor advertising always attempts to create a false impression. It never gives a true picture of the effects of drinking. I have seen enough of the effects of the liquor habit to brand it as the worst enemy this rising generation has to face at the present time.

"When a person drinks beverages containing alcohol this alcohol soon goes all through the body because it passes quickly into the blood. Alcohol cannot build or repair any body cells so you can hardly call it food, but it does drug and slow down the working of the nerve cells. This explains why an automobile driver is so dangerous after he has had even a small amount of alcohol. He cannot see clearly, so clearly, nor can he apply his brakes so quickly, and yet he feels over-confident and is likely to take reckless chances. In Sweden the government states that alcohol is the chief cause of automobile accidents.

"The insurance companies ask me to examine quite a few applicants for insurance policies every year. One of the questions which the applicant must answer is 'How frequently, if at all, and in what quantity do you drink beer, wine, spirits or other intoxicants?'

Bob interrupted, "Why are the insurance companies interested in whether a man drinks or not?"

"Because a man's health and his length of life are very likely to be affected by drink," said the doctor. "It is unusual to find a man who is a heavy drinker reach old age."

"Many kinds of illnesses are more common among drinkers than among non-drinkers. Also the death rate among non-drinkers is much lower if they do take these diseases. Surveys in the past have shown that pneumonia, the death rate from pneumonia the death rate was forty-two per cent. among heavy drinkers, twenty-nine per cent. among moderate drinkers and only eighteen per cent. among abstainers

"The insurance companies know that the drinker is more liable to meet with accidental death or permanent disability than is the non-drinker. If he drives a car after he has had even a small amount of liquor he is likely to take reckless chances. If he is walking on the city streets he is slow to realize danger and is more likely than the non-drinker to step out in front of cars.

"Suicide cases have been studied by the insurance companies In one series of investigations of suicide by swallowing poison it was found that fully half of the victims had alcohol in their stomachs before taking the fatal poison.

"There are also certain forms of sickness which are definitely caused by drinking beverages containing alcohol. Drunkenness causes an unhealthy condition of the mind and body and should, therefore, be called a form of sickness. There are different degrees of intoxication and the doctor may determine how drunk a person is by testing a-sample of his blood. If the blood tests one-tenth of one per cent a'cohol a person is likely to talk foolishly and the breath is tainted. If it goes up to two-tenths of one per cent a person becomes boisterous, clumsy in his movements. At three-tenths of one per cent. a person shows symptoms of complete drunkenness, unable to stand steady or to walk straight. Some people in this condition are unusually friendly and talkative while others are quarrelsome. If the alcohol content in the blood goes higher the drinker becomes helpless or unconscious, and many remain in a stupor for hours. There is danger of death here from acute alcoholic poisoning.

"Alcohol drinking also is attended by certain other diseases. A heavy drinker may suffer from delirium tremens, a disease which causes the sufferer to have strange and frightful visions of strange bugs and other dangers. These visions cause him to tremble and to live in fear, and sometimes to die as a result of one of these attacks.

"In time permanent damage is caused to the brain and nervous system, causing a decline in the mental ability. This is known as 'alcoholic deterioration.' Many of the inmates of our insane asylums are there because of drink. Other organs of the body, like the liver and stomach, are likely to be permanently injured by the use of alcohol.

"Well, Dad," said Bert, "what advice do you give to young people about liquor?"

"I have never used it myself I have seen all top much of what it does to other people. My advice is never to take the first glass."

QUESTIONS

1 When alcoholic drinks are so harmful to health, what is the right and sensible thing to do when offered a drink?

2 Since alcoholic drinks are habit-forming and create an unnatural craving for more, is it safe to take them—just a glass or two?
